Chicken House Prowler Shot, Two Arrested

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP) — An early-morning attack by two gunloting farmers for chicken house prowlers resulted Monday in the death of 23-year-old David Puddicombe of Toronto.

The youth's two brothers, Robert, 18, and Peter, 16, were later arrested, charged with manslaughter and charged with theft of 80 chickens. They were scheduled to appear in police court today.

David Puddicombe was shot through the head in a thicket underbrush in this district 10 miles north of Toronto. Ken Torrance, 25, and Terry Trull, 26, fired five shots from a pistol and a rifle at a man seen crawling up a gully where a wrecked truck containing four crates of live chickens was lying. Puddicombe was taken to Toronto, but died in hospital Monday afternoon.

Markham chief constable Clarence Wideman said an investigation will be held. He said police were unable to tell which man fired the fatal bullet as both guns were .22 calibre.

Torrance's father, John, told police he was roused during the night by noises from the chicken house. He called his son and nephew and the three investigated. They found three persons near the chicken coop and ordered them to stand still. The intruders fled, two of them disappearing into a corn field and a third running to a parked truck.

Torrance and Strain chased the truck in a car while the elder Torrance notified police.

MACHINIST HELD FOR QUESTIONING IN BOY'S MURDER

Torso, Arms of Youth Found in Man's Room

MONTREAL (CP)—Four-foot, 11-inch Lucien Picard, dwarfed by three homicide detectives accompanying him, was escorted from Quebec City to Montreal Monday night to answer questions in connection with the sadistic slaying of six-yearold Raymond Trudeau.

Picard, an unemployed machinist and a convicted rapist, drove at he walked silently through a crowd in front of the police station to reach the cells. He wore a rumpled suit from his cell earlier in the day by Quebec police who arrested him on a lower town street.

SLAYER SAID "MANIAC"

The 43-year-old Quebec man was held as a material witness in finding the killing of the Trudeau boy, slain last week-end. He was described by police as "a sadistic sex maniac."

The boy's head, hands and legs were found in two beer cartons in a garbage can at a public market on the Montreal waterfront Saturday. His torso and arms were discovered Sunday in a room formerly occupied by Picard on Lasalle-Quebec street.

Police also confiscated four large knives, a blood-stained blanket and two blood-stained mattresses found in the room. They said the knives had been purchased recently at stores near the handles were being checked.

HAD THREE TIPS

Quebec police arrested Picard after receiving three tips that he had been seen on St. Luc street in the working-class St. Sauveur district. They removed the blue trousers and brown coat worn by the moustached machinist and turned them over to Montreal police.

Quebec police said he made a brief confession in which he admitted he had seen the suitcase and his grisly contents in his room and had been questioned and identified by David Trudeau, his 34-year-old father, a Canadian Pacific worker, and the victim's mother.

Raymond disappeared from his home Wednesday afternoon, the day of his sixth birthday, after a playmate saw him talking with a man near his home.

The boy will be buried Wednesday following a private funeral service.

Senate Vote Sends McCarthy Censure Move to Committee

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted 75 to 12 Monday night to consign to a special bipartisan committee a censure move aimed at Senator Joseph McCarthy. The vote evidently derailed a hoped-for new investigation of the Wisconsin Republican's conduct.

Senator William Knowland of California, the Republican leader, predicted appointment by Vice-President Richard Nixon "within 48 hours" of a six-member inquiry committee charged with sifting nearly 50 overlapping charges against McCarthy, the Senate's most controversial Communist-hunter.

Having failed for a new immediate showdown on the censure issue, McCarthy called for "morning, afternoon and evening sessions" of the group to draft a speedy report.

McCarthy told the Senate that he wants his "senatorial critics put under oath before the Republican committee to repeat their "scurrilous, false" charges.

If they do that, he said, they will "either indict themselves for perjury" or "prove me a consummate liars they are."

The Senate's vote sent to the special committee a censure motion by Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep.-Vt.) last week. Flanders punctuated by reading a list of 33 counts against McCarthy, most of specific accusations against McCarthy by Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.), seven somewhat similar charges by Senator Wayne Morse (Ind.-Ore.) and proposals for study of any changes in the Senate's investigating rules.

Knowland said the special Senate Republican and Democratic policy committees to meet quickly to select the nine, nine men who have not become partisans in this matter" that he said ought to comprise the inquiry group.

At the demand of Senator Irving Ives (Rep.-N.Y.), Knowland announced his motion to call for a progress report from the group before Congress adjourns, perhaps within two weeks.

Fulbright said he doubts three Democrats and three Republicans will ever agree on McCarthy, and added that the committee would die automatically within the expiration of the present Congress.

Forty Republicans, 34 Democrats and a proposal to set up the special committee.

Three Republicans and nine Democrats voted against the resolution.

Senate 12 generally argued that the Senate should vote on the question of censuring McCarthy without the "red herring."

McCarthy professed to be pleased with Senate's decision. "I'm very happy. This is good," he said. "I sincerely hope they give me the fullest opportunity."

Fulbright said that there is "no limit" to the number of witnesses McCarthy may seek to call.

The third 21-gun salute in eight hours heralded the duke as he went aboard the Ontario at the northern Pacific coastal centre of Port Hardy Monday evening. First salute at the day roared out the duke's arrival at HMCS Naden, Victoria, for an inspection of cadets and military services college.

Also Accuses Reds Of Violating Korean Armistice

New Protest Sent Over Shooting Down Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles today sharply accused the Communists of violating the Korean armistice. But he said that on balance the violations were not serious enough to justify resuming the war.

In a press conference, Dulles also disclosed that a new protest has been sent to Communist China over the loss of three American planes in the shooting down of a British airliner.

FORMOSA

Dulles said another Far Eastern question, that United States warships and airplanes would protect Formosa against any enemy attack but that the U. S. government has not made any decision to enter into a formal alliance with the Chinese Nationalist government.

As for southeast Asian defence arrangements, Dulles said he hoped decisions would be made in a week or 10 days at the Manila assembly. This proclamation is a formality and does not actually set the date Parliament is summoned.

In the current (July 31) issue it is necessary to publish a fresh pro forma proclamation. The printer does not like to make the new tentative date Aug. 12.

It now will be necessary to repeat the pro forma proclamation every week until a definite date for the proclamation is found naming the actual date.

The pro forma proclamation is worded a little more forcefully than the pro forma order.

Apart from that, members coming for a special session probably never acted only when they might have read in the Canada Gazette, that are notified by wire or other means.

Proclamation Does Not Mean House Will Meet

OTTAWA (CP)—A proclamation in the current issue of the Canada Gazette calls Parliament for Aug. 12 next but that does not mean the members will come here next week.

It means that the current proclamation is in keeping with the statement of Prime Minister St. Laurent last week that if railway workers vote, to strike, a special session may be held to deal with the situation.

When Parliament prorogued last June the pro forma proclamation was published in the Canada Gazette announcing the fact and fixing Aug. 5 as the date for the assembly, this proclamation is a formality and does not actually set the date Parliament is summoned.

In the current (July 31) issue it is necessary to publish a fresh pro forma proclamation. The printer does not like to make the new tentative date Aug. 12.

It now will be necessary to repeat the pro forma proclamation every week until a definite date for the proclamation is found naming the actual date.

Political Survey Shows Eisenhower Not Too Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower "remains a well-loved man" but he would not be elected today by the margin he got 21 months ago, the Scripps-Howard newspapers said Monday.

Reporting from Washington on a coast-to-coast political survey by members of the newspaper group, Scripps - Howard staff writer Charles Lucey concluded:

"Democratic party continues to outrun the Republican party in popular standing. That could spell trouble for the party in the November congressional elections."

Lucey said the 14 - man team also showed Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) has hurt the party. He has "split people tend to blame Congress—and the White House staff—more than the president for any administration shortcomings.

The Scripps-Howard newspapers are politically independent. The papers supported Eisenhower in 1952. Scripps, however, has been critical of Senator McCarthy.

WEXFORD (CP) — Thieves who removed the post office safe from Wexford Monday escaped after trying to smash it open in a field behind the building. They were disturbed by a resident who phoned police.

Former Residents of Moira Journey Home to Celebrate 100th Anniversary of Founding

The tiny hamlet of Moira, 15 miles north of Belleville in Huntingdon township, was the focal point for hundreds of former residents over the week-end who gathered to renew old acquaintances and visit scenes of their childhood.

The occasion was the 100th anniversary of the building of the Moira United Church, which was filled to capacity both Sunday morning and evening for special church services in charge of former ministers.

Monday saw hundreds flock to the Moira district to take part in a varied centennial program featured by a colorful parade linking the past with the present. Gaily decorated floats depicted life as it was in the pioneer days and recalled childhood days for the older residents.

FULL DAY OF EVENTS

Monday was a full day of events, the centennial program getting underway at 10 o'clock, when the school bell rang again for school boys and girls of half a century ago. After "school" was the parade, which left from the school and filled past the church, where the crowd had gathered.

Then a turkey dinner was served to approximately 1250 visitors, followed by a sports program for the younger set and finally a program of talks and presentations.

Members of the Moira United Church congregation were jubilant today on the success of their holiday week-end celebrations but thinking back on long hours of hard work that went into the planning they are glad that it is over.

BIGGEST EVER ATTEMPTED

"It was just about the biggest thing that we have ever attempted", stated Mrs. N. Welsh who took one of the leading parts in plans and preparations.

Heading up the central committee as honorary chairman were Wes Holbert and Fred Ketcheson, two oldest men in the community. Chairman was Blake Ketcheson with Bessie Holbert as treasurer and Wesley Farrel as secretary.

Publicity committee members were Mrs. Gil Thompson, Mrs. M. Herlly, Mrs. A. Farrel and Mrs. W. McInroy. In charge of music were Mrs. N. Welsh and Mrs. Jas. Vanderwater. The welcome committee was composed of Mrs. B. Ketcheson, Mrs. G. Foster, Mrs. F. Emerson, Clayton Vanderwater, Gil. Thompson and W. Vanderwater. The work committee was made up by Wallace McInroy, Ross Ketcheson and James Vanderwater. Antiques were in charge of Mrs. K. Thompson, Mrs. Don McInroy and Mrs. Eva Farrel.

BOOKLET PUBLISHED

One of the big jobs in connection with the centennial program and one which possibly consumed the most hours of work was the publication of a centennial booklet "Moira, Past and Present" embracing the years 1827 to 1954.

This booklet was published under the auspices of the Moira Women's Institute and compiled by Mrs. Emma Thompson and Mrs. Edna M. Welsh. The booklet was published in commemoration of the church centennial, and is dedicated to the loyal band of pioneers who established their homes and families in the Moira district.

History of the Moira community dates back to 1827 when saddle bag preachers made occasional visits to the early settlers. As congregations grew it was decided a church was needed and it was the centennial of the construction of this church celebrated this year.

CHURCH SERVICE HELD

Sunday morning the 100-year-old stone church was filled to capacity as Rev. J. F. Lane of Modoc, a former minister at Moira, conducted the service.

The entire front of the fine old church was a solid bank of gladioli donated by the Victory Class of the church.

A feature of the morning service was the dedication of a plaque in memory of Moira pioneers. Donated by Mr. Terrence Post of Belleville, a former Moira resident, the plaque bears the inscription "1854-1954 Erected in memory of the pioneers of Moira at the centennial celebration, August 1—1954".

Mr. Lane was minister at Moira 32 years ago and preached his sermon with references of older residents and events of years ago. Mr. Lane was introduced by Rev. E. H. Chapman, present minister of Moira, who also brought greetings on behalf of the pioneers.

ALTAR CLOTH DEDICATED

Special speaker at the evening service was Mr. Kenneth Stewart of Lakefield, who was minister at Moira eight years ago. An altar cloth donated by the Victory Class was dedicated at the evening service. Organist for the morning service was Mrs. Clayton Vanderwater, a former church organist, and for the evening service Miss Evelyn Emerson, present organist.

An over-flow audience was on hand for the morning service with a public address system being used to bring the service outside to those who could not be accommodated within the church.

GO BACK TO SCHOOL

Former residents of Moira went back to school Monday morning as the school bell beckoned former pupils and teachers.

One room of the two-roomed brick schoolhouse was filled to capacity as "Teacher" once opened by R. S. Welsh of Toronto, a former teacher at the school.

Well over 50 former teachers at Moira, including Mrs. Bertha (Foster) Hudson, of Belleville, who taught at the Moira school over 50 years ago, were in attendance spoke briefly and extended greetings to former pupils.

Mrs. Hudson was the oldest former teacher attending the celebration. She taught at Moira from 1901 to 1904. Grandchildren of many of her first pupils were now attending at the school. The "school" phase of the program was in charge of Miss Mary Herlly, former teacher.

The Calithumpian parade was easily the feature of Monday's celebration. Headed by a patriotic float bearing the pictures of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh with members of the armed services marching behind the parade of floats illustrated community life down through the years covered by the centennial.

SPECIAL FLOATS

Special floats showed pioneer home life, with costumed members of the family at work at menial tasks. Another float pictured the interior of a village blacksmith shop, the smithy at work at his forge and still another the village horsehshop of yesteryear. The only thing out of line was the float which shaved and shaves 50c, a price which would have shocked an early pioneer.

The parade had its own bit of humor with "Ma and Pa Kettle" turning out with their trusty Model "T" still bearing a 1920 licence marker. Gil Thompson astride his trusty chestnut, acted as the parade marshal.

Progress in agriculture was not orgotten by planners of the parade.

Charles Moreland, driving a yoke of oxen hauling a farm wagon, slowed up the parade as "Buck and Bright" took their own sweet time in traversing the parade route. The oxen brought back memories for many of the older residents and proved a novelty for the youngsters more accustomed to farm tractors and streamlined autos.

Agricultural instruments down through the years were paraded. A modern farm tractor had an old fashioned grain cradle wired to its hood and the same machine hauled a reaper, the forerunner of the present day binder.

STONE PICKING MACHINE

Next in line was a stone picking machine and a few of the younger generation have seen in operation. One old timer was heard to note that although the stone picking machine had helped to clear many of the fields of Moira, a modern bulldozer could do the job much better and faster.

An old portable steam engine used half a century ago to power threshing machines indicated the beginning of the mechanical age. It was followed by modern threshers, tilling machines and finally the up-to-date baler and combine.

Present day life was illustrated by a wedding party, the bride and groom accompanied by their attendants.

OLD TIME PORTRAITS SEEN

The vestry of the church was a point of interest. Old time portraits of members of pioneer families and snapshots, made possible by the advent of the box camera, covered walls, together with descriptive information. The pictorial records covered Ketcheson and Mulliner families, the Fosters and the Thompsons, as well as many families whose descendants still live at Moira.

Also in the vestry were antique articles of home equipment used by Moira pioneers. There were hand pepper mills, metal bowls for grinding corn, candle lanterns and even the family Bible and a first Sunday school teachers a century ago.

Three beautiful scenes of Moira painted by Manly Macdonald were on display in the church and were the object of much interest. The paintings were of particular interest to members of the Don Valley School of Art, a group of whom attended the celebrations.

SPORTS PROGRAM

During the afternoon a sports program consisting of ball games, races for the kiddies, a tug of war and other novelty events were staged for the young people. In the evening a scheduled league softball game between the Moira and Plainfield young people and the homesters win by a 13-6 score.

Visitors to the celebration were welcomed by Blake Ketcheson in charge of the speech making program which saw Rev. C. R. Chapman as master of ceremonies.

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, of Foxboro, congratulated members of Moira United Church on the success of their undertaking and stressed the importance of the preservation of historical records.

He referred to the spirit of the early settlers and noted it might be well to inculcate some of the courage of our ancestors that we may cope with the troublesome days ahead. He noted that within the past ten years communism had spread over half the surface of the globe.

Other speakers included Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for Hastings East; Warden F. J. Mitchell and Rev. J. W. Flatt of Belleville, and Mrs. Victor Davis of Cleveland.

MANY PRIZES DISTRIBUTED

Prizes went to Fred Ketcheson and Wes Holbert as the oldest men attending the celebration and to Mrs. Ed. Welsh as the oldest woman. Photographic enlargement of the Moira United Church was presented to W. H. Morton, of Belleville, a former resident of Moira.

Prizes in the parade were presented to Bessie Holbert and to Mrs. Kenneth Thompson and Gladys School prizes to Doug Farrel and Hugh Palmer. The pins and prizes were presented by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Welsh. Mrs. Thompson read a letter from Miss Edith Burke, former resident and school teacher at Moira, now living in Egypt. Miss Burke, now 82, worked as medical missionary in Africa for many years. Flowers for the day were served tea ladies in the church basement.

Those in charge of the tea were Mrs. Ketcheson and Mrs. Holbert assisted by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Welsh. Heavy Rains Prevalent Over Most of Ont.

TORONTO (CP) — The driest month in the 113 years that weather records have been kept in Toronto came to an abrupt end in parts of southern Ontario when more than half an inch of rain fell in three hours today—more than fell during the entire month of July.

The weather bureau said the rain, which fell over the Niagara peninsula west to London, north to Barrie and east to Trenton, will bring relief to many drought-ridden farms.

Forecasters said, however, that Wednesday again will be sunny and hot.

Although July is now officially the driest month in the weather bureau with only .32 inches of rain, the average temperature was a normal 70 degrees, and the 301 hours of sunshine was only 15 hours above average.

Retriever Upsets Barrel of Tar Over Itself

A Foster Ward Labrador retriever is in trouble today and all because he was just a bit too enthusiastic in chasing a neighborhood cat.

Early Monday evening the retriever was hot on the heels of the speeding cat which led the chase through the yard of the city home. In some way a barrel of liquid tar got upset and the gooey substance almost buried the retriever.

The problem then was what to do. The unfortunate dog was taken to the animal hospital where an attendant said the only thing to do was to cut off the dog's hair. So the owner and dog cat-chem. Thom spent the next hour busy with the scissors. Today the retriever has gotten rid of most of the tar but he lost his hair in the process.

Bathers are warned of the great danger of swimming or bathing in the water of the south shore of Zwick's Island, where City Engineer Morris's survey, made recently, revealed more than ten holes, some as deep as forty feet, and beginning five or ten feet from the shelving shoreline. The engineer considers it too dangerous to use that shore.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HELPING HAND

I have a lovely small painting by Eugene Higgins that I purchased many years ago. It has always inspired me. It is of two lads, one on the higher stone reaching to lift the other boy to the one above, and he called the painting "The Helping Hand."

It is wonderfully soul enriching to see how people always seem ready to give a helping hand when misfortune or poverty strikes. There is no race, religion or nationality then. Why is it that when there is no official crisis nations try to create one, which so often leads to war, the earth's greatest curse?

In my youth I was a worker on farms, and the co-operation that existed among neighbors in the farming community was truly wonderful. They would help one another. When one farmer needed extra help he would get it from a neighbor and then later on he would help out that other farmer, and so it went from farm to farm—always helping hands and co-operating with others. Helping hands keep getting stronger in themselves somehow!

One of the most inspiring stories in the Bible is that one of the good Samaritan. "There he was in the gutter, robbed and wounded, and a band of (folk) passing him by, but there was one who saw the condition of the unfortunate one, and so gave him a helping hand, lifting him to his own steed, and taking him to a place where he could be given treatment and rest.

How very often it has been the helping hand that has lifted the spirit of another to new heights, often changing the course of one's life. Perhaps a good word at the right time or an unusual kindness. We can never adequately measure the value of a helping hand.

There are many things we do for others that mere money could not do. Nor could we repay for kindnesses rendered to us in such manner as money. How about a baby's smile, or the appreciative wag of a beloved dog's tail? How could either ever have monetary value?

DEFAULTING HUSBANDS

(Niagara Falls Review)

It is not pleasant to read that Ontario magistrates have no power to confirm any order for maintenance issued in any other province or any other country, regardless of whether there is reciprocity with the country or province. Five justices of the Ontario Supreme Court have upheld the decree affirming the inability of our magistrates to compel such orders. It seems unfortunate that it is impossible to make a husband outside of Ontario pay for his family maintenance in this province.

Other Men's Pleasures

(Montreal Gazette)

Dr. Samuel Johnson, the familiar figure of 18th century literature, was once persuaded by a friend to go in the hunting-field. A man of massive proportions, and no expert in the arts of the field, his friends expected him to be thrown from his horse. But he did not know the meaning of "pastern," he knew how to sit tight. The same thing could be said in the saddle.

His friends were interested to know what he thought of his day's experience. They pressed him for his opinion. But Dr. Johnson remarked: "Sir, it illustrates the paucity of human pleasures that this should be reckoned to be one of them."

It's an odd thing, but everyone has his own pleasures, and there is often little purpose in trying to introduce successful ones. Consider the Dr. Johnson, the hunting-field was a poor substitute indeed for the comfort of the study and with his tea-pot at his side, and his legs encased in warm flannel exchanging the comfortable and pleasant scene, with candlelight and companionship, and the discussion of thoughts and principles, for the noise and struggles of the field in pursuit of a pitiful fox, must have seemed to him astonishing.

And yet to the men of the hunt there must have been pleasures that have seemed serious indeed. Ten and candlelight and men with their minds on principles must have seemed a poor exchange for the pleasures of physical fitness, the challenge of hedge and ditch, the gentlemanly contact with field and hound, the sounds in swift pursuit, and all the changing scene of the countryside, the trees, the sky and the breeze. What, these hunters might well have asked, was the matter with those who argument upon subjects for which no answer could be found? And a thing well said is a poor substitute for a hunt well run.

No doubt it is as well that pleasures should be different. People would do well to be tolerant of one another's pleasures. And a great part of that tolerance is not to expect others to share one's own interests (they will be pleasantly surprised when they do).

We fisherman must beware of boring those who care not at all for the lore of the rod and fly. We must beware of inflicting his treasures upon the unconverted. The man who likes the rest and concentration of the card table must beware of the man who really does not know one card from the other, or who cannot regard them as the Devil's picture books. The golfer must restrain from the knocking of holes into distant holes presents difficulties that the uninitiated do not care to take the pains of really mastering. The man with the collection of classical records must not consider that music sounds the same in all ears.

There must be a tolerant and wise restraint in speaking of one's own pleasures. But, on the other hand, a man who only possesses follows his own inclinations has no special obligation to endure the friends and assaults of those who do not happen to share his tastes.

There was a man in Montreal who took great pride in his library, which was an excellent one indeed. He himself made no attempt whatever to show his books, except to those who were of the company of the elect. He was loathe to endure a senselessly obnoxious question from all who happened in passing, to poke their heads into his library-room. They would look about them with evident annoyance, and would inquire: "Have you read them all?"

Having endured this annoying question long enough, the man had devised an answer that seemed to suit every case. "No," he would reply, "see that book there, on the desk over there? I haven't quite finished that one."

Another Montrealer is a keen amateur photographer, and whenever a visitor to his home sees his very fine collection of photographic equipment, he has to endure the exclamation, "Why, what a lot of cameras you have! Are you a dealer in this?"

He resents the remark, and he feels like saying, "It's my own business how I want to spend my money." But he still bears up, waiting for something he may say that will silence the unmannerly remarks without being quite insulting.

It is quite easy to understand how Dr. Johnson felt when he returned from a day's hunting, a hunting field, and remarked: "Sir, it illustrates the paucity of human pleasures that this should be reckoned to be one of them."

Unless they learn that he go hunting again, he might have left it at that.

Caboose With Murals

(Ottawa Journal)

The public Canadian Pacific Railway will never see the last new scenic dome cars will offer satisfaction to all the frustrated thousands who have wanted to ride the caboose. Who in Canada has not seen and envied the men in the last car of the passing freight, seated there like monarchs in the silence of early afternoon all about him and the long train snaking behind, and the whole sprawling of all he surveyed.

The scenic dome cars permit passengers a seat on the roof, well surrounded with glass and air, unobstructed by the usual high walls of the downstairs lounges. All is super-aggressive sightseeing. It is pleasant as to watch the engineer picking up the green light of the semaphore, or the graceful swing of the car-tops on a curve and the far view of fields and mountains.

The traveler, in the dome, looking over his kingdom and ruling in imagination, the operation of his train, will have limited time for murals.

Shorts? Sure! What Color?

(Minneapolis Tribune)

It is a matter of common knowledge that men have two legs, social customs prescribe that most circumstances these appendages ought to be enclosed in cloth tubes, preferably with a knife crease front and back.

Now that men have two legs, but that they must be swathed in textiles are occasionally a little silly is not to say. Long pants are hot. They bar the sunlight. They inhibit evaporation and thwart the circulation of cooling breezes.

Now, if the only alternative were skirts—kilts, say, or those Mother Hubbard arrangements the Greek soldiers wear—we would be inclined to sit down and forget the matter. But there is another alternative: shorts. And every summer we get a little more interested in time wondering whether this is the year to wear them.

So far, this hasn't been the year. Once again, we just haven't found the courage. But Harold S. Kahn, a man with the courage of his legs, has discovered that he not only wears shorts, but wears them on the street. And he suggests that Mayor Hoyer that the week of Aquatennial festivities also be declared "Shorts Week" in Minneapolis. The mayor, confronted with a momentous decision, wants expressions of opinion.

We've for it, Mr. Mayor, if you'll wear 'em, we'll wear 'em. But not yet, please! Let's start out with some good, conservative color—like pale purple, maroon, or

Conditions For Rain

(Winnipeg Tribune)

A British, window cleaner was fined the other day for running amok and breaking windows when rain spotted them just after he had cleaned them.

Of course it was not the fault of the windows, except to the extent that the innocent bystander is always to some extent at fault by just being there.

The Greeks built a whole literature of tragedy on the theme of goings-on, and his fellow human beings are bound to have a certain sympathy for window-washer George Orr of Reigate, though it is clear that he has failed to appreciate the inevitable irony of his career. Justice is blind, but furious.

When certain conditions are fulfilled it is to be expected to rain. In some cases all that is necessary is to get married or engaged. A man who buys a new hat, if properly trained, will see to it that it should not rip the hat apart when drops fall on it next day. The citizen who washes his car on Saturday afternoon should not drive it into a tarbarrel factory to oil pique at the inevitable next stop, which is wet weather on Sunday. Similarly, the man who ripped up when it is watered first loses the hose, and then from the clouds.

These events are to be understood as part of the natural deportment toward all bystanders, great and small. Furthermore, recognition of this general rule helps to explain why the weather forecasters are taking but scorn to guide him, is so often wrong.

Russian Meant What He Said

(Parry Sound North Star)

A great thirst came upon Darling Brunstein, one of the Russian fliers stationed at Berlin's Tempelhof in the international match held in New York's Madison Square Garden the other day. He asked for a drink: "A glass of lemon juice." One of the Americans tried to correct him and said: "You mean a glass of lemonade." "Lemonade, water and sugar." Mr. Brunstein repeated his order: "A glass of lemon juice." It took nine lemons to fill a glass. The man from Moscow downed it, neat.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

REAL SPECIALISTS AND TRICK SPECIALISTS

A specialist is a doctor who devotes himself or herself to certain diseases, says Dr. Brady.

Dr. Brady

It is well to note that the doctor does not necessarily know more nor have greater skill than the "ordinary" doctor in order to be a specialist. And this is true in the eyes of the law. That is to say any doctor who has a licence to practise may practise general medicine and surgery or any branch or specialty he or she chooses. So far as the law is concerned a licence to practise medicine is all a doctor needs to qualify as a specialist.

Of course, nearly all doctors who decide to retire from general practice at what 19th century folks called family physicians, and limit themselves to a specialty, voluntarily take postgraduate instruction in the special field they prefer. But there is no legal provision or compulsion involved.

It is not easy for the public to find out if sheer friendliness. This is not quite so of a fox terrier. He ought, his as a pennant, a gage, a flag, a banner, a signal of his high and eager spirit.

A fox terrier is missed by the snapping jaws, immediately landed on the very tip of his tail. Up he goes, straight sank his red hot prong into what might be called a perfectly square inch of a dog's whole anatomy.

There's a screech that started not in his throat, not in his chest, not in his heart, but down over ear-splitting way it, the fox terrier leaped down the hill for the ancient delusion which dogs have—that they can bite their tails. He was just a blur as he spun like a pinwheel, emitting a series of ear-splitting, soul-stirring cadenzas. Realizing he was not getting on his tail, he changed tactics, and began a series of the most colossal bounds you ever saw. Never took, trying to leave his tail behind him in one horrible effort at unnatural leap. Finally, he dove in the water, and there we retrieved him and the tail from the stump. He is a very reflective terrier these last few hours.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

The observation has often been made that we are in a period of great moral decline. And certainly we are, when we are compared with past ages, we are at least comparatively upright.

The Roman historian Tacitus wrote centuries ago that virtue in the Rome of his day meant a mere pretense. Juvenal, who spoke of Rome as the sewer of the world. Yet even the Romans looked down upon the Carthinians for their immorality. The greatest of Greek philosophers spoke tolerantly of vice which perhaps we hesitate even to mention.

We are alarmed today at the sensational trials in this country, but it is nothing compared with the drinking in the United States a hundred to a hundred and fifty years ago. And that drinking was mild compared with the drinking in continental Europe and in the British Isles during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. A writer who has specialized in the history of crime wrote a book a few years ago in which he showed that real gangsterism in New York City was worse in the good old days. He regards present-day criminals as little play-boys.

But the reason we are so alarmed about our present state is that we have higher ideals than we had before. A little evil can wreck us as a nation. Drinking is a hundred times more serious now than it was a century ago. Therefore we have to believe now, whether we want to or not.

Did They Keep Any?

(Farmer's Advocate)

The bureau of statistics has estimated total farm cash income for 1953 to be $3,000,000,000, a record three percent below the peak in take of 1952. The farmer's net income would depend on what share he received of the total and how well he hung onto it.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Anglican Congress Will Meet In Minneapolis

Approximately six hundred bishops, priests, and lay delegates will go to Minneapolis, Minnesota, U.S.A., this summer to attend the Anglican Congress, world-wide conference of the Anglican Communion scheduled to take place August 4 to 13. Each of the 325 dioceses of the Anglican Communion has been invited to send to the Anglican Congress one bishop, one priest, and one lay person as official delegates to this first meeting of the Anglican Communion to be held outside the British Isles. According to present reports, every continent and almost all Churches of the Anglican Communion will be represented in Minneapolis. Among those who will be present are the archbishop of Canterbury, the Metropolitan of the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, and the Presiding Bishop of the Nippon Seikokwai (Japan). The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S.A., will preside as head of the host church.

Only representatives of the Anglican Congress of 1954 is the Pan-Anglican Congress of 1908, which met in London immediately preceding the Lambeth Conference. It, too, had elected lay delegates as well as Bishops. Lambeth Conferences, which take place approximately every ten years, are meetings of bishops only.

The Call of God and the Mission of the Anglican Communion will provide the focus for speeches and discussions. Speakers have been chosen from the various Churches of the Anglican Communion, and the bulk of the ten days' meeting will be spent in intensive discussions of the structure, worship, message, and work of the Anglican Communion around the world.

Order to Disband Guatemalan Army Stirs Resentment

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—Guatemala's ruling military junta ordered President Carlos Castillo Armas' private army to disband and go home today, but the action generated rising public resentment.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said there was a possibility of a popular uprising in the capital.

The junta ordered the breakup of Castillo Armas' insurgent "liberation army," which sparked the overthrow of Communist - backed former president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, after regular army units and military academy cadets had battled the 700 irregulars sporadically for 12 hours Monday with mortars and tanks.

Twelve persons were killed and three were hurt in the battling around Roosevelt Hospital, where Castillo Armas' men were ensconced in the outskirts on the capital. The fighting, outgrowth of weeks of tension between the regular troops and the insurgents, mushroomed from a dawn brawl between cadets and members of the president's force.

One report said the trouble started in a house of prostitution.

GIVE UP ARMS

A cease-fire took effect at 6:35 p.m. The 700 liberation army men surrendered their arms to regular army officers and were ordered to disband by their bosses.

The junta ordered a curfew into effect at 9 p.m. and warned that military patrols would take "drastic measures" against any violators.

A spokesman for the U.S. embassy said in the still was "very great tension" late Monday night. The president's backers were digging in, the spokesman said, because the army had forced him to break up his insurgent army.

Castillo, was believed still firmly in power. He maintained a complete silence Monday.

The government agreed to disarm and disband the liberation army and promised that the military cadets would not be punished for their part in the fighting. The regular army in turn guaranteed to place itself under complete government jurisdiction.

Indians Label Whites 'Intruders' On Reservation

MALONE, N. Y. (AP)—Three of four white men whom the St. Regis Indians have labelled "intruders" are under court order to leave the tribe's reservation at Hogansburg within 10 days.

The Indians won an eviction order against the three Monday. They are John Barnhart, Franklin Worcester and William Hansen.

Judge E. N. Lawrence adjourned a hearing for the fourth man, Henry Smith, until Oct. 4. The jurist advised Smith, 68, reported to have been resident of the reservation for 30 years, to seek legal council.

St. Regis council chiefs said the white men were "intruders" and were "occupying dwellings badly needed" by the Indians.

GERRITS—REDNER

Gladioli and sweetpeas, intermingled with Queen Anne's lace and ferns, formed a lovely setting in Wills St. Laurent, Quebec, Saturday, July 31, at 2.30 p.m., when the Rev. T. F. Townsend, of Montreal, united in marriage Evelyn Joan Redner, Reg.N., of Redneresville, and daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Knight Redner, to William Albert Gerrits, of Oshawa, Ontario, son of Mr. Hendrikus Gerrits of Hellendoorn, Holland, and the late Mrs. Gerrits.

Miss Marion Frey, Reg.N., of Kingston, Ontario, provided the traditional wedding music, and Mrs. James Alexander, of Trenton, sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," and during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Douglas Knight Redner, the bride was radiant in white nylon net over taffeta, handsewn with bouffant skirt having a slight train, and fashioned with long sleeves "V"-pointed at the wrists. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress studded with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white gardenia and stephanotis.

Mrs. Henk Gerrits, of Oshawa, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman, while Mr. Harold Anderson, of Campbellford, and Mr. Karel Vogel, of Carrying Place, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the church hall, where the bride's mother, attired in shades of roses crepe and lace with navy accessories, and corsage of roses and blue cornflowers, received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Muskoka, Algonquin Park, and Ottawa, the bride chose a mauve Dacron suit with white accessories, and corsage of mauve sweetpeas and white gardenias.

A lovely gesture of the bride's was the sending of her bouquet to her great aunt, Mrs. Charles Tumely, of Madoc, who owing to ill health, was unble to attend the wedding.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hellendoorn, Holland; Campbellford, Peterborough, Port Hope, MacDonald, Manitoba; Cardinal, Kingston, Toronto, Oshawa and Madoc.

Toronto in 1953 was visited by more than 5,000,000 tourists and was host to more than 500 conventions.

Mr, Mrs. Tom Gill Celbrate Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gill beam their appreciation as members of the sergeants' mess, 9th Anti-Tank Regiment present them with a coffee table to commemorate their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Gill were guests of honor at an anniversary party given in their honor. Surrounding them and smiling their congratulations are: left to right, Sergeant Gordon Carter, Sergeant Frank Butler and RSM Alex. Lacey.

They "coom from t'land of the clogs and t'shawl" and the soft Lancastrian dialect has never deserted them.

"Old Lancs will never die, lad!" as long as Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gill, 373 Coleman Street are around to remind fellow British expatriates that "There'll Always be an England" as long as the sons and daughters of the Emerald Isle live and breathe.

There was a breath of Old England mixed with the lustiness of Young Canada at the Gill household on Thursday, July 29 when Mr. and Mrs. Gill celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The presence of many friends who called to offer felicitations, cards, telegrams and gifts marked the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Gill are held in their adopted city.

Possibly the highlight of the observance of a half-century of marital happiness was the special party tendered Mr. and Mrs. Gill by the warrant officers and sergeants of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment in their well-appointed mess last Wednesday evening.

PRESENTED WITH COFFEE TABLE

Not only did over 100 mess members and guests, a lot of them from out-of-town pay congratulatory tribute to the bride and groom of fifty years, but the hosts presented them with a handsome coffee table as a tangible memento of the occasion.

Sergeant Frank Butler read the address, while the presentation was made by RSM Alex Lacey and Sergeant Gordon Carter. Mr. and Mrs. Gill, visibly touched, responded, made gracious if brief address of appreciation.

The affair probably drew nostalgic memories for Mr. Gill, for he was associated with the Argyll Light Infantry, parent regiment of the 9th Anti Tank for some 25 years. He joined it in 1929 and rose to the rank of battalion quartermaster sergeant. On his retirement in 1947 he was made a life member of the sergeants' mess.

SERVED WITH ROYAL LANCS.

The guests of honor were the recipients of many congratulations from mess members and guests, many of whom came from Trenton, and other outside points.

Mr. and Mrs. Gill were born and married in Lancaster, Lancashire, and came to Canada in 1921.

When the war bugles blew in 1914, Mr. Gill with a lot of other Lancastrians joined the colors. He became a member of the King's Own Royal Lancashires and served with distinction in England and France for four and one-half years. His experience and training stood him in good stead for as was mentioned before he became a highly valued member of the Argylls here after coming to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Gill have two children, a son, Jim Gill of this city and Mrs. Harold Reid, of Wellington Street, Belleville.

Among the many telegrams of congratulation received were one from His Excellency the Governor General of Canada, the Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent, prime minister and Mr. Frank Pollwell, M.P., Hastings South.

Travel for Young People Recommended by Teen-Ager

Montreal (CP) — A globe-trotting miss from Duncan, B.C., arrived back in Canada during the week-end after a 12-month sightseeing jaunt that took her from her home through the Orient and Near East and across Europe to England.

Shorkontha Meyer, 19-year-old daughter of Punjabi parents living at Duncan, arrived here aboard the liner Empress of Australia, full of memories of three continents and nine widely separated countries. She told reporters at a dockside interview she hopes to write a book about it all.

The seasoned young voyager said she is not the only member of her family with wanderlust. "My brother is only two years older and he went around the world two years ago," she said proudly.

Shorkontha with a five-volume diary full of her experiences and scores of newspaper clippings of interviews says she has one more travelling job before she gets home.

"I have never seen the major cities of Canada despite the trip 'round the world. I don't know for sure yet, but I hope to get to look at Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and I guess, Winnipeg, before going home."

She said she tried to get into Russia ,but after talking to Russian Embassy officials in India gave up the idea because "there was too much red tape attached to it."

Malaya, she said, was her favorite country. But "it wasn't exactly like the books describe it."

Shorkontha added that her parents fully approved of her making the trip by herself.

"They told me to behave as I would if they were watching me and said if I did, I wouldn't do anything wrong."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HAVE A GOOD TIME THANKING FOR HOSPITALITY

Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just returned from a visit to a small town where I was royally entertained. I was a guest at the home of my aunt who is a charming and very popular woman, and her friends planned many lovely occasions for me. I have just finished writing by bread-and-butter letter to my aunt. Would I be expected to write a thank-you note to each of the other hostesses? If so, what should I write? — C.I.

Yes, write a note of thanks to each hostess so kind and hospitable to you. I'm sure they would "expect" this gesture (I would, I were they), and I'm sure your aunt would expect this courtesy from you to them, would be ashamed if you don't write your appreciation, proud if you do. Write each letter: (1) how much you appreciated her kindness and charming hospitality; (2) how heartily you enjoyed the gift you such happiness, and such happy memories to cherish. Do thank her specifically for the kind of party she planned: a delightful dinner, luncheon, perhaps, or a tea, or bridge party, or buffet supper party; how much you enjoyed meeting her charming friends; (3) thanks for the most cordial greetings and wishes, and the hope that soon your paths will cross again. Don't skimp on your thanks — have a good time, and express the good times so generously given you!

THIS BRIDE "MARRIES IN HASTE AND EMBROIDERS AT LEISURE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of my fiance's sudden change in professional plans, our marriage has taken sooner than we had planned, and I didn't have any time to prepare linens and so forth. What I'm doing is bride do who marries in haste and embroiders at leisure, that is, what initials should she use? I'm an embroidery enthusiast, and I want to monogram all my linens as beautifully as possible. — Elsbeth M.

What a clever phrase — "the bride who marries in haste and embroiders at leisure!" Now, after your marriage, you embroider your linens with the initials of your married name. Let's say your maiden name as Elsbeth E. Jones and your husband's surname is Martin. The initials you use now as E. E. M. (You may if you wish, centre and dramatize the M, making it larger than the E and E, flanking the M.)

PROPER ORDER OF EXIT-FROM-SEATS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I think that when a man and a girl are leaving their seats in a theatre or in the movies or at a concert, it is proper and sensible for the man, if he happens to be seated nearest the aisle, to go out of the row ahead of the girl. My brother maintains that the proper way is for the man to stand by his place and let the girl pass in front of him so that she may go out first. Who is right? Jim and I.

I agree with you — it's more sensible for them to go out of the row in the order in which they are seated. This is advantageous also in that when the man reaches the aisle (before the girl) he can stand aside to let her go first down the aisle, if there is not space for them to walk together.

INCLUDING HER 10-YEAR-OLD GODDAUGHTER

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Would it be permissible for me to have my 10-year-old god-daughter act as my flower girl in my October wedding? —Elaine.

No — a 10-year-girl is too too old to be a flower girl. But it would be proper to have her a junior bridesmaid — then she walks alone, preceding the bridesmaids.

TIP TO DINING-CAR WAITER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have never had a meal in a dining car on a train. Before this my train trips have been very short ones, but the latter part of this summer I'm to take longer train trips. Should I tip the dining car waiter? If so, should I tip him after each meal, or at the end of the trip? In any case, how much? —Stella M.

Yes, you tip the dining car waiter. The procedure is like that in a restaurant: you pay your check, presented to you by the waiter, for your meal, and give or leave a tip for him. The more or less customary tip is 15 per cent of the bill, but 25 cents is considered the minimum.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

REDUCING THE HIPS

Every woman who is inclined to develop expansive curves should be a weight-watcher. The woman who says, "Maybe so, but the first gain of eight or ten pounds should realize that in the course of time she will have serious figure problems." Fat cells become more fat cells. Hence the need to start the weight war early.

The heavyweight will tell you that she eats practically nothing at all. Maybe so. But the food she consumes is the kind she shouldn't have. Her appetite demands those good things of the table that build human fat. The first step in reducing is to curb a wayside appetite, learn to enjoy those viands that are satisfying but do not put on the pounds.

Fats, sweets and starches are energy foods. We all need some in the diet but the candidate for a willowy shape should cut them down to the minimum.

With the proper diet, which should include lean meat, sea food, poultry, fruit, vegetables, cottage cheese and buttermilk, hips and expanded waist line can be trimmed down. Exercise alone won't do it but combined with a fat-free diet, it will help along the project of figure remodelling.

The overweight should lie on her back on the floor, hands at the side. Lifting the right leg she should roll far, to the left, stretching the muscles from hips to calves, touching the floor with her toes at the farthest possible distance. Six times to the left, six to the right and repeat.

Second exercise: stand tall, chest high, arms far out at the sides on a line with the shoulders, feet apart. Up on the toes, then lower the body slowly until the buttocks rest on the heels. Up on the toes slowly and repeat.

This is not easy. But what's a little tumble in the great and glorious cause of pulchritude?

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NEVER MAKE A DOORMAT OF YOURSELF FOR ANY MAN

All too many girls seem to believe that if they only make doormats of themselves for a man, it's bound to win his love. They cater to his every whim, jump when he whistles for them, and when he doesn't, sit home alone waiting for his summons. In other words, they lie down and let him walk over them.

One young woman who has worked herself into a fine frenzy because the man she hoped would eventually ask her to marry him gave her a sudden brush-off, carried on this program for the boy friend:

"I always tried to please him and always put his wishes ahead of everything. I'd sit home and stay home and just sit around in the evening. I let him think that was just what I wanted to do, too, whether it was or not. To tell the truth, I'd go anywhere he said, whether it was dancing, roller skating, the movies, or whatnot. If he was feeling in a gay mood, I tried by best to be a lively companion, and if he felt like being quiet, I didn't even talk. That's more than I have done for any other fellow.

And it was far more, of course, than she should ever have done for this one. That was just where she made her big mistake, and the result was not what she'd expect: The young man finally lost interest in her and apparently had no mind of her own and who expected such a thing of him in the way of consideration for her.

And then she went on making further mistakes, one after the other.

"I cried myself to sleep every night," she writes, describing her part after her romance flopped. "I couldn't eat or sleep or even smile. Hard as I tried, I didn't want to go out with anybody. All I wanted to do was just be by myself."

All of which, of course, was unhealthful behavior. A recapture of the boy's attention, although we'll give her the benefit of the doubt in the way of considerable, she didn't realize her own motives.

"Finally, word got to him how upset I was," she continues, "and he came over to see me." See what I mean? This was the precise purpose she hoped to bring about by making public exhibition of her feelings as she did.

But the chap didn't want any crybaby any more than he wanted a doormat. Matters were complished by letting him see how miserable he had made her, was to send him off again. And now, in asking for advice on how to get him back for good, she says: "I don't want to run after him, because I know a fellow doesn't like that, and I don't want to make that mistake."

She should did! In walking up to her mistakes a little bit late, and I doubt very much if she's going to see this fellow on her doorstep again. What I think is that she had just better dry her tears, stop shooting off emotional fireworks and develop a little philosophy, in addition to acquiring a whole new technique in romance.

And that technique should rule out making a doormat of herself for any man. Constant giving on the part of one person, and constant taking on the part of another, never yet made for successful marriage. For true happiness between any two people can be built only by mutual effort; by each one seeking to please the other. If the effort is all on one side, the marriage becomes unbalanced, and sooner or later falls flat on its face.

Survey on Family Nutrition

By Mary Moore

Quote from a speaker at an international convention: "The malnutrition of our children is in such an appalling state that if the doctors don't start stressing the importance of nourishing food the distillians are going to take over."

Probably some of you read the alarming findings of the home economists survey: that a high percentage of teen-agers either go to school breakfastless or on "cuppacawfee an' a doughnut."

I hope this does not apply to the children of the women who read this. At end of every day mothers should make their survey. They should take stock of what they have served, what has been consumed by their little dependents. Ask yourself: "Did I serve them an iron diet? Have they had one citrus fruit each? Was there one green and one yellow vegetable on the menu for the noon or night meal, plus the daily salad? During the day did each member of the family have three slices of whole wheat bread or its equivalent, 3/4 whole grain cereal? Four ounces of meat? Milk? The skin of the baked potato? Did I prepare the fruits and vegetables at the last moment to retain all the vitamins? Did I give the vegetables the shortest possible waterless cooking time?

Those are some of the probing questions mothers have to ask themselves, besides the hundreds of other decisions they have to make during the course of each day.

You cannot answer "yes" to them all if you dole out nickles and dimes here and there for pop drinks and candy bars and other sacclurin tures to be had at the corner store. Because the hunger of your children is then satisfied with sweets and they do not have the appetite or capacity for all of the basically nutritious food, their bodies require for health. End of today's lecture.

When we are having hot dogs or hamburgs cooked over the barbecue I have a weakness — buy too many buns or rolls, and Garny has a delightful method of using up the surplus. She spills and toasts the cut side under the broiler. She melts butter with a whole clove of sliced garlic in it. When the buns are toasted she brushes them with her garlic butter rather generously then pushes them back under the broiler for a minute. These are a delicious filler for a meat and salad meal or under the meat for

PICNIC BARBECUE

One tablespoon fat or drippings, 1 lb. ground beef or hamburg, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 No. 2 can tomatoes, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each Worcestershire sauce and prepared mustard, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-3 cup water, rolls split and toasted. Melt fat in frying pan and add broken up beef, and the onion and brown lightly and season with salt and pepper. Stir in the tomato juice, vinegar, brown sugar, Worcestershire sauce and mustard and mix well. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes. Make a paste of the flour and water until smooth then stir into cooked meat mixture until thickened, stirring. Serve over toasted rolls or toast triangles, or over bed of spaghetti or noodles or if it is for a winter meal in the oven over mashed potatoes. This amount will serve SIX.

NOTE:

I am leaving a jarful of this mixture in the refrigerator for Pete when I am away on vacation.

YOUTHFUL DANCER

Anne Huffman, 17, of Napanee, Ont., in the short period of two years has jumped from dining room ballet classes to the professional stage as dancer in Toronto's Melody Fair summer productions. The company's executive producer, Leighton Brill, has hailed her as a born comedian with a future. Anne, a wide-eyed blonde who is only five feet two inches in her dancing shoes, is in fourth form high school at home in Napanee where she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huffman, a 19-year-old brother and 11-year old sister. Wide-Eyed Napanee Blonde Dancing Her Way to Fame

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Two years ago petite five-foot-two Anne Huffman took her first ballet lesson in a hotel dining-room in Napanee, Ont. Now she's dancing in Leighton Brill's Melody Fair summer productions.

And executive producer Leighton Brill has hailed her as a born comedian with a future.

In "Oklahoma!" she plays the role that carried Joan McCracken to Broadway prominence—the little girl who gets in everybody's way.

WORKED HARD

Anne's jump from dining-room ballet classes to the professional stage is one part fate and two parts hard work. Last summer she studied at the National Ballet Summer School directed by Celia Franca. In her spare time she attended practically every Melody Fair show that season.

At home in Napanee she just got a taste of ballet from half-hour lessons every week with instructor Connie Wilson in her improvised hotel classroom.

Anne, a wide-eyed blonde who stands just five feet two inches in her dancing shoes, was by her own admission a real "ham" when she auditioned for the company this spring. She was horror-struck because she didn't know half the steps called out by the choreographer.

HAD TO LEARN

"I had to learn them from watching the other kids then put them together into combinations," she said.

Her ingenuity and grace caught producer Brill's eye and she was signed as the company's first apprentice dancer. This meant dancing small parts and understudying all female dancers.

Melody Fair, a summer stock musical troupe feeds out productions at its theatre-in-the-round for one week. In its fourth season the fair is the largest theatre "in the round" in North America. Until this season it staged productions in a huge tent which has since been moved to closed quarters.

So far Anne has appeared in two small parts — "Oh, Susanna!" and "Oklahoma!" Still an unaffected small-town girl, at home she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huffman, a 18-year-old brother and 11-year-old sister. She is in fourth form high school.

Her insurance-salesman father is solidly behind a dancing career on the condition — that she finish school before taking it up seriously.

COMPANY REMANDED

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Limited Friday was remanded to Aug. 20 in Toronto court pending a provision of the Ontario Labor Relations Act. The company is accused of ignoring a conciliation board decision handed down last Dec. 11. Now she's earning a maximum fine of $1,000 for each day an offence is continued.

Ex-Nova Scotian Philosopher Bosses Billion Dollar Empire

Philosopher at Heart

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A Harvard professor stood at Boston's Back Bay station waiting for a train. The train pulled in. Out stepped a white-thatched gentleman with a tanned face and wiry blue eyes. He carried a book.

The professor and his friend exchanged greetings. Then the professor pointed to the book, asking, "Cyrus, what have you got there?"

It was a translation of classic plays by Pierre Corneille, 17th-century French dramatist. The visitor volunteered:

"I've had a wonderful time with it all the way from New York."

The professor guffawed.

"Cyrus," he chuckled," if you were a member of the faculty, you'd have been in the club car playing bridge!"

This visitor is one of the greatest paradoxes in America—Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland, Ohio. The Nova Scotia-born Eaton is master of an industrial empire worth well over $1,000,000 and he's just starting a brand new career as a sustain that management is my challenge."

One of Eaton's outstanding achievements of recent years is Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd. in northwestern Ontario, which opened one of the world's richest iron ore sources after spectacular feats of engineering. In his leisure, however, Eaton mines a far different ore—the rich veins of wisdom found in the world's greatest books.

QUIET RECREATION

"I find my recreation in reading and quietness, in the beauty of the out-of-doors and the country," he said.

When Eaton talks in this mood, he seems more like the New England poet Robert Frost than the hard-driving enterpriser he is. Actually he is two men—an industrialist and a philosopher.

At 70 he still rides horseback—and at a gallop. He skis, skates, plays tennis. He doesn't smoke or drink.

On outings, he chooses college presidents, authors and scholars as companions.

"I don't like to talk shop when I'm away from business," he said. "My fundamental interest is the great machine that makes up our economic life in America."

He's a trustee of three universities, a member of various learned societies, a writer on politics, labor and economics.

He has farms in Ohio and his native Nova Scotia where he specializes in raising purebred scotch shorthorn cattle. He last played golf some 25 years ago with the late John D. Rockefeller Sr., his early mentor in business.

"Golf was invented by Scotsmen and there's a saying that the Scots take their pleasures sadly," said Eaton with a smile.

He believes in regular, moderate exercise and says that if you sleep soundly eight hours every night "you can accomplish great things in your life."

He advises young people: "Get something to do you enjoy doing—then do it with all your might."

SECOND WIND

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—After 39 years of complaint-free service a little steam locomotive is still hauling coal here. The 46-ton Snowwheeler was reconditioned recently at nearby Sydney Mines and returned bedecked with flags to start its second half-century on the job.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about:
Bills marked "PLEASE REMIT"

Most people have had a bill sometime, bearing the words, "Please remit by return mail". And many of us have not always been able to send payment by return mail. A large unplanned bill, or a lot of little ones, can often cause this to happen. Most people don't realize that all they need to clear away their debts is time; yes, time to spread the payments into future pay envelopes. A friendly loan gets you a lump sum of money, with which to pay your bills. You then have time to repay, with payments you can handle more easily. It's a simple way to get back on your feet. Friendly loans up to $1500 from Niagara are life-insured at no extra cost to you. Besides, on many friendly loans, the rates are lower. If you need money why don't you give yourself time to pay by arranging a Niagara loan. We'll be glad to see you . . . so just drop in.

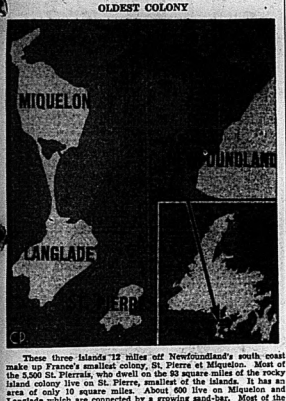
BLESSING OF THE SEA

The sea makes a rugged life for most of the 5,500 people of St. Pierre et Miquelon, only 12 miles off Newfoundland's south coast. But most of the people of these islands, France's smallest colony, make their living from the sea. This French Information Service photo shows the procession during the annual ceremony of the blessing of the sea. Four St. Pierrais lead the procession carrying on their shoulders a model of a fishing schooner. — (CP Photo.)

OLDEST COLONY



These three islands 12 miles off Newfoundland's south coast make up France's smallest colony, St. Pierre et Miquelon. Most of the 5,500 St. Pierrais, who dwell on the 93 square miles of the rocky island colony live on St. Pierre, smallest of the islands. It has an area of only 10 square miles. About 600 live on Miquelon and Langlade which are connected by a growing sand-bar. Most of the St. Pierrais are fishermen-farmers. — (CP Photo.)

St. Pierre et Miquelon France's Smallest Colony Is Island Welfare State

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. PIERRE (CP)—The colony of St. Pierre et Miquelon, France's oldest and smallest, is only 12 miles from Canada but many Canadians don't even know it exists.

Britain owned these islands twice in history and there are some St. Pierrais now who say they would rather be part of Canada. But the majority opinion is that they will move will never come.

Just off the south coast of Newfoundland, St. Pierre et Miquelon are rugged, rocky islands with 93 square miles of hills and bogs which France retained under the 1814 Treaty of Paris as a fishing base.

POPULATION 5,500

There are 5,500 persons who live off the fishery, the many stores, or the government. Life is a mixture of hard work and hard play.

But despite the rugged living, the people of this lonely little colony in a cold and foggy sea are happy. And despite the lack of business today, they feel better times are to come.

The colony is far from self-sufficient and depends a lot on foreign visiting ships for business. But at the moment there is little of this trade.

During prohibition in the United States the town of St. Pierre was the liquor warehouse of a nation.

Big, concrete buildings which still stand were filled with top-quality liquor that went aboard the sleek rum-runners for the voyage to the dry United States and Canadian markets.

LIQUOR WAS CHEAP

The liquor was cheap and St. Pierre welcomed the business. There was nothing illegal about it as far as St. Pierre was concerned.

Bill (The Real) McCoy, one of the first of the American rum kings to establish St. Pierre as a base, still is remembered. His schooner Arethusa is pictured on a St. Pierre stamp. In his day, McCoy got 175,000 cases of liquor through the prohibition blockade, a lot of it from St. Pierre.

But those days are gone now and there are pessimists who think this colony is doomed.

One business man said frankly he wished the islands would become part of Canada.

"But then again," he said, "why would Canada want us? We have nothing."

TIES WITH FRANCE

Georges Landry, president of the Chamber of Commerce, says there are two big reasons why the colony will never become part of the Dominion.

First, there is sentiment. "It's hard to break the ties of 30 years," he says. "And secondly we are treated like a favorite son and given more liberal treatment by France."

He doubts whether Canada would underwrite the islands to the same degree.

Some economists have called the colony a complete island welfare state.

St. Pierre et Miquelon is administered by a governor, directly responsible to France. The colony has three representatives in the French Parliament, one in the Chamber of Deputies, one in the Senate and one in the Council of the French Union.

IN ADVISORY CAPACITY

There is a 14-member council elected every four years which functions mainly as an advisory body. It has the final say only on the matter of local subsidies.

There also is a six-member private council, appointed from France and including prominent St. Pierrais. This body mediates between the governor and the council. It also is useful to new governors, named every three years, in that it can give him an intimate picture of the colony's needs.

Class distinction is non-existent in St. Pierre et Miquelon, but there are levels of social life based on wealth. Officials appointed from France are in a different sphere than the natives.

Because the colony does not pay its own way—local revenue accounted for only 1/5 of the expenditure in the 402,000,000-franc ($2,297,000) 1954 budget — government aid is felt everywhere.

There are hundreds of civil servants and the government has many schemes of bonuses and relief, a lot of it based on the individual case rather than on any set pattern.

One destitute woman received government aid on the stipulation she rent "the room" at the Sunday night balls, the week's top social event with wine and dancing at a local cafe. She solved that by wearing a mask.

FEW APPLICANTS

The government, once offered special compensation to experienced fishermen who would take a different apprentice to sea every five years. Only two applied.

The government itself owns 21 per cent of the modernized fish plant which sends most of its output to the United States and Canada. Opened two years ago, the plant can handle 20,000 pounds of fish a day and has 120 employees. It brought in $100,000 from the United States alone last year.

Some foodstuffs are subsidized and sugar, butter and milk are rationed, although not too strictly. Prince Edward Island butter, because of the subsidy, is cheaper than in Canada.

MIXTURE ON SHELVES

Store shelves carry a mixture of Canadian and French supplies and although most appeared reasonably priced, one merchant said it costs three times more to live in St. Pierre than in France.

Some of the prices, with the price in Halifax for the same articles in brackets: half-pound of coffee 97 cents (84); tomato soup 16 cents (15); half-pound of tea 53 cents (45); tinned milk 16 cents (16).

Liquor, by Canadian prices, is cheap. Rum, twice as powerful and in a larger bottle than the $4 26-ounce size in Nova Scotia, costs $1.25.

Wine is served with meals in the hotels and the charge is included in the $6-a-day rate for room and board.

INDUSTRIOUS BIRDS

HALTWHISTLE, England (CP) Builders repairing the roof of a Presbyterian church in this Northumberland town found 60 clothes pegs, 80 strips of lead, hundreds of loose nails and two cartloads of sticks deposited under the eaves by jackdaws.

KILLED BY SLIDES

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—A number of wild animals were killed during snow slides in the Rocky mountains during the spring. Slides resulted from last winter's heavy snowfall. Remains of the animals have been found by summer climbing parties.

Mechanized Warfare Replaces Lancer Regiments With Tanks

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Mechanized warfare has finally caught up with the lancers of India, famed as mounted warriors for two centuries.

Today's lancers have been squeezed into a single cavalry regiment in the Republic of India's army.

The new regiment, made up of four historic cavalry units, recently rode out for the first time behind unfurled battle flags won by its predecessors in 20 years of wars and rebellion.

The parade marked a new era for Indian cavalry—an era when parades and ceremonials will be its chief times for showing off and where the big battlefield roles will henceforth be left to tanks and armored cars.

Western nations made the transition long ago. But, like France, where the black squadron perpetuates fine horsemanship for ceremonial occasions, Indians intend to keep the traditions of their cavalry alive.

ONLY USE THE BEST

Mechanization in India's army started before the Second World War, but in regions inaccessible to armored vehicles the lancers still were the kingpins when it came to warfare and putting down revolt.

The new regiment admits only the finest riders. All in all, about 1,000 men will make up its roster.

One lancer unit, the Mysore Regiment, was formed in 1748, making it one of the oldest cavalry outfits in the modern Indian Army.

Lancers of the Jodhpur Regiment were in China during the Boxer Rebellion—and the name of their home town has become a part of equestrian vocabulary the world around via Jodhpur riding pants, designed after the tight-legged lancer uniform.

The Kachhawas Regiment gave its name to a rapid cavalry mount, galloping into battle under Sikh leaders in almost every state of India. The Jaipurs, the other unit making up the new regiment, also has a long battle record.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

Canadian Legion Setting Out To Provide Low-Rental Units For Low-Income Pensioners

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Wanted: New apartments in crowded cities for retired, low - income pensioners. Rent: $30-$35 a month.

Such apartments have been built, and the Canadian Legion has set out to provide similar homes for elderly veterans.

Dr. C. B. Lumsden, Dominion president of the legion, turned the first sod Monday on a project of 120 modern apartment units in suburban North York township for veterans in the Toronto area.

Construction is expected to start this fall on the first 48 units to house veterans whose income is limited to the $40 monthly old-age pension augmented, perhaps, by disability pension or war veterans allowances.

FLAN SEVERAL MORE

The project, whose initial stage will cost $250,000, is backed by 60 legion branches in the Toronto area. Similar legion ventures are planned at Ottawa, Kitchener and North Bay, Ont., Winnipeg and Charlottetown.

The sod-turning ceremony was held on the first day of the week-long Canadian Legion convention here. The man who sparked the venture, W. G. Reed of York township, chairman of the Legion's Dominion housing committee, was there to see the ground broken.

Later Mr. Beech took convention delegates to see his six - acre township to see low-cost housing in which live some 150 old people—average age about 80.

For $20 a month, they get a bedsitting room, bathroom and kitchen equipped with new electric stove and refrigerator. For $35, there is an extra bedroom.

Tom James, 79-year-old Boer War veteran, told the delegates that compared with his previous homes, "It's a palace."

ONTARIO CONTRIBUTES

The York township project was the first built under recent provincial legislation providing for grants to charitable organizations sponsoring housing projects for older persons.

The legion project will follow the same pattern. The Ontario government will make a grant of $500 for each unit, used to keep the rents down.

Earlier Monday, Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe joined delegates in a discussion of war veterans allowances.

Mr. Lapointe repeated the government's stand that it cannot accept the legion's long-standing request for an increase. The convention then voted unanimously for a resolution restating the request.

Premiers Open Biggest Iron Ore Development

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — The premiers of Quebec and Newfoundland have officially opened Canada's biggest iron ore mining development, a $250,000,000 project straddling the boundaries of Ungava and Labrador.

Maurice Duplessis said the development will turn a wild and desolate area formerly known as the "land of cain" into a land of progress and prosperity and forecast that a 360-mile railway now linking the mines at Knob Lake, Que., with this former fishing hamlet will open up a territory as large as the present populated area of Quebec.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said the northeastern fringe of the North American continent is one of the "great storehouses of mineral wealth unexploited in the world today."

The two premiers pushed buttons to send the first cargoes of payditt crashing into the holds of the freighter Hawaiian bound for Philadelphia.

COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL

ALLEGAN, Mich. (CP) — Dr. Kenneth B. Small Sunday was committed to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for the rest of his life or until he can prove he is no longer harmful. He was convicted July 17 of the slaying of Jules H. Lack, New York industrialist, alleged to have stolen the affections of Dr. Small's wife.

DIES BEFORE MARRIAGE

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Benoit Poisson, 31, collapsed and died in church here Saturday, minutes before he was to be married in a double ceremony. The priest had just raised the hand of his bleeding prior to marrying two sisters and their fiancees when Poisson collapsed and died of a heart attack.

Duke Arrives On West Coast From Prairies

VICTORIA (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh was back among the seafaring men he knows best Monday, after two days spent with the Mounties and Canadian Army paratroopers.

Before leaving Monday night for Kitimat, the Duke spent a full day with the navy. As admiral of the fleet, he took the royal salute on arriving at the Canadian Pacific command headquarters here. Later he presented awards to the graduating class of Royal Roads naval college.

In the harbor aboard the minesweeper HMCS Comox, he was the centre of the "cheer ship"—the slip-hip-hooray-cheerio by which crew members of assembled naval vessels.

For 1½ hours of his westward flight Sunday the Duke sat with the pilot of the royal plane to get a better view of the Rocky mountains, veiled only by the lightest mist.

At Rivers, Man., Sunday, parachutist Ted Wilson climbed and squeezed into capsule form taking less than 20 minutes.

The Duke spent Sunday night here at government house after being welcomed by a cheering crowd of 20,000 at the airport.

Results of Strike Vote Counted By Union Heads

MONTREAL (CP) — The results of a strike vote by railway employees were counted Monday night by union officials from coast to coast.

Some 135,000 non-operating employees—those who do not actually run the trains—were eligible to vote, and Monday was the final day in which they could ballot.

Frank Hall, head of the negotiating committee of 14 unions involved in the dispute, said the voting was on a local basis and the central office here will not officially know the result until Aug. 11. Earlier, he said that reports indicated a "heavy" vote throughout the country.

If the employees vote in favor of a strikeout, a walkout could be called at any time after the result is announced but further negotiations would not be precluded.

The unions made no wage requests in the dispute but demanded "fringe" benefits which the railways said would cost $60,000,000 a year.

Both Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways declared they could not grant the demands because of declining revenues.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said last Wednesday Parliament may be called in August if the men vote to strike, but "I hope it won't be necessary to call an emergency session."

WORK WITH BRITAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has instructed all of its agencies to go ahead with a plan of collaboration with Britain in the development and production of guided missiles. The defence department said Saturday that all military services and other government organizations concerned in new weapons have approved the co-operation scheme.

Nearly 500,000 in N. America Suffer from Gouty Arthritis

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 500,000 people in North America today suffer from an affliction which has been a target for slywinking jests and comic cartoons down the ages.

The disease is gout. Or gouty arthritis.

It is a red-hot mixture of all the agonies sketched in Dante's Inferno.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The cause is unknown, almost as baffling to modern physicians as it was to Hippocrates, the "father of medicine," who prescribed burning flax near the afflicted joint 400 years before Christ.

And there is no cure. Gout lasts as long as life.

The disease is one of numerous forms of arthritis whose history goes back millions of years. But at last the end may be in sight. Scientists believe they may be on the path toward discovering a preventive to stop gout before it gets started.

They are not banking on the so-called miracle drugs—cortisone, ACTH, phenylbutazone—which merely control gout without curing it. Rather, they are hoping to short - circuit the chemical mechanism that produces gout.

"Some exciting leads are now being explored," says Dr. James W. Wyngaarden, expert on gout research. He cautions, however, that "overnight miracles" are not to be expected.

Long ago I gave up trying to discuss gout without the demands that my gout stems from Homeric feats of gorging and guzzling. But for the record, here is what the Mayo Clinic says:

"For centuries people have thought that gout is caused by 'high living,' but this is by no means the case. Even those who eat sparingly and never touch alcoholic drinks may develop the disease."

Doctors say gout results when an over-supply of purines—a chemical substance which appears in some foods—causes an excess of uric acid. When the kidneys fail to throw off the excess acid, it enters the blood stream and forms crystals of sodium urate which are deposited, in the tissue of certain joints.

Outwardly, nothing happens as the crystals silently build up. There is no pain—until the trigger is pulled. Then comes the explosion . . . the decisive swelling . . . the searing pain . . .

The trigger may come in the form of a stubbed toe, a scarcely noted jarring of the knee or wrist or elbow.

Doctors point out, too, that although the exact cause of gout is unknown, attacks frequently develop after an over-indulgence of any kind—fatigue, excess eating or drinking, or exposure to cold weather.

For some reason, it generally hits hardest in the spring and fall.

2,000 U.S. Jet Interceptor Planes Ready to Scream Into Air at Minute's Warning

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has about 2,000 jet interceptor planes poised to scream into the air within three minutes of an enemy attack warning.

Robot - missile installation projects are under way at a dozen critically important metropolitan areas with more than a score more planned for other cities. Automatic anti-plane artillery rings many key points.

A new, weird-looking row of warning radar, called "Texas towers," is being staked in the coastal waters off the Atlantic seaboard. The first of these will be in the area of the Canadian border is almost 100 per cent complete and working; several automatic, unmanned radar warning stations are in operation scanning the Arctic skies up the edge of the North American continent, the beginning of the global radar warning line called "Dewline."

COMPLEX SYSTEM

The U.S. has far more and far better defence today than it had in the most dangerous days of the Second World War.

But the most optimistic defence expert doesn't dream that this vast, unprecedented, multi-billion-dollar system of continental defence would stop every Russian bomber from getting through the guard. He only hopes that most would be detected and destroyed.

In this day of nuclear weapons, one bomb can destroy one great city. And with no trouble at all, far mightier ones can be fabricated.

For that reason the U.S. is building the complex system called "continental defence."

It may not save every city, but it may save enough to keep the war effort going until retaliatory bombing by the atomic air force can strike at sources from which the enemy launches its aerial attack. That is the U.S. Air Force argument.

Despite the already intricate and involved system of continental defence, there is yet no single, overall command with full authority to direct it.

STUDY NEAR COMPLETION

At present some responsibility, but no authority, rests with the air force. But a long - standing study looking to establishment of a full-fledged, single continental defence command is reported nearing completion. Recommendations are currently in the hands of the joint chiefs of staff, from where they will go to the defence department, national security council and the White House.

On the basis of available information, here is how the continental defence system stands now and is planned:

Up along the lonely reaches of the Arctic is the beginning of "Dewline," the system of radar warning installations eventually intended to stretch eastward from Alaska across northern Canada to Greenland.

Part of that system will include the automatic sets, which flash alarms over radio when their radar antennas, operating under a rotodome to protect them from ice and snow, pick up the image of approaching planes. The warning line will be manned by radar centres and air bases within seconds.

'PINE TREE' BACKSTOPS

A thousand miles or so to the south, along the belt of farm land and industry in the more northern states, is "Pine Tree."

It serves several functions in the radar warning system: to pick up enemy planes that might have gotten by distant warning radar sets in the Arctic and to give an indication of the course of the approaching aircraft and provide clues to their intended target.

Down in the belt are the close-in detection and tracking radar systems, spotted around military bases and big industrial areas.

There is still another element of the radar warning system, airborne and seaborne. The U.S. air force and navy are adding to a fleet of big transport-type aircraft, and the navy has long had a big air.

The radar search sets they carry are advantages over land-based equipment. The high altitude of planes extends radar range—limited by the curvatures of the earth —several miles. And the planes can roam hundreds and thousands of miles beyond the fringe of land-based radar stations. The navy has destroyers and submarines especially fitted out for radar picket duty, their mission like that of the planes.

The weatherman has certainly blessed the Corbin Gold Cup tournament on the local greens. Only once in thirteen years has there been any curtailment due to rainy weather. Yesterday the wind was sufficient to cut the humidity but the sun shone brightly all day, the greens were in excellent condition. They were true and fast as lightning and the competition was exceptionally keen in all the games.

Considerable credit must be given to Jack Smith, the greenskeeper for the fine condition of the greens. He has worked hard and long to bring the greens up to perfection on tournament day. His greens chairman, Garn Dobbs, has given invaluable help. Every member of the executive and the membership generally have contributed in some way to the success.

To Cliff Argue, the general chairman of the tournament since its inception, and who through ill health and advice of his physician is relinquishing that important office, a great deal of credit must be given for the success of the twelve tournaments that have gone before. He was at the helm early in the game and stayed strong on end but was tired and wane. The draws were run in fine time and on Friday night another tournament had passed into history.

The Women's section under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charley A. Mott, president, worked indefatigably all day to still going strong on end but was tired and wane. The draws were run in fine time and on Friday night another tournament had passed into history.

Casey May Call It A Career If His Yankees Miss Flag; Brooklyn Snaps Braves' String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Casey Stengel has said he ought to get fired if his New York Yankees don't win the pennant this year.

Thus the high-flying Cleveland Indians, who open a three-game home series tonight with the defending world champions, get a chance not only to set the Yankees back in their worst position since 1948 but, in all likelihood, also get Stengel out of their hair.

Nobody actually believes Stengel will be dismissed if the Indians dethrone the Yankees. It is quite possible, however, that the 64-year-old manager may call it a career. He has said on more than one occasion that he will retire when the Yankee pennant string comes to an end.

Although only 2½ games behind the pace-setting Indians, the Yanks are four games behind in the important lost column.

"Those four behind in the lost column is what really hurts," Casey said Monday night at his team left for Cleveland. "We've got to cut that down while we get the chance. We may not have many chances later."

The Yankees are not counting on a Cleveland collapse any more. They realize this is the best team the Indians have had since '48 when Cleveland won its last pennant.

Both teams were idle Monday as the major league activities were confined to only three games.

A BIG ONE

The sole National League contest was a big one and a long one. It went 12 innings and three hours and 45 minutes before the Brooklyn Dodgers could eke out a thrilling 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The winning run, produced by Pee Wee Cox' sacrifice fly, snapped the Braves' winning streak at 10, and ended the Dodgers' losing streak at four.

In the American League, Washington moved to within a half game of Detroit by trouncing the Athletics 12-3. Chairman Connie Mack's Philadelphia all alone in the cellar, vanquishing the Athletics 6-5 on Ray Turley completed his first game since July 3.

Until Jack Dittmer brought in the last half of the 13th, it was a frustrating afternoon for the Dodgers.

From the ninth until the 13th, the Dodgers blew numerous chances to score, raising their men on base total to 20 which tied a league record for a 13-inning game. Then, one out in the 13th, however, Duke Snider singled off loser Dave Jolly and went to third on a single by Gil Hodges. After Sandy Amoros was given an intentional base on balls, Cox came through with a long fly to left that scored Snider.

Roy Sievers rapped two home runs and drove in five runs as Dean Stone turned back the Tigers for the fourth straight time this season.

Bums, Braves Break Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Six records were set or tied in the Milwaukee-Brooklyn National League baseball game Saturday, with Joe Adcock, Milwaukee first baseman, accounting for four of the changes in the record books.

Adcock hit four home runs to tie the major league record. His 18 total bases—he also hit a double—established a major league mark. His five extra-base hits tied the major league mark and established a National League mark.

He also had a home run against Brooklyn Friday, so his five homers in two consecutive games tied the major league mark.

The 10 home runs hit by both clubs and Milwaukee's 13 extra base hits tied league records.

The sixth record was the most runs batted in on two hits by one player in a nine-inning game—13.

Sunday, Adcock was beaned by Brooklyn's Sam Jethroe and carried from the field. He was not seriously injured, coming back Monday night to hit a double in the Braves' 2-1 loss to Brooklyn.

AT THE McCARTHY

SPEED THRILLS FEATURE OF NEW FILM DRAMA

Young America's preoccupation with motorized speed, the theme of Universal-International's Technicolor production of "Johnny Dark," starring Tony Curtis, Piper Laurie and Don Taylor, now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, is the first feature of its kind to screen fifty years ago.

Film authorities show that as far back as 1904 the old Biograph lot trained its rickety cameras on the gas-powered chariots entered in the famed Vanderbilt Cup runs, forerunner of the present Indianapolis which created unusual excitement. Later, the late Wally Reid made motion picture history with such auto-racing hits as "Excuse My Dust" and "Across the Continent," classics for their time.

"Johnny Dark," becomes dramatic attention on the current sports car craze and is climaxed with a spectacular "border - to - border" stock-car race.

TV Grid War Gets Under Way On Saturday

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—The multi-million-dollar football battle of the television waves gets under way in earnest in the United States Aug. 13, with the all-star game in Chicago.

Never before has so much football been offered to the TV public.

The American Broadcasting Company will televise college football Saturday afternoons. ABC reputedly paid $2,000,000 for the rights alone and the total bill may hit $4,000,000.

Dumont will televise the Chicago all-star game as a prelude to professional football Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons by exclusive contract with the National Football League. The season's cost is around $2,000,000.

DARING EXPERIMENT

In a daring experiment but on a more modest scale, the National Broadcasting Company is bringing Canadian football to American viewers Saturday afternoons, for the first time, with at least four games in direct conflict with ABC's programs.

The fourth big TV network, the Columbia Broadcasting System, will stick to its regular weekend programs which are light on the sports side except for a half-hour Saturday afternoon show featuring major horse races, and possibly some football scoreboard programs.

Woodbine Track

TORONTO (CP) — An all-time betting mark for harness racing in Toronto—and, as far as Woodbine officials are aware, for all of Canada—was set at Woodbine raceway Monday when $142,814 went through the pari-mutuel machines during the nine-race holiday card.

The total was almost $10,000 better than the previous high—$132,371 set on Canadian Cup Day in August, 1952, at Thorncliffe raceway.

In the day's feature race, Ruth Chips came crashing through in the stretch to win the top share of the $1,000 purse ahead of True Spencer, which had set a track record of 2.06 Saturday. This time, Ruth Chips, a six-year-old mare owned by E. Barnes and Son of Alisa Craig, Ont., and driven by Neil McEwan, won in a photo finish from the favorite, Clarence Lockhart's True Spencer from Collingwood. Time was 2:07 2-5.

In a $1,000 divided purse, The Saleslady, owned by G. Lasby of Guelph and driven by Bill Habkirk, was the first heat but then finished out of the money in the ninth when Goldie Hal, owned by L. Detoso of Trenton, came down in front.

REMEMBER WHEN

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The baseball world was shocked by the suicide death of Willard Hershberger, 29-year-old second-string catcher of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League, 14 years ago today. Hershberger, serving his third season with the Reds, was apparently despondent over his recent play and was found dead in a downtown Boston hotel.

Act your age. Even if you use some unnatural counting method know how many tricks they represent. It will help you decide where to stop, how many raises to make, whether a slam should be probed.

A deal that came up in a match is shown here:

♥Q 7 4 2

♣K Q

WEST

♣9 7 4 3

SOUTH
♥A K 10 5
♦A Q 7
♣A 6 5 2

The bidding should go like this:

South	North
1 Heart	2 Spades
2 No-Trump	3 Hearts
4 No-Trump	5 Spades
6 Hearts	Pass

However else you may determine the values in the south hand you should know that it expects to take six tricks. Horse Sense players count the five high cards (aces, kings, queens) and the short spade.

A jump takeout promises six tricks with two sures among them. The purpose of the bidding is to tell partner they have enough for game in something. The bidding must not stop short of game.

In answer to four no-trump, five spades is a convention signal for showing an ace and two kings. With a king known to be with the opening bid a 6 no-trump slam would not be sensible.

However, how does south know that a slam should be probed? No reasonable player likes to jeopardize a cinch game for a try at slam that has no chance. What tells the players there is a chance?

Although the first north jump accepts six tricks or more he has no actual count of seven tricks. Thus, each player knows of a total of 12 tricks or more in the pair's slam stuff.

It happens that north elected to start with an opening lead of his club jack. As you can see from the west hand, south runs into trump trouble. Take the 13 tricks anyway.

Australia Leads Commonwealth In British Empire Games; Canada Fourth

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WEEK-END WASH

Three days' sports news crushed into one with the British Empire Games and the fiery races in the major baseball league clamoring for streamers and headlines, necessitates this column being of the capsule type.

Leastly the big news is that sparkling double feature win of the Reins over the Toronto Hoskings and our side taking over second spot in the Vindnet League over the Queen City squad. The Carson crew fattened their batting averages in that first game 11-4 victory, while Art Wright nudged Bill Fullerton in a three-hit pitching duel that marked the tilt as being one of the best seen here this season. Now, if the zang can just knock off the vanished Oshawa Generals at the Exhibition Grounds tonight, the week-end cup will be filled to overflowing.

Point Anne's solid softball squad ousted the Bluebird juniors from "A" competition, winning Saturday evening 13-0 to take the best-of-three series in two straight. They won the first 6-1.

Brilliant weather made to "long holiday" the best of the year if you can discount the fatalities. Traffic on the highways was the heaviest in the history of the city while safety-minded folks stayed to the home town or sought the rest and seclusion of summer camp, resort and cabin. The fishing boys had a good weekend, we hear. Incidentally Sammy "The Man" Muhlenkamp, Canada's top middleweight is 15-pound better trout in Mount Lake north of Kingston somewhere, and Sambo said he had a thirty-minute battle before the big fella said "Uncle." Sammy's witness is his poppa-in-law.

Cliff Argue's lawn bowling fraternity had one of the most successful men's club tournaments with the famous Corbin Gold Cup as top prize, in years. Larry Murphy's Calvert Rendezvous was a popular spot with a little "lamb" thrown in. Visiting fellows were again loud in their praise of the splendid greens, organization and the host hospitality.

"Ole Case" may quit baseball if his beloved Yankees fail to come through. The champs start a "crosohul" series with the rampaging Indians tonight . . . The "Bums" broke the Braves ten-game winning streak and set up pennant drive, but the "Pirate" are still five games in front . . . Minor baseball coaches here are reminded the opening playdown dates have been set back to August 21 . . . Rumor has it Don Hogan, former junior hockey star here, is jumping off the deep end into professional soon. The bride is a Belleville gal and a downright pretty one, we are told . . . Bob Temple's Bobcats play their home-schedule feet game tonight in Madoc—but Stars Robert says there be nothing definite about the venue of the rest of the series, if and when . . . Incidentally the "Cats"-Madoc game scheduled for Saturday night was not played . . . Bloomfield won the Kingston Penitentiary Invitational Congress, defeating Frankford 3-1 on birds in the finals. In the semis the Bluebirds whipped Point Anne 3-1 and Bloomfield edged the "Saints" by a similar score . . . Don't forget, Colborne is here tonight in what should be a dilly-duckler battle with the Betas. Game at 8.30.

Aussie Swimmers Pile Points Against England's Challenge; Canucks Win One Gold Medal

By W. R. WHEATLEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Keevil Dailley, a sturdy airforceman from Ottawa, gave Canada its first gold medal of the 1954 British Empire Games late Monday night but the work of the muscular weightlifter couldn't keep Canada from sagging to fourth place in the point standings.

A great wave of 29 points in swimming competition—two firsts, a second and a third—kept Australia at the top of the unofficial ranking and a gold medal in paddling kept the leadership safe from England's challenge.

South Africa's paddlers came through with a mighty three-victory grand slam and boosted their country into third place over Canada.

NINE GOLD MEDALS

In all, nine gold medals were won Monday, bringing the total to 20. Seventy one more are on the line.

England, leader when points totted up Saturday, scored only one first—the delight, victory by Rene Paul in the men's individual fencing competition.

Canada supplied a runner-up in both wrestling and weightlifting. Jeff Letendre of Montreal scored an upset in the ring when he won a split decision over Ken Richardson and Garrard, lightweight champion of Australia for 9 years.

Jules Sylvain of Quebec was second to Rodney Wilkes of Trinidad in the welterweight wrestling division.

Earlier in the day little Ginnie Grant of Toronto gave Canada a second place in the women's 110-yard freestyle swimming and big George Park of Hamilton placed fourth in the men's 110.

The competition of points, based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 for six places, show this position of the leaders: Australia, 101; England, 94; South Africa, 65; Canada, 62; Trinidad, 31; New Zealand, 26.

The cyclists began their merry ride to nowhere and scattered records right and left in a flock of heats embracing three events. Some trials were run off but a disqualification and subsequent reinstatement caused almost as much excitement as the furious riding.

ENDS FAMINE

Dailley's win in weightlifting ended the championship famine for Canada's teams. The radar technician with the RCAF was in front all the way. He hefted 275 pounds in both the two-hand press and two-hand snatch and lifted with a 220-pound clean and jerk for a total of 495. Len Klinger of Toronto had placed second and England's Mel Barnett third.

South Africa's big three in wrestling were Abraham Geldenhuys in the featherweight class; Louis Balse, flyweight; and Godfrey Pienaar, lightweight. The only thing wrong with Louis in the night's scramble was the bantamweight title. And he went to Gauel Jamison of Australia.

When all the hurrah over the afternoon and evening cycling heats had died down, only Pat Murphy of Ottawa, Ont., was left among the Canadian qualifiers. Pat placed seventh among the eight acceptables in the 4,000-metre individual pursuit time trials.

It looked as while as if John Millman of Vancouver had qualified in the 1,000-metre match sprint when Cyril Peacock of England, holder of the world record, was disqualified. Then the argument arose over whether Peacock had crossed the bottom line—out of bounds. The jury of appeal ruled in Peabock's favor, and Millman was eliminated.

Heats in the 1,0001metre match sprint took more than four hours, and the eliminations included Millman, Jim Davies and Terry Gamble, all of Vancouver.

The way the general picture of the games is shaping up now, it appears the only way to stop Australia from retaining the Commonwealth championship is to drain the swimming pool.

Out of the deluge of records made in two days — in heats, finals and all — the Australians finished off with three of the best, gold, medals.

They got on their greatest display Monday and made a mockery of records only 48 hours old, when they swam one-two-three in the men's 110-yard freestyle and won the women's 110.

With track and field competition resuming again today, the Australians will be spearheaded by Jack Nelson and Hector Hogan to pile up more points to add to their growing total in swimming.

The spring swim events Monday went to Australian teen-agers. Jon Henricks, 18, won the men's sprint in 58.6 seconds, capturing his second gold medal of the games. Fifteen-year-old Lorraine Crapp balled it out with Virginia Grant of Toronto to take the women's 110-yard slap in a record.

Henricks, winner in 58.6, led teammates Cyrus Weld and Rod Sheppard to a clean sweep of the first three places.

WESTERN PLAN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Western Canada hockey officials, who have seen the Memorial Cup won by the East for the last six years, have taken a step to remedy the situation. They advocated Sunday that future western junior representatives in the cup finals be strengthened with three replacements for any western club.

Team managers, rink operators, coaches and association members from the Lakehead to British Columbia drew up a program that will be presented to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for consideration at its semi-annual meeting in January.

Aubrey to the finish. His time best his 56.9 in a heat Saturday and also the old mark of 59.6.

Lorraine Crapp in Saturday's record-breaking time, made by Virginia in a heat, to beat out the Toronto girl. Glenie's 1:06.3 Monday equalled her own mark but Lorraine swam to the title in 1:05.8. The old record, made four years ago, was 1:06.

The women's 110-yard backstroke was the third event of the day to underscore Australian power. Joan Harrison of South Africa led the qualifiers with 1:21.2, the old mark was 1:18.6. Four other qualifiers, including Lenore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B.C., bettered the former record. Sara Barber, 13-year-old Brantford girl, failed to qualify.

Leafs Drop Twin Bill To Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If things keep up like they have been, Toronto Maple Leafs are apt to go gunning for the man who drew up the International League schedule.

No matter which way they look right now all the Leafs see are Montreal Royals. And that's not good, especially since the Leafs are trying to hold their two-game lead.

The two clubs wound up a seven-game series in Toronto with a doubleheader Monday and they got at it again tonight in another twin bill, this time in Montreal. What makes it bad for the Leafs is that they lost five of the seven games at home and were behind 8-1 in another one when it was halted by a curfew.

Montreal beat the Leafs Monday 5-3 and 4-2. A bases-loaded single by Dick Whitman provided the winning margin in the nine-inning first game. All of Montreal's runs in the nightcap came on homers by Rocky Nelson, Dick Young and Jack Cassini.

In Ottawa what was supposed to be a lineup-lightheader, one game nine innings and one seven, turned into a 26-inning marathon when the second game ran 19 innings. Rochester beat the Athletics 4-3 in the opener. Ottawa took the second struggle 3-2 on Vince Plumbo's bases-loaded single.

Kent Peterson recovered from a rocky start and pitched a shutout as Syracuse whipped Havana 3-0. The Suns' Kings loaded the bases in the first inning and got two more hits in the second but Peterson settled down each time and kept them from scoring.

Buffalo beat Richmond 7-5 in nine innings on run-scoring singles by Chuck Cottier and Buddy Hicks. Rain washed out the second game.

Marksman Fires 51 Consecutive 'Bulls Eyes'

By TERRY ROSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, the man who wrote the Canadian Army's textbook on the art of rifle-handling, has shown why he is rated Canada's top marksman. He scored 51 consecutive bulls eyes at the Ontario Rifle Association matches here Monday.

The Calgary insurance man, a member of Canada's 1954 Bisley team, won the Banker's and President's matches, the two top senior events of the day. Two tyro matches were also held.

Johnson, who has been shooting for 25 of his 47 years, wrote "Shoot to Live" in 1943 for which he was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

ENDED IN TIES

Both Johnson's matches ended in ties. Competition in the Banker's match—at 500 yards—was resolved by Lieut. G. S. Boa of Toronto, last year's winner of the King's Prize.

Third was S-Sgt. T. B. Johnson of Halifax, followed by Maj. R.W. Hampton of Camp Borden, and CSM. Alf Mcleod of Toronto.

The 600-yard President's match ended in a five-way tie with Sgt. F. L. Wakerell, Ottawa; Sgt. E. A. Dave Reynolds, Ottawa; Sgt. E. B. Lepage, Hamilton, and S-Sgt. Thomas Johnston shooting against the Calgary marksman.

All were eliminated but Wakerell, who finally dropped to an inner. Johnson's next shot was also called an inner.

"I'll challenge that," barked Johnson.

He was right. It was his 51st bulls eye and the end of the match.

Reynolds, Lepage and Johnston tied in that order.

TYRO TIE

The City of Hamilton tyro match ended in a three-way tie between Sgt. G. L. McCoy, Col. H. S. Cooper and Cadet A. E. Woodcroft, all of Hamilton.

In the shoot-off that followed, Sgt. McCoy captured the ORA silver medal with Col. Cooper second and Cadet Woodcroft third.

Winners of the City of Hamilton team match were the RCAF's Camp Borden tyro team with 133 points. Royal Hamilton Light Infantry was second with 128.

This year's ORA is one of the largest on record with nearly 300 entries.

Batas Grab 2nd Place In Viaduct League With Twin Wins Over Hoskings

Take Afternoon Game 13-5, Night Pitchers' Battle Goes To Art Wright by 3-1 Score

The Batas leapfrogged over the Toronto Hoskings into second place in the Viaduct Softball League on Saturday taking both ends of a double fixture 13-5 and 3-1.

The Batas pounded three Hoskings hurlers in the afternoon game for seventeen hits, including a home run, a triple and four doubles.

Art Wright bested Bill Fullerton in a stirring pitchers' duel in the nightcap. Both allowed but three hits with Wright whiffing 11 and coming through with some fine clutch hurling.

The victories gave the Batas a 13-11 record for an average of .542, while Hoskings wound up with a 13-13 mark for .500. The Batas meet the league-leading Oshawa Transporters here tonight.

FIRST GAME

The Batas greeted starting pitcher Stan Courtney with a five-hit four run onslaught in the first innings and coasted to the showers with one out. Bevin Burke took over and the Batas got to him for five more and four runs before he gave way to Pat Patterson in the fifth. Patterson was the same hurler and the hard-hitting Batas touched him for three runs for four runs over the rest of the route.

Johnny Mowatt went the route for the winners driving up 10 hits whiffing seven and walking five.

Vern Gyger hit a four-bagger homer in the fifth for two for three but Hock Reeves was the batting star with four for four and two singles. Doug Hull had three for three with his fourth hit a double and single, Mouse Bush and Peter Jones had two singles. Keith McLeod was good for a triple.

Catcher Gleed of the Hoskings was tossed out of the game in the second inning for arguing too long by Umpire Jim Norris of Toronto. Carr's galloping one-hand stab of McMillan's grounder was the fielding feature of the game.

Wallis had four hits for Hoskings. Stuart and Mighton had two each.

SECOND GAME

Art Wright's fine three-hit hurling job for his eighth victory, was matched by the superb fielding of Bill Fullerton on the Hoskings mound. Both pitchers went the route with both giving the up but three hits. Tony Pettitt got the only extra base clout of the game, a double in the fifth which did no damage.

Wright who whiffed eleven came through with some fine clutch hurling. He held the Hoskings to two hits for the second five innings. They scored their lone run in the seventh off two Bata errors and a pair of walks.

The Batas scored their first run in the fourth off an error a wild pitch and Peter Jones single. They added one in the fifth off three walks, MacDonald's sacrifice fly and Art Wright's single. Patterson blanked them over the rest of the route.

Pettitt, Peter Jones and Wright were the only Batas to hit Patterson while Wallis, Spotton and McMurray were the successful single clouters for Hoskings. Mouse Bush leaped high in the air to pull off a sensational catch off McMillop's line drive over second with two on and two out in the third.

Rocky, Charles Fight Sept. 15

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles will have it time and any place.

Like the first bout on June 17, the Sept. 15 match likely will be radio broadcast nationally and telecast into theatres coast-to-coast and closed circuit.

Marciano, the cut over his left eye completely healed, already has started training at Grossinger, N.Y. Charles will pitch camp at Monticello, N.Y., 11 miles from Rocky's quarters.

Charles, who went the route with Rocky although he took a severe battering, will be the first ex-champion to get a third crack at regaining the heavyweight crown.

Bloomfield Wins Softball Congress Over Bluebirds

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bloomfield Bungys captured the Congress softball tournament played in the Kingston area over the weekend yesterday afternoon by downing the Pen Salnis 2-1 in the opening game and following that with a 3-2 verdict over the Belleville Bluebird Juniors in the championship. The Juniors qualified for the final by edging the favored Point Anne club 2-1.

A three-run explosion in the sixth inning broke up a 0-0 pitching duel between Al Adams for Bloomfield, and Doug Rader on the hill for the Belleville entry. Keith MacDonald's two bunt single followed by M. Staley's base hit knock and Hayden's double accounted for one tally, while two infield errors netted the others.

Vern Goyer, catching for the Juniors, was home long enough to back doubles for one in the sixth while Wayne Bovay singled in the second later on to drive in the ball to end the game at 3-2. Keith Stacey saved the game for Bloomfield when he came up with a bare-handed stab at third base. Bowes and Don Barclay to end the game, while the runners advanced to first and second by tying run. Barclay had made a terrific backhanded catch earlier in the inning that prevented two Bloomfield runners from scoring.

Adams went the route for the victory, striking up 10 batters. He allowed but a pair of hits and walking three and walking the same number in the opposite direction. He got four of the Pointers on strikes without walking a batter.

The Bluebirds got just three hits off Pat Marcle in their battle with Point Anne but Don Jones' double and a long triple by Wayne Bovay in the seventh and final frame broke the 1-1 tie. John Batchelor's double notched the first Bluebird run in the initial frame. Marcle fanned eight batters in the seven inning fixture while walking two.

MacDonald led the champs at bat with two singles in the final game while doubles went to Hayden and Carr. Perry M. Steacy hit singles. Vern Goyer and Jones were the batting stars with singles for Radner, Bovay and Bob Green.

E. Carswell's Rink of Oshawa Winner of Corbin Gold Cup

Twelve Corbin Gold Cup tournaments have gone into history but it could be easily said the thirteenth one held on Civic Holiday at the local greens was the most successful of those held. There was also a note of sadness connected with the gala day because Cliff Argue, general chairman of the bowling meet since its inception announced before play proceeded that this would be the last tournament that he would conduct.

"On the advice of my physician" said Mr. Argue "I will have to relinquish the reins that I have held so long and I hope with some success. My health is not good but although I will not be conducting the draws as in the past years yet I will be with you in spirit because I believe I have contributed something to recreation and good fellowship by this tournament."

Mr. Argue has had valuable assistants of many years paying especial tribute to Howard Hyde who has been the secretary treasurer all the years the tournament has been running.

FINE WEATHER

Under delightful weather conditions rinks were in excellent condition the tournament was conducted nicely, that is according to Howard Hyde, who is president of the club this year, welcomed the bowlers, while Ken Hall, vice-president of the P.L.B.A. expressed his great pleasure that the event had two Bloomfield runners from scoring.

Adams went the route for the victory, striking up 10 batters. He allowed but a pair of hits and walking three and walking the same number in the opposite direction. He got four of the Pointers on strikes without walking a batter.

Pt. Anne Ousts Bluebirds In City Playoffs

By GARRY ALEXANDER

With Pat Marcle burling both games, the Point Anne Cementmen swept their semi-final softball series with the Bluebird Juniors, two games to none. Marcle pitched a three-hit game on Saturday for a 3-0 win after downing the Juniors 6-1 on five hits the night before. The Cementmen will meet the winners of the Frankford-Northern Electric series in best of five affair for the city title in the "A" section of the league.

The winners massed all their hits into three innings on Saturday as they came up their worked on three Bluebird pitchers. Bob Green started and although he did not allow a hit until the fifth frame, took the loss, while being relieved after eight runs off four hits in 5⅓ frames. His downfall was costly errors as he issued eleven, while fanning four. Murdo Curdy and Day tried their hand at stopping the Pointers but it was too late to be of any use, though Day did allow but a pair in the last two frames.

Marcle gave up three hits, two infield singles in the fourth frame and a lined base hit to centre in the fifth but he managed to set two down on strikes and wrestled with the Juniors.

Point Anne took a 2-0 lead in the third without a hit as St. Green followed a walk to Hull and Green followed with four walks, forcing in one run and a pitch. Doug Hull got the winner's first hit in the fifth, a double down the right field line and he saw the runner go all the way on two errors. Four more runs were scored another run for a 4-0 score.

Wardhaugh, Hull, Wade and Marcle mixed singles with two errors, two walks and a passed ball for six insurance tallies in the sixth, while McCurdy gave up hits to Wade, John Green and Bill Strahan as well as walking two for the final three markers to be scored.

Doug Hull was top man for the victors with a double and single while Jake Wade had a brace of singles. Marcle, Wardhaugh, Strahan and Bill Fleshan also hit safely. Ron Polnay lined a single for the Juniors and Bob Green and Bob Green beat out infield singles.

Panthers Win Week-End Trio, Nudge Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The stretch drive of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League isn't bothering Kitchener Panthers. They seem to take nourishment from a heavy schedule.

The fifth-place Panthers, last year's champions, Monday copped three victories over the holiday week-end to climb to within one game of a playoff spot. Only one loss marred their week-end record, the completion of a game which the Panthers were losing 8-2.

Kitchener defeated London Majors 11-9 in 11 innings at London Monday one Saturday game. The league-leading Galt Terriers took a 5-1 home-field victory from St. Thomas Elgins in the other contest.

Monday the Panthers defeated Guelph - Waterloo Royals 3-1 in Kitchener, then repeated with a 9-6 victory over the Royals in an evening game at Guelph. Before the 1,000 fans at Guelph, the teams completed a suspended game from July 1 and the Royals held on for a 7-4 victory.

TERRIERS SPLIT

In their Monday game at Galt the Terriers defeated Brantford Red Sox 6-4 but dropped the evening game at Brantford 4-2. The Elgins battled in the ninth losing Edge London 5-4 in Monday night other game.

Sudbury Shamrocks vaulted into first place in the Nickel Belt Senior League by downing the fourth-place Conlston Red Sox 7-4 in Sunday. The Red Sox lost their second week-end game when they were walloped 8-3 by the last-place Frood Tigers in Sudbury Monday.

Coffin's 'Wife' To Testify For The Crown

PERCE, Que. (CP)—The crown has won its fight to have Marion Petrie, Wilbert Coffin's common law wife, tell her story.

Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix Friday night quashed defence arguments that the 41-year-old Montreal brunette should not be allowed to testify at Coffin's murder trial and cleared the way for her to appear as a prosecution witness.

Overruling a plea that a wife cannot be made to give evidence against her husband, the judge said Coffin's lawyers had failed to establish Miss Petrie's legal right to be considered as a wife by the court.

The evidence has only established that the woman Petrie was the concubine or mistress of Coffin," he said.

"Nothing in the law authorizes Coffin to recognize her as his wife, and nothing in the law authorizes the woman Petrie to claim this title."

Mr. Justice Lacroix handed down his decision after the jury was ordered out of the courtroom for the third time Friday as he ruled in clashes between crown and defence counsel.

Coffin is charged with the murder last summer of Richard Lindsey, 17. Young Lindsey's body was found together with those of his father Eugene, 47, and Albert Clear, 20, in the Carpe bush where the three Holidaysburg, Pa., hunters had gone in quest of bear. All had been mutilated by animals.

Mr. Justice Lacroix said that for the court to admit that Miss Petrie was entitled not to testify would "be a double outrage to the law and to the Christian morality which must inspire it."

The judge later distributed copies of his 400-word judgment to newspaper men "because of the seriousness of this ruling." He told them he was "certain it is the first (ruling) of its kind in Quebec and possibly in Canada."

Francois Gravel, one of Coffin's lawyers, had argued that Miss Petrie lived with Coffin since 1946, had borne him a son, and that the 43 - year - old prospector supported her and the child financially.

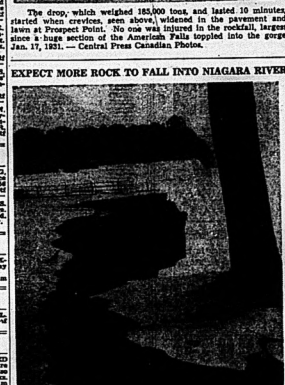
The drop, which weighed 183,000 tons, and lasted 10 minutes, started when crevices, seen above, widened in the pavement and lawn at Prospect Point. No one was injured in the rockfall, largest since a huge section of the American Falls toppled into the gorge Jan. 17, 1931. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

EXPECT MORE ROCK TO FALL INTO NIAGARA RIVER



While thousands watched, a big chunk of Prospect Point, a favorite spot of honeymooners, fell with a roar into 170-foot-deep Niagara river gorge. A huge pie-shaped bite of the American Falls went with it. The whole point had been roped off earlier after a series of deep cracks opened just upstream from the cataract. Erosion is a stratum of shale apparently caused the rockfall, which was 200 feet long, 50 feet wide and 150 feet deep. More but smaller slides are expected, officials of the Niagara Frontier State Parks Commission reported. One piece, with a tree growing out of it, seen above, would have to be blasted off if it didn't fall.

Itching Scalp—Loose Dandruff

Try This Simple Home Treatment For Quick Ease and Comfort

Here is a clean powerful penetrating oil that brings speedy relief from the almost unbearable itching and discomfort.

Don't rub forth dreadful scales, that only serve to spread the trouble. Just use equal parts of MOONE'S EMERALD OIL and olive oil. Apply gently with the fingertips to the roots of the hair at least once a day and observe the results. Soon you'll find the terrible itching has been relieved, the scaling and loose flouting dandruff becomes a thing of the past, hair clears up and hair begins to thicken. Thousands of happy users have found it to give sufferers swift sure relief from itching, scaling, dandruff and other troubles.

You can obtain Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any drug store. Advt.

Crown Delivers Plea to Jury In Coffin Trial

PERCE, Que. (CP)—The crown prepared to deliver its plea to the jury in the murder trial of Wilbert Coffin today after the defence rested its case Monday without calling a witness.

Raymond Mahler, Coffin's counsel, astounded the court when he rose after the Crown had completed its case and announced: "The defence rests." Some 30 witnesses stood for the Crown.

Coffin is charged with the murder of 17-year-old Richard Lindsey, a Pennsylvania hunter whose mutilated remains were found in the Gaspe bush July, 1953. Searchers also discovered the scattered remains of Richard's father, Eugene, 47, and Albert Clear, 20. All the men were from Holidaysburg, Pa.

After Maher made his surprise announcement Monday Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix adjourned the trial until this morning.

TWO-LANGUAGE PLEA

Chief prosecutor Noel Dorion will deliver the Crown's summation in French for the six French-speaking jurors, while Paul Miquelon, his assistant, will take over for the English plea to the six English-language taiesmen.

The trial of the Gaspe-old prospector and handyman, now in its fifth day, has been delayed from time to time by the necessity of translating all testimony. Another factor has been a number of arguments between the crown and defence lawyers over the admission of certain evidence.

Coffin has shown little emotion throughout the trial. At times he has appeared bored by the long translation routine, and repetition of testimony aimed at proving he was the last man to see the hunters alive.

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department said Friday that precautions should be taken in fighting the present outbreak of army worms across Canada with Aldrin, a type of insecticide which is more toxic than normal DDT. MODERN ALUMINUM alloys seem tough enough to take almost anything. For instance, one manufacturer uses aluminum for those little electrically driven cars the kids love to climb into at carnivals and fairs. The idea is to whirl around at high speed exchanging spine-shattering bumps with other "motorists". They actually stand up under this treatment (the cars, we mean). Our own Alcan researchers are constantly developing and testing new applications, better products, improved production techniques. There's always something new in aluminum! ARCHAELOGICAL WORK SPURRED BY SEAWAY FLOODING

Site of an Indian village of 2,000 years ago is again the scene of activity as archeologists race into the calendar to collect relics before the site is flooded as part of the St. Lawrence seaway project. The diggers, mostly University of Toronto students and staff, work without pay on the site, near Cornwall, Ont., and are finding tools and pottery of a type never before unearthed in North America. Chute Opens Only Hundred Feet From Ground

KITCHENER (CP) — Twenty-six-year-old Ralph Norman narrowly escaped possible death or serious injury Sunday at the airport here when his parachute dropped 100 feet before he hit the ground.

Mr. Norman was one of several chutists participating at the opening of the week-long Soaring Association of Canada southeastern regional glider meet.

Spectators watching the jump, directly over the runway nearest the airport hangar, gasped as they saw Norman dropping.

Only in the last fraction of a second did the parachute open. Norman landed hard in a field near the runway and took a few rolls.

His lip was cut and an ankle slightly injured. He was shaking. Later, lighting a cigaret, he considered himself "just about the luckiest man alive."

Norman said it was "the closest call yet—I've never seen a closer call."

Otto John Granted Political Asylum In Soviet Zone

Communist Premier Makes Announcement in House

BERLIN (AP) — Communist Premier Otto Grotewohl told the East German parliament today that West German security chief Otto John has been granted political asylum in the Soviet zone.

John disappeared into the east-ern sector of Berlin July 8. The West German government has a-lleged the official broadcast he was kidnapped, probably while drugged, or lured into the Red zone.

The East German radio announced Tuesday night that Red state security police had rounded up a "large number" of persons it said had been spying for the West German and American "secret services." That broadcast did not mention John by name, but as head of the Bonn government's internal security service he knew the identities of hundreds of persons operating against the Red East Germany to the West.

The Soviet zone radio broadcasts have claimed that John quit the West to work for German reunification.

Grotewohl said he was making his statement about John to "end all speculation and sensation-mongering about this dangerous spy."

An official British source in Bonn today said British authorities are convinced their interrogation of secrets about 19 months ago, "due to an increasing conviction on our part that John was unreliable."

VIEWS DIFFERED

John first obtained his post in 1950 largely on the recommendation of British officials.

Whether U. S. intelligence leaders shared the reported British suspicions of John could not be learned.

Other Allied officials in Bonn declined comment but said John was involved in a bitter controversy with American and British intelligence officials in Germany before he disappeared.

John considered Nazi-like elements as the greatest danger to the young West German republic.

American and British intelligence officials took the view that the Communists should be the main target of intelligence work inside West Germany.

Both the Journal and the Citizen, effective today, will sell their issues weekly for home delivery and 10 cents for individual copies of their Saturday editions. The price previously was 30 cents weekly or 5 cents a copy.

Ottawa's French-language afternoon paper, Le Droit, still sells for 5 cents weekly for home delivery or 5 cents copy.

Charge Dismissed

SUDBURY (CP) — A wife should get the right to divorce her husband if he has been drinking, says magistrate W. F. Woodliffe.

He dismissed a charge of common assault laid against Paul Kobelko of Sudbury Tuesday by his wife.

Mrs. Kobelko complained that when she woke her husband to go to work at 6 a.m. he ripped off her clothes and beat her.

"I was drunk and she kept waking me up," said Kobelko.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The disturbance which caused several days of showers in northern Ontario, is gradually weakening. Minor disturbances moving eastward across southern Ohio are causing thunderstorms as far north as Lake Erie. Sunny weather will continue in most of Ontario today and Thursday. Variable cloudiness with scattered showers is expected in the north country. Little change in temperature is forecast across the province.

LOW-RENT HOMES REQUESTED BY LEGION COMMAND

Reimposition of Rent Controls Turned Down

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's war veterans continue their debate on housing today. They are asking federal action on "an emergency second in importance only to that of national defence."

The 1,500 delegates to the biennial Canadian Legion convention are considering a report presented at the legion's housing committee Tuesday.

It demands an immediate program of capital housing loans by the federal government and retention of emergency housing constructed during the Second World War.

But the legionnaires Tuesday turned down a resolution to press for reimposition of federal rent controls. The resolution was presented by Ray Mann of Brantford, Ont., who said rents have reached "fantastic" levels since rent controls were lifted.

Brig.-Gen. Leslie Ross of Yorkton, Sask., former Dominion president, opposed the resolution on the grounds that to restore the wartime emergency powers the federal government has had no jurisdiction to impose rent controls.

The committee's report also asked for a substantial reduction in the interest rate on National Housing Act loans, now 5½ per cent, and a reduction from 5% per cent to 3½ per cent in the interest rate under the new section of the Veterans Land Act.

Delegates elected Very Rev. J.O. Anderson, 41 - year - old Anglican dean of Ottawa, as president of the 200,000-member organization. The Second World War chaplain is the Militant Dean of Rideau Hall.

He succeeds Dr. C. B. Lumsden, 48-year-old president of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S.

Dominion chairman Eric Burgess of St. Thomas, Ont., and treasurer H. R. Stewart of Ottawa were returned by acclamation.

Police Search Markham Woods For Fatal Bullet

MARKHAM (CP) — Police searched nearby woods in vain Tuesday for the bullet which fatally wounded a Toronto man Monday.

Until they find it, police say they won't know whether Kenneth Torrance, 34, or Police Sergeant fired the shot that killed David Puddicombe, 36, while attempting to flee after he and two brothers had stolen 112 chickens from a farm in Markham Township near Toronto.

Both had a .22-calibre rifle and Torrance a .22-calibre automatic pistol. But only one bullet was found from the rifle and four from the pistol.

The fatal bullet passed through Puddicombe's head and police say it may have lodged in a tree.

Puddicombe's brothers, Peter, 16, and Robert, 18, were convicted Tuesday in Newmarket police court day and were remanded a week for sentence.

LADY GRIER DIES

PRESCOTT, Ont. (CP) — Lady Florence Gale Dickson Grier, 83, wife of Sir Wyly Grier, well-known portrait painter, died Tuesday. Her husband was the first Canadian knighted for achievement as an artist.

Well-Heeled American Off to Woo Princess Taken in Tow by Police

MAGOG, Que. (CP) — Police tossed cold water on the ardor of a well-heeled American who wanted to sweep Princess Margaret off her feet like an airborne Lochinvar.

The 41-year-old tourist, whom police refused to identify, was taken home to Maine in handcuffs Tuesday despite his pleas to "woo" by plane and fly to England to marry Princess Margaret."

"But he didn't get without a fight, and police who saw him flash his certificate of romance declared he was well able to buy a plane.

The handsome, well-built stranger arrived at Montreal's Dorval airport aboard a commercial aircraft Monday and made enquiries about how to get to Europe. Immigration officials telephoned his relatives in Maine. Two troopers arrested him at the "royal visitor" home.

Then, still in this eastern townships centre, the troopers took their man to lunch, removing his handcuffs.

When it came time to leave, the man battled the troopers and Magog police were called.

Living Costs Show Increase For Second Consecutive Month

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose by one tenth of a point in June to 118.2 from 118.1. It was the second consecutive monthly increase in living costs.

The jump, however, was sharply below the increases of three-tenths of a point in May, which was the biggest rise in 30 months. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

As in the previous month, the June advance was sparked by higher price for some foods, as well as rents and home-ownership costs.

There were price advances in June for eggs, beef, lamb, fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, cleaning supplies, paid household help and a number of hardware items. Rises also were noted for newspaper rates and local transportation fares.

These advances generally overbalanced declines for pork, fish, sugar and some fresh vegetables, as well as a few furniture items and appliances as well as nylon hosiery.

Cost of living advances in both May and June have been recorded for some years. The combined May-June 1954 increase of seven-tenths of a point compared with a combined 1953 rise of a full point.

Eisenhower Says Foreign Aid Cut by Senate Will Hurt U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said today the foreign aid cut voted by the Senate is too deep and will hurt the United States badly. He also said it rejects the kind of "economy wave" that put the figure in an authorization bill at $2,510,000,000.

The president's views came up with a ringing defence of Gen. George C. Marshall and his role in government on a statement by former Secretary of State Henry Wooding that Marshall would sell out his own grandmother for personal advantage.

Other matters:

Communist China — Eisenhower reiterated with great emphasis that he is opposed to admitting Red China to the United Nations under present conditions. But the president said he is always willing to wait and see whether the sinner reforms and comes into the fold of decent nations. The president said he does not propose to be defeated on his plan for an international atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes merely because Soviet Russia refused to go along with the idea.

Hungarian flood relief — Eisenhower announced that both Austria and Germany have accepted the U.S. offer of surplus food for the relief of flood victims.

Top Officials Agree U.S. Will Go to War if Formosa Attacked

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Communist China makes major attack on the Nationalist island of Formosa, the United States will go to war, Secretary of State Dulles said today in discussing U.S. policy publicly or privately agrees on that.

But the Eisenhower administration is not willing, at least for the time being, to make that pledge in a formal treaty with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of the Chinese Nationalists.

Almost no responsible authority wants to talk about this aspect of U.S. policy. It is too much of a diplomatic hot potato.

Yet it is a fact that the U.S. leadership now gives evidence of being whipsawed on a global scale.

Pressures exerted on U.S. policy are typified by the contrasting attitudes of Democratic Senator Rhee of South Korea and of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Rhee vigorously advocates combat to solve the problems of Asia, and particularly of divided Korea.

Nehru seeks to maintain a policy of neutrality between communism and the West. He is also very important because of his influence in Asia, and especially in influence British policy.

Chiang Kai-shek has publicly dedicated himself to a policy of liberating army against the mainland, from which he was driven by Communists.

The Eisenhower administration seems clearly to conceive of Formosa as a defensive position essential to the security of U.S. defence line in the western Pacific — not as a base from which successful assault could be launched on Red China except as one phase of a much larger strategy.

The Chinese Reds, too, have been as belligerent about Formosa. They are continually threatening to seize it.

U.S. State Secretary Dulles reminded reporters Tuesday that the U.S. 7th fleet is in the area to prevent "spread of" the Red Communist attack. But Dulles added that while some thought this has been given by bringing Formosa into a treaty with the U.S. there has been no decision and no change of policy.

Dulles did not mention it, but dispatches from Formosa have given evidence of a desire on the part of Chiang to get U.S. backing. Chiang has a strong supporters among Republican ranks in Congress.

Authorities suggest at least four strong reasons which may be based upon the administration's attitude:

1. The U.S. does not want to do little to gain, since Chiang has little to offer not already committed under a current bilateral arrangement.

2. Many countries in Asia whose friendship Washington wants are regarded here as disliking Chiang and his Nationalists and would might be a handicap in dealing with them.

3. Chiang might use the formal commitment of a mutual defence pact as a springboard for a war with Red China by attacking the mainland, a course of action dissent which would lead to war.

4. There is at least an implication that Chiang's forces, which the U.S. should keep its policies flexible. That is why the proposed treaty with a refugee government of uncertain long-range tenure.

HOT IN PARIS

PARIS (Reuters)—The temperature soared to 95 degrees here today—the hottest in Paris during this century—as stifling sunshine descended on Europe after one of the coldest Julys in memory.

The sunbeams even strayed over to Britain, which has been enduring its worst summer in years. The high in London was 75 degrees.

DUKE WATCHES FIRST ALUMINUM INGOT POURED

Travels to Vancouver To View B.E. Games

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh's interest switched today from industry to athletics after a round-about swing north which signalled the start of production at the Kitimat aluminum development.

In travelling from Victoria to Vancouver by way of Kitimat and Kemano the duke turned a royal spotlight on Canadian industrial growth.

He strolled inside a hollowed-out mountain and watched the pouring of Kitimat's first aluminum ingot. A scheduled helicopter flight didn't come off because of unsatisfactory weather.

Now he adds new lustre to the British Empire Games, which will take up most of his time until he leaves Sunday morning on the Arctic leg of his three-week tour.

Instead of making the short hop from Vancouver island for the games, the duke's travelled 400 miles up-coast, by plane and aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia, to the Kemano power site.

Prince Philip rumbled away in the captain's barge, the Quinte gave him his third 21-gun salute and he went aboard Monday afternoon at Port Hardy on Vancouver island. Trade Minister Howe was at Kemano to greet him.

Then the Mounties of Canada guides took the royal party through the access tunnel leading into the mountain powerhouse, 13 storeys high.

The washed-out helicopter flight prevented Philip from getting a complete picture of the 45-mile transmission line which Premier Kemano's power to a smelter at Kitimat. Only helicopters take the Kildala pass route. The duke got to Kitimat in an amphibian by another route.

The Kitimat development covers 1,000 square miles. The short time he had, the duke did quite well at covering the high spots.

The Dene-Sioux Indian legend uttered down a slide near the duke as he was escorted to a platform. Then he was presented with a miniature totem pole.

From Kitimat, the duke flew to Sandspit in the Queen Charlotte Islands and boarded the Britannia for the four-engined RCAF C-5 Que in the 1,000-mile flight to Victoria. Only helicopters and seaplanes can get into Kitimat.

The Britannia's passage braved a light drizzle to catch a glimpse of the duke when he arrived here.

Twice the crowd forced the duke's car to stop. The duke was mobbed briefly by a girl who moved to the crowd until a police escort managed to clear a lane.

CLAIMS ATOMIC POWER USE

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet atomic expert said Tuesday Russian scientists are experimenting with the use of nuclear fuel to power automobiles and even radio stations. Dr. V. P. Romadin said Soviet scientists and engineers already have built working models of industrial power stations of 50,000 and 100,000 kilowatts capacity following the recent opening of a 5,000-kilowatt power plant run on atomic energy.

Britain Marks 40th Anniversary Of Her Entry into First World War

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain today marks the 40th anniversary of her entry into the First World War.

On Aug. 4, 1914, German troops rolled into Belgium, defying a British ultimatum issued two days earlier, and Europe slipped into a struggle which left 12,000,000 men dead, 20,000,000 more crippled and maimed.

In Brussels, Fernand Schoeters, who sounded the armistice bugle on Nov. 11, 1918, today blew the bugle to mark the anniversary of Germany's attack on Belgium.

Earlier a peal of bells had rung out from churches and a 21-gun salute had been fired.

"We can recognize the 1914 war now as a tragic interruption of mankind's peaceful pursuits, but as a still irreparable breach in the story of civilization," says the Daily Telegraph.

"Before 1914 every child in Western Europe and the new world could grow up in freedom from fear. Ever since, no such peace has been our later lot."

"The lights are going out all over Europe; we shall not see them it again in our lifetime."

Road-Blocks Set Up In Montreal Following Holdup

Officials of Bank Forced To Open Vault, Strong-Box

MONTREAL (CP) — Two gunmen robbed a Montreal east-end branch of the Dominion Bank of $35,000 today and escaped in a car parked at the rear of the building, police reported.

Police said the men were unmasked and that the car was driven by an accomplice. The bank is in a Champlain village shopping district.

Police set up road-blocks at all exits from the city following the holdup.

Police gave this description of the holdup:

The young gunmen, dressed identically in brown shirts and light slacks, and wearing dark glasses, pushed into the bank as two junior members of the staff, Susan Riegel and Ovila Bourdeau, were reporting for work.

They kept the two employees covered until the arrival of manager Alfred Lord and assistant manager Art Demers. Then they forced the manager and assistant manager to open a vault and a strong box containing the money.

The bandits then walked calmly out a rear door, got into the back seat of the waiting black car and roared away toward the centre of the city.

Federal Govt. Will Pay Half Cost of Visit

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government will pay half the cost of bringing the Duchess of Kent and Princess Alexandra to Canada late this month to open the Canadian National Exhibition.

But just how much this will cost the Dominion treasury remains somewhat in doubt, Mrs.

First published estimates on the cost of the tour were $45,000 but Hiram McCallum, general manager of the CNE, said Tuesday the figure was "way out of line." He said he understood the earlier figures were "drastically reduced."

Details for last year's visit of Field Marshal Montgomery to open the big show was $3,000.

RENT HOTEL FLOOR

One of this year's visit involves, among other things, renting an entire floor of the Royal York Hotel for the duchess, her daughter and a retinue including two ladies-in-waiting, an aide-de-camp, 4 secretary and three maids.

The non-federal 50 per cent of the cost will be shared with the CNE by the Ontario Hydro Commission, whose Sir Adam Beck No. 2 generating station at Niagara Falls, Ont., will be opened by the duchess three days after she launches the exhibition here August 27.

Four Members Of Extreme Party In Cabinet

TUNIS (Reuters)—Four members of the Tunisian extreme nationalist party, the Neo-Destour, are included in the cabinet list submitted by premier-designate Tahar Ben Ammar to the Bey of Tunis, it was announced here today.

The proposed government, which will negotiate details of home rule for the protectorate with the French, also comprises six moderate nationalists, including the premier.

Two of the four members from the Neo-Destour party surprised and feared by government leaders for the last two years, were under arrest only two weeks ago.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France ordered the Tunisian self-government in all but defence and foreign affairs as Saturday when Ammar was appointed premier by the Bey Monday.

At the meantime, the new French president - general, Gen. Pierre de George Boyer de la Tour, gave warning today after his arrival that persons will be killed in nationalist demonstrations Tuesday in French Morocco.

TO REVEAL SECRETS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department is preparing to publish the secret story of the wartime and post-war conferences of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, including the file of notes kept by former state department official Alger Hiss, who now is serving a prison sentence upon conviction of perjury for denying he gave secret papers to a Communist spy ring.

Police Looking For Owners Of 98 Cases Beer

KITCHENER (CP) — Township police have 98 cases of beer they want to get rid of.

The beer was found in a shack on the property of the Waterloo Mennonite Old Game Protective Association near Preston, 10 miles south of here. Also in the shack were John Hancock of Kitchener and Charles Marsh of Browns Corner, near Preston.

Charges of illegal possession against the two men were dismissed in court Tuesday.

NOISE TREATMENT

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)—Ken Orton, a local magician, says he has a plan to rid Tillsonburg of starlings by playing loud bird calls over them. He intends to start with a pleasant musical interlude and then break in with his noises treatment.

Police Block Double Holdup

Police blocked off the area around the Bank of Montreal on Bloor St. W. in Toronto's west end Tuesday after two armed bandits escaped with $2,000 in cash. Two men entered the bank and forced the manager to open the vault. They then locked him in the vault and escaped in a car driven by a third man. Police are shown searching the area for the bandits.

Nuisance By-Law Finalized Following Ratepayers' Petition

TRENTON (Special) — Council last night finalized a nuisance bylaw that carries a penalty for corporations or individuals causing materials or substances to damage property within the limits of the town of Trenton. Violators are subject to a maximum fine of $50 and not less than $25.

The by-law was prepared following the presentation to council recently of a petition signed by more than 220 eastside people complaining about coal dust blowing off stock piles on the waterfront and marring business and private property lying east of the Murray bridge. H. Powers and Son Ltd. maintain supplies of fine blower coal on the waterfront docks for local industries.

According to Mayor Ross Burt council was unanimous in showing a harmonious settlement with O. G. Alyea, principal of H. W. Powers and Son Ltd., in connection with a right-of-way to the site the town proposes to garbage dump on the lake shore formerly owned by the Gilmour Lumber Co. In the meantime town solicitor, H. R. Park, has been directed to complete an investigation to ascertain whether B. W. Powers and Son Ltd. owns part of Ontario street, which is in dispute. Council wants access to the dumping area and the site of the sewage disposal plant. Should part of the majority of taxpayers in the election last December, be found to be corporations will seek arbitration if necessary.

Town engineer Reid Clarke was directed to investigate the possibility of connecting a sewer from the new Fred Hendricks' apartments in Murray township to the town system servicing the Quinte sub-division. Mr. Hendricks, who made the request for the service said he was prepared to pay for the cost of installing the sewer and remunerate the town for hooking up to its line.

MAY BE ABLE TO HELP

Councillor N. J. McNair observed: "I feel like giving Mr. Hendricks special consideration in this matter because he may be able to help us with the proper remainder of the Hendricks' farm adjoins the town's present boundary south, of No. 2 highway. Part of the original farm was sold to Mr. Godin of Campbellford for development of a sub-division partially completed on Trenton's western approach.

Council decided there were not funds available for public water rooms in the town hall. The public conveniences was requested by the Board of Health.

A report from Chief Constable F. J. Wagner showed that the town dog catcher had impounded 60 dogs since starting his duties early this year. The chief indicated, that he was satisfied with the dog catcher's effort and pointed out that residents had made few complaints since E. E. Eaton had taken over. Mayor Burtt asked for the report from the Chief Constable, who is responsible for seeing that the dog catcher carries out his duties.

The Chamber of Commerce asked for council to consider giving G. E. Rowe of R.N. A. Carving Place, the contract for cutting weeds in the water off bayshore park. Mr. Rowe set a price of $5 an hour and estimated it would take three days for him to do the job. Viewing the proposal councillor Gerald Weese commented: "If you start cutting weeds in the bay where are you going to stop?" Council could find no money for this work.

Mayor Reeve and council of Frankford complimented the Town of Trenton and its neighborly spirit in connection with them for sending a fire truck and firemen to Frankford July 17 without charge. The Trenton fire department helped save a building in downtown Frankford after the village equipment failed.

WILL ACKNOWLEDGE LETTER

Clerk-Treasurer C. Larry was instructed to acknowledge a letter from engineer Smith from the department of Transport. Earlier Mr. Smith notified the town that the department was considering no parking on the government dock from June 1 to September 15. However the council figured a reply to the notice would not be necessary. It was also unanimous in leaving of the councillors that the Trenton Harbor Parties of the government did not want parking on its property. It was decided to advise Senator W. A. Fraser in a communication asked to be advised if the town was proceeding with the plan to turn Wharf street into a paved drive. He pointed out that it was intention to rebuild cooperage buildings destroyed by fire but that the work was held ahead with construction until he had been informed whether the town proposed to expropriate. Mayor Burtt explained the purpose of the plan next year and possibly not for five years.

A tender submitted by local clothier Frank Weaver to supply shirts and pants for the Trenton fire firemen was accepted.

Possibility of installing a telephone switchboard in the municipal municipal office was discussed and will be further investigated.

Group Captain Millward Hands Over RCAF Station Command

TRENTON (Special) — Group Captain J. D. Millward, D.F.C., one of the best-liked commanding officers to serve R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, handed over his post to Group Captain G. G. Diamond, A.F.C. at an impressive ceremony on the parade square at the air base early this morning. Group Captain Millward spent two years as C.O. of the Trenton Station. His successor came from Ottawa, where he was Air Member for Personnel and Director of Postings and Careers for the R.C.A.F.

As the new commander took over he led a rousing three cheers and a tiger for Group Captain Millward.

Group Captain Millward's transfer had been known for some time but the report was only made official yesterday. He is going to the National Defence College at Kingston for a staff course.

His final message to his men of the Trenton base was: "You in yourselves are the public relations of the Air Force. You are the ambassadors of Canada's air service." Group Captain Millward then welcomed the incoming C.O.

Marching by in trim summer uniforms the station squadrons paraded past the saluting base where Group Captain Diamond took the general salute. Group Captain Millward was at the head of the parade and walked over and shook hands with the new station commander.

While the squadrons passed the saluting base a squadron of T-33's swept by overhead. Friends and families of the officers and airmen on the station watched the impressive full ceremonial parade.

The station band accompanied every respect. Last week Group Captain Millward expressed gratitude to the station bandsmen for their loyal service.

More Acreage For Housing Being Sought

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton is booming but apparently the boom threatens to snowball to prodigious proportions.

Heads of the town have been asked in the last week if there is a future plan to incorporate farmland west of the Godin subdivision to the Crews' sideroad, south of No. 2 highway and south to the Carrying Place Road. It was made known that a sub-division is interested in this tract.

Early this week out-of-town builders expressed interest adjacent to the housing project west of the golf course and north of No. 2 highway. The businessmen asked about erecting two or maybe more apartment houses on this site just outside the limits in Murray township.

At council meeting last night councillors talked about Central Mortgage and Housing tenders on 25 homes to be erected on the former Little farm.

NEW ADMINISTRATOR

Keith Mark of Cannington has replaced Ivan Specht as administrator at the Trenton Memorial Hospital. Mr. Specht has gone to a similar post at the North Western Hospital at Toronto.

Mr. Mark, formerly an accountant with the Wilson Lumber Company at Cannington assumed his duties here during the week end.

July Did Not Match Hot-Dry Record of 1936

The month of July will long be remembered for its comparative lack of rain but it was far from being as dry as July in 1936 when a record was established both in dryness and for high temperatures.

Rainfall last month was recorded by officials at the city pump house on Trent Road at 1.11 inches. Compared to the above figure was a rainfall of only .79 inch back in 1936, when the temperature soared to a blistering 104 degrees. It was the hottest and driest July in the past 20 years.

On the other end of the scale in 1946 2.28 inches of rain were received in July 1947 when the temperature never did get above 85 degrees. July 1946 saw 6.07 inches of rain.

The highest temperature for the past month as recorded at the pump house was 90.3 degrees. A low of 46 was recorded for a mean temperature of 68.8 degrees.

The average rainfall for July during the past two decades has been 3.5 degrees and the mean temperature for the same month for the 20 years has been 70.4 degrees.

Children Recover After Swallowing Digitalis Pills

TRENTON (Special) — The two Toronto children who swallowed a number of their mother's heart pills here during the week-end are apparently out of danger, according to a report from the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto today.

Bobby Anderson, 3½, and his sister, Betty, 2, are the victims of the accident. The 37 digitalis pills while visiting with their parents here.

The two children found the pills in their mother's purse while it was away. They were taken violently ill and were removed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Back in Toronto they became ill again and the boy was reported to be in critical condition when admitted to the hospital.

Today the hospital reported that Bobby's condition was satisfactory and his sister had been allowed to return home.

Cutting-in Driver Causes Several Car Collisions

An unidentified car which turned out to pass and then cut in Tuesday evening caused a three car collision on No. 2 highway two miles west of the city, causing extensive damage to one vehicle.

James Lowman, Marysville, said that a car had turned out to pass and then cut in front of him, forcing him to apply his brakes. His car skidded over the centre line and collided with another vehicle driven by Henry A. Shearer of Watertown, N.Y., travelling in the opposite direction. Following cars driven by Silas Vannoee of Trenton and Fred Bolton of Toronto then piled up behind.

No one was injured in the four-car mishap which was investigated by Provincial Constable Robertson.

Several Minor Crashes Reported

Investigation of minor motor crashes all resulting from rear end collision kept city police busy Tuesday afternoon and evening.

With the exception of one accident on East Dundas St. which caused damage amounting to approximately $350, the other mishaps resulted in damage of less than $100 to both vehicles.

A transport driver pulled his vehicle too close to the curb at the Canadian Hotel and damaged a neon sign.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market prices showed little trend in light forenoon trading today.

Some industrial issues, however, staged sharp climbs on favorable reports affecting them. General strength in papers, foods and financial institutions gave the industrial index a fractional gain that lifted it to the highest levels since October, 1953.

Golds showed light strength in all sections but base metals and western oils eased. First-hour volume was a light 435,000 shares.

Abitibi common and $1.50 preferred were both off 1954 highs on reports of increased earnings. Powell River was at a 1954 high, and Canadian Car and Foundry moved ahead.

Biggest first-hour climb went to DeHavilland, up $35 to $150. General Dynamics hit a 1954 high of $70.75. Aluminium climbed sharply.

Price changes in base metals and western oils were small. Senior golds drew little interest while juniors and prospects climbed penalties. Dyno was heavily-traded for a small gain.

Uranium, Manitouwadge and Bathurst stocks drew little interest.

Driver Rescued From Drowning, Truck Upsets

LUCKNOW, Ont. (CP)—A one-armed Hensall truck driver was rescued from drowning Tuesday after his truck loaded with logs crashed through a wooden bridge and landed upside down in three feet of water in the Nine Mile river near this community about 90 miles west of Stratford.

With water only about eight inches from the top of the cab, driver George Beer managed to stick his head out the window above water until rescued.

His companion, Dougis Dick of Hensall, who had left the truck to guide it across the narrow trestle bridge, waded into the water and pulled out Beer.

Defence Planners Give Close Study To Radar System

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian and American defence planners are giving close study to the next move in extending the continent's early-warning system.

Officials here said Tuesday there is no doubt that the system will be extended further north but no final decision has yet been taken.

They were commenting on a statement at Washington Saturday by retiring U.S. assistant defence secretary John A. Hanna that Canada is going ahead with a "third" cross-country radar chain.

Actually, former defence minister Claxton announced last November that Canada was going to build this chain, known as the "Mid-Canada" line.

This will be the second radar chain in Canada and it won't be finished for several years. The first is the "Pine Tree" chain, now almost complete, which has been built "upward and outward" from main target areas in parts of Canada and the U.S. and extends roughly along the Canada-U.S. border.

Officials said Mr. Hanna apparently referred to the Mid-Canada line as the "third" chain because the Americans have built what is known as the "Pine" Line" in Alaska. The word "line" is a misnomer at present because this network comprises only a few stations. There are also a small number of these stations in Canada's far north.

Single Command Over Air Defence Is Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The announced establishment of a continental United States defence command has spurred military interest in a single authority over the air defence of North America from the Rio Grande to the Arctic wastes.

The idea for a combined command to direct the air defence of Canada and the United States has already been sounded out in high level military conversations. But U. S. defence officials, grateful for the close cooperation on defence matters already existing between the two nations, approach the joint command idea carefully and with due appreciation of Canada's pride in her heavy contributions to date for the common defence.

U. S. military planners who have the project in mind see the possibility that the post in such a combined command would be alternated between Canadian and American general and flag officers of both countries would serve on its staff.

American military officers are willing to say that a joint U. S.-Canadian defence command would be a logical extension of the defence just adopted by the U. S.

French Author Dies in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Gabrielle Colette, 81, one of the most famous of modern French novelists, died Tuesday night.

She wrote under the pen name of Colette. Her novels, short stories and plays were popular in France and, in translation, throughout the world for more than 50 years.

She was married three times. Besides being a novelist she was also a journalist, music hall star and an actress.

One of her novels "Gigi," dramatized by Anita Loos, was a hit on Broadway and brought stardom to Audrey Hepburn. Last winter it was a big success in Paris, too. Her last book, "En Pays Connu," was published four years ago.

BRITAIN MARKS

Few Britons shared his anxiety on Aug. 4, 1914. The streets of London were choked that warm night with thousands of singing, flag-waving Britons. They massed in Trafalgar square and down Whitehall and they cheered the cabinet ministers who arrived at 10 Downing street. Inside Prime Minister Asquith's official residence the ministers awaited the final word on the crisis touched off two months before.

No reply arrived from Germany before the deadline of 11 p. m. At 11:20, the young first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, entered the cabinet room to report that wires had been sent to the British fleet announcing the declaration of war.

Mobilization began immediately in Canada. The young Dominion was to enlist almost 600,000 men of these 62,000 would die in the war.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Thirteen hundred complaints tabled in the past by both sides were cancelled Tuesday at a meeting of the Israeli - Egyptian mixed armistice commission. The "reconciliation gesture" was suggested by Danish Col. Karl George Bartsley, chairman of the meeting and member of the United Nations truce commission.

JUDGE RETIRES

Firing of Fourteen Striking Workers Brings Request for Minister's Action

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The United Automobile Workers of America (CIO-CCL) Tuesday night asked Ontario Labor Minister Daley to appoint a commissioner to investigate the firing of 14 striking workers by Kelvinator of Canada Limited.

George Burt, Canadian director of the union, said after a general union meeting he expects an answer from the ministers today.

About 250 strikers attended the meeting to discuss the company's action. Friday the company mailed letters to the 14 workers and told them their services will no longer be required once the company restarts production.

Mr. Burt described the action as "a flagrant violation of the law." He said the union is asking Mr. Daley to appoint a commissioner to see the province of Ontario, and not Kelvinator management, interprets the law in this province and to see the rights of men be fully protected.

Mr. Burt told the strikers their strike is legal despite company statements to the contrary.

The strikers heard a statement by A. J. Langdon, president of the Kelvinator credit union. He said the company had mailed holiday cheques to its employees, but 30 of the 250 workers joined four outstanding loans from the credit union had been declared.

Mr. Langdon told the meeting he is resigning from the presidency of the credit union. He described the company's action as "hitting below the belt" and said he knew nothing of the move to deduct loans from holiday pay.

Bill Jones, Ba-e Int, international UAW representative, said the strike-bound Kelvinator division not to go back to work until a new contract is signed which would reinstate the 14 discharged workers and guarantee continuation seniority rights.

Company officials were not available for comment late Tuesday night.

Some 453 Kelvinator production workers have been on strike since June 28 protesting a company proposal they sign a five-year contract. Union asked for a one-year agreement.

CANVT START THIS YEAR

TORONTO (CP) — Metro chairman Fred Gardiner said Tuesday he has abandoned hope that a start will be made this year on the $50,000,000 lakeshore expressway and waterfront development, to link east-west access highways. Objections voiced about the original plans and administrative plans for part of the highway were given as reasons for the delay.

Campers, Leaders Enjoy Service At United Church

TWEED—Young campers and their leaders from Camp Quin-Mo-Lac, on the south shore of Moira Lake, filled St. John's United Church, Sunday for service.

Rev. George G. Connolly, Ottawa, field secretary of Christian Education for Bay of Quinte and Montreal conferences conducted the service with Alec Gordon, Belleville, at the organ.

The scripture was read by Rev. D. J. Lisle, Gore's Landing, while Rev. Chiang Sik Lee, ordained Presbyterian minister in Korea sang in his native tongue "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me."

The pastoral prayer was offered by Rev. G. A. Minshall, Trenton, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery.

Rev. W. K. Pace, pastor of St. John's, welcomed the visitors and the sermon was preached by Rev. Vern Zufelt of Omemee.

A choir of 40 mixed voices included Dr. C. C. Oke, Dover Centre London Conference, Kenneth Symons, director, and former director Miss Loretta McDougall, Belleville.

TORONTO'S SPLENDID ISOLATION

One of Toronto's poorly advertised virtues is the splendid isolation of its suburbs.

That great and growing metropolis boasts of its subway, its island, its airport, its importance as a manufacturing and financial centre, and less volubly about itself as the Queen City of Ontario. But relatively little bragging is done about those islands of isolation springing up in fertile fields and pastures east, north and west.

Great housing developments, complete with super markets, shopping centres and plazas, are sprawling out from the hard core of downtown Toronto. But for all practical purposes of communication, they might as well be on James'-Bay. Unless one is equipped with an automobile, contact with Toronto's suburban dwellers is impossible. And even with an automobile making contact is tedious business.

Lack of telephone communication is the prime cause of this isolation. Many apartment building projects have been completely occupied for more than a year without any telephone installations. A single telephone booth at the street corner serves as many as forty homes. We say "serves," for want of a better word. These phones are good for outgoing calls only. Anyone expecting incoming calls must arrange a time well in advance, then venture down to the corner booth at the appropriate time and hope he is not 12th or 18th in line.

While housing developments in northeast Toronto have been served by corner telephone for six months. Residents have been told to expect service "sometime in 1955."

The inaccessibility of people living beyond this sound barrier is compounded by the primitive state of the roads leading to their retreats. For the most part the main arteries are passable but it is not uncommon during wet weather for automobile owners to park their cars three or four blocks away from their homes, don rubber boots and wade through mud to their own front doors.

It is somewhat astonishing in this day and age of high speed communications that thousands of suburban dwellings near a city as progressive as Toronto professes to be should be without ready communication with that fount of good cheer for periods longer than a year.

It is truly amazing that a man in Toronto can call England, and South Africa and Asia but can not place a call to the suburbs.

The hermits in Toronto's suburbs probably have a word for all this. But they are not talking.

PUBLIC VS. PRIVATE POWER

"The whole tone and climate of the Eighty-third Congress is being altered sharply in the Senate's long fight over public versus private power, it says William S. White, writing from Washington in the New York Times.

That makes somewhat strange reading to Ontario residents.

In this province the publicly-owned Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has served all classes and districts so well that rare indeed is the suggestion that private enterprise could have done better.

This does not mean that Ontario citizens are socialists. There is no socialism involved in the public development of power resources in the United States. One man in the public operation of postal services.

The issue is merely one of convenience. Which method provides the best service?

It is possible to imagine conditions under which private development of power would be preferable. Unless there was a monopoly, competition would likely safeguard the interests of the public. Inefficiency and lack of foresight, which could be universal throughout the province under a publicly owned system, would not likely paralyze all privately owned companies at the same time.

But, given efficiency and initiative, public ownership can offer things which private ownership could not. For instance, it provides the ability to ignore profits in order to speed economic development in a backward area. Then, again, it can distribute power equitably in a time of shortage, serving all parts of the province alike, in a manner a number of privately owned companies could not duplicate.

Both publicly owned and privately owned electrical companies operate in the United States. The present fight in the Senate, however, is not so much over present forms of generating electricity as over the method to be used in the development of atomic power.

Many hands make light work and many brains, working along different channels, may well prove necessary to the speedy and profitable development of peace-time uses of atomic energy. Still, when it comes to the actual provision of power from atomic fuel, it seems highly probable that in Canada it will be undertaken by a publicly owned Crown corporation. It is to be hoped that this corporation is blessed with leadership of the same type which the H.E.P.C. has enjoyed.

THE VANISHED PASHION

My mother's ways were delicate She is sitting very primly in an old sensitive to dirt. attitude of pride She strolls the sidewalks In a billowing purple of satin with the border of her skirt. with her children at her side. She had a lovely figure, but she dressed from head to toe And she covered it completely lest the ankle trim should show.

I have her picture, taken in the days when I was small myself. It shows her very sweet and fine-looking and her hands, but that is in the fashion, I confess. 'Twas for cover, not for comfort, that my mother used to dress.

I am glad 'twas not for mother to behold the topless style she'd be shocked to death, I'm certain, long before she'd walked a mile.

Though more comfortable surely is the fashion of today. I confess, I'm glad my mother used to dress.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the little things we did not foresee in socialism or state control or the welfare state or whatever it goes by in your vocabulary, was the invasion of privacy. We have been all pretty well agreed that there should be a more equitable distribution of wealth. But the process of division has entailed the building up of a system of revelation such as anti-trust laws, anti-combine legislation to curb new methods of trade, income tax, declarations of a hundred kinds, from passport applications to border crossing permits, which slowly and surely invade the privacy. Me, I'm poor and I'm insecure as much as do rich. It has been proposed for centuries that the reason men strove to acquire wealth was for power. Or was it for privacy they desired wealth.

The original conception of human society was that families got together in communities for mutual defence and mutual aid. But lurking in the back of the minds of the founders of these communities was the idea of privacy. They got together in communities must have been something between the privacy, the individual freedom and peace they could find in the jungle. Not long after the first human communities were formed must have appeared the odd individual who decided he would like to have a little place outside the stockade walls, handy enough to be convenient, to be safe, but with a certain separation and privacy. Out of the nature of the tensions, and with a little pace from the noise of the jagging women of the village and the intrusion of bums. They were the first rich men. And it was for privacy not power that they strove. Probably the first cowboy shells, wampum, or whatever then passed for money.

There are doubtless 200 definitions of democracy. The 201st might be the state that affords us all the utmost in security with the utmost privacy. That would take a Canada for the Reader Drive their venerable Ford across.

When KDKA Was a Thrill

(Sudbury Star)

To the credit of the radio executives, they play-by-play radio broadcasts it must be said that for the most part they do admirable job of putting life into an event that has the spectators bored to tears.

Backed by the knowledge that his interest are nourishment to the radio infant the experienced listener occasionally turns back the wheels of memory to the days when somewhere in the middle of a whistle, howl, groan and a fingernail-scratching through the tightly clamped headset, the words—This is KDKA, Pittsburgh—were matched out of the ether.

Exciting! But, of course! It was an almost terrifying experience. Knowing that somewhere in the sky were the voices of men and women, not just musical instruments, wandering around like lost souls waiting to be located and directed down a thin strand of wire to re-establish a human relationship.

Over the years, the experienced listener has become highly selective. He finds little in programs that is a better source of news than a five minute newscast on practically any radio; that a sultry soap opera can be turned off and substituted by another station with another program; that he has his favorites in radio personalities.

But the challenge to both listener and announcer is the effort by the latter to lend a tang to all other forms of sport give the sportscasters an opportunity to fill in the time with color and background knowledge and statistics.

A listener could feel sorry for announcer who was described as the tug-of-war at the annual police games in Toronto with the fellow on one end pulling on the other end of the rope.

Then 10-foot pulls were made in less than 10 seconds. The announcer didn't have time to say much more than "they're off" and then before the Detroit huskies had hauled the Torontonians the recount 10 feet.

Yet, it doesn't seem so long ago that listeners-in were describing the tug-of-war at the annual police games in Toronto with the fellow on one end pulling on the other end of the rope.

Cockeyed Attitudes

(Hamilton Spectator)

The recent brush between the Toronto police and the Read family over the cockeyed is a sad, sad and minor-key sort of way, a capsule commentary on quite a few of the attitudes of the times of our decade.

The Reads came put-putting in to the metropolis in a 25-year-old Model A Ford, and the cockeyed decided that nobody in his right mind — and especially not a man who lives with four kids! — would think of driving across the continent in such a vehicle. Therefore, a good case for suspecting that its British-born owners had stolen it. So it was stolen; therefore they pulled the Reads in.

Here is an assumption apparently based on a whole series of false deductions.

Item, One: That any vehicle whose chromium fittings and upholstery of chrome is automatically a jalopy. Actually the Model A Ford is the jalopy they flagged (so) is one of the most robust cars ever built, and one ever loved by man; indeed, we know a man in Ottawa who likes to wander around the streets of the Confederation hills and guards his Model A Ford with the fierce pride of a first edition — he swears there's nothing else that will go where it goes, and keep going.

Item Two: That nothing involving dilapidation in the car, that adults and four kids in a small car can't be comfortable, the argument goes, so they must be poor. Therefore, they are crazy to be doing what they are doing. That, of course, is that the people who enjoy themselves most in this world are the ones who can give a big about comfort and hence go places and do things that their more fastidious fellows would recoil from in horror.

Item Three: That the only good travel is fast travel. In point of fact, anybody who has travelled much knows that exactly the reverse is true; the most shattering is the fastest. Is that followed by the fastest of all forms of travel, flying? Then the faster the train, the less comfortable it is; and the most crankily miserable people in the world are those who sell on compressing 500 or 600 miles into a day.

Item Four: That anybody not conforming to standard patterns is automatically a menace to cross the continent in a 25-year-old car; that anybody who crosses the continent by any means but a bit odd, and oddness is disturbing to the conformists. Which brings the bad attitude is the most accept of all bad attitudes. That is something we have not had people willing to do things which in those days were unquestionably pioneering-type things, and which in these days are becoming more and more difficult.

Item Five: That anybody not conforming to standard patterns is automatically a menace to cross the continent in a 25-year-old car; that anybody who crosses the continent by any means but a bit odd, and oddness is disturbing to the conformists. Which brings the bad attitude is the most accept of all bad attitudes. That is something we have not had people willing to do things which in those days were unquestionably pioneering-type things, and which in these days are becoming more and more difficult.

Item Six: That anybody who is travelling today like a Canada for the Reads drive their venerable Ford across.

Seattle Ahead Of Vancouver

(Vancouver Sun)

This is a tall story from Seattle that could prove a short cut to popularity for some Vancouver businessman. He has received the gift of two giraffes from the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of business is selling automobiles rather than buying giraffes. The giraffes are the oddity greatest boosts to Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo.

And our zoo? Not even one giraffe even the head to volunteer for a riding itself among our tall matching trees. Surely some generous Savings exists among Vancouver's zoological enthusiasts?

The story of Mr. Savidge's gift is a story of a big-game hunter's testimony. He told us yesterday what happened. He, his wife and son have hunted rhino and lion many times in Africa. But, he said "there's something about a giraffe — he's a number one viewing card — you don't want to shoot him but study him. . . . So he gave the kids of Seattle, which has been mighty good to me, would appreciate having another."

Twice before Mr. Savidge has put down good money to get giraffes for Seattle. But either there was a polio-cover on the importation, or the government in Africa didn't see eye to eye with Mr. Savidge on how much the money go. "But I made up my mind this time," he told us, "Giraffes or no giraffes." A pair of fine strong males cost him $9,000 in Africa. Then there was $700 to transport across the U.S. from quarantine at Clifton, N.J. to the junction of the trains. He changed for a lady giraffe within a couple of days, and $1,000 for transport in Africa, quite unaware that she has a fiance in Seattle.

Now the point is this. Here is Seattle, with a zoo to match Vancouver. There's always been rivalry between the two great port cities. Vancouver has Stanley Park, which is bigger, which goes ahead faster.

Now Seattle has pulled ahead on this, make no mistake.

And are we to lose our leadership?

Shall we let Seattle get out in front, with giraffes a-plenty?

A fine thing if, in some distant day, we should have to go to Seattle to see a lion in hand or whatever it is giraffes in captivity feed on, and see just a little giraffe from the mating of Seattle's gentle couple.

We shall hope to hear in the very near future that some Vancouver citizen has presented one or more monkeys and penguins has said to himself: "There are giraffes in Seattle. There shall be giraffes in Vancouver."

Thieves' Mistake

(Note et Blanc, Paris)

Two thieves had planned to the least detail how they were to haul away expensive merchandise from which the city of Paris was about to use in an urban project. They had stolen a truck, and it had the same color as the municipal service vehicles. They were waiting for the moment where the precious pilfering was piled up, and began to load it.

Everything would have gone well and the two thieves and burglars with their booty had they not committed a boner: They worked too much zealously.

"I immediately saw," the foreman of the public works service explained to the police, "that they were not true city employees.

Checked Up On Dancers

(Railway Progress)

Although he was not a railroad employee, the old hotel night auditor had a unique job that was closely akin to the high iron. For he had been employed or employed in 1919 shortly after New York's Commodore hotel opened its doors for the first grand ball of town guests attending the hotel's new grand ballroom, overlooking last train home. Armed with a megaphone, he would shout at the dancers: "Last train for Mount Vernon, New Rochelle and points north, on the Harlem, lower level." The guests would hurry through a final dance, then make a sprint down the corridors toward the ramps leading to Grand Central.

Too Little Time

(Winnipeg Tribune)

It is suggested that a government minister, like a hockey player, might be able to cure France's chronic chaos, and if he doesn't succeed in that, a premier can't be expected to clean up the mess if he's not around long enough to learn the location of the broom closet.

Going to the Dogs

(Toronto Daily Star)

According to a trade journal 85 per cent of today's canned pet food is commercial. A sure sign that Old Dobbin is going to the dogs.

SO YOU DON'T WANT A HERNIA OPERATION

The finest current textbook on hernia (Watson's Hernia, 2nd ed., Mosby, '48) devotes about 600 pages to the conventional treatment of hernia and 60 pages to ambulant treatment. The conventional treatment is of course hospitalization and operation.

Dr. Brady

Ambulant treatment is a series of weekly or semi-weekly injections administered in the doctor's office, and this does not entail hospitalization or loss of time from ordinary work.

Ambulant treatment of hernia (rupture, breach) says this recognized authority, "has much to commend it for small hernias in private patients and those not doing heavy manual labor. It should not be used for the average clinic patient."

Very, don't be alarmed if this catches you trucking with the clinic racketeers in your garage. Dr. Watson alludes to the real clinic, the institution, connected with a medical school, where patients are treated free of charge, before classes of medical students. Although the author does not say so, probably he considers these patients difficult to control.

The Surgeon General of the United States Army announced April 23, 1942, policies concerning hernia, for voluntary or for limited service officers:

"2. The following may be recommended for general military service with waiver.

c. History of operation, or of injection treatment for inguinal or small ventral hernia, provided fifty years of age . . .

examination three months or more following operation, or following the last injection, shows a satisfactory result."

Ever-ready operators who secure very respective cures find the injection treatment is "too good," was tried out years ago and declared as useless or "too dangerous' should take the Surgeon General of the United States Army aside and tell him the facts of life.

Because the injection treatment is ambulatory, practically painless, and no general anesthetic is necessary, says Dr. Watson, a cure is available for many people who otherwise would never attempt it. The author states:

"I have many who come to the office to take the injection during their lunch hour, returning to work almost immediately; others take it when their work is finished for the day and they return on their way home, facing a long ride or driving their own car."

"The comfort of the patient is the first consideration. The injection must be painless, and it is, when the proper technique is carried out. Painlessness depends mainly on two things: the choice of solution and the methods of administering it. If the patient is to take his treatment regularly he must be assured and certain that it will help him; otherwise he will avoid the injections and a cure will not be effected."

Dr. Watson says that '75 per cent of patients treated by injection remain cured. Between fifty and eighty years of age it is impossible to make an accurate statement, but the recurrence rate with that following operation. With a skilful operator the results of postoperative recurrence are made up of adults twenty to fifty years of age . . .

THINGS NEAR AT HAND

It seems to be a characteristic of so many of us to want something that is just beyond our reach — often more or less beyond our imagination! We constantly miss the beauty, the opportunity, the wonder that are near at hand.

Here is something that the great naturalist John Burroughs wrote: "The most precious things of life are near at hand, without money and without price. Each of you has the whole wealth of the universe at your door. All that I ever had, and still have, may be yours by stretching forth your hand and taking it."

Before moving away to some distant place that you imagine may hold forth a better opportunity, take another look at the things near at hand and appraise them. Your fortune may be under your feet or within the range of your eyes. Too many people are blind to good fortune near at hand, running away from it, later to their regret.

How few know the birds about their homes or their calls and how few know the names of our trees. John Kieran recently said God made about 1,000 different varieties. As I walk about my summer cottage retreat I feel awed at times because I know every tree and shrub by its name, and I get a great thrill when I see or identify a spruce. They might help us out!

We are in the intellectual wealth of all time near at hand to us in our own libraries and do not be found in nearly all of our towns and cities but for the price of a luncheon many of the world classics can be purchased.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EVERLASTING ARMS

Some people would say that we are but little specs in this immensity and therefore God has not time to bother with us. Others would say that a great universe like this could not just happen—that it made it and still sustains it. We read in the Bible concerning things made by God and held by him; and without him was not anything made ever that was made. This same Christ said, "Come unto me. . . and I will give you rest."

We are in the midst of an immense Power, but a benevolent Power. We are on the side of the stars, and the stars are on our side, and the God who made them is our God.

"The Eternal God is our refuge, and underneath are the Everlasting Arms."

Hotels, Tourist Resorts Often Lose Money to Keep Railways in Black

By JIM SHERRAMUK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Rail-way summer resorts and exclusive, provincially-owned tourist hotels may have a reputation for high prices and wealthy clientele, but many are non-profit investments, often operating at considerable loss. That's the consensus of tourist officials in the Atlantic province.

Some resort hotels barely make expenses and, considered on a seasonal basis, they are "white elephants." It is their "hidden" money-making qualities that change them from liabilities to long-term investments that pay some dividends, transportation officials said.

For instance, one of Canada's largest railway summer hotels loses money every day it stays open, yet the income it attracts through train fares, berths and meals, more than compensates for the loss.

HOW IT WORKS OUT

When a business man from Montreal takes his family for a three-week holiday at a resort in the Rockies, he makes the railway company happy by travelling the 3,000-odd miles by train and at the same time gets more than his money's worth by lazing at the super-service hotels.

The same applies to government-owned summer resorts. A popular hotel in Nova Scotia shows a small operational profit and an actual loss on the initial capital investment. But the fact that incoming tourists have to spend four to six days and a tidy sum of money while travelling through the province turns the loss into a wide-spread benefit.

RATES SAME AS 1920s

Considering the quality of the railway hotels, the prices are relatively low. Since the 1920's rates in Canada have only risen a little while the general cost of living has skyrocketed. Single accommodation ranges from $12 to $17 a day, including meals.

Fancy summer hotels do not attract only the extremely rich, as is often thought. A great percentage of the upper middle class. The very wealthy, as a rule, prefer to build their own summer cottages. Maritime hotels report that most of their Canadian customers are middle class business men from Ontario and Quebec.

How are lower-priced motels affecting the business of the exclusive resorts? Not a bit. One manager of one of the finest hotels in Nova Scotia says motels and tourist cabins don't affect his business.

Pilot Killed, 37 Houses Damaged As Plane Crashes

WANTAGH, N.Y. (AP) — A crippled U.S. Air Force jet fighter roared out of a formation last Tuesday, then crashed and exploded like a bomb in this Long Island town. An entire neighborhood was rocked and 37 homes were damaged.

The pilot was killed. Six persons on the ground were injured, none seriously. Scores of others narrowly escaped as the doomed plane just missed their homes.

Eyewitnesses said the pilot fought his plane to the end to crash his plane into the street rather than into buildings. He previously had told radio he force it out to sea.

He was identified by the air force as Capt. William Welland, 34, of Peru, Ill., who lived with his family at Milford, Del. The four-plane flight was on its way from Dover, Del., to Bangor, Me.

The F-84C Republic Thunderstreak plowed a hole 15 feet deep as it came down on Denver road, a residential street of small, neat bungalows. Its heavy engine was buried two blocks.

Metal debris from the plane rocketed for a half mile in all directions, damaging many homes. Others were left charred and smoking from the searing explosion. Windows were smashed and doors blown in.

Women Drivers in Stock Car Races Provide Much Excitement

TWEED—Tweed was the scene of much activity during the past week-end when the local Canadian Legion presented its annual Civic Holiday celebration.

Officially opening Saturday night, the celebration lasted three days. An old-time dance was held in the park pavilion the first evening.

Attracting large crowds each year is the ever-popular shirt-tail parade, followed by a dance. Forming Sunday evening at midnight, led by a clown band, proceeded down Front Street to the park. There it disbanded and the dance was held in the pavilion.

Monday was entertaining for all ages. In the morning children's sports took place. The activities then moved to the fair grounds for the afternoon and evening events.

STOCK CAR RACING

The feature event of the week-end, stock car racing, took place in the afternoon. Ten drivers, all from Belleville, participated in the races.

Winners of the first and second semi-finals were No. 77 George Jones, and No. 5 Claire Johnson, respectively. Johnson was also winner of the feature race.

Excitement mounted when five women, also from Belleville entered the "Powder Puff" event. In this heat the women, borrowing the men's cars, showed their talents on the track. Near-disaster resulted when car B 2, owned by Jim Travers, rolled over on its top. At first the crowd believed the driver Evelyn Doolittle, could not have survived the upset, which ruined the car. However, she managed to walk out of the wreck with only a few cuts on her arm. Witnesses said Mrs. Doolittle explained she hit soft ground on the track while attempting to pass another car, causing her to lose control of her car.

SECOND MISHAP

The only other mishap of the afternoon occurred when Q 11, driven by Bob Collver, struck a tree after completing a turn and had to be towed away.

This is the first time stock car racing has been held in Tweed. If it proves successful racing may be brought back in the future.

The evening program opened with a shore-the-weight bingo, followed by the traditional fireworks display. The draw on a 1954 car climaxed the activities in the fair grounds. Bob Wood presented the car keys to the new owner, Alan Thompson of Tweed.

Concluding this year's big celebration was a dance in the park pavilion.

The entire week-end activities were under the auspices of the Tweed Canadian Legion and their president Jim Halpenny.

Fire Destroys Barn and Hay Near Frankford

FRANKFORD (Special)—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the large barn on the property of Max Houlton, farmer residing one mile east of this village on the Frankford-Stirling highway Tuesday night.

Also destroyed was a large quantity of hay. A cow in the barn was brought to safety.

The fire is the second for the Houlton family. Three years ago flames swept through a barn causing heavy damage.

The blaze was noticed shortly after 10.30 p.m. by Harry Lott, a neighbor of the Houltons. Mr. Houlton was in his house at the time and was unaware of the fire until Lott put in a general alarm.

The Frankford fire brigade raced to the scene but the flames were sweeping through the entire structure when they arrived. Salvage of the building was impossible. They concentrated their efforts on preventing the fire spreading to the Houlton home, and other buildings.

The fire is believed to have started in the upper part of the barn possibly in the hay-loft. The loss was not estimated.

Stock Car Racing Main Feature Of Legion Show

TWEED — The Tweed branch of the Canadian Legion treated residents of the town to their first glimpse of stockcar racing last week-end.

A huge crowd turned out to the races held at the Fairgrounds during the sports day, which is annually sponsored by the Legion. A feature of the event was the jockeying of the cars round the track by girl volunteers. One girl took a spill but escaped uninjured.

The day got under way for the town with a midnight parade by the Legion to Memorial Park, where about 600 attended dancing in the pavilion. Children's races opened the sports events in the morning.

The day was rounded off with a fireworks display at night in the Fairgrounds. The draw for the feature prize, an automobile, was won by Allan Thompson, of Tweed.

THE LURE OF THE ROAD

Over the hills and far away
The white road winds like a ribbon gay;
It lures the home-bound laggard feet
To seek new scenes, new friends to greet;
For, far beyond each curve and bend,
Magic and mystery will blend;
And cares that cumber the heart
at home
Are lost as the magical road we roam;
For bound by convention's ruthless chain
Are those who always at home remain;
On the open road 'neath a friendly sky
Life's daily ills take wing and fly
And doubly dear the home abode
When we return from the open road!

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — At this season, with a summer sun overhead, and the earth a bower of beauty, the open road with its magic and mystery, holds a great attraction. The objective of some is to seek a place of peace and rest in the countryside, while to others it implies the gaining of exploration and adventure. One learns much of the various types and conditions of the people by travelling through their dominions. And needless to say, we have not lost the spirit of adventure possessed by the pioneers. We still have

A spark of that bold spirit
That inspired that noble band
When they sought new homes and fireides
In this virgin forest land.

In looking over a deed of land from George III to a loyalist forefather after the close of the American Revolution, I thought how thrilling must have been the adventure in the new land. It is to be hoped that Canada's of the present day may still possess that thrilling adventurous spirit, unafraid to venture into new and untried endeavors.

THE W.A. OF THE UNITED CHURCH

The July meeting of the W.A. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the pleasant home of Mrs. Wellbanks, Main Street. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Baden Alyea, with Mrs. E. Mayhee pianist and Mrs. H. Nash, secretary. The program was in charge of Mrs. W. Jackson and Mrs. W. Adams with Mrs. Earl Marvin conducting the devotional which was very inspiring, emphasizing the 23rd Psalm. She was assisted by Mrs. Fleming. Miss Gladys Pettengill was called on for an address, and responded by speaking of the Christian conference of one hundred and sixty-one denominations which will meet in Chicago in August. Her report, so interestingly given, was much enjoyed. A music selection by Mrs. Maybee followed.

At the close a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments.

QUEEN ANNE'S LACE

Queen Anne's Lace, a devastating plant, but a pretty lacelike flower, was a pretty floral decoration in Mrs. Wellbank's home when she entertained the W.A. on Tuesday afternoon. These flowers, gathered by Mrs. F. Harris and colored by her in various shades, were attractive and beautiful.

"To me, the meanest flower that blows, can give thoughts that often lie too deep for tears."

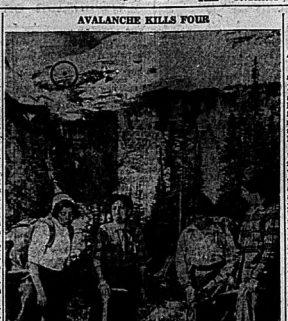
LONDON (Reuters) — Seven trade unions, with membership totalling 526,000, have asked the annual congress of Britain's 8,000,000 strong Trades Union Congress to oppose the official Labor party policy of support for German rearmament.

AVALANCHE KILLS FOUR



Four members of a Mexican mountain climbing party are shown just before they began their descent to Chateau Lake Louise, about 40 miles north of Banff, Alta., after they were rescued from the south peak of Mount Victoria (dot circled). Four other members of the party were killed when an avalanche swept down Victoria glacier engulfing them in a huge mass of ice. Thomas Hoey, S.J., celebrating the Nuptial Mass. The Rev. W. F. Healey was also present in the sanctuary. Masters Hugh Craig, son and Patrick Dillon, nephews of the bride, acted as acolytes.

Mrs. Stafford Murphy rendered the wedding music with Mrs. Stanley Allore, as soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gerard Dillon, the bride was radiant in frosted white tulle and Chantilly lace with fitted lace bodice swathed in tulle. From the nipped-in waist, a star-pointed lace flounce-effect enhanced the floor-length skirt of tulle. Her waist-length veil was gathered to a shirred net cap sprinkled with seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Demure Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. J. W. Craigen, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and Miss Ann Hoey, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in waltz-length aqua marine crystallette with matching picture hats. They carried bouquets of Pinnochio Sweetheart roses nestled in gladioli petals.

Little Geraldine Dillion, niece of the bride, and little Ann-Anne Hoey, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They were frocked in pink orchid taffeta and carried Mexican baskets of Demure roses and aqua blue cornflowers.

Mr. William J. Hoey, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Frank Dillon and Mr. Paul Coughlan were ushers.

The reception was held at Tobe's County Gardens, Rossmore, where the bride's mother, attired in navy blue faille with lace trim and corsage of red roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who also wore navy blue with lace trim and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Quebec and the New England States, the bride chose a rose-tone ensemble of shantung with navy blue accessories and corsage of Irene carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Hoey will reside in Peterborough, Ontario.

ALLIANCE TABERNACLE

A most enjoyable time was spent on Monday at Crystal Beach when approximately 150 adults and children of the Alliance Tabernacle Sunday School met for their annual picnic and outing under azure skies and pleasant surroundings from Mohr Lake.

Leaving the church at 9.30 a.m. the truck bearing the children, followed by the long line of cars with adults, wound their way along the scenic route, arriving about an hour later. In no time at all, it appeared that all of the younger people, and a good number of those not so young were urged with but a single thought, that of swimming, and soon the quiet waters of the Lake were resounding with hilarious laughter. Some took to the deeper water, while others enjoyed the high lives, but the majority, by gymnastics with the large rubber tube.

Following the swim, dinner was announced with the children and teachers being served at the first table from 12 noon until 12.45, after which the adults were accorded all doing justice to the abundance of tasty sandwiches, salads, fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, sweet pickles, sealing with generous slices of luscious watermelon and pie.

GAMES

Immediately after dinner, the games were announced which included races for the tiny tots; primary girls and boys, junior girls and boys, intermediate boys, young ladies and young men. The miscellaneous included: three-legged race, open to all. The balloon race took the form of a scramble with the balloon being tied to the ankle, and the one who succeeded in having his stepped on, was the winner. In this the pastor was highlighted as his balloon was hidden under his pant leg. However, one of the young men discovered this, and took a flying tackle, all ending in a melee of feet and hands, with the balloon being burst.

The marshallow race was equally as hilarious, as was the driving the nail contest by the ladies. Though leering glances at times, emanated from the male audience, each member of the weaker sex eventually managed to drive home her nail, even though some of the nails needed a sharp rap by the hammer to straighten them from their standing positions. The greatest number of blows counted to sink the nail into the two by four was 18, and the least was six.

HAT TRIMMING CONTEST

Other races included the banana race for young girls; the hat trimming contest in which husband and wife participated, the husband doing the trimming. The results achieved were both startling and unique, having a Parisian tone.

After the races by the children, they were attended by the following, Mrs. P. Delaney, Mrs. Whittaker, and Mrs. Dan Beno, who had charge of the beginners, keeping them interested with pictures and stories; while Mrs. Clarence Beattie, Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Byers looked after the primary boys and girls.

Swimming was again enjoyed, followed by supper for wearied appetites with a plentiful supply of good things, topped off with homemade cakes and seven and a half gallons of delicious ice cream.

Those who were not too tired or too replete with food, indulged in a baseball game. Then came the peanut scramble, and the long ride home concluding a happy and enjoyable day.

Vote Women Into Ministry By Small Margin

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The World Presbyterian Alliance by a one-vote margin has gone on record in favor of the ordination of women into the ministry.

The vote followed long discussion and first passed 62 to 58 on a show of hands. This was followed by a standing vote with 66 for, 65 against.

The discussion followed a report presented by Dr. Paul Calvin Payne of Philadelphia, general secretary of the board of Christian education of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The report was in connection with the council's study section on ministries of the church.

The report said, "many of us feel strongly that all fields of Christian service should be open to all members without distinction as to sex, to the end that talent wherever found can be fully utilized."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SEE BROTHER OR SEE UNCLE

TO GIVE HER AWAY!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my brother and I were very young, our mother and father were killed in a motor accident. Our aunt and uncle took us to live with them, and they have been wonderful to us. Now I'm going to be married soon. My brother has recently returned from two years' service in the Army. The subject hasn't been discussed, but I am wondering whether my uncle or my brother should give me in marriage. My brother and I have always been extremely close, but I know my uncle. When I reach the head of the aisle, your uncle would step forward from his place in the first pew. Then the usher or your brother would step into the first pew to escort you to your aunt. After your uncle has given you in marriage, he steps back into the first pew to the seat on the aisle. . . and there's the "family unit"; you will all be present at. . .

EVEN WITH A SMALL WEDDING, THERE SHOULD BE AN USHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married in the church chapel at 4 o'clock, with only the members of the families and a few friends present. Approximately thirty guests. Should we plan to have an usher (or two, perhaps)? I am having only one attendant, a maid of honor, and my father is to escort me.—Helena W.

It's almost practical to have at least one usher. . .to make the seating of the guests convenient and graceful. You need only one, but, if you wish, you may have two ushers. Both of them are necessary, or even very appropriate, for them to take part in such a simple ceremony. That is, your maid of honor may walk first, alone; then you and your father. . .

STOP THAT GIFT HANDED TO YOU. AT ONCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I always feel uncertain as to what to do when someone hands me at my house, perhaps on a casual call, perhaps to a meeting, and hands me a gift when others are present who didn't bring a gift. As a matter of fact, I've had several other people who look as awkward as I feel about this. What's the rule—should I open it at once, or put it aside to open it when the non-givers aren't around to be embarrassed?—Janet R.

Open the gift at once. . .that's the rule, and it should be, for this is the way, the only way, to show appreciation of the generosity, enthusiasm for the thoughtfulness and for the gift. (Aside: Don't you feel disappointed when you hand a person a gift and see it get the brushoff till a later opening?) If the gift is something to be admired, perhaps a lovely handkerchief, say admiring things about it with no self-consciousness. If it's something to eat, a box of candy or assorted nuts or special sweets, indeed open them at once and "pass 'em 'round."

STOP THAT DANCING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Not to be considered horribly rude, what can a girl do when she finds herself dancing (or trying to dance) with a partner who is a really terrible dancer? Must she dance on and on, hoping that sometime the dance will end, or may she give some excuse and ask to be taken to a seat? (Incidentally some men should be told the facts-of-life about dancing!)—Ann

If you see an understanding man friend on the sidelines, try subtly signaling to him to rescue you by cutting in. If no help is in sight, say (as graciously as possible!), "Do you mind if we sit out the rest of this dance? I'm a bit tired"; or "It's rather warm in here. Let's go out and get some breaths of cool air. All right with you?"

Fashion Flashes

Last minute vacation shoppers will find plenty of nice merchandise in contrast to other summers when, about now, we started to look back for anything but left-overs. Good for resort or country wear is a cotton two-piecer. The larkspur blue blouse has a rounded yoke and keyhole tie and is long-sleeved with cuffs. The skirt is printed in blue and white flowers and has pockets in the side seams.

Climbing steadily back to favor is silver tea, but vastly different from the pelts we used to know. New versions have silver-blue blending with a golden bronze, a gray with blue undertones that is lovely, also dusty pink and azure blue. Nice for small furs as well as for coat trim.

Tied to tweeds is the word on first fall millinery for the general wear. Duck-eye feathers shading in tweedy effect from black to brown, to white, and treated like silky fabric, cover the entire brim of an alabaster beige felt breton.

About now many of us become rather tired of the summer handbag. Join the wicker, plastic or straw, and the desire is for a smart leather bag. Looking like summer but ever so smart is a bag of polished calf in a soft alabaster-off-white shade with gilt jeweller's frame and broad handle of the twisted leather.

Later on when you start shopping for shoes and gloves you'll discover that grey is the big color for dress and for general wear in shoe and gloves, with both suede and glace kid for gloves and the grey calf for shoes.

Always popular with the college crowd, the boy coat is doing better than ever for fall. Bright red chinchilla makes up with some version with stitch detail outlining armholes and cuffs and deep patch pockets which have a slightly curved cut. Cuffs have flyaway points and link buttons.

New ideas and new construction are being employed to give better looks, more charm, more style appeal to special sizes, such as half-sizes, diminutives and talls. The "rags" with the gentle blouse ing and easy step-in closing, makes for a new conception in dresses for fall.

Prettiest pair of the season is the beautiful skirt and the snug, neat top, a favorite at parties everywhere. An exquisite two some consists of a white on white brocaded party skirt, its lines held firm with a taffeta lining. The top is of white cashmere, a sweater blouse with a deep, rounded cut-out back and a skirt-matching collar of brocade.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS ARK FOR ADVICE, BUT WON'T TAKE IT UNLESS THEY LIKE IT

If anything I could ever say to persuade you to keep on longer that "going steady" is foolish business, I would feel I had scored a victory. Maybe, because such good fortune is not likely to befall me, however, I shall probably keep right on giving serious answers to such foolishness as this:

"I am 17, and for the past year, I have been going steady with a boy in the service who loves me very much. But a month and a half ago I met another boy and fell for him. He also liked me.

"I told him I was going steady, and he said that was all right because neither of us thought things would get really serious, but two weeks ago we discovered that they had. So now we don't know what to do.

"I just can't break off with my steady, because I was hurt once very badly and I am afraid of being hurt again. My steady wouldn't hurt me in any way, and I like him as much as this other boy. This second boy and have decided to ask for your advice.

"What we really want to know is, should we stop seeing each other or not? We both know we should not be going, but neither of us can. We will do whatever you say, but please don't tell me to break off with my steady."

Now there are three points made in this letter that I would like especially fine examples of pure, unadulterated pieces of foolishness.

One is that these two who ask for advice have known each other only a few weeks, and already are talking about "things" being "serious" between them.

A second is for this girl to say that she is "afraid of being hurt" when, so far as I can see, the only person in danger of being hurt is the boy who is away in service. And the third silly thing is her statement that "we will do whatever you say, but please don't tell me to break off with my steady." In other words, if my advice is not to their liking, they'll do as they please anyway. Now what, kids!

However, let's give them that benefit anyway.

If both of them are so sure that they should "stop seeing each other" then that would certainly be the thing for them to do, whether they want to or not. On the other hand, the way I look at it is that, at this girl's age, she should not be "going" so tightly to a "steady" that she couldn't go with anybody else. So my suggestion would be that this girl write to the boy who is away and say she feels, after all, that it isn't quite ready yet to give up all the dates and fun she has to look forward to.

But she shouldn't, for heaven's sake, get dramatic and emotional about it all and hint darkly that he has a rival. She should simply say that she thinks it would be better for her to have a lot of friends, because it's really not normal for a 17-year-old girl to cut herself off from all the good times the boys and girls of her age are having. And then keep writing to the serviceman, of course, but treat him like any other friend. If she will do this, and be content to treat every other boy that way, she'll be in a much better position, when the first one comes home, to know where she stands.

Well, kids, how about it? You

STONE CHURCH W.A.

The Stone Church Woman's Association met in the hall on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

Mrs. A. Vermilyea presided over the worship service which included prayer by Mrs. Deller; the Scripture by Mrs. E. B. Phillips and a talk on "Putting God First."

The secretary, Mrs. George Tucker read the minutes of last meeting and few "thanks for" letters.

Mrs. E. B. Phillips, group leader for the next three months, led a discussion on ways to raise money and it was decided to collect instead of a lawn social and have a home-cooking sale on the market, September 4th.

Mrs. Vermilyea gave a reading on "Heroes". The collection for the day included the travelling apron amounting to over 13.

The Rev. J. Dewey closed the meeting. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

A quilt which had been started earlier in the summer for the W.M.S. was completed.

Beauty

TAKE OUT BEAUTY INSURANCE

Do you sometimes wonder how many middle-aged movie stars have managed to retain a youthful appearance after seven years love-lier than they were ten or fifteen years ago. As good looks are their stock in trade, they need an income on the future. They made every possible effort to keep the top-flight form, and respect for the laws of every kind will help they could find the way of beauty aids and and treatments.

Most sweet young things never think of coming years. The idea that some day they will be in their thirties never occurs to them. They're busy going places. Often they are robbing themselves of necessary sleep. Or they have deplorable eating habits. The subject of good posture bores them. And the result is that some of them actually look old at forty.

The clock goes on ticking. Every day around the world we note a calendar, another candle on the birthday cake. Even in the twenties one should have a weather eye on the future. Skip the beauty routine and the habits that make for health. It is a way that does not make for happiness or peace of mind.

Late hours, the thirtieth milestone is passed tiny lines can appear around the eyes. Those usually caused by malnutrition, need of glasses or the habit of squinting. They cannot then be annointed gently at least once. Such a little task! Such rich rewards!

Late hours will bring beauty liabilities faster than old Father Time can hand them out to you. You can't get by on the habits of sleep no matter how many pill-poppers tell you the folly to the beauty shop. Out of the twenty-four hours eight should be given to restful sleep for the body is that nature makes repairs, recharges the energy motors. Fatigue depletes vitality. Outside of town life is primitive for the people of the French colony of St. Pierre et Miquelon off Newfoundland's south coast. This woman is doing her laundry much as it was done in old rural France. She kneels behind a wooden box to keep her legs dry and scrubs the laundry over a board. — (CP Photo).

Hard Battle Against Elements On St. Pierre et Miquelon Eased by Government Subsidy

By IRVING C. WHITNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. PIERRE (CP)—The visitor to St. Pierre et Miquelon will find a happy people who like to treat him to drinks, show him the colony and, in general, take life easy.

But behind the hospitality of the people and the gay cafe society in this French colony off the south coast of Newfoundland, there is a hard battle against the elements for a living and survival.

The colony actually consists, of these islands with about 93 square miles of rocky terrain. The largest and northernmost is Miquelon with its 600 people who for generations have maintained an odd aloofness from the rest of the colony.

STAY CLOSE TO HOME

Most of them are fishermen-farmers, and many have never visitted the capital of St. Pierre. They marry among themselves, almost without exception.

Connected to Miquelon by a grassy sand dune is Langlade. Residents of these two islands once made a business of salvaging cargoes of ships wrecked on the seven-mile strip of treacherous sand. Many became prosperous.

An estimated 500 ships have been wrecked on the dune since it first poked above the water 100 years ago.

St. Pierre is the smallest of the islands and has the remaining 4,900 persons of the colony's total 5,000 population. Here is the town of St. Pierre, clinging to a gently sloping hillside and holding the harbor around which life centres.

The islands are at the mercy of the elements which in winter blanket them almost continually in thick fog or whipping winds. Because of their geographic isolation, the ties with the mother country are sentimental and historic, rather than practical. St. Pierre et Miquelon is an orphan colony with special treatment doing business with Canada and the United States.

GOODS FROM CANADA

A large amount of the goods needed to sustain everyday life is brought in from Canada by boat. Most of the export fish, the colony's only big industry, goes to Canada or the United States.

For St. Pierre, fish is life. A big fish plant was opened at St. Pierre two years ago and now employs 120 persons. Sales to the U.S. last year brought the colony $100,000. Another plant will be established on Miquelon shortly.

Fishermen are coddled and encouraged by the government, receiving many forms of direct and indirect aid. Most of the fishing is done in dories, larger than the 15-foot type used on the schooners of the Maritimes, and powered by a gas engine.

The average wage for a lower-class worker is less than $50 a month.

But this isn't the complete story because of the many forms of financial aid and various other plans. A man with five children, for instance, receives 50 per cent of his pay in children's allowance.

GOVERNMENT STEPS IN

There is no unemployment, because anyone without work goes on a government project. In winter this usually is shovelling snow.

Some efforts have been made to establish other industries but few have succeeded. At the moment two mink ranches, one private and one government operated, are showing a small profit. But a sealing plant established some years ago quickly went broke.

As a people, the St. Pierrais live a diversified life. In the capital are most have running water and electricity. Telephones are common and the service is improving. There are about 225 automobiles for the 30 miles of highway.

But away from the town sanitary improvements are unknown. Many women still kneel in little wooden boxes by a water hole to paddle their laundry.

The St. Pierrais, incidentally, are a touchy people who don't like to be criticized or told their life is "just like France." And one St. Pierrais who has visited both Quebec and France, said the people of Quebec "try to act more French than France."

OLD WORLD TOUCH

The visitor who walks the winding streets of St. Pierre will find an old world flavor.

He'll spot some of the colony's six gendarmes with their military hats and notice the broken glass imbedded atop the concrete walls of the jail.

In the many shops—there is one for every 40 persons—he will be able to buy such items as French perfume and kid gloves at bargain prices.

There is little high - pressure salesmanship despite the large number of merchants but a tour of the stores and a minimum of haggling will frequently save about 10 per cent off the marked prices.

Most merchants speak English and there is a strong Newfoundland influence. Scores of Newfoundland girls came to St. Pierre et Miquelon in the lush rum-running days and many married and remained. It has been estimated today that 70 per cent of the laborers are of Newfoundland descent on the maternal side.

Blood Stream Used to Combat Rheumatic, Arthritic Pain; No Pills

Penetrant Dilates Capillaries, Flows Fresh Oxygen-Rich Blood Through Afflicted Areas

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. This new method applies, for the first time, a well-known medical principle of pain relief to a product now readily available to Canadians for home use. The discovery literally calls upon the blood stream to bathe away pains of rheumatism, arthritis, sore muscles and joints of most kinds.

Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB," this new cream is odorless and greaseless. InfraRUB has the unusual ability to penetrate the "skin barrier"—go to work to relieve pain deep down in sore muscles and joints. The bloodstream carries the soothing medication right to the seat of trouble where it actually helps drive away pain-causing congestion and pressure. Users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Another feature of this new product that appeals to many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

InfraRUB is now sold at all drug counters. No prescription is necessary.

Ross Siemms, 18-year-old Toronto chess expert, has won the United States junior chess championship at Long Beach, Calif., first time the title ever was held by a Canadian. Meeker Named Hornets Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Howard W. (Howie) Meeker, former right wing for Toronto Maple Leafs, Tuesday was named coach of Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

He succeeds Aldege (Baz) Bastien, who resigned last spring.

The announcement was made by Hornet owner John R. Harris.

Meeker, 29, of Kitchener, Ont., left the Stratford, Ont., juniors in 1946 to play for the Maple Leafs. He won the Calder Memorial Trophy for the National Hockey League's outstanding rookie during the 1946-47 season, scoring 27 goals and 18 assists in 55 games.

He played with the Leafs in five Stanley Cup playoff series in which the Leafs won the title three times.

Later, a back injury slowed him up. During the 1952-53 season he played in only 32 games.

Last season, he was player-coach of Stratford, which won the Ontario Hockey Association title. It was his first coaching job. He was recalled by Toronto last season to play 12 games.

Meeker also served four years as a Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Waterloo South.

Regents Blank Flyers 11-0

Bryson Reid's Regents tightened their grip on third place in the Belleville and District baseball league last night with an 11-0 victory over the Trenton "RCAF nine on the latter's home diamond.

Harv. Stoliker and Jack Elliott formed the winning battery with Stoliker hurling a one-hitter. Even all reports, it was one of the Regents' best displays as they were unable to make a mistake.

Johnny Mowat's Wellington Dukes will provide the opposition here on Thursday night in what should be a real thriller between two top-notch squads. Game time is 8.30 with the Exhibition grounds being the site of battle.

Sports Roundup

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Who is this man Arnold Johnson who talks glibly of millions and moving Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City?

It's the same Mr. Johnson who dreamed up the idea of buying Yankee Stadium for $8,500,000 last winter, selling the land under the park to the Knights of Columbus for $2,500,000 and then leasing the ball park back to the Yankees.

President of the Arnold Johnson Corporation, chairman of the board of five companies and a director of 15 or 20 others, this 47-year-old Chicago University grad is a new face on the baseball scene.

EXPECTS TO SELL PARK

Johnson's interest in Kansas City isn't exactly unselfish. He bought the Kansas City ball park when he got Yankee Stadium and nobody came along to buy the ground under that field. He expects to sell the park to the city and then lease it back to operate the franchise. According to Johnson, the park can be enlarged to seat 33,000 by the '55 season.

When reminded that the Athletics at present value, could hardly be called a winning ball club, Johnson has a ready answer.

"There's nothing wrong with them that a few million dollars can't fix."

CONNECTED WITH HAWKS

The only connection Johnson ever had with sports was when he and Bill Tobin ran Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. He still is a vice-president and director of the Hawks.

John Carmichael's story in the Chicago Daily News Monday said Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Art Wirtz, his associate, who is head of the Chicago Stadium, would be affiliated with Johnson in the deal. This is no bush league Johnny who expected, to bring big league ball to Kansas City. Among other things, he is vice-chairman of the board of Automatic Canteen, one of the big companies operating vending machines. He lives with his wife and two children in Chicago. Johnson's activities have been strictly business although he has been a baseball fan (White Sox) since he was a youngster.

On The Football Fronts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats tonight hold their first and only intra-squad tussle before the Big Four football season opens. And shortly after the smoke clears a few players may be on the way out.

Coach Voyles, who is expected to make up his mind on a few roster reductions as a result of the game, watched from the sidelines Tuesday night as the Tiger-Cats went through a spirited practice.

In Montreal, the Alouettes were getting ready to leave Monday for Vancouver to start a three-game western exhibition tour against the British Columbia Lions in their new stadium Aug. 11. The next stop is Calgary Aug. 13 and Regina Aug. 18. About 42 players are expected to make the trip.

ARGOS LOP ROSTER

Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four released three players Tuesday, leaving their roster at 41. Twenty of those remaining are imports, only half of whom can be retained after the first league game. Bud Feer and Lang Cope will revert to Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union who own their Canadian Rugby Union forms. Jack Gray and Paul Shannon, with the Argos last year, will go on waivers.

MAIN-BEDARD WIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver and Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., members of Canada's Davis Cup team, came through as expected Tuesday in the first round of the Quebec senior tennis championships. Main defeated Val Harit 6-4, 6-3, while Bedard scored an easy 6-1, 6-1 victory over Maurice Benoit.

POSTPONE LACROSSE

MIMICO, Ont. (CP)—The scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A game between Peterborough Trailermen and Mimico Mountaineers here Tuesday night was postponed because of wet grounds. Officials said the game between the two teams in Peterborough this Saturday will be a four-point contest to make up for the postponement.

Willie Thrower, whose name bears out his passing talents, may join Balmy Beach. The five-foot, 11-inch quarterback was working out with the Beaches Tuesday night after arriving east from the training camp of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. A 180-pounder, he played 10 games with the National Football League Chicago Bears last year. Thrower can also play defensive backfield.

Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four welcomed John Wagoner back to their camp Tuesday. The 220-pound lineman, an ex - import classed as a Canadian last year with the Riders, headed north as soon as the crop was in on his Gibsonville, N.C. farm.

In the west, the biggest football news concerned Arnie Weinmeister a Saskatchewan native signed by British Columbia Lions of the WIFU and listed as an import. Jim Brooks said in his Edmonton Journal sports column that Weinmeister, former New York Giants lineman, has been granted full Canadian status by the WIFU and the CRU, Brook added:

"Weinmeister will be the last Canadian-born American citizen to slip into the game through the back door."

Weightlifters Win Gold Medals For Canada; England Takes Second

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WATTA GAME!

Why is it that when the Oshawa Transporters honor our town with a baseball visit the Bates more or less take the opportunity to kick the song around, "hit 'em where they are," and in general get a certain type of game off their chests. The Transporters weren't much better, the difference being our side's boners were more costly; failed to hit in the clutches, and the Transporters got more runs than the Goyer crew.

It was baseball at its mediocre best. Hit-loving fans enjoyed it and error-hating enthusiasts had a bad night. The pitching on either side was nothing to write home about and both teams will have to come up with a better brand if they expect to wind up with the Viaduct crown atop their noggins.

The humorous highlight of the pastime was that heary old gar, the hidden ball trick pulled by Jerry McCormick on Masson, Oshawa first baseman. Masson's mind was on something besides baseball for he wandered ten feet off the bag while Jerry smole a wicked smile and coddled the ball in his glove. Mr. Masson was so mortified that "Snow" Wilson drifted out to fill first base in the bottom of the ninth.

GOOD SHOW!

Three hisses, a couple of hari-karis, a flock of incenses and a dozen "so sollies." That appears to be the wrestling background Memorial Park was treated to when the Sons of Fujiyama, the hateful Togo Brothers, meet up with popular Paul Baillargeon and that package of ring dynamite, Ray Villmer, in another tag-team affray. The fire-eating dragons from the land of the geishas and cherry blossoms represent "Hate Inc.", despite their apologetic attitude after committing near-mayhem. Then there's huge Tex Mackenzie who is pitted against Sid Hall in a battle of the Human Skyscrapers while Tiger Tasker will meet Vernon Tait.

"SO THIS IS BASEBA'"

The sparkle of the sun on Loch Lomand shone in her eyes. There was the lilt of the Highlands in her talk and the bonny silver hair of her sheened in the afternoon sun.

It was a big day for this wee auld lady who first saw the light of day in her native Scotland 85 years ago. But the big milestone in her life was the fact she was seeing her first baseball game.

"Tush, Johnny," she said, "the laddies are not playin' the game richt. Nine great big men oot yonder chasing a wee bawlie and runnin' around in circles."

The meanest men on the field, thought Mrs. Wylie, were the pitcher and catcher. "That pair mon," she said, "standing there wi' their his hattle, and he said meanest man won't let him hit it. They should be well ashamed of theirselves."

Another unnecessary evil in the game, in Mrs. Wylie's opinion, was the umpires, especially he that stood abaft of the plate.

"No, there's a laddie that reminds me of my auld Uncle Jock McPhairson. He was a sociable auld cootie and every time he met a friend or relation he waved his arms like a windmill. Noe, that mon oot yonder must be related to the balmies in the field, or why does he keep wavin' wi' 'em?"

"And the way he dresses reminds me of my cousin McDonald, whey time he had a dropple or two too many of the dew of the Hielands came hame wi' a haggis in each pocket. What are those big pooches he wears for pockets?"

"But," she sighed, "I feel a bit soory in me hairt for him. He has such a bad toothache. No wonder he's near daffy, and waving his arms." Mrs. Wylie did not know that Lefty Whitman carries a half-package of "scrabble" in his port jowl every time he wears the blue and pads.

But a home run drew the ire of this grand old Scottish lady.

"So this is your democratic sport," she said, her Scottish blood aflame.

"Did you see that man run all the way around the field? And all those nice boys got yonder waitin' for him to visit them. Why he never even paused to talk to them like the other laddies did. And why should the rest of 'em rush out to shake his hand when he came home, as you call it. Och, and he's bin playing all afternoon oot there? A body would think he just arrived from overseas, the way they greet him."

About this time the catcher turned to watch a foul tip sail over the grandstand. Mrs. Wylie emitted a tiny shriek when she saw him.

"Eek," she said, "look at the balmies' monkey suit. And why should he cover his face with that cage thing. Doesn't his wee wifie know he's playin'? Or does he wear it to save the bonny ladds' wee hair?"

But this remarkable daughter of Auld Scotia enjoyed her first baseball game, nevertheless. In fact she is quite likely to become an addict, because she was up and around bright and early for the next one.

One of the things she could not understand, so she remarked after the game, was why they took "Wee Jawnsie" out of the game and placed another laddie in the chewin' position. "Jawnsie," she said, "was the best one oot there. The wee batters were able to hit the ball and no swingin' at it and missing it. He was good to them, and I cannot understand why they should remove him."

Hepburn Wins Heavy Crown, Gratton Breaks Four Records; Canada Takes Over 3rd Place

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Hepburn of Vancouver, burly, moustachioed weightlifter, won the heavyweight title early today and in the process set a near world record for the press.

His victory meant the third gold medal for Canada in the British Empire Games, all in weightlifting.

An hour earlier, Gerry Gratton of Verdun, Que., became champion in the light-heavyweight class, establishing four Empire Games records. Keevil Daly of the RCAF, Ottawa, won the middle-heavyweight title Monday night.

The deeds of the strong men completed 36 hours of sports on six fronts and got the weightlifting into the record-breaking act that so far has belonged almost exclusively to the athletes of track and field and swimming.

CYCLING FUSS

The cyclists claimed wide attention, too. A full-blown rumpus, growing out of a disqualification, broke loose at the cycling track to the accompaniment of yelling and booing, with two Indians and Australia's cycling team withdrew in men from the event.

The long day and night of sports endeavor produced 15 gold medallists, bringing the total to 35, with 56 more still to be won this week.

England led for the day and for the unofficial point-standing, winning six championships—three in track and field, two in fencing and one in cycling.

In addition to Canada, two other countries were double-winners, Australia, defending champion and in danger of losing the title won at Auckland four years ago, scored in track and field and in weightlifting. Northern Ireland, without a winner until Tuesday, came up with championships in track and field and in bowling.

Countries winning one gold medal were Southern Rhodesia, in bowling; Scotland, in swimming; and South Africa, in track and field.

ENGLAND IN LEAD

The unofficial point standing today showed England in the lead with 203½, acquired by 138½ Tuesday. Australia had only 138. Canada, starting Tuesday in fourth place, bounced into third over South Africa with a total of 123. South Africa had 101½.

England's big splurge in points came largely in track and field. Athletes from the old Country won three of the six titles at stake, finishing one-two-three in the men's three miles and the 880 yards.

Redheaded Chris Chataway, co-holder of the three-mile world record with Fred Green of England, ran away from Green on the last lap to win by 20 yards. Frank Sando of England was third, six other two yards back.

Chataway's time was 13:35.2. The old record for the games, 13:39.6 goes back to 1938. The Chataway-Green world record is 13:32.2.

The next three men—Nyandiko Malyoro of Kenya, Peter Driver of England, and Ed Warren of Australia—also broke the Empire Games record.

OUTLASTS MATE

Derek Johnson of England outlasted his teammate, Brian Hewson to win the 880 yards by two yards. Ken Wilmshurst, England's all-round man won the hop, step and jump, the only final in which no record was set and then went in the 440-yard hurdles and took sixth place.

The hurdles winner was David Lean of Australia, who ran a 52.3 record in a heat Saturday and was one-tenth of a second slower Tuesday. The former Games record is 52.5.

Thelma Hopkins of Northern Ireland won the high jump with a leap of five feet, six inches, breaking the old five-three mark. She attempted a world record at five feet, 8½ inches and failed.

Stan du Plessis scored South Africa's only victory, winning the discus throw with a record heave of 169 feet, 7½ inches. He beat the old mark by 13 feet, one-half inch.

Roy Pella of Sudbury, Ont., was second, bettering the former record with 168 feet, six inches.

Pella's second place was the best Canada's weightlifters could do in the all-round record-breaking display.

SCOTTY RECORD

Alice Whitty of Vancouver was third in the women's high jump, equalling the games record of five feet, three inches. Stan Raike of Toronto placed fourth in the discus and Ken Swalwell of New Westminster, B.C., sixth.

Rich Ferguson of Toronto was fifth in the 880 yards and Bob McLaughlin of Toronto fifth in the hop, step and jump.

Preliminary heats and semi-finals were run in the men's and women's 220-yard sprints and Barry Nelson of New Westminster emerged Canada's sole survivor for the final Thursday. He beat out Mike Agostini of Trinidad, winner Saturday of the 100-yard dash, by inches to take third place in the first half of the semi-final. Hector Hogg of Australia was third in the other half. Heat winners were Don Jowett of England, whose 21.9 was the fastest time, and George Ellis of England.

Gerry Bernier of Vancouver, a heel winner in 25.6, will be the only Canadian girl in the final of the women's 220.

Shirley Jackson Nelson, tyng her games mark of 24.3, and Winnona Cripps, teammate of the Australian housewife, won the other heats.

RECORD-BREAKER

Only one swimming championship was decided, and it was another record-smasher. Scotland's team in the 330-yard medley relay swam to victory in 3:31, breaking the old record of 3:33.8. Canada's team was fifth.

Nine finalists in the men's and women's heats of the 440-yard freestyle broke old records.

Graham Johnson of South Africa was the fastest among the men with 4:46.1, against the old mark of 4:49.4. Gerry McNamee of Vancouver was Canada's best qualifier.

Beth Whittall of Montreal and Gladys Priestley of Verdun qualified in the women's division, Beth getting under the old record with 5:24.6. Gladys' time was 5:26.8. Lorraine Crapp of Australia, winner Monday of the 110-yard freestyle, led the pack by a wide margin with 5:11.4.

England Leads, Canada Nudges Aussie Athletes

VANCOUVER (CP) — England headed into the second half of the British Empire Games today with a firm hold on the top rung of the unofficial team standings, far ahead of Australia, highly-favored in pre-games speculation to make a runaway race of the 24-country sports spectacle.

The England team, counting heavily in track and field and fencing, rolled up an amazing 109½ points Tuesday to post a total of 203½ points against Australia's 138. Canada, given little chance to threaten Australia's domination, picked up 61 points in a 123-total, just a behind the Aussies.

Here is the unofficial team standing on a disqualification, but 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six places:

England	203½
Australia	138
Canada	123
South Africa	101½

Trinidad	33
Nigeria	22
Northern Rhodesia	20

Leafs Whip Royals 22-4; Lose Nightcap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Right-hander Glenn Mickens is working "his way back up the ladder to success in the Brooklyn farm system after bouncing from class AA to the majors and down again in less than a season.

Mickens was brought up from Fort Worth by the Dodgers in the middle of last season's pennant race, then farmed out to Montreal near the close of the year to keep him eligible for winter ball in the Caribbean leagues.

But he failed to impress this spring and was sent again with Fort Worth. Although he had a rocky time in the Texas League, the Dodgers promoted him to Montreal late last month.

SECOND IN THREE

Tuesday night he won his second game in three days for the Royals, stopping Toronto on eight hits for a 10-3 decision. Toronto won two of the others, too, after the Maple Leafs had exploded for a 22-4 victory in the first game of the twi-night twin bill in Montreal.

The split left the Leafs two games in front of second-place Rochester Red Wings who were rained out against Ottawa.

Syracuse continued its winning ways in Cuba, tripping Havana Sugar Kings 7-5 after a wild first inning which ended with Syracuse ahead 5-4.

The first-place Richmond Virginians split a pair with Buffalo, losing the first 5-0 as Duke Maas pitched a five-hitter, and winning the second 11-10 after blowing an 8-1 lead.

Oshawa Transporters Defeat Batas 9-3 In Error-Riddled Viaduct Game

Pound 3 Hurlers for 14 Hits As Batas Fail in Clutches; Retain Hold on Second Place

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Oshawa Transporters strengthened their hold on top spot in the Viaduct-Ontario Baseball League here last night, defeating the Belleville Batas 9-3 in a weird, wacky, error-ridden game.

Twelve runs crossed the plate. Ten errors accounted for most of the runs. Twenty-seven hits, including six Oshawa jumbos, scattered the blue, two players were injured, four were caught off base, and the heavy hidden-ball trick was pulled on an Oshawa infielder before the cease fire sounded.

The loss gave the Batas a 13-12 record, dropping them to a second place tie with the Toronto Hoskings. The teams meet in Oshawa tomorrow night.

COSTLY ERRORS

Costly errors played an important part in the game with the Batas guilty of a half dozen and the Transporters coming up with four. The league leaders pounded three Bata hurlers for 14 hits while Oshawa used two in the parade with Cec Hall relieving Lefty Dadson in the fifth and getting credit for the win. Bobby Bunton, Batas starting hurler, who gave up five for five in four innings was tabbed with the loss.

Dewey Bates comfortable, was hurt when he hurdled the centre field fence while trying to pull down Joskoski's eight inning homer which apparently was knocked out imperspicably when he collided with McArthur after successfully completing a shoe string fly for the final out of the game.

Masseur Jimmy Thompson was caught flatfooted off second in the ninth when Jerry McCormick, Bata shortstop, pulled the hidden ball trick on him.

The Bata hurlers were in trouble all night. Bunton was yanked in the fifth and Art Wright went in to battle until the three batsmen giving up six hits for three runs. Al Kelleher started for Oshawa in the eighth after Joskoski had homered and Masson and Miller singled. He was tossed for three hits for a run over the rest of the route.

Lefty Dadson, Oshawa leading hurler, got away four runs in the third innings, giving up eight clouts for two runs and Cec Hall took over. He was touched for four for a lone run over the rest of the route.

Transporters scored a single in the third off an error, a sacrifice and an infield out which sent Bill Ball game sweep in the next innings when they scored three off two walks, a sacrifice, Joskoski's double and Dadson's single. They added single in the fifth and sixth and insured victory with a pair in the eighth when Joskoski homered a drive over the centre field fence. Art Masson, Keller and McArthur followed with singles. Two Bata errors and singles by Masson and Keller put them another in the ninth.

The Batas failed to hit in the clutches, leaving 13 men stranded. They had the bases loaded in the first after singles by Jack Miller and Dadson for three straight singles, but the best they could get was a lone run when the Oshawa shortstop booted the ball. They loaded the bags again in the third but failed to hit.

Fitzpatrick's single drove in the first Bata run in the third after Ibrahim dropped Petiti's long fly in left field. They got their third marker in the ninth off two singles and an Oshawa error.

Joskoski hit a homer and double for Oshawa to lead with honor getting three singles. MacArthur and Gingerich hit a double and single, respectively, and Reeves the Batas with a double and two singles while Petiti and Hall each rapped out a pair of one-baggers.

Favor Marlene In Ladies Close Tourney

BRIGHTWOOD GOLF CLUB, N.S. (CP)—The hills of Brightwood are taking their toll in aching leg muscles as 80 women golfers get in their final practice links on Thursday's opening of the Canadian Close championship.

Sam Sobel, Brightwood pro, expects that the women's par of 73 likely will be bettered before Miss Marlene Stewart of Pontifil, Ont., as the girl to do it.

Marlene, defending her Close title, seems at home on the hills. Last score of the course is not having it so easy.

Mrs. Masson, sportsprof and Mrs. D. C. Dyde of Edmonton, captain of the Alberta interprovincial team that they had never before seen fairways that "tilt down into the ocean."

The close is confined to Canadians and the Canadian women's team that beat the three British girls 9-6, 9-4, 9-4, is open to foreign amateurs. Barbara Romack of Kennebunk, Calif., is not defending her title this year.

Mrs. J. N. Foster of Halifax, president of the Canadian Ladies Golf Union, said a three-round score of 229 should win. Then they thinks it will be closer to 215 and warned "all gentle breezes go to their heads."

Top Marksmen Win Medals At Rifle Shoot

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, Calgary, and Capt. Ken Hall, Toronto, were selectors—collectors of silver medals.

The team match was won by the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, with a score of 409. Team members were Box. Capt. H. C. Hayes and Lieut. Wall.-ce and Lieut. C. J. Steele.

Soccer League Cracks Down On Rough Play

TORONTO (CP)—The National Soccer League has cracked down on roughhouse tactics which have marked many league games this season, and picked Toronto Hungarians as its special target.

The Hungarians, whose players made up half of the eight on the carpet last night, were ordered Tuesday night to post a $500 cash bond by Aug. 10 with the Ontario Football Association as a guarantee of good behavior.

Their water boy, Peter Kocsis, was ordered off the field during a soccer for tossing the contents of his pail at a referee during one squabble.

Another ruling was that six policemen, including the sergeant, must be at hand in future home games of the Hungarians.

Yankees Shave Indians' Lead Behind Berra's Blazing Bat; Giants, Brooklyn, Braves Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's best chance of slowing up the New York Yankees' pennant drive is to cool off Yogi Berra's blazing bat.

The sturdy Yankee backstop is really red-hot right now. In his last seven games, Berra has hit safely 14 times in 27 times at bat for a torrid .519 average. The Yankees have won six of those seven games. Two weeks ago, Berra was hitting .287. Today he is at .306—and climbing. Last Sunday, he got three hits against the A's more. Three days before that he got four against Chicago.

It was Berra who proved the difference in New York's 2-1 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night that chewed up a full game off the Indians' American League lead and sliced their margin over the Yankees to 1½ games.

SCORES TWO

With Yankees on second and third in the third inning, Berra cracked a single off Art Houtteman, scoring both runners. That was the ball game. The Indians, who had drawn a blank against Lefty Dobv's first-inning home run in the first game, could only manage Whitey Ford after that as the young lefthander permitted only four hits in the nine innings.

The National League race remained unchanged with the top three clubs—New York, Brooklyn and Milwaukee—posting victories and victory column. The league-leading Giants defeated the Cubs in a game advantage over Brooklyn with an easy 7-1 triumph over Chicago's Sam Jones. The Dodgers had to go all out, edging the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 on Duke Snider's 10th home run in the eighth inning. Milwaukee's Braves, 10 league behind, outscored Philadelphia Phillies 3-1.

The Chicago White Sox received notice they were still in the American League race by drubbing the Boston Red Sox 7-3. The victory advanced them to within six games of the leaders. In other games played under the lights, Cincinnati overpowered Pittsburgh 7-2 and Philadelphia's Athletics downed the Baltimore Orioles 6-2. Detroit and Washington split their night game played in daylight.

Ford was superb, turning back the Indians on four hits for his 11th victory and his last five in a row. He fanned seven and did not permit a runner to pass second after the first inning. His second best scoring chance after the first inning came in the fourth when they loaded the bases with one out but bring the tremendous throng of 60,643 to its feet. Ford struck out Jim Hegan and the Tribe threatened no more.

Except for the third inning when Raschi singled and scored on a double by Mickey Mantle, the only complete master of the Cardinals who bowed to the Brooklyn rightbander for the 10th straight time at Ebbets Field. Erskine also had the satisfaction of driving in the winning run. He fanned nine.

The Giants swatted Bob Trice for four hits including Bobby Thompson's 19th home run with two base on balls and a single in the losing streak to five straight. Ruben Gomez hardly raised a sweat, allowing five hits and striking out seven for his 10th victory. The Cubs played without Ernie Banks, Randy Jackson and Gene Baker, all on the injured list.

Back-to-back doubles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, followed by Joe Adcock's single, produced two fifth-inning runs that enabled the Braves to break a 13-inning Philadelphia jinx. Milwaukee's 11th triumph in its last 12 games.

Veteran Jim Hearn scattered six safe varretta drove in two runs with a double and Ted Kluszewski scored another to give Chicago rookie southpaw Jack Harshman all the runs he needed to beat the Red Sox for his eighth victory. In his last start against Boston, Harshman pitched 16 batters. He struck out seven in his five-hitter Tuesday night.

Ray Boone drove in the Detroit runs with his 15th home run and an infield out as southpaw Paul Hoeft blanked the Senators with five hits. It was Hoeft's sixth victory and third shutout.

Minor Softball

The pee wee league wound up their schedule last night with Honee Orange shellacking Maiud's 19-6.

Rushlow pitched for the winners, giving up eight hits, whiffing two and walking three. Maud was banged about for twenty hits to take the lesson in batting six and lasting free passes to ten.

Rushlow and Plane paced the victors at bat with four double and three singles each with Moreau hitting three for four and Brown three. T. Keller had two doubles to defeat while E. Keller and Archer had a brace of each for each. The batteries:

Honee Orange, Rushlow and Butcher, Maund's: Reid and E. Keller.

London Threat For Top Finish

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Majors have had to fight twice as hard to maintain undisputed first berth in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League. Not only do the Majors have to reckon with their opposition, they also have to cope with their own jinxes.

But the Majors, who have had two victories nullified by league president John Gillies in the last two days, are holding their own and are very much in the running for a first-place finish.

Tonight at St. Thomas Elgins 7-3 in London in the only Intercounty game Tuesday night to climb into third place—3½ games behind first. The Elgins, who have won seven and lost 22 victories and 21 defeats, are tied with the Majors.

Movie Column

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Wald's mail convinces him that children all over the world read the Bible. He believes this because so many have written him about the casting of a movie role.

Wald is producing "Joseph and His Brethren," and he has implied warnings from many parts of the world that he'd better be careful who is assigned to the principal part.

"What we forget is that the Bible has been translated into every language," says Wald. "And it is being read, too. Each nationality has its own concept of Joseph and every other biblical character.

"I haven't counted the letters that have come to us, but on the basis of weight I'd guess about 2,500. That's a good cross-section of our forthcoming audience. And, oddly enough a large majority of these letters have been written by children. And I've got to be mindful of the youngsters. However, Joseph can be only one man. I hope I can find an actor who epitomizes all concepts."

In these letters, the American middle west and the south are particularly well represented and, in foreign lands, Ireland, Sweden, Israel and the Philippines.

ACTORS MENTIONED

Hollywood actors mentioned as Joseph are Tyrone Power, Marlon Brando, Glen Ford and Montgomery Clift.

Foreign actors were chosen according to the nationality of the writer. Mexican critics favored Pedro Armendariz and Rodolfo Acosta. English critics most frequently named Richard Burton and Richard Todd. Vittorio Gassman, Franco Interlenghi and Walter Chiari are the favorites of the Italians. Children of Israel repeatedly mentioned Messrs. Yadin and Milo, both with the appropriate given names of Joseph.

Wald, no man to leave a stone unturned, is looking at films of every actor named. He's looking for footage on Duncen O'Farra, favorite of many Irish children.

Does Wald favor any particular actor? Says he hotes, "but he must have wide experience because no amateur, no beginner, could possibly do justice to the part."

'CHARGE OF LANCERS' RECREATES HISTORY'S MOST GLORIOUS FEAT

One of history's most glorious chapters—the heroic charge of the Lancers during the Crimean War—is reportedly brought to the screen with thundering realism in Columbia Pictures' "Charge of the Lancers", in color by Technicolor on Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Paulette Goddard and Jean Pierre Aumont and featuring Richard Stapley, "Charge of the Lancers' is said to be replete with scorching romance, magnificent spectacle and suspenseful intrigue.

In 'Charge of the Lancers' Aumont is seen as an officer with the Allied forces before the Russian fort of Sebastopol during the Crimean War. Aumont and a fellow-officer, Richard Stapley, deliver a new type of cannon to the front lines. When Stapley is captured by the Russians, Aumont volunteers to rescue him from the besieged fort. With the help of a gypsy family and posing as the husband of Paulette Goddard, a fiery, beautiful gypsy, he gets into the fortress.

Tension is said to mount as Aumont rescues Stapple and learns the military action necessary to capture the fort and as Miss Goddard dodges the romantic intentions of the fort's commanding officer. The climactic scenes of the film include the history-making charge of the Lancers against the fort.

Advance reports indicate that Miss Goddard is perfect as the temperamental gypsy girl who is instrumental in helping Aumont carry out his war-winning objective. Aumont is said to be properly swashbuckling and romantic as the military officer upon whose shoulders rests victory or defeat.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Troubles during the play of a bridge deal you must expect. If every contract was a laydown you would give up the game. The charm of bridge play is in the problems you encounter.

South was declarer at small slam of six hearts in this deal.

The opening lead from west happened to be club jack. One look at dummy tells declarer what seems to be enough. If trumps give no trouble he has visions of a reasonably easy time.

South can stuff a diamond on a top dummy spade. Dummy can stuff a diamond on the south club ace. Even if a diamond finesse of diamond queen fails, 12 tricks look easy. That is, if no trump tricks are lost.

Dummy takes the first trick and leads a small trump. Of a sudden the picture changes. East shows out of trumps at once and south learns that he has trump troubles far beyond expectations.

With the kind of five trumps held by west it now looks as if two trump tricks will be given up. So, even if the diamond finesse works, the slam may fail unless west can be held to only one trump trick.

South takes the first trump round with his king. Another dummy top gets the next trick. A diamond finesse of queen holds. Club ace is cashed and a south diamond is shed thereon. Ace of diamonds is cashed. A third south diamond is ruffed small in dummy.

Two top dummy spades are cashed and west is now with nothing but four trumps. The small dummy spade is led and ruffed high with south trump ace. On this west must throw a futile trump.

The final south club is led and ruffed by west. Instead of a cover with the trump queen, dummy chucks away the spade queen. Now in the lead, west must return his nine or jack of trump.

Dummy has Q-7 and south has 10-5-4 trumps. Any return from the west gives declarer both tricks. The endplay was the end.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Make a sincere effort to digest the suggestions of others but give matters a second thought before acting. Your influence more motivating, friendly for heart interests loved ones.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—There may be some restrictions, especially up to 3 p.m. Use extra effort, more thought to hold things in line. Use your fine mental ability now.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You may have to resort to new strategy now. Emphasize kindly, persuasive manner. Deft handling of money, personal affairs needed. Relax in p.m.; attend social affairs.

YOU BORN TODAY are generally full of fun, the life of the party when feeling good, but you can become moody, perhaps argumentive at times. Avoid these latter traits since they are not conducive to progress. You are generous, have a host of friends, are fearless. Don't waste energy on non-essentials; avoid impulsiveness, snap judgments. You can make a high mark in many fields, especially those bringing you before the public, in the army; as salesman. Give-and-take is the best slogan to follow for real success. Birthdate of; Guy de. Maupassant, Fr. novelist, poet.

SEEKS ASYLUM

BARI, Italy (Reuters)—A Yugoslav air force "Mosquito" Monday night landed at Palese aerodrome near here and the pilot, Lt. Ranislav Carlic, asked for political asylum, the Italian news agency Ansa reported. The agency said the plane had come from a Yugoslav air force base on the Dalmatian coast.

CONFUSING, THAT'S WHAT IT IS

A pigeon named Sally may be a bit confused these days, but stress time is she completely bewildered. She flew in an open window at a San Francisco golf school, laid her eggs (indicated by arrows) among a lot of golf balls and is well on the way to hatching them. She has made a few mistakes and has spent a few useless minutes incubating golf balls, but she soon gets wise to the futility of that.

Insurgents Put Guatemalan Govt. On Shaky Footing

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas and Guatemala's regular army still governed their nation in shaky shotgun political union today following surrender of dissident troops.

The defiant units, apparently hoping to force Castillo Armas out, had refused to honor the agreement Monday night pledging the army's full support to the governing junta in exchange for the disbanding of the president's "liberation army" of irregulars.

The units surrendered Tuesday night after the president's honor guard blocked all roads to the Aurora base and threatened to attack.

The 700 "liberationists" in Guatemala City were disarmed Monday night after they had battled for 12 hours with rebels of the national military academy and troops from the Aurora base. Twenty-five persons were killed and 70 were wounded.

The order to disband the irregulars brought thousands of demonstrators before the national palace Tuesday, many in mourning for those killed in Monday's battle. Castillo Armas in a balcony appearance pleaded for calm.

Little Benny's Note Book

The bridge ladies came to our house this afternoon, and after dinner ma said to pop, I heard a good story today, William, about a man that fell from a 9th floor window.

I hope he injoyed it, pop said, and ma said, Well as a matter of fact he could have, because he didn't hurt himself.

Did he fall in a barrell of soft soap? pop said, and ma said, No, that wasn't it.

What was it? pop said, and ma said, I'm trying to remember. Kitty Summers told the story while she was dummy, and I had a very intriating hand at the time, and naturelly I was studying it. I had 8 spades to the ace king, she said.

But the man had 9 floors to the street, so his situation was more urgent than yours, for Peet sake, pop said. Doot leave him dangling, he said, and ma said, I'll think of it in a minute, it was the 9th floor, I remember that much. I wish people would lern not to talk while they're dummy. I'm sure I would of made the hand if it hadn't been for Kitty Summers.

I had a singleton hart and a singleton club, so that left me with 3 little diamonds, she said.

Where does it leave the man in the window, I mean out of the window? pop said, and ma said, It leaves him safe and sound on the floor. I remember now, William, he didn't fall out the window after all, she said.

Then yee gods why did you say he did? pop said, and ma said, I didn't, I said he fell from the window, and so he did, he fell from the window back into the room. Isn't that a good story, William? she said.

I don't know I'm thinking of a bridge hand, pop said.

Movie Making 'It's Ghastly' Says Britain's Alec Guinness

By DONOVAN BESS

LONDON (Reuters)—Off the set, Alec Guinness looks like a prosperous British business man.

He looks so unscript that fans clustered around London stage doors often fail to recognize him. His face grows there few hints that he was the malevolent Fagin in "Oliver Twist," the suave Disraeli in "The Mudlark" and the tortured cardinal in the play, "The Prisoner."

After watching him for an afternoon working on his latest movie for J. Arthur Rank, "To Paris with Love," it was clear that Guinness was just doing a job, and doing it without the thought occurring to him, "I am the greatest character actor of my times."

CALM DISPOSITION

In a barn-like building in the Pinewood studios one week, amid the green fields of Buckinghamshire, Guinness sat at the wheel of a Rolls-Royce roadster, chatting with Vernon Gray, handsome Canadian actor who portrays Guinness' son in the movie.

It was a vital scene—the last in the picture—and director Robert Hamer, who piloted Guinness to fame five years ago in "Kind Hearts and Coronets," wanted those two minutes of dialogue to be perfection itself.

Guinness patiently closed his eyes as technicians descended on him with powder puffs and rouge pots. Then—calm and aglint and again—he "drove" the car and spoke his lines to Gray. But not once did he show a flicker of the temperament which a film virtuoso is supposed to display in trying moments.

DISLIKES MOVIES

Between takes, the 40-year-old actor ambled to his Silver Roll-Royce, sat in a canvas chair labelled with his name and said, "It's ghastly."

He makes no attempt to hide his dislike for movie making, which he's been in the business in a big way ever since his friend Charles Laughton, and others at the Old Vic in London, talked him out of his "purely ideals of a stage career."

Sitting erect in the canvas chair, his hair artificially greyed for his role of a gay widower in "To Paris with Love," Guinness patiently submitted to a barrage of questions.

He was reminded, first, that millions of Guinness fans would like to know the secret of how he can project himself into so many and so various roles.

"I am a character actor," he replied. "Any character actor does that."

RETURN TO COMEDY

In "To Paris with Love," Guinness returns to comedy, but he made it clear he doesn't want to get in a comedy-hit. In the picture he falls in love with a seductive French girl (Odile Versois) he had originally spotted for his son (Gray).

Guinness appeared surprised to hear that his film acting has wowed the critics in the United States—apparently he can't find time to read all the notices. But he was disconcerted to learn that a leading New York critic had described his performance in "Malta Story" as "expressionless and disenchanting."

"I wish they'd never taken that picture to the States—I told them it wouldn't go over," he said. "As a matter of fact, I can think of various roles I have played that are worse."

One of his greatest successes, a stage or screen, came this spring when he played in London in Bridget Boland's play, "The Prisoner." He was compelled to be on the stage most of the time, a Roman Catholic cardinal suffering from an extreme psychological inquisition.

LIVE PERFORMANCES

Guinness, who got his basic training in John Gielgud's New Theatre company and in the hard school of the Old Vic, keeps darting out of the film studio for a live theatre performance. In 1950, he blitzed Broadway with his blend of mysticism and wit as the psychiatrist in "The Cocktail Party." In the spring of 1952, he spent five months in "Under the Sycamore Tree" at the Aldwych Theatre here, and then, this spring, in "The Prisoner."

Guinness, who said he first got the acting bug when he was seven, does not foresee such a future for his son, Matthew, 14, who played a part in the movie, "The Prisoner."

"I don't know whether he wants to be an actor," he said. "I hope not." He hastened to correct that. "I shouldn't say, 'I hope not.' I think perhaps he might be a painter—and he seems to have a literary bent."

Matthew's mother was also an actress. Guinness met her during the production of "Noah" in 1935. In that play he was the wolf, she was the tigress.

Stratford's Shakespeare Festival Is Dramatic, Financial Success

Editor's Note: Hundreds of Americans have come to Stratford, Ont., this summer to see the three plays of the second Shakespearian Festival. This is a story about Stratford and its theatre written from the point of view of a United States reporter.

By WILLIAM GLOVER

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP) — You never saw a place quite like this fall town gone dreamy with drama.

Merchants in the shops, neighbors passing on the street, frantic waiters in the steak joints, everyone acts alike. They keep one eye on the clock, the other on the sky —and talk about one thing: What's doing in "The Tent."

The tent is the canvas theatre where Stratford's second annual Shakespearian Festival is currently midway through its eight-week season. Each evening 2,000 pilgrims from the rest of Canada, the United States and a good portion of the globe, jam in to witness one of two comedies by the bard of England's Stratford, or a tragedy by the ancient Greek, Sophocles. Somebody thought of him for variety, but Shakespeare is the big man in town.

LOCAL MAN'S DREAM

Shakespeare and Tom Patterson.

Patterson is the local ass who dreamed for years of seeing the master playwright's works done here, just because the town was called Stratford, and its river the Avon. (And the names, a bit of research discloses, were stuck casually on a real estate development many 120 years ago by somebody in a London office.)

Tom finally got a committee behind his dream with some fund-raising last year, the first Shakespearian festival was staged for six weeks. Starring Alec Guiness, it proved a resounding theatrical triumph. More importantly, the box office paid off all but $4,137 of a capital investment and production cost of $169,000.

The enthusiastic town got solidly behind plans to establish the drama project on a regular basis. Now Patterson and company have received further contributions of $129,000 (including some Rockefeller Foundation funds) and keep filling the blue tent to 100-per-cent capacity, they hope, and even at 70 per cent.

As a visiting New York theatre magnate said the other night: "I'd sure like to have a piece of this summer theatre."

Patterson is excited because this town, population 19,000, which outsiders had never heard of before last year, now is a sort of international drama centre.

PERMANENT HOME

One of the things that has the sponsors undecided at the moment is what kind of a permanent home to establish for the festival: Keep it in a tent or erect a building. The tent is being leased around so much, some day someone will jump in on the permanent project," says Patterson.

Big name of this year's production is film star James Mason who has a house here, a hotel suite in nearby London and a big salmon-colored convertible for the road between.

Mason has found great personal satisfaction in the title role of the Sophocles "Oedipus" which is being done in the W. B. Yeats translation.

The unearthly creepiness with which we have to move, appeals to me strangely," he confides.

There is little doubt that for the viewer as well, the masked "Oedipus" is the most thumpingly exciting production. Mounted and performed under the direction of Tyrone Guthrie as a ritualistic rather than naturalistic drama, "Oedipus" and the being wonderful theatre is another example of the Stratford success story.

VARIED ENTERTAINMENT

Every one of the five plays presented thus far—two last year and Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure" and "Taming of the Shrew" along with "Oedipus" currently—has been an intriguing effort at five different types of theatrical entertainment.

How many more types may come up is hard to say, for Guthrie (who has done four of the five) is a man of boundless energy, vivid imagination and distaste for tradition.

IT MAY BE YOUR LIVER

If life's not worth living

it stays in your liver!

It's a fact! It takes up to two pints of fresh bile a day to help digest the food you eat. Is it any wonder if your liver fails to act forcing freely when food does not digest and you feel sunk in your stomach? . . . Then you need Dr. Chase's Liver Pills. These pills are of tried and proved merit. Get Dr. Chase's Liver Pills today. Use as directed. Look for the signature Dr. Chase on the label. Get them from your druggist or send direct to Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Liver Pills are found, 25 and 50 cents.

Some of the critics who have seen his production of "Shrew" expressed disagreement over the spirit of the presentation. But Guthrie, believing strongly that Shakespeare was universal, and not just Elizabethan English, has made "Shrew" into a lusty, rollicking romp bedecked in a motley of costumes from no particular age or place. He has also made it funny. But at no place has he violated the bard.

Mason does not appear in the "Shrew" but does act in "Measure for Measure," the first stage role he's ever essayed directed by Cecil Clarke, and also the festival's artistic director.

Seen separately or in threesome, the festival program is rich, exhilarating theatre. That the season offerings are not even more triumphant is because of one error in casting. Performers in one entertainment medium are sometimes less effective in another, and so it is with Mason, a slight jar in a scene of otherwise complete dramatic splendor.

SPEECH LIGHT

His voice at times seems lost in the requirements of his two roles and is no doubt largely responsible for this spectator's slightly unfavorable reaction.

Mason professes himself well satisfied with his trip from Hollywood. On a business level, his freefold purpose was to get a change of pace from movie acting, to participate in the high purpose of the Stratford enterprise, and to have "purely professional exercise" in other acting forms.

He found himself "very unhappy," he told me, with his first night portrayal in "Measure for Measure," the first stage role of Shakespeare in 22 years, but feels he has met the challenge of it now.

And would he like to return to Stratford another year to a living theatre the appeared in New York once before, briefly?

"Not if I can possibly avoid it," he replied. The reasons, he added, are that the actor must "drive and

Jitterbug Snags 26-Pound Lunge In Stoco Lake

TWEED—Casting with a jitterbug in Stoco Lake Sunday night, Ross Fetterly added a 26-pound muskie to his season's record.

Feterly, a Toronto man and ace fisherman in this district, spends the holidays at his cottage in the south end of the village.

It was estimated he has taken more lunge from this lake than any of his fellow anglers during the past years since he began calling Tweed his summer home. His total so far this summer has been four of the large fellows, weighing from 13 pounds to 26 pounds.

Not satisfied with that record, this angler is always seen on the lake trying to catch and conquer new prizes.

slug all the time," concentrate on one specialized type of theatre, and meet the standards of one particular group of critics and spectators in Gotham.

"I would very much like to do a U.S. tour though," Mason said.

One Killed, Seven Feared Dead In Distillery Fire

110,000 Barrels of Whisky Destroyed in Rack-Houses

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Flames licked close to the whisky-packed rackhouses at the American Distilling Company plant today where 110,000 barrels of aging whisky have gone up in flame and explosion since Wednesday morning.

At least one person has been killed, seven are missing and feared dead under smouldering debris, and more than 30 have been injured.

The continuing fire, capped by a dazzling night explosion seen 75 miles away, destroyed much of the company's sprawling 24-acre facilities in this central Illinois city. Damage is well into the millions of dollars.

STARTED IN STORM

The explosion Wednesday night lifted the roof and walls of the company's rackhouse — a six-storey brick building — high into the air. The debris rained down on firemen and plant workers trying to fight the fire, whisky — fed flame touched off 17 hours earlier during a severe electrical storm.

Workmen on the city water line from the Illinois river and reported handicapped by low pressure when forced to retreat a quarter of a mile because of the threat of new explosions.

The fire Wednesday morning consumed two eight-storey rackhouses where whisky is stored in barrels for aging, and a four-storey brick cooperage storage house. Some 42,000 barrels of whisky burned in that portion of the fire.

Firemen worked from 2:30 a.m. to extinguish the blaze. But at 7:30 p.m. yesterday 2 containing 68,000 barrels exploded.

BRICKS KILL WORKMAN

Lawrence Herrera, a plant employee, was killed by falling bricks.

The blast bulged plate glass windows a mile away from the plant.

Four more persons, including a thousand gallons of whisky extend in a straight line from Washington to Peking, one fireman expressed fear they may "go down like dominoes."

William E. Damour, 48, firm treasurer, who suffered a head injury Wednesday, was in a Peking hospital, said he couldn't even make a guess at the extent of damage the blaze still burning.

However, office manager Al Weis, who estimated the damage in the morning fire at $3,500,000 to $4,000,000.

The distillery, which employs up to 700 persons, closed down July 1 and only a skeleton crew was on duty in the rackhouses.

Truce Commission Holds First Joint Meeting

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Representatives of the three nations forming the Indo-China truce commission held their first joint meeting today with delegates of the five countries concerned in carrying out the truce.

Representatives of Canada, India and Poland met delegates from France, Viet Nam, Vietminh, Laos and Cambodia. They discussed problems of transport, headquarters site, interpreters and accommodation for the commission, due to start its operations in Indo-China by Aug. 11.

The advance party of the truce commission will leave for Indo-China by air Saturday.

It will include three members from each of the commission powers, one of whom will be placed in each of the committee's three working areas—Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam.

They will carry on work temporarily until the main representatives of each country arrive.

Military Units In Morocco Are Strengthened

CASABLANCA (Reuters)—France's theatrically strengthened her military units in Morocco today in her campaign to quell rioting and subdue the terrorist pressure from the nationalists for the return of the deposed sultan.

Two companies of Republican Guards have been flown in from France. Another was ferried by ship from Oran in neighboring Algeria.

Squads of heavily-armed troops and police patrol the narrow streets of the Arab quarters of all the main Moroccan towns today.

Open violence seems to have been called off since the disturbances in Fez and Petitjean earlier in the week, but tension is high.

Hundreds of Moroccan women and children are fleeing out of Casablanca by car, bus and rail to seek refuge in the south.

Jenny Lesage, 5, another grandchild, testified that she and Caroline lit matches to get warm. The jury blamed adults for not providing proper heat.

The aged woman's husband Louis and two other grandchildren escaped the fire.

Duke's Timetable Goes Out Window As He Starts Visit to B.E. Games

BY DAVE STOCKLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—With an exception here and there, there will be no more following the Duke of Edinburgh's carefully-worked out timetable until he leaves Vancouver.

One day was made at setting a definite minute-to-minute course for the duke's visit to the British Empire Games. But Philip said no soap; he wanted to be free to visit what looked interesting at the time.

The duke took it easy this morning. His schedule was blank. It was expected he'd have a chance to rest his right hand. He greeted some 300 persons Wednesday night at a reception tendered by the City of Vancouver.

The word went out that the duke was prepared to say hello to everybody and the line formed in quick order.

This afternoon is fairly formal. The duke goes to Empire Stadium for the track and field inspection of a joint services guard of honor. What will draw his attention after the formalities remains to be seen.

The duke did the driving Wednesday when the royal party travelled through the Fraser valley to the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering.

There he inspected a parade of 300 army, navy and air force cadets and told them it they felt homesick they were quite entitled to.

"If this is an example of the Canadian cadet movement, you can be very proud," he said.

The next stop was at the Games regatta at Burnaby Lake where he whisker away from the United States border. There the duke was strictly a spectator, he spent his time in the official box and did not otherwise participate.

He got there just in time to watch Canada score an upset victory over England in the eights.

On the 60-mile drive back to Vancouver, the royal route was thronged with spectators, just as it was in the drive out.

ANTI-SUBMARINE 'COPTER SQUADRON PLANNED BY RCN

'Dunking Sonar' Will Be Used to Track Craft

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy plans to form an anti-submarine helicopter squadron which will use "dunking sonar" to track undersea craft, it was learned today.

It had been hoped to for mthe squadron this year, but the navy has been unable to obtain the helicopters it wants for the job. The target date now is next summer.

The "dunking sonar" is lowered from the helicopter into the water. It "listens" for enemy submarines. If nothing is picked up, the helicopter winds up the sonar and moves to another spot.

The navy now is looking for a helicopter which can carry more equipment than the present types in use and which will have greater endurance. They will have to be of depth charges as well as the submarine detection equipment.

WILL NEED NEW CRAFT

The navy wants four helicopters but they don't fit the anti-submarine bill. Money is available for only two this year, it is understood. They probably will be purchased from the United States.

When the squadron is formed, it will be an experimental unit, at least at first. The navy will have to determine the effectiveness of dunking sonar and decide on the best methods of improvement it may be necessary.

If established, the squadron will operate from the navy base at Dartmouth, across the harbor from Halifax. From it also could operate from the aircraft carrier Magnificent or her successor, the Bonaventure, now under construction at Belfast.

Six helicopters probably would be required for the squadron, but it could get started with only one or two.

U.S. Army Colonel Ducks Behind Combat Ribbons

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A battle-scarred U.S. Army colonel ducked behind his combat ribbons today as the wrath of a thousand American women poured down on him.

"I had no idea I would stir up such a storm," said Col. John H. Dilley, commander of the Frankfurt military post, after he issued an order advising army wives and daughters here to spruce up and tone down their dress.

His directive said "the attire worn in public by some American women is not in good taste," and warned that if they didn't do something about it "corrective action" would be taken.

Outlawed were halter-type sunsuits, shorts on teen-agers or women, and blue jeans on "mature women."

Canadian Chamber Advocates More, Not Less Immigration

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today urged Canada to aim at a population of at least 30,000,000 by 1975 to meet this country needs more, not less, immigration.

"It is the people of Canada who will lose out if short-sighted opposition to immigration impairs the country's future development," the chamber's immigration committee reported.

"We should be aware of the danger in trying to keep so rich a land all to ourselves," it went on.

The committee, headed by A. E. McGillray, assistant to the president of General Motors of Canada, said any study of immigration "reveals it creates more jobs, creates more homes and raises the standard of living."

The skills of Canada's 1,000,000 post-war immigrants often helped eliminate production bottlenecks, it said.

"As a nation with the greatest potential development of any country in the world today, Canada must be prepared to face up to this problem of immigration," it continued.

The report said community leaders and various organizations and groups "must provide leadership in developing a public opinion that will demand the required increase in population by immigration."

It listed seven reasons for stepping up immigration:

1. The U.S. reference asswvay and the trans-continental pipe line offer opportunities both for heavy labor and skilled artisans.

2. Young male immigrants, willing to work in out-of-the-way places could help speed development of natural resources.

3. They would provide farm labor to replace workers who have left for the cities.

4. By boosting population immigration would strengthen Canada's defences.

1. It would cut overheads, both by lowering per capita taxation and by permitting mass production methods. Present plant facilities would be made of the government's transport and communications facilities.

6. Historically a heavy inflow of immigrants has meant greater stability, higher efficiency and higher production and consumption.

7. Immigrants create employment.

On this last point the chamber added:

"Experience over the years has shown that immigrants have created employment rather than unemployment. Of every 100 immigrants arriving, 30 become producers or self-employed, and not only do not displace the labor-force, but become direct consumers of all sorts of agricultural and manufacturing manufacturing goods."

Russian New Bid for Big Four Meeting Meets Caution

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's new proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting is officially regarded here as part of a persistent drive to wreck Western anti-Communist defences and to destroy eventually U.S. leadership of the free world.

Officials said today Britain and France stand firmly with the United States in opposition to this Kremlin campaign. They forecast that the Russian proposal made Wednesday, for new talks on European security will be turned over by joint decision. Deputy power talks on a reply now are being under way in London.

However further Soviet moves are expected. The belief here is that the Russians may try to devise proposals of increasing attractiveness to Western Europe that immediate major aim is to block West German rearmament.

Their proposal for an overall European security system has been put forth as an alternative to the Western-sponsored European Defence Community proposing to rearm West Germany as part of a European army. It has gone to come up for action soon in the French assembly.

Russia's over all campaign aimed at isolating the U.S. is being developed along two main lines, officials said.

One seeks to convince non-Communist nations all over the world that the Communist bloc wants only peace. The agreement of the Reds to end the war in Indo-China fits into that line, as does their European plan.

The other line is directed toward convincing the free nations that the U.S. is committed to starting a new war.

President Eisenhower told his press conference Wednesday that the soviets are "spending literally billions in different kinds of propaganda" and using subversion and bribery to drive this contention of theirs toward acceptance by mid-line. The president declared the U.S. must "be more imaginative in finding ways to combat" the Red campaign.

TEXAS FARMERS MAY QUIT LAND DUE TO DROUGHT

Federal Aid Already Granted to Six States

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON Jr.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Farmers and ranchers are glum and dispirited in the vast drought country where cotton and grain crops and cattle graze on brown pastures.

"Unless we assist in every possible way," says agriculture commissioner John Willy Mooss Tresa, "thousands of our rural people will have to abandon the land."

White speaks for only one state. But drought and heat all the Great Plains, in spite of recent rains and federal aid already granted to six states.

Good rains in sun-burned sections of the south-central east have been more helpful—but not enough to save most crops.

CLAIM AID INSUFFICIENT

Here is what men who live on the seared land throughout the disaster areas say:

Police accosted a man later that they had arrested six rioters, but released four after questioning.

Wheat-growers say federal relief is the main port supplying a quarter-million U.S. troops on the Iron Curtain line.

The two held were a man and a woman, detained by police as ringleaders. Police said the woman "incited" the "agitated" against the police and the state."

Hundreds of persons sympathetic to the demonstrators gathered around city hall demanding their release.

Reds Refuse Second Protest Made by Britain

LONDON (AP)—Red China has refused a British protest against the shooting down of a British Overseas Airways Corporation transport plane in Malaya last month, diplomatic officials said today. Three Britishers were killed in the attack.

Informants here said the British charge d'affaires Humphrey Trevelyan sought to deliver the Washington protest note Wednesday to the U. S. government but the Communists refused for the second time in four days.

The United States does not recognize Red China and has no diplomatic dealings with the Peiping government.

The Reds last week refused to accept the first U. S. protest.

UNCOVER DIAMOND PLOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Four persons were held under federal bail Wednesday, after a routine spot-check revealed a plot to smuggle $200,000 in diamonds into the United States. Severe Storm Hits Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A severe electrical storm knocked down power poles and trees in suburban s e r v i c e Wednesday night, and several persons reported seeing a black, funnel-shaped cloud resembling a tornado.

The weather bureau said winds of 70 miles an hour were recorded in 30-mile-an-hour gusts. A forecaster said the swirling cloud probably was part of the turbulence in the storm front.

U.S. Army Project Causes Rioting In Bremerhaven

Trouble Caused by Eviction Notices Sent House Owners

BREMERHAVEN (AP) — A thousand angry dock workers clashed here with German police riot squads today in a fight against the U. S. Army's project to build military apartments on the site of 25 German homes.

Fists and clubs flew as police reserves were rushed to the scene from nearby Bremen to quell the demonstration. Waterfront Communists were rumored to have helped incite the violence.

Trouble started brewing when owners of the 25 houses received notice of eviction recently. The U. S. Army had requisitioned their property under occupation law to construct a 30,000,000 mark ($7,140,000) housing project for American personnel. In turn, the army offered to release 741 requisitioned houses in Bremen to German authorities.

Police announced later that they had arrested six rioters, but released four after questioning.

Far-Communist Bremen is the main port supplying a quarter-million U.S. troops on the Iron Curtain line.

The two held were a man and a woman, detained by police as ringleaders. Police said the woman "incited" the "agitated" against the police and the state."

Hundreds of persons sympathetic to the demonstrators gathered around city hall demanding their release.

Justice Raises Possibility Of Manslaughter

PERCE, Que. (CP) — Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix today raised the possibility of a manslaughter verdict in the murder trial of William Coffin, 63-year-old prospector accused of killing one of three American bear hunters found dead in the Gaspe bush last year.

The presiding judge said the jury could rule manslaughter if it was convinced Coffin had killed Richard Lindsey of Holidaysburg, Pa., while he was drunk. Mr. Justice Lacroix advised the jury, however, to hand down either a verdict of guilty or not guilty.

The judge started delivering his charge in English shortly after the day's session opened.

Before the charge to the jury Crown prosecutor Gerard Paul Miquelin accused the defence of making errors in its plea Wednesday.

He said defence counsel Raymond Maher had referred to Coffin's manslaughter claims, when there nothing in the evidence to show that the prospector had any such intent. He said Maher also hinted that Gaspe gatekeepers were lax last year and had improved this year on special orders.

Mr. Justice Lacroix cautioned the jury that they must rule on evidence, beyond any doubt, that Coffin was the slayer of Richard Lindsey.

If the jury wished to return a manslaughter verdict, it must be sure that Coffin had taken alcohol with no intention of committing a criminal offence.

Plant Ready For Production

LEAMINGTON (CP)—The Wallaceburg plant of the Libbey-Owens Company of Canada is in readiness for production, a company official told Wednesday.

No one knows when the peak 10-day tomato production period will come, Sherk added. Farmers have a bearing, and they vary over the large growing areas of Essex and Kent.

Negligence Charge Against Navy Officers Quashed by Appeal Board

OTTAWA (CP)—The court martial appeal board today quashed conviction of two navy officers on charges of negligence in the stranding of a Canadian destroyer in Korea a year ago.

By a 2-1 decision, the board struck down the court martial verdict against Cmdr. Richard Ellsworth Medland, Montreal, captain of the destroyer Huron, and ordered a new trial. The two dissenting members upheld the trial the conviction should be quashed and no new trial held.

By unanimous decision, the five-member board wiped out the conviction against Lt.-Cmdr. T. J. C. Thomas of Dartmouth, N. S., officer of the watch at the time of the grounding July 13, 1953, on Yang Do island off the east coast of North Korea. The navy has no appeal from the board's decision.

Chenoweth, Thomas and Lieut. Gerald Hallett, Victoria, B.C., navigator of the Huron, were convicted of negligence by a navy court martial at Halifax in August and sentenced to be severely reprimanded. Emerson did not appeal in this conviction. No one was hurt in the grounding, shortly after midnight when the Huron was on patrol.

The majority decision ordering new court martial for Chenoweth was written by L. C. Audette and was concurred in by Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of the Exchequer Court of Canada, chairman of the board, and B. M. Alexander. George Addy wrote the minority decision that the conviction should be quashed and no new trial held and he had the concurrence of M. B. K. Gordon.

Tourists Unable To Find Station, No Sign on It

The Belleville police station, resplendent in its fresh coat of paint and its green metallic awning, might as well be located in Timbuctoo for all the convenience its location is to tourists seeking information about traffic and road conditions.

Westbound traffic on Highway No. 2 goes right past the station but hardly souls, who have finally discovered the station need some convincing that it has been under their noses all the time.

Reason for the difficulty appears to be the lack of a sign on the police station. There is nothing on or about the building to tell tourists that it is a police station.

Apples, Grapes Will Be Heavy Crop This Fall

TORONTO (CP)—There will be more apples and grapes in Ontario this year according to a provincial report issued Wednesday.

The report estimates the 1954 apple crop will be about 2,783,000 bushels, at least 100,000 bushels more than 1953.

Recent dry conditions may have had some effect on Georgian Bay orchards, where McIntosh and Snow varieties were subjected to a prolonged June drought as well as apple scab.

In eastern Ontario, apples are said to be 17 per cent better than last year, especially in Northumberland and Prince Edward counties. The crop will increase this year to be from Soy orchards.

The last survey of grapes, the report said, showed prospects of crop 10 per cent better than 1953 — or 13,000 tons.

Ontario's pear crop will be down about 10 per cent, peaches about five per cent. All berries are down from last year's crop.

World Council Of Churches Meets Aug. 15

The World Council of Churches, holding the second World Assembly at North Western University, Evanston, Ill., August 15th through August 31st, the first assembly of the World Council of Churches, when it was officially established after 20 years of provisional organization, was held in Amsterdam, Holland, in August, 1948. There, for the first time in history, a permanent world organization of churches dedicated to unity and co-operation was formed. This movement (known as the "ecumenical movement" in meaning world-wide) is one of the most significant of the past four centuries. The world headquarters are in Geneva, Switzerland.

Coming to Evanston for this great gathering in August are representatives from 161 church bodies from 48 countries of the world. The theme will be "Christ, the Hope of the World."

Beside thousands of delegates and visitors from all over the world, there will be 150 consultants, (the experts in various fields of inquiry who have been invited for the assembly during the past 5 years) 120 youth consultants drawn from young leaders in all parts of the world and 700 representatives of press, radio and television. Newspapermen predict that there will be the largest gathering of press representatives ever to come together.

The first night, Sunday 15th, will be given to a great "Festival of Faith" to be held in Soldiers' Field, Chicago. Seven churches expected and this will be one of the most unique and moving services ever held in the U.S.

Police Court

The epidemic of automobile radio thefts prevalent in Toronto in recent weeks has apparently extended to the Belleville district with two such thefts reported this week.

Tuesday night a car radio was taken from a car on the used car lot at Trudeau's on Station St., while last night Charles Fremeting, 265 Charles St., parked his auto on a grocery chain store parking lot and when he returned two hours later his radio was missing.

People doubted that the thefts were connected with any organized gang such as is found in the big cities but were more inclined to blame the thefts on youths who wanted radios for their jalopies.

Square Dancing Course Open To All Groups

The Recreation Committee under the direction of Lloyd "Judge" Doran opened a course of square dancing last evening at the Prince Charles school and the response was most gratifying to the committee. There were two separate in training with Bill Workman, recreational director at Trenton, in charge. He is one of the best teachers in this form of recreation in the province.

There will be six more classes held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, at the same school for the next two weeks starting at 8 o'clock. The classes will start at eight o'clock in the evening and continue for two hours and it is expected when the course is completed there will be enough trained leaders to give instructions to all groups, children and adults in the city.

The committee is anxious that every available person in the city will take advantage of what the members of the committee are trying to accomplish, give wholesome recreation to every adult and child in this city. More groups are being formed to fit the needs of the handicraft, puppetry and possibly art, which will start operating in the fall. Also the committee has been handicapped in securing facilities for these enterprises. The Public School Board has been most kind and generous to the work of the Recreation committee in providing space in the schools for the work and it is hoped their kind office will alleviate the situation.

The playground schedule is in full swing and the summer is flying by with a full schedule and a field day later in the month. The public is invited to visit any of the twelve playgrounds in the city and view the work that a well-trained board of supervisors are accomplishing.

OAKLAND, Calif. (CP) — Five persons were killed Wednesday as a private plane crashed after leaving Oakland airport.

Many Spills Feature Racing At Fair Grounds

Sponsors of stock car racing at the Fairgrounds last night brought two modified stock cars from Kingston to give fans a glimpse of things to come. Both cars, among the fastest in Ontario, staged a whirlwind exhibition during the early track that gorged the spectators enthusiasm for more. So much so officials promised that next week these super super-charged heaps will be up in full force.

Larry Arnold of Kingston, driving one of the smoothest cars on the track followed a win in the consolation heat by taking first in the feature event. Just for the heck of it Arnold paced the two modified models in one of their exhibition earlier in the evening and almost beat out Art Brinkhow, Napanee for second place.

Placed in the feature event were Fred Mesinga, Belleville, second and Red Young, Kingston, third.

The spills came early last night when Ron Skarpe, Belleville exchanged numbers with a number in the opener. The first semi-final was cancelled after a spectacular heave-up between Herb Leach and Fred Gibson, both of Kingston that rammed their machines in the air. Both men escaped injury. Orville McCoy of Kingston, also climbed unscathed from a wreck in the final feature.

Lorne Johnson, Belleville, won the opening heat from Dusty Sandford of Kingston. Johnson over had fans watched Herb Leach of Kingston draw away from Fred Mesinga to win the event. In the second event, Placed third was Bud Young of Odessa.

Site May Soon Be Smothered By Civilization

TORONTO (CP) — A sacred snake, a prehistoric site believed to be the only one of its kind in Canada, may soon be smothered and ruined by the advance of civilization.

The 185-foot snake, built as a religious shrine by a tribe of Indians about 2,000 years ago, lies in a high promontory overlooking Rice lake, 10 miles south of Peterborough.

Surrounding the snake and coiling up to within 100 yards of it are summer cottages and vacation sites.

Edmund Carpenter, a University of Toronto archaeologist, Wednesday described the site as one of the most important in Canada from archeological, historical and zoological standpoints.

"It could be one of the most beautiful national parks in the country, if developed," he said in an interview.

The only other similar shrine known in North America is in Ohio that also has been maintained as a state park and high towers have been erected so that tourists can see and appreciate the proportions of the snake.

Menzies Says Australia Will Support Pact

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert Menzies said today Australia will support the proposed Southeast Asia defence organization "to the hilt."

Menzies held the new session of the federal Parliament the West must present a common front against Communist aggression.

APPEAL TO ASIA

He appealed to Southeast Asian countries to consider joining the proposed defence organization. He urged Asians to realize that communism's one objective was the enlargement of its boundaries of dictatorship, Canada, added.

Australia would accept military responsibility as part of its membership.

"The free world cannot continue to negotiate from weakness or disintegration," he said.

"The time has come when we must present, if this is we humanly can, a common front backed by common power."

Speaking after Menzies, Herbert Evatt, leader of the opposition Labor party, supported the immediate establishment of SEATO. He declared that "the membership of Great Britain is essential."

POINTS TO DANGER

Britain has been excluded from the strongest defence grouping now existing in the area, the three-nation Anzus pact (Australia, New Zealand, United States) military organization.

Earlier, discussing the Indo-China truce terms, Menzies said they were on the whole the best obtainable in the circumstances. But he added that they must not overlook the possibility that free elections in Viet Nam might result in a Communist administration the whole of the state.

Ald. Auld PC Candidate In By-Election

BROCKVILLE (CP) — James A. C. Auld, 39-year-old Brockville alderman, was nominated Wednesday to represent the Progressive Conservative party in the September provincial by-election in Leeds county. He is the youngest candidate in local history of the party.

More than 250 party followers attended the nomination meeting at Athens, 15 miles north west of here.

William J. Nickle, of Kingston, and the Hon. George Challies, vice-president of Ontario hydro electric, power commission, were principal speakers.

The by-election will fill the vacancy created by the death last March of C. Gordon Macodrum who represented Leeds for the Progressive Conservatives since his election in November, 1951.

Leeds Liberals will nominate a candidate Aug. 11.

Board Approves Commuter Fares In Toronto Area

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today granted the railways an increase in commuter fares in the Toronto area.

Increases of roughly 100 per cent go into effect by stages starting Sept. 30.

The railways are permitted to put into effect Sept. 30 half the increases they proposed, with the next 25 per cent effective in six months, and the further 25 per cent going into effect six months later.

This decision grants the railways the full amount of higher rates they sought but spreads the jumps over a year instead of a half year as they asked.

The board rejected an application of the Oakville Commuters' Association for an order that the CNR provide additional commuter service between Oakville and Toronto.

The rate order applies to commutation service between Toronto-Oakville, Toronto-Weston, Toronto-Port Union and between Toronto and the suburban stop of St. Clair avenue.

Western Oil Companies, Iranian Govt. Reach Broad Agreement

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Representatives of eight big western oil companies and the Iranian government announced broad agreement today to restart Iran's frozen oil industry. They said they hoped to begin shipping at least some of the oil again in about two months.

Under the agreement announced simultaneously in Tehran and London, the eight companies at a consortium will operate the vast Abadan refinery and the surrounding oil fields. They will buy the oil output from Iran and will sell the production abroad. Iran will retain title to the fields and the refining facilities.

Informed sources said the rate of payment to Iran was virtually the same 50-50 split prevailing elsewhere in the Middle East.

The agreement will run for 25 years, with provision for three five-year extensions.

The eight companies making up the consortium are Britain's Anglo-Iranian, which developed and operated Iran's industry alone until ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh nationalized its holdings in 1951; Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, the Texas Co., Gulf Oil Co., and Socony Vacuum, all American; Royal Dutch Shell and Compagnie Francaise de Petroles.

Informed sources said the companies would set up this division among themselves: 40 per cent to Anglo-Iranian, 40 per cent to the five American companies, 14 per cent to Dutch Shell and six per cent to the French firm.

Anglo-Iranian will get little direct compensation from Iran—only about $85,000,000—for its huge former properties and the 39 years the company's exclusive lease had to run. The company originally had claimed $500,000,000.

The announcement said the agreement "must now be put into proper legal form, approved by the boards of directors of the participating companies, signed by the parties concerned . . . submitted for enactment as part of the law of Iran and for formal approval of the Shah."

(Sources in Washington estimated the job of putting the long idle Iranian facilities back into operating shape would take the rest of the year and cost $50,000,000 to $70,000,000. They estimated appreciable production would get underway about Jan. 1.)

The three-year shutdown in oil royalties had brought Iran to the verge of bankruptcy and Communist takeover. U. S. financial aid staved off the economic failure and Gen. Fazollah Zahedi's overthrow of Mossadegh last summer spiked Red plans.

Woman Gashes Arm Trying To Open Window

TRENTON, (Special.) — Mrs. Jean Webb, 17 1-2 Water Street, Trenton, had her key Wednesday night and wound up in Trenton Memorial Hospital having her arm repaired surgically.

Mrs. Webb, unable to find her key finally broke the window in the door so that she might unlock it from the inside, in so doing she gashed her right arm severely.

Farmers Across Province Start Threshing Grain

TORONTO (CP)—Combines and threshing machines were in full operation across most of Ontario this week as farmers harvested their fall wheat and spring grain crops.

In western and southern Ontario recent rains have helped pastures and late crops but more rain is needed to revitalize the land, parched and sun-baked by last month's drought, the Ontario department of agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

In some western farmlands pastures are badly affected and farmers have been forced to stable - feed dairy cattle. Several counties reported a reduction in milk flow.

Farmers in southern Ontario said their hardest hit pasture and corn crops have been "greatly helped" by the rain.

Eastern and central counties reported "serious damage" by an invasion of army worms which in some areas have damaged up to 50 per cent of the oat crop. The worms have also damaged barley and corn fields.

Harvest is in full swing in parts of northern Ontario where some districts reported the highest yield in more than 20 years.

Pasturage ranged from good to excellent in most areas.

THE BEGINNING OF AN ERA

Canada's conquest of her northern frontier is a continuing saga.

Every so often a milestone in the industrial and economic progress of this conquest is passed. Canadians, for the most part hugging the warmer and less harsh strip of terrain along the border, pause briefly to note a particular event, and then return again to the personal problems of their everyday lives.

Last Saturday was a significant milestone in the industrial revolution of Canada. Last Saturday the premiers of Quebec and Newfoundland jointly turned a switch that started the flow of Labrador's iron ore to the steel mills of the United States. This was the end of an adventure and the beginning of an era.

Canadians are becoming more and more familiar with the recent sagas of their own country because these things have captured the interest and imagination of people in other countries. Most people are familiar with the statistics of the gigantic undertaking that is the Ungava iron ore development. The land that lies between Seven Islands on the St. Lawrence River and Knob Lake, 360 miles to the north, was described by early Canadians as "the land God gave to Cain." Its cold and forbidding features successfully resisted three centuries of colonization in North America.

Its conquest required the mechanized labor of a total of 20,000 men for more than four years. These men were assisted by the greatest industrial airlift in history. A railroad 360 miles in length was pushed through mountains and across rivers to span the 360 air miles to the interior. Back of the men and the machines on the job was the vast organizational and financial teamwork of Canadian and American business men who spent $300,000,000 before a single ton of ore was ready for shipment to the mills.

But back of all this is the realization that Canada's frontier has been extended vastly more than compressed. Until the iron ore deposits of Labrador attracted industry 300,000 square miles of territory on the Quebec-Labrador border were closed to settlement and useless to the Canadian economy.

Penetration of this wilderness to the heart of Ungava opens a barren territory for the use of the Canadian people.

Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis, whose active encouragement of this great undertaking was in large measure responsible for its early completion, stated the case succinctly at last Saturday's ceremonies.

"Just think of 300,000 square miles of land, a strange land where resources were unused, was giving nothing, was producing nothing, had no inhabitants, no civilization, no schools, nothing, nothing for centuries. And suddenly, almost overnight, you see this barren territory become not only the site of a great, gigantic development, but also the source of ever greater developments."

That is what Ungava means to Canada and what the opening ceremonies at an ore dock last Saturday symbolized—"the source of ever greater developments."

The saga of Ungava is not ended. Already the railroad is built, the open pit mines are yielding their ore, and the docks at Seven Islands busy with commerce. It is just beginning.

GIVE US STRENGTH

The rash of record breaking at the British Empire Games in Vancouver would seem to indicate that the youth of the Commonwealth are not the physically wretched specimens we have been lead to believe.

One of the few consolations of advancing age is predicting dire consequences for the decaying physical capacities of youth. Periodically gloomy predictions are issued by military leaders about the number of physically rejects. Health authorities brighten conventions with morbidity statistics. Sociologists thunder about the wanton ways of adolescents and gloomily forecast the disintegration of society and the decline of national vigor.

We should like to point out that evidence would seem to prove "it just isn't so."

The general health of the people in Canada and the United States, at least, has been better. Modern medicines not only put to rout many of the contagious diseases that plagued our fathers. New medicines and new medical and surgical techniques are rescuing and rehabilitating to full active living many who, in other years, would have remained weak and crippled.

Preventive medicine, including immunization programs as well as sanitary codes for the processing and food distribution; advances in food processing; a better understanding of what constitutes a good diet, and vitamin and mineral supplements have not only broadened the diet of the average Canadian, but has made him healthier too.

It is always risky equating national vigor with those superb physical specimens who represent nations at international sporting events.

Nevertheless it seems somehow significant that today's youth are excelling in strenuous physical sports at the same time as the physical fitness of youth in general is called into question.

The world's best woman tennis player for the past three years is a girl who is not yet 20. Australia's Davis Cup champion team last year was sparked by two teen-agers. A Toronto girl last week finished seventh in a field of 35 men and women in a 25 mile swim at Atlantic City. Record breaking performances in the swims at the British Empire Games have been turned in by 15 and 16 year-old Canadian and Australian girls. The world's only two four-minute milers are under 25.

And so it goes. While youth continues to excel in the physical games that are designed for youthful stamina and energy, older folk watching the increasing number of office workers, the rise of spectator sports, and the inability of motorists to walk to the corner for a package of cigarets, become more and more convinced that the younger generation is going to pot, physically.

Quite likely the wretched slaves who piled stones for the pyramids shook their heads in sadness thinking of the declining strength of their sons who merely had an car to pull on a Pharoah's barge.

Twas ever thus.

Strange TV Mixture

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A citizen who installed his new television set a few weeks ago has been deriving a great deal of pleasure in picking up local broadcasts from various stations in the United States.

Two different programs were coming in the same channel a few days' ago, he explained. "One was a travelogue of South America, showing among other things an exciting bullfight in which the matador was injured by the bull, amidst great excitement and yelling from the crowd. The other was a church service.

"Well, out of the time we were watching the bullfight while the sound was the preacher's voice in the middle of his sermon; and part of the time we were watching the preacher in the pulpit whose words were drowned out by the tumultuous sound of the bullfight."

Not Good Enough

(Windsor Star)

Russia's boast that it had warships in 907 A.D., long before any other country, leaves anyone in the Soviet research department in an exposed position. It's on record that after the Great War Russia was building warships before 875, and was outproducing the Danes before 892.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1954, Edgar A. Guest)

By EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD HAT AND I

A little bit frayed at the brim,
Forever the silk lining gone,
Not nearly so stylish and trim
As the day when I first put it on.

The women folk, almost in tears,
"Get rid of that ancient hat!" say.
But I like it, and have down the years
And I'm not going to throw it away.

Time was that fedora was brown,
My initials were stamped on the band,
But they've faded, along with the crown,
There are grease spots the worse
Women can't stand.
They insist a new hat I should buy,
And that time not a brown, but a grey.
But a stubborn old fellow am I
And I won't throw the old one away.

If its shape has bulged out just a bit
I answer them back: "So has I, too, have grown older with it,
And my hair has begun to decline."

"Get rid of that hat," I've been told,
But continue to tell it they may,
I reply: "Well, we both have grown old,
For that, would you throw me away?"

Sensible or Sleepy?

Even now it is hard to sense that the last session of Parliament was really officially prorogued at all and what it didn't, like an old soldier, simply "fade away." It was the shortest one ever held by Conservative Leader George Drew and Liberal Stating star Jack Pickersgill agreed on that) which is no trivial achievement. Between the 13 and the closing day—45 minutes were 8,000,000 words—none inspired and few even heeded—which is a fair measure of the grim task of being a Hansard reporter.

This soporific quality of Canada's House of Commons, and the dreary pedestrian pace, must call for some kind of probing if the cause of it is not to be traced to an indigenous "dead pan" trait of Canadians generally. Some writers claim that it is only we would hate to think the people of this country are as dull collectively—and heaven help us if they are as dull individually. Others with political drowing would suggest. Our Parliament is in fact a study in sleep inducement, and we'll be getting to be something of a tribe.

Opening a week-long seminar on Canada at the annual Chautauqua, Institute, in New York, George V. Ferguson, editor of the Montreal Star, said that we Canadians "lack vividness, color and violent emotion." Just as well, didn't he add, for it means that because of a tendency for Canadians to become violent is spread into a conflict between French and English-speaking Canadians, a term Ferguson himself was used in national problems. Which seems to mean that the routine of compromise has come to be a national policy in itself—and a dull, if necessary one.

Of course the lameness and sleepiness of the Ottawa picture could be interpreted in a lot of different ways. It could be argued that in face of everything which his prophesies have been well forthcoming, Mr. Ilsley is the extraordinary prosperity of the Canadian people through the post-war years and ask how the public could find the speeches of Hon. Paul Martin or Hansard Hon. Lionel Chevrier interesting. Or from memories of the bitter depression days of the thirties when they last held power; and the Grits are no less than human in suggesting that the good times we have had were in no small part due to their alchemy. At any rate the Conservatives, who don't know just how conservative they should be at this point, are plainly not sure of themselves, which doesn't make for the type of partisan bitterness that so often shakes other democracies.

It is the bleakest contrasts that would puzzle any interpreter of the phenomenon. The American people, who have never been richer or more prosperous, but their politics are full of ginger and fireworks. The way his opponents went after "neckties eisenman" Harry Truman; the way Roosevelt's policies even today are occasionally paraded for lambasting, and the way Congress and the Senate still boil, are as many worlds removed from our Canadian panorama as to be jolting. Is it because the Yanks are more alive? Or because they are more immune from criticism that Churchill never had? Nye Bevan's caustic comment on opposite "bloated bladder of lies," and Sir Winston can call him "that man" and "that lying gutter," and people in the U.K. may think it's funny, but they don't worry much and turn to the sport pages. Anything like that even in a meat ball rally or at least a parliamentary convention.

All of which may not add up to much. We only feel a little unconscious about the picture and slightly afraid that some one of these days, Canada's apparently accepted outside our country, that Canada's political quiescence is due to lay it to the able administration and a form of Scottish metaphysic that is now unable to put an intelligible finger on within our boundaries.

But for Messrs. Duplessis and Solon Low (a real pair that) we might think that the days of no longer any political issues left for us to worry about.

Perhaps we are fortunate. Perhaps we are simply sleepy.

Britons Admit Weather Cold

(Christian Science Monitor)

When the Londoner admits it's cold in the British capital, the American should try to believe him, even if as such the American is sweltering in mid-July temperatures at their mid-July. For the most part Londoners use the word "cold" with rare discrimination.

To the shivering American visitor in London in early spring it seems indeed that the British host discriminates to the point of exclusion. "Fresh" is the fastening word for a spring day in a chilly day — as if wishing to avoid offending the whimsical and sometimes peremptory elements he visits weather.

But when, as recently, the thermometer stood at 90 deg. F. in July even the Englishman ceases to be respectful. It must for a time be said that he has been calling all those early bouncy days "cold" in the friendliest but at worst preserving grim silence. So now he comes right out and says it's hot.

What may surprise him is that his American friend, used to the insulating Atlantic can find no compassion for him. Instead of a sympathetic facial fanning notey subway rides just for the Londoner and his 47 degree July days is sheer envy.

Conveyor Belt For Humans

(New York Times)

It will never be quite as much fun to ride through the tunnel between Manhattan and the Central or from Grand Central to Times Square as it might be to go for a sleigh ride in Vermont. Even though the static ming boils and that really jiggled the pleasures of the journey would be mild indeed.

But now comes Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Casey, chairman of the Transit Authority, to announce that bids will be let in the year for a conveyor system between the aforesaid Times Square and the previously mentioned Grand Central and Mr. Casey promises that the bids up at a reasonable price the conveyor may actually be operating by 1956 or 1957. The Major has a mile and a half an hour into passengers to accelerate to fifteen miles an hour. But the layman can't help thinking it will scant the necessary motions and in many cases will preserve the jerks that are necessary agility.

A short but significant hunk of subterranean transit system will then have a quality of medium high adventure, and the Major warns that loose bags from time to time a few pulses will slightly tingle.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When we see one of the newer aircraft whistling through the sky we cannot help but think of the vast difference between it and the planes we remember in earlier days. What we ought to do, of course, is reflect on their sameness. The one thing about all of them both is their sameness in the most important thing of all. They all fly. For the same crates of thirty years ago, and these fantastic jet machines of ours of the basic, the all-important feature: they fly.

Possibly the silliest thing about us, in the eyes of the twenty-first century, will be our complacency and satisfaction. The improvements we have made! What a marvellous generation we have been!

But we still set loaves of bread, as the Babylonians did, and as the Romans did a couple of centuries before Christ—and they too were the envy of the world with the wonders of their civilization. We still live in square houses, on streets, and the very latest designs of architecture bear more and more resemblance to the houses they had in Pompeii. We think of a wife wear cowhide on our feet, and wear the skins of animals for a heelsie substitute thereof) on our bodies. We still wash the dishes in a dishpan, as they did in their kitchens in Egypt a couple of thousand years ago, and we eat with our fingers. We still get up in the morning, eat breakfast, work, have lunch, work, dine, sometimes around, go to bed in a square bed, as they did five thousand years ago. We still gather in crowds to be amused, but the most amusing thing is the contemplation of the spectators of Sobpocles' time and ours. We still listen to gas about and see the world, as the pilgrims did when they went on foot or by camel or by ship from their cities of old.

The only thing is, we go faster. We do not do so well as men. The chances are we see no more than did Cain, Abel and Seth and the children of Adam and Eve too.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

AT LEAST TEN WEEKS

In the preceding talk about smoking I said (1) nobody knows the cause of cancer, (2) physicians generally believe long continued contact with irritation may contribute to development of cancer, (3) cigarette smokers who inhale seem to be more likely to develop cancer of the lung than cigar smokers or pipe smokers.

I said also that in my observation cigar smokers may, but seldom do inhale, and pipe smokers rarely if ever inhale. Once or twice I have accidentally inhaled pipe smoke and it was . . . unrhetic!

Since the American Medical Association nobly stopped selling cigarets for which the aggregation had received buckets of folding money, it has become fashionable for research workers and associated specialists to publish baseline human data to dwell on the tars in tobacco smoke as the probable cause of cancer.

I cannot pretend to be an expert, but I read the literature. I don't believe. I don't believe my moderate pipe smoking has done any harm in the past forty odd years.

By moderate I mean I don't smoke at all when I'm working, until after dinner in the evening. I find smoking is more enjoyable this way than it was when I lighted my pipe right after breakfast and smoked more or less through the day. Two or three days in the week, if readers, editors and like are not hounding me, I give the staff a pop talk about noon, got 'em working hard, and then sneak out quietly and have for the morning pause. I still smoke two or three pipefuls in two hours and then go home. I'll or 3 p.m. when I smoke two or three more, but not after 10 p.m.

I have followed the literature on smoking for many years and it is my conviction that the cancer is not due o anoxia, cell or tissue asphyxia, oxygen deficiency or chronic carbon monoxide poisoning. Not carbon monoxide "poisoning," for this gas, always present in small quantity in tobacco smoke, damages or kills not by poisoning the victim but only by cervedding oxygen out of blood and tissues.

Many cigarette smokers, or those who still have enough character to assert themselves, ask how long it takes to get rid of the nicotine or of one's system.

The answer is a very few hours. Nicotine, if there's any nicotine in the system, but a more complex question for a very young life worker or an older long smoker is, how long will it take to correct or reverse the damage done by carbon monoxide anoxia if 1st generation of damaged cells is still functioning.

Remember what the Michigan man said? He was graded from laying off for ten weeks, after many years of heavy cigaret smoking, to say my statement that it would take at least that long to feel normal again. He said it was a year ago and he has had no desire for resuming smoking since. No sissy, he.

Don't ask me how to quit smoking, for all I can tell you is quit.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BOOK BROWSING

The personality of a second-hand book shop has always fascinated me. It is rarely, indeed, planned and made up of books from thousands of sources. Many a book once greatly loved and prized has been turned over to the second-hand book shop for accession and to the home of one ready to welcome it.

Authors both great and never-to-be-great are huddled together. Poets, essayists, scientists, philosophers, naturalists, artists—all these are represented and scores of others as well. Each accepting its place in this democracy of stores. Each contributing its own and how many a time a real treasure is unearthed! A friend of mine once published a most interesting booklet on first editions of notable books that he had purchased in book shops for no more than ten cents each, and which he called his "second-hand book shelf."

If you are a lover of books, never pass by the opportunity and linger and browse in one of these silent, intriguing institutions, for they are institutions. You can poke around and find the happiest, hopeful discoverer some gem you have sought for years. Many a fine inexpensive library has been built in this manner. Many of them are my own library— "A gift from father," "To Madge, for faithful attendance at Sunday School" and similar inscriptions.

Many of the books you will discover in these shops are inscribed to those by authors, presented to personal friends. As I have come across them I have wondered. Often these inscriptions tell an interesting story. A well-stocked book shop has a lot of "strays" in it—books Mogli here and there, in association with many from different libraries and homes.

Probably the best of book lover's habitually visit the many second-hand book shops that are in various cities. It's a fine habit to form. You never know when you are to make a vein of gold to enrich the mind.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROBE DEEPLY

There is never such a thing as unhappiness apart from selfishness. When you are unhappy, either you yourself have been selfish or somebody else has been selfish. Usually it is you.

You may not agree with this statement. But let us consider it for a time, along with it. The disposition of all of us is to blame other people for our trouble. Somebody did us dirt. Somebody has cheated us, or been mean with us. Try as we will, most of us cannot get away from the disposition to project our troubles to other people and other things. Therefore we need to probe. Let the probe be warning that if we only look carefully, we shall certainly discover selfishness in the picture somewhere, and usually that selfishness is lodged squarely in our own hearts and minds—sometimes in both of these hearts point.

The basic sin of all sins, of course, is selfishness. Along with this comes a lack of trust in God and consequently a sense of selfish (although not all by any means, for you and I have observed a number of nonreligious people who could always be relied upon to think of others in a big and large, lack of religious faith and a profound preoccupation with one's own affairs go together.

Remember in diagnosing a difficulty to probe down and get selfishness out first. If you do, you will find there is not much left of your unhappiness.

Scenes from Centennial Held at Moira Last Week-End

School bells rang again for Moira residents and visitors on Monday when at the Moira United Church Centennial program former teachers greeted the pupils they taught years ago. Mrs. Bertha (Foster) Hudson of Belleville, oldest former teacher at Moira signs register at the school as Mrs. Ethel (Cheson) Williams of Frankford. From the left they are: R. S. Welsh and R. J. Aitchison, both of Toronto; Mrs. Ruth (Emerson) Tufts of Perth; Miss Willehmine Huffman, Belleville; Mrs. Rita (Harrison) Fyear of Stirling and Mrs. Olive (Ketcher) Hudson.

Period costumes were worn by participants of a monster call-thumpian parade which illustrated progress during the past century. Members of a float party illustrating pioneer life were Jean Thompson (left) and Mae Reid. Their mustached male partner is Milton Vanderwater, razor wielding barber, who added a touch of comedy in still another float illustrating a barber shop of three-quarters of a century ago.

A yoke of oxen hitched to a lumber wagon and driven by Moira resident Charles Morland brought a tinge of nostalgia to old-timers revisiting the scene of their childhood days. Mary Thompson is seen here with the two oxen "Buck" and "Bright" owned by her father David Thompson.

A DAY AT THE BEACH NEAR MOSCOW

Beating the heat is a simple affair for Muscovites. There are no taboos about using the beach to change from street clothes to bathing togs, regardless of the swimmer's age, and a soap-bath is permissible. Here, a man and woman are shown in typical swimattire on the shore of the Moskva river. Standard costume for men consists of baggy dark-blue undershorts. Most girls splash about in their hose and underpants.

TRAIN DELAYED

BIG FLATS, N.Y. (AP) — About 20 cars of a Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad freight train leaped from the tracks near this village early today, and several of them burst into flames.

An eyewitness said the derailment was preceded by a "thunderous explosion" of an oil tank car.

No one was reported injured.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONALS

Mrs. William Lockwood, Belleville, R.R. 3, who is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital, is progressing favorably.

B.A., B.D., officiated.

Mr. Andrew A. Beevis presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ronald Collins, who rendered "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a floor-length gown of white nylon net and lace, draped effectively, with a jacket of Chantilly lace, which featured a Peter Pan collar ornamented with seed pearls, bugle beads and sequins. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a halo of matching lace and satin and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Harold Haddon, wore a floor-length gown of orchid nylon net over taffeta with circular bands of lace about the skirt and jacket and halo of matching lace. She carried yellow carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Doris Rush, and Miss Marilyn Latchford, sister of the bridegroom, were similar floor-length gowns of nylon net in shades of ice blue, and pink geranium. Jackets and halos of Rose Point lace completed their ensembles. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Lyle Hagerman was the groomsman and the ushers were, Mr. Kenneth Marrisette and Mr. Ted Laundry.

The reception was held on the lawn at Maple Inn where tables were decorated with sweetpea and baby's breath. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

Receiving the guests was the bride's mother, wearing a gown of navy linen with white accents and matching accessories. Her corsage was of red carnations. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who was attired in powder blue faille and lace complemented by white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Those who served were, the Misses Irene Walters, Joan Marrisette, Jo Ann Rozomiak and Joan Washburn.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a pearl necklace; to the groomsman, cuff links, and to the ushers, wallets.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was luggage; to the matron of honor and bridesmaids, necklaces and earrings.

For travelling through the Adirondack Mountains and other points of interest in the United States, the bride donned a suit of natural linen, red accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Latchford will reside on Bloomfield Road.

Guests were present from Stoco, Wellington and Belleville.

Afternoon Tea Honors Bride-to-Be

A delightful afternoon tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. Bill Holway, 21 Greenlawn Avenue, in honor of Miss Loretta Sine, registered nurse, and bride of this week, prior to her marriage to Lieut. Robert Fisher, of this city.

The thirty-five guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. Holway, and the guest of honor, Miss Sine.

The tea table was prettily appointed with a cutwork linen cloth, centred by a crystal bowl of pansies and baby's breath, and flanked by turquoise candles in crystal holders.

Mrs. Kidd, of Trenton, assisted by Mrs. Wilmot Bailey, of Belleville, presided at the silver services. Those who served included the Misses Marion Harriman, Margaret Kilpatrick, Madge Kidd and Eva Hutchison, all registered nurse friends of the bride-to-be.

The afternoon was spent in a social get-together.

Woman Finds Many Friends In New Zealand

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP) —Grey-haired, quiet-spoken Miss Elizabeth Paton of Winnipeg is finding she has many friends in New Zealand. On a visit from Canada, she has met them in every town—mostly New Zealand Air Force veterans of the Second World War.

Miss Paton was receptionist at the Airmen's Club in Winnipeg—an establishment still spoken of with enthusiasm by hundreds of New Zealanders who trained at Tuxedo and Stevenson field under the Commonwealth air training scheme.

She is bringing verbal messages from Winnipeg to New Zealand and will carry greetings back.

The moment she arrived in Dunedin she was whisked away by a young doctor and his wife. This experience was typical of the greetings she has had.

"The hospitality in New Zealand is just wonderful," she said. "I have never met so many friendly people in my life."

But she is finding there are many gaps too. Names have had to be dropped but her address book because so many of the boys she knew through Winnipeg in the war years never came back from Europe.

The trip through New Zealand and Australia to renew acquaintances is one she will long treasure.

Duchess of Kent, Daughter Will Arrive Aug. 21

They will be met by Governor-General Vincent Massey, Premier Duplessis, Lieutenant - Governor Fauteux and other officials.

From Quebec, the duchess and her party will leave by train Aug. 23 for Toronto, where the duchess will open the Canadian National Exhibition.

OPENS STATION

The duchess and her party leave Toronto Aug. 29 for Niagara Falls, where on the following day she will take part in opening ceremonies at the Sir Adam Beck generating station of the Ontario hydro commission.

Still travelling by train, the duchess will visit Chatham Aug. 31, stopping for only a few hours, and then go on to Windsor. There her visit will be part of that city's centennial celebrations.

The royal visitors will go to London, Ont., Sept. 1 and remain until the next day, when they will be driven to Centralia RCAF station to be flown to Dartmouth, N.S., for the Maritimes section of her tour.

BY AIR AND SEA

After visits to the University of Montreal and McGill University, where she will receive an honorary degree, the duchess will leave by air Sept. 14 for what will be from there she later will return to England by sea.

The federal officials said the tour, which is being made on the invitation of the governor-general, is a "joint enterprise." The federal government was supplying much of the transportation. Hospitality was being provided by cities visited, the CNR and Ontario hydro.

The figure of $45,000 quoted in recent reports of the cost of the visit was out of line, the officials said. It would be closer to half that amount.

Students Make Money With Puppet Show

By RALPH HEINSMEAD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Four University of Alberta students have completed a 5,000-mile tour of Alberta with their puppet show, consisting of 23 hand-operated puppets.

The puppeteers are Joan Angelvedt of Provost, Sheila Monaghan and Carl Hare of Edmonton and Gilbert Bestbier of Bashaw—latest acquisition to the schools by the provincial department of cultural activities. Charging 25 cents admission, the students netted $200 each in the 1953 tour.

To add to the rush, they were booked at the first stop by a banquet given in their honor. They left the town with no time to spare, then encountered adverse driving conditions. They arrived at their destination with five minutes to set up the stage.

The puppet stage had a modern framework, about seven feet high, five feet wide and three feet deep. Below the stage proper was a curtained section in which all four puppeteers crouched. With up to six puppets on stage at once, it was often difficult to find a spare hand among the group to work light switches, sound effects and other requirements.

The four have been active in theatrical work at the university and applied experience gained from the live stage to their puppet show. Costumes and making were designed for effect rather than realism. The sets were lighted on the same principles as the modern stage, with dim-outs and color changes producing the correct moods.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER HUSBAND WANTS A DIVORCE — SHE REFUSES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been married eleven years and have three children, 14, 11 and 3 years old.

Early this year my husband started to go around with an unmarried girl and has now gone off and left me and the children. He is staying with his mother and his family are all on his side, but I think that he would come back home if they would let him alone.

I have always stayed at home and tried to be a good wife and mother and do what my husband wanted me to do. Before he left home, he asked for a divorce, and asked once again when he has been gone. Each time I refused, because I still love him and he is the father of my children.

He has a good job which he likes very much. Surely I am afraid he will lose it if he doesn't settle down with his family and behave.

Can you tell me what to do?

—W.R.

Dear W.R.:

You don't say whether or not your husband is still supporting you and the children, but I assume that he is. In that case, I doubt if you have grounds for any legal action against him that might force him to come home.

My suggestion would be, however, that you get in touch with the Children and Family Service Association in your town and ask if you may come to discuss a serious family problem with someone there. If you will do this, and tell the situation over in detail with an advisor, it may be that you can be helped to work out a way of getting your husband back home again in a peaceable manner.

SHE LOVED, LOST, AND WANTS HIM BACK

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 19 who has loved and lost, but I still love the man with all my heart.

Will you please tell me what I could do to get him back? — J.G.

Dear J.G.:

Unless this man is really eager himself to come back to you, there is certainly no way in which you can prevail on him to do so, and of course it would be a big blunder for you to make an obvious try.

If he ever were to feel he made a mistake in leaving you, and would like to become your friend again, it would be when he saw you behaving in a manner that inspired his respect and admiration. By that I mean, specifically, that you should never let him see you struggling around like a blighted blossom. Instead, go about normally and naturally, taking part in all your usual activities. You'll never get a man back by trying to make him feel sorry for you. You might get him back if you made yourself into such a vivid, energetic and popular young woman that he would feel he couldn't afford to pass you up.

WHEN YOU HURT teasel the "ouch" is usually the way. Take heart to expect nothing from hotels along the way. Take prepared food, of course. Other helpful items are: a bottle warmer which attaches to the car's cigarette lighter, a disposable diaper, a hot plate, your sterilizer unit for those feedings and carrying tool kettles.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE FINGER NAILS

With most busy women, care of the complexion and hair comes first, they don't dare neglect these important elements of good appearance. But they lacquer their finger nails and feel that they have done their duty. The result may be that the nails become brittle, take on ugly little ridges or lose their shell-like gloss.

A frequent manicure is a necessity and, if there is no time for a professional treatment, this ritual should take place at least once a week. If the home manicure is done properly it can keep the nails in fair, healthy condition.

One should have the proper tools and cosmetics, which include a flexible file of high grade steel; curved, needle point scissors; emery boards, nail white pencil, cuticle cream, nail polish and polish remover in orangewood stick.

Don't make the mistake of starting with a hand washing as warm water soften the nails so that they bend when being shaped. Use the metal file, working from sides to center, forming a neat oval line, being careful not to cut the flesh. Pass the orangewood stick under the nails, then use the emery board. The edge must be smooth as silk. If it isn't you'll snag your nylon stockings when putting them on.

Scrub the nails with warm suds and a brush. While they are under water, pass the white pencil under them. When the nails are dry as a bone, apply cuticle cream, massaging it into the nails as well as into the flesh. Let the cuticle work by with the stick: If left to adhere to the nail plate you will be tormented with hang-nails. If you flush up any little shreds remove them with the curved scissors.

A second soapy hand washing follows. After rinsing and drying, apply the polish, putting on two light coats instead of one heavy one. You'll find some lovely new offerings in polish, lighter and more delicate than we have been wearing recently.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HER SISTER'S RIGHT — HER MANNERS REVEAL "TERRIBLE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please give me your point of view about a situation that has arisen in our family? A dear friend of mine for many years, a wealthy woman, had in many ways been very kind to my family and me. She realizes that I do not have the money to return all of this kindness, that all I could do was to be grateful, and we surely all have been grateful. Now this friend has a beautiful summer home on a lake, it is as beautifully furnished as her city house, and a short while ago she came to me to ask that our family spend our vacation at her summer home, all expenses paid. She is planning to spend these weeks elsewhere. Needless to say we were delighted.

However, in talking it over, my daughter and I decided that we could take along a girl friend. At so I would like to take a couple of friends of ours, and to have my daughter's friend and myself occasionally. When I telephoned this friend about these plans, she told me that only one family, that the invitation stood that way, and that unless it was that way, it would be closed. I refused the offer of her house and she accepted my refusal. Now my sister tells me my manners were "terrible," and that I owe my friend an apology. But I maintain that I thought the house was offered to me and that I was terribly embarrassed as I saw fit. Please tell me, Mrs. Beeckman—have I been wrong? — M.E.H.

I should think your sister would think that your manners were "terrible" . . . for terrible they were, and terrible they still are, for you are incredibly selfish. You were, and are, right. If this kind and generous friend can find it in her heart to give this deep discourtesy of yours, your completely selfish point of view, she's a wonderful friend. In the first part of your letter you tell about being "grateful," but in your thinking you are anything but grateful for your friend's superb gesture of friendship and hospitality. You have no right to assume you were to have this beautiful house on your terms. . . "to entertain a couple of girls" . . . and your daughter showed the same lack of courtesy and appreciation when your friend straightforwardly explained that she felt about having others in her house, you then added stubbornness to your lack of gratitude by saying that you'd have a feeling you and your family have come a cropper this time, but perhaps, if you follow your sister's sowise and so-right advice and apologize to your good and kind friend, you will be able to resume the fine pathway of friendship with her.

SHE WANTS TO SHOW HER GRATITUDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two days ago a very dear friend telephoned me that she and her sister had tickets for a play that evening (a play I'd been yearning to see for some time), that her sister had had to go out of town on business, and would I like to go in her place. I was thrilled, and had such a wonderful time that I think I should make some return gesture. Should I have offered to pay for the ticket? Should I make some gesture to the sister whose ticket I used? And what gesture to my kind friend? — Clio Ia.

Since apparently your friend made no mention of your paying for the ticket (it wouldn't have been particularly out-of-order for her to do so) your friend has offered to pay for it. A bow very often made in this circumstance is for the guest to invite the hostess to dine with her before the theater. Although there is really no obligation, I think it would be pleasant and appreciative for you to invite the sisters to some occasion soon: to luncheon, perhaps, or to tea, or a popular movie with luncheon before or tea afterward.

Fashion Flashes

Ideal for school resort wear is the dress and bolero shown. Navy dotted white silk crepe makes a pretty dress with rounded neckline and accordion-pleated skirt. The cropped bolero of navy linen has a navy bound with the dress fabric at the round neckline, the front and short sleeves.

Something new in separates is offered by a designer who does skirt, blouse and matching gloves, in one unit, the slim skirt is of black wool faille, the blouse is of orange wool jersey with an insert of jersey in an orange and black tweedy weave and the gloves are black and white tweed on one side, orange color on the palms.

Going on to the smartest heads right into fall is the planter hat, the newest versions of which use felt. Navy polka-dotted white tie-weight felt is used for a pretty planter with a crown band of intricately woven thick navy silk braid.

Appearing on fall suits in every category but the mail-tailored type is the big collar, cleverly handled in the jacket pictured. A wool rabbit's hair blend fabric is used for a navy suit. The belted jacket has a cuffed, semi-dolman sleeve and a big collar that comes to a point either side, the collar piped with velvet for an extra touch.

Diet Breaking Frozen Desserts

By Mary Moore

"Should I force feed the little Wait boy Dieter?"

When I hear Marianne repeating part of a conversation to one of her nursing buddies who has come home to dinner with her, I eavesdropped openly.

"If I don't make him eat today he'll be three stubborn tomorrow."

That sums up a world of wisdom in this child feeding business.

Do you decide what and when your children eat, or do they?

Do you let a little 5-or-8-year-old mind make your decisions?

I hope with all my heart there is no one in this audience that this question scores a direct hit on, but if there is take my advice friend and smarten up.

I'm sick and tired of lecturing and want to wallow in some food that is wonderfully good to eat.

Anyone want to come along with me and make some rich diet-breaking frozen desserts?

CHOCOLATE VELVET ICE CREAM

Four tablespoons good quality cocoa, 2 cup heavy cream, whipped, 2 cups evaporated milk, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-8 teaspoon salt 1-3 cup hot water. Mix altogether sugar, salt and cocoa, and blend with the boiling water. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved and mixture becomes smooth and slightly thickened. Cool and add evaporated milk, stirring well, then add vanilla and pour into freezing tray. Allow to freeze to firm mush. Remove to ice cold bowl, beat up with fork, and beat with rotary or electric beater until mixture is airy and smooth. Fold in whipped cream carefully and freeze firm without further stirring.

PEPPERMINT ICE CREAM

Two cups whole milk, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 1-2 cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 egg, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-4 teaspoon essence of peppermint green coloring. Scald 1 1-2 cups milk in top of double boiler. Mix together cornstarch, sugar and salt, then stir scalded milk into them until smooth. Cook over hot water 20 minutes, stirring until thickened, then twice during cooking period. Beat the egg and beat into it the remaining 1-2 cup milk. Gradually stir some of the cooked mixture into it then return all to double boiler for five minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool and add flavoring and coloring and freeze to mush. Turn into cold bowl, beat until smooth with rotary beater, then fold in whipped cream. Freeze until firm. Delicious served with

HOT CHOCOLATE SAUCE

Over low heat stir together 1-4 cup butter and 1 1-2 squares (1 1-2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate shaved finely until smooth. Mix together and slowly stir in 1-4 cup each cocoa, 18 per cent cream, 3-4 cup sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt, and bring just to boil and remember not to stir this after it is once mixed. Remove from heat and stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla. May be served warm or cold.

How's that for a mouth-watering combination?

Legion Opposes Plan Prepared For Reserve Army

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Legion, today voiced opposition to the federal government's plan for reorganizing the reserve army. It called, instead, for immediate national selective service for both active and reserve forces.

A resolution to that effect was adopted at the Legion's annual conference here and delegates decided to message it immediately to the government.

It said that the proposed reorganization, in which many reserve army units will be disbanded or amalgamated with other units under the same Canadian Militia, will not strengthen the reserve.

"The likely result is a loss of manpower, a widening of the gap between the active and reserve, creation of dissatisfaction among reserve force personnel . . . and a resultant loss of tradition, esprit de corps and prestige."

WANTS REVIEW

It called on the government to review again the whole basis of reserve army training before any final action is taken.

It said that a three-member commission on whose report the resolution was based, obtained only scanty information on local reserve army problems. The resolution called for immediate publication of the report.

The resolution on national selective service repeated a similar Legion request made two years ago.

It said that in the past many young Canadians have been sent into battle insufficiently trained and added that Canada is the only member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization without a satisfactory method of maintaining its armed forces to meet NATO commitments.

Canada's home forces were "totally inadequate for national defence."

NO DETAILS

The Legion demand did not specify details of a selective service program, except that it should apply to both active and reserve forces. Last Sunday the Legion grand president, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, said there should be six-months' compulsory reserve army training, followed by several years' service in the reserve, but that compulsory service in the active forces should be restricted to wartime.

STRAINED MEETING

ROME (AP) — Ex-King Farouk and his estranged sister Faiza met accidentally Tuesday night in a hotel dining room after a moment of strained silence they had dinner together. It was their first meeting since the Egyptian playboy abdicated and came to Italy to live in exile two years ago.

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Gustavo Rojas Pinilla was re-elected president of Colombia Tuesday night by the National Constituent Assembly. Rojas Pinilla received 66 votes against eight for ousted president Laureano Gomez, now in exile in Spain.

8 Per Cent Gain In Canada's Population

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population is more than eight per cent higher than the 1951 census figure and now is well over 15,000,000.

The bureau of statistics reported today that at June 1 the population was estimated at 15,195,000. This was a 414,000 gain over the previous year, 1,186,000 over the 1951 census figure and 3,132,000 over June 1, 1945.

Ontario's population passed the 5,000,000-mark for the first time, pacing the nine provinces which showed increases. It totals 5,046,007.

Population estimates are made by adding births and immigrant arrivals to the census total and deducting deaths and an estimate of emigration. The birth-rate has been rising and the death rate ranging while more people have been coming to Canada

90 Russian Subs in Pacific Area and 375 in All Is Estimate of U.S. Commander

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP) — The Russian navy may have as many as 90 submarines in the Pacific area, Vice - Admiral William Callaghan, commander of U.S. naval forces in the Far East, estimated today.

"Russia has a total of 375 submarines," Callaghan said in an interview, "and we feel it would be reasonable to expect that one-quarter of them are in the Pacific."

He estimated the Russian Pacific fleet also has 30 destroyer and two cruisers, but no aircraft carriers or battleships.

"Submarines and air power are their greatest threat, so far as their capability is concerned," Callaghan said.

Two weeks ago, Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Far East air forces commander, said combined Soviet, Chinese and North Korean air forces had 7,500 planes, most of them Russian.

25 COMBAT DIVISIONS, TOO

Russian ground strength in the Far East has been estimated at 25 combat divisions by a high-ranking officer on the staff of Gen. John E. Hull, Far East commander.

Callaghan is a veteran of both world wars.

His present command includes the U.S. 7th Fleet, charged with preventing Chinese Communist invasion of Formosa, Chinese Nationalist redoubt.

Asked about the chances the Russians would have in getting aircraft carriers into the Pacific in case of war, Callaghan said:

"I would certainly hate to be in command of a Russian naval force trying to come around the Cape of Good Hope."

COULD CAUSE GRIEF

Russian submarines, Callaghan said, were operating from Japan around Vladivostok and to the north.

He said that any submarine force could only keep one-third of its strength in operation.

"The Germans learned that with submarines you can only count on one-third of them being operational because one-third have to be on the build and another one-third in the rear for repairs."

But the one-third the Russians have in the Pacific could block sea lines by prowling outside harbors.

"At least at first they would give us trouble."

Ottawa Lady Gives Marksmen Stiff Battle

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—An Ottawa housewife shot it out with three of Canada's top male marksmen before bowing out of a tie-shoot for second place Wednesday in the city of Toronto match at the Ontario Rifle Association matches here.

Mrs. Gwen Spencer scored 106 points out of a possible 110 with seven shots at 500 yards and 15 at 600, one point less than the winner, Cliff Wiltshire of Ottawa.

Also shooting 106 were Lieut. Gil Roe, Maj. Herb Cole and Lieut. Dave Reynolds, all of Toronto, in the tie-shoot Lieut. Roe won second money. Third and fourth were Maj. Cole and Lieut. Reynolds with Mrs. Spencer dropping to fifth.

Wednesday's competitions were shot under what contestants called "perfect" conditions. A broken sky gave variations in light and a gusty wind made accuracy impossible.

Capt. Cliff Hawes of Toronto won the Duke of York and Corn Exchange Match with a score of 98 made on 10 shots at 300 and 600 yards.

The meet ends today with the Lieutenant-Governor's match and announcement of aggregate winners.

France Steadily Slipping Into Status of 'Has Been'; Large Red Party in Country

Editor's note: The French have a word for it — "immobilisme." It accounts in large part for the fast France has slipped to fifth among world powers at a time when traditional allies need her most. In this article, AP's Paris bureau chief, a veteran observer of French affairs, tells what it means for France's future.

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP)—Despite her ancient pride and present promises France is steadily slipping into the status of a "has been."

The country which cannot make up its mind, and yet every year of indecision leaves it with less choice of courses to follow.

It is a country on which the Free world has based much of its policy in opposing the spread of communism. Yet it has one of the largest Communist parties outside Russia.

RICH IN RESOURCES

It is a country with a long tradition of freedom and should be a strong bastion of democracy. But it is one of democracy's weakest links.

The country is fundamentally so rich and well balanced in its resources that even since the war there has been a lively expectation that France suddenly would "blossom out" in the full flower of a great nation.

But it hasn't, and the reasons are becoming ever clearer.

Its riches are evident on every hand. Food, one of the great resources of the world, is plentiful here. Fine stands of wheat may be seen in a half hour's drive from the centre of Paris. Yet in a large part of France, farm methods are a century out of date.

Northern France, in the Lorraine area, is an industrial heaven. Side by side lie rich coal fields and great veins of iron ore. Yet until the time of the Marshall Plan 1948, the same up-to-date steel plants in France were those built by the German Kaiser before World War I. They came into France's possession when Lorraine, lost in 1871, was restored to France after the First World War.

POLITICAL SYSTEM WEAK

There's an attitude of shoulder-shrugging among the people when it comes to foreign affairs, almost an epidemic public irresponsibility. They blame it on the wars, and that doesn't include even it. They blame it on French individualism. There is truth in both.

Every French political figure I have talked to puts his finger on one point as the chief cause of difficulty—the present system of French government. The French executive branch is so weak it can be overthrown on the most trivial issues by minor political parties.

INDO-CHINA BETTER PROSPECTS

For France the bitterest result of vacillation and nonchalance has come in Indo-China.

France lost Indo-China temporarily when the Japanese moved in in 1941. In 1945, the French moved back in on the heels of Allied victory in the Pacific War things in Indo-China had changed. The push for independence was already under way when the French returned.

France's position in the Far East, once important, now appears to be ended. Even the part of Indo-China she holds below the 17th parallel probably will be lost to her sooner or later.

Africa remains. France may yet be in a position to shape a brighter future there. But there is no indication the National Assembly is likely to support any definite cabinet policy on that front.

FAIRIES EXTRAVAGANT

Internally, France is doing better than externally. Her domestic production is 45 per cent above 1938. But prices have not lowered to reflect increased efficiency of new factories. Industry is protected by price fixing and market assignment designed to give even the most backward plants a continuing share of business.

The result is that consumers pay extravagant prices. Job security, business security and comfort security have become national fetishes.

Many Frenchmen still are confident that something, somebody, will jerk the people out of their inertia. A few are looking to Premier Mendes-France to bring a revival of French political vigor. He is brilliant and enterprising.

But in the background sit the same forces that have blocked enterprising premiers for years and years. The same parties which gave him their votes as premier refused to allow their members to sit in his cabinet.

Union Spokesmen Not Satisfied With Agreement

WINDSOR (CP)—Union spokesmen Wednesday night expressed bitter disappointment at the terms of settlement of a dispute between Brewers' Warehousing Limited and its employees.

The terms were arrived at in negotiations at Toronto.

About 80 members of Local 278 of the Windsor and District Labor Council, Chatham and other points in Essex, Kent and Lambton counties went on strike in Windsor Monday to enforce contract demands.

The union leaders here said the Windsor local, which controls the three counties, was not notified of the postponement until after the times were on the picket lines. Windsor and the three counties were the only areas in the province actually on strike.

The terms of settlement are not expected to be accepted by the Windsor local.

Brewery Workers Get Increase By Settlement

TORONTO (CP)—A settlement in the contract dispute between Brewers' Warehousing Ltd., and the United Brewery Workers (CLC-CCL) was announced Wednesday night by Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer for the province.

Mr. Fine said an agreement was reached last night signed by both parties covering all matters at issue between them.

The settlement was a five-cents-an-hour increase, effective Aug. 9, 1954. The agreement was signed by counsel for both parties at Queen's Park. It will now be referred back to the union membership for ratification.

The settlement was reached after a series of walkouts occurred earlier Wednesday at company plants in Windsor, Kitchener, Brantford and Leamington. Company officials termed the walkouts illegal.

Most of the 1,300 company employees in 80 Ontario centres, including 500 in Toronto, were at work Wednesday.

Officials of the union blamed the walkouts on the "hard feeling" among some employees over the delay in a wage settlement since the last contract expired March 31.

The union sought a $4 a day increase in the basic rate—the company offered $3. Drivers have been receiving $66.50 a week and other employees $62.50 to $67.50.

Fire, Explosion Strand Hundreds In Offices

TORONTO (CP)—Hundreds of persons were stranded in office building and hotel elevators when a fire and explosion knocked out underground high tension cables in downtown Toronto Wednesday.

Flames shot from a manhole at the intersection, but firemen would not use water to quell the fire. They said it is dangerous to cut the lines unless power was cut off. They forced cold air into the manholes to cool the cables.

WORKMEN UNHURT

Hydro workmen Alan McLeod and Paul Benoit escaped from the manhole without injury. They did not know cause of the explosion. The power break lasted 52 minutes. Hotels and hospitals switched to emergency power plants. One girl elevator operator and her 12 passengers were stranded for 15 minutes. Factories and office buildings in the downtown area were darkened and many office workers stood around in the streets unable to get back to their work.

Both evening papers, The Telegram and The Star, said they would possibly be late in deliveries due to the outage.

Squads of police pushed the large crowd from the manhole area, clearing a similar explosion to one that injured two firemen two years ago.

CHARGE INFANTICIDE

SOUTHPORT, Engl. (Reuters)—A 32-year-old mother, Mrs. Annie Downes, alleged in court here to have thrown her three-month-old baby daughter into the fire at her home. Wednesday was committed for trial on a charge of infanticide. Police read a statement which said she lost her head when the baby and her other child, aged three, got on her nerves.

RUSTLERS AT SIMCOE

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — A calf being raised as baby beef has been rustled and butchered in a field on the nearby farm of Henry Hoeking. He discovered the remains of the calf on the field, and said he thought the beef had been loaded into a truck.

Sense of Truth Being Distorted By Propaganda

—Fisher

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The sense of truth is being distorted by the evils of propaganda and atrophied by moral indifference more than ever before in today's world, Dr. Fred Fisher of Canada said Wednesday night at opening of the world Anglican congress.

"Freedom, without which truth cannot live," Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the archbishop, continued, "is threatened with extinction by the mounting forces of power politics of mass direction, and by man's obsession with materialism which has led him to the next world and to the truth of this."

Dr. Fisher's sermon came after a religious procession opening the 10-day congress, first held since 1908 in London. In line were 600 bishops and priests, led by Dr. Fisher and Bishop Henry K. Sherrill of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America.

The colorful and solemn procession included also 200 lay delegates representing the 14 national churches from every continent. Missionaries from the mission country not represented. Its government would not permit delegates to come to the congress, but the Chinese flag was carried in the line and the space where the Chinese visitors would have marched was empty.

HEADED UNIVERSITY

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Walter Theodore Brown, 71, president emeritus of Victoria University, died Wednesday. Widely known in United Church and educational circles, he retired in 1949.

$42,000 MORE EXPENSIVE THAN MONTY

Invited to open the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year, the Duchess of Kent, right, and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, have brought considerable embarrassment to CNE officials. General Montgomery was the official starter last season and the CNE picked up the expense tag of $3,000 without a murmur. But the tag for visiting royalty, they now learn, is considerably higher—$42,000, to be specific. Princess Alexandra and daughter travel with a retinue of seven. (Central Press Canadian).

Trade Minister Says Year Record for Grain Handling

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fears that Vancouver would become a "ghost port" for wheat shipping have been proved groundless, Trade Minister C. D. Howe said here Wednesday.

"This has been a record year for grain handling, not only for eastern ports, but Vancouver as well," the minister said in an interview.

People here "don't understand" the federal government's decision to set a reasonable price relationship for grain moved out of Pacific and Atlantic ports, he went on.

Fort William and Port Arthur both have a seven cents a bushel shipping edge over Vancouver.

It still cheaper in all foreign markets.

Reason for this, Mr. Howe said, is that it costs more than 20 cents a bushel to move wheat from the two Ontario ports to eastern export markets.

"The government's new pricing policy didn't affect business at all, and we'll see that it doesn't in the future," the minister emphasized. "The shipping price will always be kept in line."

He said the present price is about $1.80 a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern Fort William.

"Grain shipped to Japan will have been higher than in any other in history, and Vancouver has nothing to worry about."

Even as Mr. Howe was speaking, four ships were loading wheat for South America, Japan, Europe and Israel.

Yonge St. Will Be Cleaned Up By November

TORONTO (CP)—Yonge street, Toronto's main thoroughfare which has been gouged, barricaded and cursed since 1949 when the Toronto transportation commission first began work on its subway, will finally be cleaned up by November, the metropolitan roads committee was told Wednesday.

R. W. Bemrose, deputy roads commissioner, said that except for a small section just north of Bloor street, all of the thoroughfare will have been repaved.

Research Council Promises No Swift Win Over Colds

LONDON (AP)—In a stubbornly fought campaign against an old enemy—the common cold — the British Medical Research Council has reported a little progress. As a result, the council said in a report submitted to the Queen, there is a possibility that what it called "this very tiresome infection" may some day be brought under control.

The advance was made by the government-aided Common Cold Research Unit at Salisbury, which has been waging its scientific war for seven years. Researchers discovered that the virus suspected of being responsible for the common cold can be propagated in tissue cultures of the human embryonic lung.

The common cold is the most familiar and yet one of the craftiest of diseases, the council observed. It is a difficult opponent to the scientist because its virus does not attack the laboratory animals. Only chimpanzees and human beings get common colds, the infections afflicting other creatures being variants.

TOUGH OLD FOE

Chimpanzees and human volunteers who go to Salisbury to have their colds studied are expensive to support at a laboratory, Howe over, they cannot be subjected to "so" less treatment, as a culture in a test tube may be. So the next step, the council reported, is to develop laboratory techniques "not requiring the use of volunteers."

Scientists believe that if the virus were available by the bottle-ful outside a human body, a study of its nature and its vulnerable points would be facilitated greatly. But the medical research council promises no swift victory over a tough old foe.

FINALLY FOUND

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP)—For more than an hour policemen and volunteers sought the source of shrill kitten cries before they found and rescued the animal from high up in thick ivy growing on St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

NATO Objective Of 150 Airfields Almost Reached

FONTAINEBLEAU, France (CP) Group Capt. E. C. (Ted) Luke of Montreal and Vancouver has completed a three-year hitch as adviser on a costly North Atlantic Treaty Organization project.

Luke, 50, once helped plan airfield and training schools under the wartime Commonwealth air training plan. For the last three years he has had a similar job advising on NATO's $700,000,000 airfield construction program.

When Luke came to this Allied headquarters in September, 1951, there was no program and few airfields capable of taking jet aircraft. Now the NATO objective of 105 airfields for central Europe has almost been reached.

BETTER PICTURE

"This is a rather different picture from that of September, 1951" said Luke in an interview before leaving July 28 for Canada. "Now we have some airfield support for the 2,000 to 3,000 modern attack aircraft which make up the operational strength of Allied Air Forces Central Europe."

Luke's responsibility, as chief of the construction division in the logistics directorate at AAFCE headquarters, has been to review and approve all plans and drawings for construction projects. Sometimes complications have been caused by the fact the 200,000 acres earmarked for NATO needs are spread over five European countries, calling for tricky handling between military and national authorities.

"Our job," says Luke, "was to obtain the quickest possible results without sacrificing standards."

All airfields are built as nearly as possible to NATO specifications, with 8,000-foot runways, parallel taxiways, control towers, hangars, aprons, operational rooms and five stations designed to handle latest jet aircraft.

Britain Making Good Headway In Regaining Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—It is still too early to say whether British will regain her old prominence in the world's commodity trade, but she is making excellent headway, says Sir Percy Bates, chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce.

Baron Luke of Pavenham, here for the British Empire Exhibition says the remarkable recovery was due to the ability of businessmen and industrialists to adapt to new and changing trade patterns and to their will to succeed.

"Shrunken markets, increased competition, inefficiency of pre-war plants and machinery, exhaustive taxation, a great reconstruction programme — these obstacles had to be overcome," he said in an interview. "We have had to become a nation of salesmen. But we are doing very well now. Our position in the last few months has improved tremendously and it has given business a great lift."

With convertibility of the pound one point a dollar and gold reserves increasing, commodity markets reopening and import controls lessening, Sir Percy said, "the future is full of vitality."

"We've had to modernize before we could produce, sell before we could get orders, establish factories in other countries before we could compete effectively."

FINES CUT FIRES

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Forestry Association says stiff fines now in force for violations of the forest fire safety code are responsible for decline in forest fires. New penalties incorporated in Quebec's forestry laws went into effect this year.

Invasion Of Army Worms Is on Wane

TORONTO (CP)—W. G. Allan, entomologist with the Ontario Agricultural College, says the invasion of army worms, which has damaged grain crops in 15 Ontario counties, is on the wane.

He said Wednesday that within about 10 days the invasion should be over for the season.

Meanwhile, the worms attacked vegetable gardens and flowers in several communities on Toronto's outskirts. They were also reported attacking pastures. In Leamor and Addington counties some farmers have reported the detonator from a 250-pound German bomb, dropped on a clay heap in this Yorkshire town in 1941.

M.V. Miquelon, 554 Ton Ship Is Lifeline for 5,500 People

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD M. V. MIQUELON (CP) — This bucking little ship is the lifeline to the grandmother with 5,500 children.

As the main lifeline for the French islands of St. Pierre et Miquelon, 12 miles off Newfoundland's south coast, the Miquelon is a sea-going jack-of-all trades.

Owned by the French government, the Miquelon makes regular trips winter and summer from the colony, France's smallest, to Canadian ports.

MAIL TO LIVESTOCK

She carries the bulk of the products needed by the 5,500 persons who inhabit the wind-swept islands, all that remain of France's once-vast North American holdings.

The 554-ton Miquelon, built for the United States' Army transport service in 1944, carries an 18-man crew and a wide assortment of cargo ranging from mail to livestock. Her tiny but comfortable stateroom accommodate 17 passengers.

The Miquelon's schedule, if it can be called that, takes her to Halifax, North Sydney, N.S., and Charlottetown. She picks up almost anything that needs transport to the islands.

Because her calls depend on cargo, her sailings are irregular. She makes a voyage about every 10 days or two weeks. As a result, her agents in Canadian ports are usually in the dark about exact arrival and sailing times unless the Miquelon actually is in port.

Arranging passage, a prospective passenger is likely to be told something like this:

INDEFINITE SCHEDULE

"Well, she might be in Wednesday, but that's not definite. It depends on whether she goes to Charlottetown first and then stops at North Sydney or whether she comes here first and then goes to Charlottetown. But then again. . ."

I boarded the Miquelon at North Sydney for the 15-hour voyage to St. Pierre. The fare was $20 which covered everything.

The seven passengers ate with genial Capt. Maurice Redmond who has been going to sea since he was 12. He became skipper of the Miquelon when she first went on the St. Pierre run five years ago.

He likes to carry tourists because they are good business for the colony which would like to see many more.

"Most tourists don't know what to expect," he said. "But they usually stay longer than they planned."

He recalled one American who told him: "I'll see all I want to in a day."

STAYED 15 DAYS

"But after a day," said Capt. Redmond, probably thinking of the powerful St. Pierre rum at $1.25 a quart and the other liquor just as cheap, "He couldn't see a thing and he stayed 15 days."

Passengers usually remain on deck as the Miquelon noses out of harbor but once into the Atlantic they head for inside as she starts to roll.

Inside, they can spend their time in the lounge around the dining room. It's usually the latter because the staterooms are small, having two or four berths in each. The captain does not object to an occasional visitor on the bridge.

The fine meals are served on a single, long linen-covered table, in rough weather the tablecloth is dampened to keep dishes from sliding.

MAJOR EVENT

As we ate we could look through the portholes to the aftercdeck where the Miquelon carried 45 head of livestock headed for the slaughterhouse at St. Pierre. Capt. Redmond said he once had 162 head crowded around the decks.

At St. Pierre, arrival of the Miquelon is a major event. Crowds appear at the quay in front of the combined post-office-customs-wireless building as she warps into the pier.

Gendarmes come aboard and with Edward Briand, the Miquelon's purser, acting as interpreter, check the passengers. Those without passports — and most haven't — pay $4.30.

The customs officer ashore checks the list, but not your baggage, and then a basket appears and tells you that you must exchange some of your money into francs. The rate is 175 francs to the Canadian dollar but ashore most merchants will allow 180 or take Canadian or American money.

OTHER ARTERIES

There are two other travel routes to the island, by boat from Newfoundland or by air. Maritime Central Airways operates one flight a week from Sydney to St. Pierre in the summer and the one-way fare from Sydney is $28.00.

But although travel to the islands is not easy, arrival here opens up for the visitor a happy combination of primitive and colorful, the old and the new.

St. Pierrais welcome visitors with genuine hospitality, made more attractive for tourists by a social Capt. Maurice Redmond who has been going to sea since he was 12. He became skipper of the Miquelon when she first went on the St. Pierre run five years ago.

He likes to carry tourists because they are good business for the colony which would like to see many more.

"Most tourists don't know what to expect," he said. "But they usually stay longer than they planned."

He recalled one American who told him: "I'll see all I want to in a day."

STAYED 15 DAYS

"But after a day," said Capt. Redmond, probably thinking of the powerful St. Pierre rum at $1.25 a quart and the other liquor just as cheap, "He couldn't see a thing and he stayed 15 days."

Passengers usually remain on deck as the Miquelon noses out of harbor but once into the Atlantic they head for inside as she starts to roll.

Inside, they can spend their time in the lounge around the dining room. It's usually the latter because the staterooms are small, having two or four berths in each. The captain does not object to an occasional visitor on the bridge.

The fine meals are served on a single, long linen-covered table, in rough weather the tablecloth is dampened to keep dishes from sliding.

MAJOR EVENT

As we ate we could look through the portholes to the aftercdeck where the Miquelon carried 45 head of livestock headed for the slaughterhouse at St. Pierre. Capt. Redmond said he once had 162 head crowded around the decks.

At St. Pierre, arrival of the Miquelon is a major event. Crowds appear at the quay in front of the combined post-office-customs-wireless building as she warps into the pier.

Gendarmes come aboard and with Edward Briand, the Miquelon's purser, acting as interpreter, check the passengers. Those without passports — and most haven't — pay $4.30.

The customs officer ashore checks the list, but not your baggage, and then a basket appears and tells you that you must exchange some of your money into francs. The rate is 175 francs to the Canadian dollar but ashore most merchants will allow 180 or take Canadian or American money.

Newfoundland Govt. Dropped As Plaintiff

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Legion has asked the federal government to call off its plan to reorganize the reserve army on page 1.

The legion convention, representing some 200,000 members, unanimously adopted a resolution Wednesday stating it is strongly opposed to the plan and sent a message to Ottawa asking the government to reconsider the problem before taking final action.

Delegates also restated the legion's stand in favor of national selective service for both active and reserve forces.

Canada's home forces are "totally" inadequate for national defence," they said in one of a series of resolutions.

Selective service was needed "in order that the responsibility for the defence of Canada be equally distributed amongst all Canadians of service age and to assure that young Canadians shall never again be exposed to hazards of combat without proper and adequate training."

Convention delegates Wednesday marked the 40th anniversary of the start of the First World War. Second World War veterans applauded those of the first war.

Today, the convention turns to the election of Dominion command officers. It has already chosen a new president, Very Rev. J. O. Anderson, Anglican Dean of Ottawa, in a unanimous nomination Tuesday; although last-minute nominations are possible under the legion's constitution.

The legion's position on the reserve army changeover, in which some units will be disbanded and others amalgamated, is that it will weaken rather than strengthen the reserve.

The result, it said, likely will be a decline in numbers, a widening of the gap between active and reserve forces, and a loss of tradition, esprit de corps and prestige from the disappearance of many historic regiments.

The convention approved a series of requests for changes in federal veterans legislation.

Compensation was asked for all Canadians held prisoner during the Second World War, instead of the present policy of paying compensation only to prisoners held by the Japanese and the German Gestapo and Blackshirts.

Another proposal was for compulsory life insurance for veterans with small holdings or farms under the Veterans Land Act. A further request was that the minimum size of VLA small holdings be reduced from the present 1.6 acres.

SOFTBALL PLAYDOWNS

Upper brackets representatives of the Belleville District Softball League won't have too heavy a travelling expenses burden in the first round of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association playdowns, according to the schedule just released by Secretary Frank Feaver.

The Senior "B" representatives tangle with Peterborough in best-of-three series with the Peter gucks of Belleville starting August 28. Second game is set for August 31 in Peterborough. Oshawa and Whitby clash in the other half of the zone bracket. Third game, Sept. 4. The winners play on Sept. 8.

It is Belleville and Peterborough again in the Intermediate "A" series with the first game scheduled for Peterborough September 1 and the second game here September 4. Third game September 8. That looks like it for the Eastern Ontario title in this classification.

Belleville goes to Kingston on September 11 for the first game of the Intermediate "AA" series with the second game here September 15. Third game, September 18. In the zone final, the winners of the above series meet Peterborough, the first game being set for September 22.

Paul Mercier's Bicobird Junior "A" squad tangles with Oshawa Juniors, the first game being set for Oshawa on August 28 and the second game here September 4. Third game, September 11. Winners will be Eastern Ontario champions.

In the bantam series, Belleville meets Oshawa in Oshawa for the first game on September 4, with the second game back here September 11. Third game, September 18. Belleville powwows will meet the winners of the Brooklin-Oshawa series for the zone final and Eastern Ontario title, the first game being played here on September 4 and the second title back here September 11. Third game September 18.

In the Intermediate "B" series, Frankford plays host to Trenton with the first game set for August 16. Second game August 18. Ajax meets Whitby in this series with Cobourg and Picton drawing byes.

Jack Haich's Madoc Marauders tangle with Hastings in the Intermediate "C" series starting at Madoc on August 12. Second game, August 23. Pickering and Brooklin also clash in this series with the series winners playing off with the Eastern Ontario title.

It is noted that all local associations must declare winners on the following dates: Senior "B", August 29; all other series on August 15.

Raised-out games will be played the following day, the OASA says, except under special arrangements with the OASA convener, Mr. Don Lee, esquire in this case. The convener, it says here, is responsible for all game arrangements, including appointment of umpires. All schedule dates must be followed, or games played earlier. Umpires must wear OASA registration cards at all games. Players' certificates must be carried by all team managers. Birth certificates for minor-age players must be produced on demand at all games.

And don't say you weren't told!

Oops! Hold it. We missed the midget series. Oshawa and Brooklyn meet in the first series with Frankford drawing a bye. Frankford meets the series winners at Frankford, starting September 4. Second game September 11.

FUN, FURY AND FIREWORKS

Pogo Togo and Whygo Togo, stars in the Nipponese Nutcracker Suite, will be here in all their suave, apologetic villainy Friday night when they meet Paul Baillargeon and a new partner, Ray Villmer, Dynamite Unlimited, in Memorial Arena on Friday night. The kick-tossing Sons of the Rising Sun, however, may run into a sudden eclipse if the concentrated fury of Oom Paul and Ultra Ray lands upon their smug forms at any time during the bout. At the same time Paul and Ray may visit the Japanese Sandman just as suddenly if the smirking Nips get in their deadly work in combo. The skyscraper attraction between huge Tex McKenzie and Ski Hi Lee should be good as should the appetizer between Vern Taft and Tiger Tasker.

BATAS AT OSHAWA TONIGHT

The Batas, who safari to Oshawa tonight to take on the Transports in their second clash of the week, feel confident they can take the measure of loop leaders and move a notch closer to a playoff spot. The game will be their 34th fixture and they have four left to play. Coach Vern Geyer will likely send Johnny Mowat to the mound in an effort to pull off a win, for Johnny has always come up with a good performance against the Motor City crew. Oshkville and the Twins, with a chance at a playoff berth, will be in there in a tight battle and the Carson crew cannot afford to drop too many tilts from here in.

And speaking of the Campbellville village, we hear reliable rumors that their puck-chasing Senior "B" Truckmen will be back in the fold next winter, and will play all their games, all of them, that is, in the Whitby Arena. Incidentally, the group meeting is set for next Sunday, August 8, at Peterborough, where a lot of pre-season wrinkles will be ironed out.

Lemon Squeezes 14th Victory But Sends 'Message to Garcia'; Giants, Brooks Maintain Pace

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Hoskins' two-run double to knock on that 20-game door again. If he gets inside, he will be the first to do it five seasons in a row since Carl Hubbell was the meal ticket of the New York Giants.

The Philadelphia strong boy handcuffed Milwaukee on five hits Wednesday night for a 2-1 triumph, running his victory total to 18 against nine losses. Two seasons ago when he won an amazing 28, exactly a dozen of the victories came after Aug. 1.

Roberts shares honors with Johnny Antonelli of the Giants as the winningest pitcher in the majors this season. He and Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis lead in strikeouts with 130 each and his total of only 30 batted in balls in 228 innings is by far the best in the National League.

STRUCK OUT NINE

Roberts struck out nine and walked one in beating the Braves Wednesday night. Ebba Harmon's bases-empty homer in the third gave the control artist the run he needed to win. Three singles had accounted for the first.

The victory moved the Phils into fourth place, half a game ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who lowered 5-4 to Brooklyn. The Giants shaded Chicago 4-3 in 11 innings and Pittsburgh 7-6 in 10 innings. The Dodgers, Giants and Pirates all won in their last time at bat. Cleveland in its current spell of 14 in a row. The New Yorkers with a 9-5 victory over Boston 6-5 in 10 innings. Detroit defeated Washington 6-2 and Philadelphia 4-3 in 10 innings to replace last place as the Athletics whipped the Orioles 8-3.

Cleveland moved 2½ games ahead of the Yankees in the American League. N.Y. York stayed five games in front of Milwaukee in the National.

SINGLE DID IT

The Giants beat Chicago on an 11th inning single by Hank Thompson that brought in Wes Westrum from second base after two were out. Westrum's single and a sacrifice by winner Don Liddle set up the run which put the New Yorkers' winning streak by six.

In Brooklyn the Cardinals grabbed a 7-4 lead with three runs in the ninth only to have the Dodgers pull it out as Jackie Robinson's homer with Junior Gilliam on base in the last of the ninth. The Cards outhit Brooklyn, 12-11, but committed three errors which led to their unexpected defeat.

Pittsburgh furnished another dramatic finish. With two out and Sam Jethroe on the last of the ninth Gerry Lynch smashed a Frank Smith pitch into the seats for the winning margin.

The Cleveland Indians turned on Allie Reynolds, one of their former tribesmen, and handed the veteran Yankee hurler one of the season. Bobby Avila's three-run homer in the third inning gave Bob Lemon the cushion he needed for his 14th victory. When Lemon tired after seven innings, Mike Garcia mopped up.

The Chicago White Sox cut into the National League monopoly on last-gasp triumphs as they downed Boston on Matt Batts' bases-loaded single in the 10th after the Red Sox had come from five runs back in the eighth and ninth innings. Ted Williams drove in three runs with his 18th homer in the eighth and two more scored on a pinch double by Don Lenhardt in the ninth. Phil Cavarretta hit a grand slam homer for the White Sox in the first.

Detroit came from behind to whip Washington, scoring three runs in the seventh when Wayne Belardi's homer was the big blow.

VANCOUVER (CP) — England held a lead of 80½ points over Australia when today's competition started in the British Empire Games, and a successful defence by Australia of the 1950 games championship was becoming more precarious.

Canada remained in third place with 188, picking up 43 points; South Africa was fourth and New Zealand fifth, each counting 164½ scoring, moved from 10th to sixth place and both Wales and Northern Ireland to a notch.

Powerful Young University Oarsmen Trounce Mighty British Crew in Eights

By PETER MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VEDDER CROSSING, B.C. (CP) Eight young Canadians in their first big international race shared star billing in the British Empire Games rowing finals Wednesday with an Australian veteran of almost 20 years of big-time sculling experience.

The individual star was 21-year-old Mervyn Wood of Australia who successfully defended his Empire Games single sculls title with Murray Riley and then joined the victorious Australian fours crew in the next race.

However, the Canadians, three of them still in their teens, of University of British Columbia eights crew awaited the crowd of 9,000 for resounding mighty England in the feature race of the day.

Few expected it. The experts had said all week that the Canadians, considerably lighter than the Englishmen, didn't have a hope.

DUKE WATCHES

The Duke of Edinburgh, who arrived by automobile from Vancouver after a night aboard the Britannia, the Royal yacht, watched the Canadians win.

The 150-pound, coached by hardriving Frank Read of Vancouver, had too much power for the Thames Rowing Club crew and won by 2½ lengths in the fast time of 6:52.9 over the slow 2,000-metre course.

Team honors were shared by Australia and New Zealand with two victories each. England was the only one of the four competing countries which failed to produce a winner.

The New Zealand gold medals were won by Don Rowlands in the single sculls and Robert Parker and Reginald Douglas in the pair oars.

Coach Arthur Sulley of the defeated English eights paid tribute to the Canadians, outweighed four pounds a man.

"They ran one of the finest races I have ever seen," Sulley said. "They are strong and fit and certainly should stick together as a crew and come over to the Henley."

The crew will probably be broken up this year, however, following the graduation of stroke Glen Smith, the only man with three years' rowing experience.

Rowlands, the favorite in the singles, showed near-perfect form as he covered the course in 8:28.2.

"I could have gone faster if I had to," he said after the race. "I knew all I had to do was stay out in front of the other two."

Trailing four lengths behind Rowlands was 19-year-old Sidney Rand of England, Bobby Williams of Hamilton was third.

Canada's Divers, Oarsmen Bring Gold Medal Total To Five; Britons Lead

Calgary Diving Star Wins As BC Crew Sweeps to Victory; Canada Clings to 3rd Place

By W. R. SWEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The record-smashing that has beset these fifth British Empire Games showed no sign of ebbing today—only three days from the end of the gigantic sports spectacle.

The swimmers went at it again Wednesday and washed out three old marks; the cyclists rode gaily past another.

More than a dozen gold medals were issued. Sturdy, reddish-haired Bill Patrick of Calgary won the three-diving competition and a surprisingly powerful University of British Columbia crew swept to victory in the eight-oared shell over England's Thames Rowing Club over four lengths.

Those two victories added gold medals for Canada to the three already collected by brawny weightlifters.

TRACK TODAY

Track and field called the fistful of sport back to Empire Stadium again today. There was every indication that the feature world records would be bigger and better than ever. There also was the official unveiling of the greatest galaxy in the world—John Landy and Roger Bannister—meeting in heats of the mile of the masters.

Out at Empire Pool Wednesday England outstripped Australia in the accumulation, and in the over-all harvest for the day's work remained ahead of the 1950 Games champions.

Late Wednesday night South Africans won two wrestling titles, six in all for their country. Johannes Loubser won the welter title and Hermanus van Zyl the middleweight.

Keith Malthan of Quesnel, B.C., and Jim Charlton of Toronto took second places, respectively, in the two classes.

The boxers opened their slugging bees and three of eight Canadians moved along with victories.

Gerry Buchanan of Montreal scored a technical knockout over George Jenkins of South Africa in the heavyweight class; Will Greaves, Edmonton lightweight, slugged out a win over Tommy Evans of Australia, and Mickey Bergin, 18-year-old Montrealer, won the decision in a tame bout over Des Ingold of Australia.

WINS SPEE TITLE

Ivor Lund of Australia won the men's individual spee championship in fencing—Cecil Edwards placed third and Ed Brooks fifth. Both are Montrealers.

Six winners from six Empire countries mounted the rostrum Wednesday at the pool.

Joan Harrison of South Africa won the women's 110-yard backstroke title in record time. Her 1:15.2 not only broke the old Games mark of 1:16.1 but was under the 1:16.1 made the day before in a heat. Lenore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B.C., placed fifth.

Gary Chapman, 15-year-old swimmer, brought Australia its fourth swimming championship in winning the men's 440-yard free-style, two more than any other country has won.

Young Chapman also wrote a new mark in the record book, 4:39.8 against the former record of 4:46.1. As in many of the swimming races, others also were under the mark although Gerry McNames of Vancouver, in fifth place, was more than two seconds slower.

PHOTO FINISH

The closest race of the day was the only one in which a record wasn't lowered. Jennifer Smith of Zealand and Peter Jarvis of England were timed in 2:52.6 in the men's 220-yard breaststroke and the Doms was declared winner in the photo finish.

Helen Orr Gordon of Scotland, defending the Games championship she won in 1950, beat her old mark of 3:01.7 by winning the women's 220-yard breaststroke handily in 2:59.2. Canada picked up a few points with Margaret Stangroom and Margaret Peden, both of Vancouver, in fifth and sixth places.

The women's springboard championship went to 15-year-old Phyllis Ann Todd of England, rated 128.26 points to 127.74 by Barbara McAuley of Australia.

Irene McDonald of Hamilton placed third with 126.18 and Lois Wood of Thunder was sixth.

CANADIAN LIFT

Bill Patrick's win in the tower-diving contest gave the whole Canadian team a lift. He had only one poor dive—in the first Wednesday—but came back Wednesday to beat out such top divers as defending champion Peter Heatly of Scotland, a little fellow who performs with smooth precision, and Australia's Kevin Newell.

Patrick, a student at Ohio State University, thinks his chances of winning the men's springboard title "are good." He will practice for a few weeks at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and at present hopes he can represent Canada at the 1956 Olympic Games although he is not sure yet if he will be a candidate.

The one cycling championship decided Wednesday produced a double-winner, and it was decided two gold medals would be awarded.

South Africa's entrant, appropriately named Jim Swift, and 17-year-old Peter Ploog of Australia had identical times of 1:12.5 in the 1,000-metre time trials. English riders took the next three places.

The unusual double-shuffle in medley gave both South Africa and Australia their first in cycling.

The same times of 1:12.5 were also a record. The old mark was 1:13.4.

Northerns Edge Frankford 5-4 To Even Series

FRANKFORD (Special) — Northern Electric visited the Frankford Merchants last night and came home with a close 5-4 victory to even up the Belleville and District softball league semi-final "A" section playoffs at one game apiece. The deciding game will be played at the CNRAA Recreation Park tonight at 8.15 with the winners hooking up against Point Anne in a best-of-five series for the Bill Ott trophy and the "A" championship.

Northern, facing elimination if they lost, took a 1-0 lead in the initial frame last night, added three more in the third and then watched one sweep of Harry Wickson's bat tie the count at 4-4 in the bottom of the third. The winners came back in the fifth to notch the all-important run but from then on both teams settled down to play scoreless ball.

Lum Carson sweated the distance for the city crew, being touched for nine safe blows while getting three on strikes and walking four. Second Pitcher went all the way for Frankford while allowing eight hits, whiffing five and walking four.

John Batchelor gave the winners a 4-0 margin in the third with a circuit blast, scoring two of his mates and single with Stu then Wickson bettered the feat with his grand-slam homer.

Batchelor added a single to pace his team at bat while Glenn Young contributed a brace of singles. Doug Soules, Harry Dunshie and Lum Carson also hit safely. Terriers Swamp Guelph 12-0

GALT (CP) — Terriers Wednesday night swamped Guelph Waterloo Royals, Senior Intercounty Baseball League caller Dwellers, 12-0 for their 26th win of the season.

Little Mel Duncan registered his 10th victory of the season. Although nicked for 10 hits he kept them scattered and was best in the pinches. He also got good support, the locals playing errorless ball.

The other Intercounty game, Brantford at St. Thomas, was postponed because of wet grounds.

Ben Oberholtzer of the Royals started his first game of the season on the mound but was driven to the showers in the fifth. He was followed by Steve Wylie, recently released by the Teriers, and John Clark.

The Royals were robbed of a homer in the second when Jim Turner lifted the ball over the right field fence but Manager Pete Karpuk, quick on the trigger, discovered Turner had belted out of order.

Galt's big inning was the fifth. Jack Colyer, who led the Galt attack with four siggles for five, was touched for a grand slam home run when the ball hit a tree and bounced back on the diamond, but two other Galt batters, Ron Parise came through with h his first homer of the season with two on base to put him on top for Galt's with 46. Johnny Imbro, first Terrier up in the sixth, homered on to the left field hill.

The Royals had a bad night in the field with six miscues.

Chatham Fans Want Senior 'A' Not Juniors

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham's hockey fans Wednesday night set up their own committee to seek re-entry into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league.

A meeting of 300 fans turned thumbs down on an arena management committee's proposal they try to bring Junior A hockey into the city.

They said they felt they would sooner have Senior A hockey and lost a proposed bid by the Atlantic players franchise is too risky.

The committee was instructed to approach city council to see if the city would sanction the operation of a Senior A team. The committee will also ask the OHA if a senior A franchise is available.

Leafs Split With Royals; Wings Take Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitchers who have worked both halves of a doubleheader take up a big section in the minor league record book, but now they are trying the stunt as a tactical move.

That was the situation Wednesday night in the International League twin bill at Montreal between the third-place Royals and the first - place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Lou Sewell, boss of the Leafs, started righthander Connie Johnson in the opener and stuck with him for five innings in absorbing a 3-2 loss. Then, in the nightcap, he came right back with Johnson. This brought forth the Royals left-hander sitting line-up, just as Sewell figured it would.

THIRD VICTORY

Johnson pitched to only the first two batters before Sewell called in lefty Fred Hahn who went to work for his third victory. Montreal got in the fight in the late innings when Jack Crimian finally finished up in the 10-4 triumph.

Following the nightcap, Toronto held on to one game of its lead over Montreal by splitting with the Buffalo Bisons while Montreal lost to Wings who won a pair from Ottawa 4-1 and 12-4. The Wings managed only four hits in the opener but crashed through with 17 in the nightcap as Moose Vellinger collected a home run, a double and two singles.

Righthander Emilio Cueche scattered seven hits in winning his 12th game for Ottawa in the first. Buffalo-7-2 as the Sugar Kings held fourth place against the surge of the Syracuse Chiefs who whipped Richmond 7-1.

Offers $200,000 For Marciano, Valdes Fight

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista Wednesday offered to guarantee heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano $200,000 to defend his crown against Nino Valdes, the Cuban titleholder, in Havana's Grand Stadium next spring or summer. Will-connected sports director Cal Roberto Fernandez Miranda said the president also would guarantee Valdes $100,000 for the title fight.

Marciano has another title fight scheduled with Ezzard Charles at Yankee Stadium in New York Sept. 15.

In New Haven, Conn., where Marciano is appearing at a benefit, his manager, Al Weill, told reporters:

"Right now Marciano is matched with Charles and I never book another match while one is coming up. But Nino Valdes is a good boy and if he keeps on doing okay, he'll get his chance at the title the same as anybody else."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When I was stalled in the Sierras on the snowbound streamline in January, one thing impressed me with impact. It was the lack of plain common sense on the part of many seemingly sensible persons.

Those who complained most of the cold would not put on the warm clothing available to them. Those who complained most of the shortage of drinking water would not melt snow which was plentiful.

The same thing applies to players who complain that bridge is too difficult. They sit there trying to use impractical rules when they could learn fast a simple, understandable, enjoyable method.

The same thing applies to those who fail in contracts that are safe to make with reasonable attention to details. As in the deal you see here:

NORTH

♠A J 5
♥K Q 5 3

South became the declarer at three no-trump. It might have been four hearts or five clubs. But it is not the bidding that needs the commetns here. It is the way south played his three no-trump bid.

Opening lead from west was spade 10. Knowing from the lead that south must have the jack, east went up with the king and south won it with the ace. Then a thoughtless play from him for a loss.

He carelessly led a club and finessed. East won with the queen and returned a spade that gave west four spade tricks. These and the club queen were enough to defeat him.

South should have stopped to count for safety. His spade ace, two top clubs, three top hearts, and a top diamond are seven tricks. Only two more tricks were needed. Take them safely.

By finessing clubs the danger of a spade return. Finesse the diamonds and spade jack still protects the finesse. If the diamond finesse loses, two more diamonds come in to make the contract.

Careless play can cost you hay.

STORY OF NILE

Out of the wickedness and wonder of a fabulous era long blown away by the sands of time, Panoramic Productions has fashioned a screen story of romance and intrigue. "Princess of the Nile", filmed in Technicolor and co-starring Debra Paget, Jeffrey Hunter and Michael Rennie, now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Written by Gerald Drayson Adams, the film tells the story of a beautiful beauty who was a ruler of Egypt by day, a Temptress of the Dance, fraternizing with her subjects in a lowly tavern by night. It is also the story of revolt against the tyranny of a conquering prince from the Arabian desert and his arch-enemy, a prince of Bagdad.

The Twentieth Century-Fox release was directed by Harmon Jones and produced by Robert L. Jacks against some of the most lavish settings witnessed in recent screen spectacles.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cary Grant says bluntly what most stars probably feel: Fame can be a nuisance.

There's a certain irony about actors. When they are young, they work to be recognized. When they reach stardom, they try to conceal themselves. After talking to Grant, I can understand why.

It all began quietly enough when I visited the set of "Catch A Thief." The elegant Mr. Grant, who has more style than anyone I know, was in his dressing room. So I asked him about the freighter trips he and his wife take. She's Betsy Drake, the actress.

FREIGHTER ADDICT

The Grants have travelled to all parts of the world on freighters, and I wondered why he favored them. He became eloquent as he described the voyage of a movie star on one of the luxury liners.

"There are 2,200 crew members on one of those ships. Each one of them has an autograph book of his own, or else he is carrying one for his daughter or son. You have to sign each one of them.

"Then the ship's photographer sees to it that you pose for pictures with every other passenger obtainable. Then he sells them to the passengers for five bob or fifty cents or whatever. He makes his living that way.

"All the passengers are writing postcards and letters and naturally they want you to write a few lines to their Aunt Matilda.

ALL WANT PICTURE

"And of course every passenger has two cameras criss-crossed on their chests and they want a picture with you. If you're in the shade, they want you out in the sun; if you're in the sun, they want you in the shade.

"You try to get some sleep, but the drinks are beating on your stateroom all night, wanting to buy a drink for you. Then at seven in the morning, the small fry are up and pounding the door for autographs.

"The result is that you either have a miserable time or you're rude. I'm rude. I tell them I never sign anything."

FASCINATING PEOPLE

Contrasting the hectic life for a celebrity on a big liner is the pleasure aboard a freighter.

"There are generally 12 people aboard, and they're fascinating persons," he observed. "Real people—doctors, biology professors, a couple of Japanese girls. People I can learn something from."

As soon as he finishes "Catch A Thief," the Grants plan to hop a freighter for Vancouver and drive home.

CHEAP HEATING

Rocky, Ez, Turn on Charm for Scribes As They Sign for Big Sept. Battle

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The heavyweight champion got up at 4 o'clock in front of the athletic commission office and greeted reporters cordially.

Upstairs in a rear room the moving men and lights at Madison Square Garden were getting ready had been set up, ready to record the signing of Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles for their second title match. It was a pleasant, relaxed session over, but somehow always intriguing.

The photographers posed them in this way and that, and repeated the request for them to clasp hands so often that the zombie Charles face split into a toothy grin.

Rocky chewed his customary piece of gum and bunched toward the microphone. "Marciano is one of the best fighters in the British Empire," he said. "I think I can beat him. I would have had time enough for a couple of mistakes I made."

"I've always improved the second time around," he added. "I think I'm sure this fight will bear me out on this." He stopped abruptly.

"I'll have to fight a perfect fight to beat him," he admitted. "I don't know what back up means."

'Newport Dream' Wins Rich Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Newport Dream, a portly dame colt with a great fighting heart, forged his name in the history books enough Wednesday to defeat 15 other three-year-old trotters in a thrilling renewal of the $100,000 Hambleton Stake at Good Time Park.

The speedy bay son of Axomite-Miss Key, who was the two-year-old champion of 1953, dashed the hopes of his opposition through this $100 sulky derby in two straight heats.

Newport Dream, owned by the Newport Stable Stud Farm of Octave Blake, South Plainfield, N.J., had been the winner book favorite for this fix classic but was plagued all spring and summer with a mystery injury. He only started one race this season before Wednesday's big contest and that in two heats of the Hambletonian Test Stakes.

But driver-trainer Del Cameron patched him up and got him out there.

Latta Defeats Cannifton 11-10

In a South Hastings League game played at Latta on Wednesday evening, Latta Athletics staged a comeback to hand the Cannifton nine their 11-10 verdict.

Errors proved costly to Latta in the early innings with the visitors leading 6-0 on three markers in the first and another trio in the second. They padded their total to drive with four tallies in the fourth and another five in the fifth before Latta made their first push in the sixth. Cannifton kept close to the 10-6 mark with a fourth run in singleton in the sixth.

Stoliker and Bowen led Latta with the lead, allowing 13 hits while Ted Bay and Hall shared mound duties for victors, giving up a total of nine hits.

Sullivan, Stoliker and McCreary had two hits each for the winners while T. Bay, G. Gowe, V. Gowe, Glass and Hall had safely. Marmer, Moore, Sheffield, Petrie, Bowen and Philp were best in defeat.

Canuck Boxers Carry Colors To Games Finals

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A hardpunching heavyweight and a fancy-fisted light middleweight carried Canada's colors to the finals Wednesday night in the British Empire Games boxing opened before a half-filled house of 9,000.

Gerry Dugold, a 20-year-old 195-pound Montreal heavy, blasted George Jenkins of South Africa with both fists, flooring the South African three times in the first round and once in the second to win by a technical knockout at 1:29 of the second.

Dazzling footwork and a few sharp punches gave 23-year-old Mickey Berger, also of Montreal, a decision over Des Dugold of Australia in the three-round light welter semi-final.

DECISIONED AUSSIE

Light middleweight Wilf Greaves of Edmonton moved to the semi-finals with a decision over Australia Tommy Evans of Australia to give Canada three victories Wednesday night.

Five other Canadians were eliminated in the 18-bout opening program which saw one knockout, three TKOs and a disqualification on a foul. Six men—including Buchanan and Berin — fought for finals in the second card scheduled to go three-minute rounds.

Brian Harper of England, 28-year-old British amateur boxing association lightweight champion who meets Buchanan in the heavy final Friday night, knocked out Sam Zormich of Australia at 2:41 of the first round.

Other scheduled finals included Tom Madigan, Australian lightweight who scored a TKO over Light-lifting Bill Misselbrook of Kitchener, Ont., at 1:32 of the second round.

Canadians eliminated were Misselbrooke, Marcel Piau of Montreal, Clayton Kenny of Edmonton, lightweight Clayton Kenny of Ottawa and welterweight Sonny Forbes of Toronto. Each lost by decision.

Finals in the 10 divisions will be held Friday night.

Marlene Favored As 'Close' Gets Under Way

BRIGHTWOOD, N.S. (CP)—The tiny queen of Canadian women golfers, Marlene Stewart of Fort-William, Ont., was the odds-on favorite to continue her two-year reign as the Canadian Close tournament got under way today.

The women will play 18 holes a day with match scores counting for the close title.

Heading the list of those given a chance to upset Miss Stewart is Mary Gay of the Westmount Club in Kitchener, Ont., twice runner-up for the title. Miss Gay, a tall, striking brunette, drew praise for her long drives.

Toronto Board Wants Major League Baseball

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday ordered the formation of a citizens' committee to attempt to bring major league baseball to Toronto as soon as possible.

The committee will investigate the possibilities of enlarging Maple Leaf Stadium, Toronto's International baseball park, or the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand to meet major league requirements.

The stadium has a seating capacity of more than 18,000. The CNE grandstand, which is situated in the centre of the park, is the largest park in the southwest section of the city, seating 30,000. Should the crowds more than 20,000 fans would be necessary for a major league park. The cost of building a park on one of the Toronto islands will run to $1,000,000.

The committee, with controllers David Balfour and Ross Lipsett as members, will investigate the major league interests to find out what possibilities there are of an American or National League franchise coming to this city.

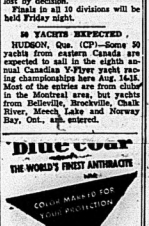
Nervous, Tired, Rundown Headaches, Stomach Rebelled



MISS MARGARET HUGHES
Is Delighted With Improvement In Health Since Taking Dynamo Zara Blanoch Full Meiler From First Few Doses — Then Never Allowed Days—Takes What She Needs

"There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Zara Blanoch that I am glad to have others know about my experience," says Miss Margaret Hughes of 24 Valley Street, Belleville, Ontario.

"About 3 years ago I had a nervous breakdown and was in a very rundown condition. I was tired all the time, my nerves were so on edge and I would get terrible headaches and stomach upsets very often. What food I ate would not digest properly, and my appetite was poor and my color suggested trouble. I was encouraged that I kept losing weight. I felt that I was getting the worst of both worlds, with the inconvenience in my health, my nerves and stomach, and I couldn't eat enough and have an extra pound to show for it. I was told that I should take Zara Blanoch and I found that from the very first few doses I felt better in every way that I feel I cannot praise this medicine too highly.

Tried Many Things

"Previous products there terrible weakness, but they did not help me. Nothing seemed to help me. It is made only from the Purest Herbs and Roots and is highly recommended for their medicinal value. Hypophosphites of Calcium and Sodium Glycerophosphate is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Polio Funds Urgently Needed

TORONTO, (CP) — An emergency campaign for funds was announced yesterday by David C. Graham, executive director of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis.

Mr. Graham said the regular spring campaign fell short of funds required. He said it costs about $600 a year to care for a polio patient.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A 90-lb. cod, believed the largest taken from waters off Newfoundland this year, was caught by fishermen at Old Perlican. A cod weighing 85 pounds was landed recently at Twillingate.

Large Shipment Of Frozen Fish Reaches Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The first regular large shipment of frozen fish, fresh from the Grand Banks off Newfoundland, arrived in Toronto Tuesday.

The 2,000-ton freighter Dundee, on charter to the Newfoundland and Great Lakes Shipping Company, carried 650 tons of cod, soldadock, halibut and ocean perch.

The fish will be shipped from Toronto by refrigerator trucks to Ottawa, Port Hope, Cornwall, Windsor, Kitchener, Stratford, Timmins and Hamilton and other Ontario centres.

A company spokesman said it will be the first time frozen breaded fish processed in Canada will be put on the Canadian market. Currently 99 per cent of the fish caught off Newfoundland was sent to the United States, he said. He declined to predict whether shipments of frozen fish will affect fish prices at the retail level.

He said the cod, sold as breaded fish sticks in eight-ounce packages, will probably sell for about 45 cents a pound.

Bodies Found In Plane Wreck

EDMONTON (CP)—The RCMP said today it has found the bodies of three men killed eight months ago when their single-engine sunbalance plane crashed near Whitecourt, 110 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The bodies were found in the unburned plane wreck, sighted Monday by pilot George Andrews of Peace River, Alta.

The three men killed—the RCMP said they apparently died in the crash Nov. 22 last—were 40-year-old pilot Gordon McDonald and polio patient Lloyd Williams of Edmonton, and Dr. Don Wilson of Grande Prairie, Alta.

Their plane disappeared during a storm while Williams was being flown the 375 miles from Grande Prairie southwest to Edmonton.

The area where the plane was found was searched several times by RCAF and civilian planes, but it is believed the wreckage may have been hidden by snows which fell during the hunt.

Bells of Hiroshima Toll For Awful Hour 9 Years Ago

First A-Bomb Released Brought Frightful Fury

By FRED SAITO

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — The bells of Hiroshima tolled today for the awful hour of nine years ago.

It was 8:15 a.m. when the first atomic bomb ever loosed in warfare burst with frightful fury over Hiroshima.

At 8:15 a.m. today massed sirens screamed their protest to the memory. Then the church bells of Hiroshima rang out, calling the Japanese of this western city to prayer.

Mayor Shinzo Hamai, who lived through that day, presided as thousands of citizens gathered in the centre of the city for a memorial service.

He prayed that "there will be no more war, and no more human beings atomized." He had been lucky on that day. He was three miles away from the centre of the blast.

CITY REBUILT

Now the scars of the bomb are gone, except for the grisly skeleton of steel which was all that was left of commercial hub.

The rebuilt homes are firmly and the streets are rutted. But the city seems to be on its feet again, mentally and materially.

Only 90,000 out of the population of 350,000 were here on that day. The rest are newcomers.

Ryoichi Tsuchoka, member of the city council, remembers. He was only 1,000 yards from the blast centre and his body is scarred by burns.

"I saw the great flash," he recalled. "The next moment I was blown several years . . . I ripped off my burning shirt and ran home.

"The house was flattened and my wife was crying, 'Help, help' from under the debris. I was injured and could not lift the heavy beams and pillars that pinned her down. I looked around for help.

"I saw only dead bodies strewn around. I had to leave my wife because fire was spreading. Her voice still rings in my ears."

BOOKS SAVED PROFESSOR

Prof. Kanae Watanabe of Hiroshima University was also only 1 mile away but escaped without a scratch.

"I was in the library when the bomb exploded," he said. "Perhaps the books shielded me. I ran into the hall after the explosion and saw three of my colleagues dead. Some were burned."

WILL WORK FOR SOVIET

BERLIN (AP)—The East German radio said Thursday night that former West German security chief Otto John has made a public bid to join the Communist National Front of Soviet zone. The front is a super-party organization with the announced aim of working for reunification of Germany.

New Tender Box Installed At Road Department

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario highways department has purchased a new metal tender box equipped with three clasps and three padlocks to guarantee that tenders on contracts shall remain inviolate until the official opening time, it was learned Thursday night.

Keys to the padlocks are held by three different department officials—Deputy Minister M. A. Dixon, J. L. Dodds, financial comptroller, and Colin Bennett, tender secretary. All must be present when the tender box is opened.

An official said that under the new system there can be no possibility of anyone tampering with the tenders, as was suggested by government critics during comment on irregularities in the highways department.

The official also said there now is no possibility of "last week ends" during which tenders remained unguarded in the department.

It was also learned the department has reduced the deposit required when submitting tenders to five per cent from 15 per cent of the amount of the bid, but a deposit must now accompany each bid. Any tender not secured by a deposit will not be considered when tenders are opened.

Drastic Heart Surgery Saves Man from Death

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A Peterborough man, who expected to live only a few months because his heart now looks forward to another 29 years of life followed drastic heart surgery by a Montreal surgeon.

Horance W. Watkins, 52, has had three severe heart attacks in the last two years. He was suffering from coronary insufficiency, a condition that made it impossible for him to walk 40 yards.

He could drag himself upstairs only by holding the bannister.

"Any time I made any exertion at all I'd get sharp severe pains," he said.

Dr. Arthur Vineburg grafted a part of the omentum (tissue forming part of the abdomen) into the heart muscle to supplement the blood supply in a three-hour operation.

Now, although it is expected to take two months before the grafted substance takes complete hold, Mr. Watkins feels fine and is able to climb stairs easily and help his wife with the dishes.

Cyclist Completes 1,650-Mile Trip

GALT (CP)—Jack Stephen, 17, of Assiniboia, Sask., pedalled his bicycle into Galt Thursday after noon, after covering about 1,650 miles to visit his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Campbell.

From his western home he took a route through the U.S. and covered the distance in little less than a month. He plans to return the same way.

Strapped to the bike was a portable radio which provided him with entertainment while he pedalled.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A high pressure area, pushing southeastward from western Manitoba, will bring sunny skies across most of Ontario today and Saturday. The weather will continue cool, with northerly winds covering the province.

FOUR OF CREW OF U.S. STRATOJET BOMBER KILLED

Plane Crashes, Burns On Takeoff from Base

FAIRFORD, England (AP) — A U.S. Air Force B-47 stratojet bomber crashed near here today. The Gloucester fire brigade said all four of the crew were killed.

The fireman said the 600-mile-an-hour medium bomber crashed and burned on takeoff from an airfare burst with frightful fury over Hiroshima.

At 8:15 a.m. today massed sirens screamed their protest to the memory. Then the church bells of Hiroshima rang out, calling the Japanese of this western city to prayer.

More Energetic Action to End Tension Between Arabs, Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — When Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns arrives in divided Jerusalem to assume duties as chief of staff of the United Nations truce supervision organization, he will find himself between two hostile camps hurling threats around an unsteady and blood-stained border.

Burns is expected in Jerusalem about Aug. 12, United Nations sources here report.

His appointment has been taken here to mean that UN headquarters and the Western powers are anxious over the deterioration of the Middle East situation and that more energetic action will be taken to put an end to the steadily rising tension between Israel and the Arab states.

Burns' appointment was received with satisfaction in Israel where officials, the press and the people were fast losing confidence in the usefulness of the UN truce supervision machinery.

One of the direct results of Burns' arrival may be Israel's return to the Israel-Jordan armistice commission which she has been boycotting since last March—virtually paralyzing the work of the UN's main instrument here.

The appointment could in part perhaps the most important of the four commissions formed to regulate relations between Israel and her neighbors under the 1949 armistice agreements. The other three are composed of Egypt, Syria, and Lebanon.

While trying to regain the confidence of Israel's pro-UN machinery, Burns will be faced with some suspicion on the part of Jordan and the other Arab states.

In Jordan, the replacement of Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark has been explained by official spokesmen and the press as the result of "Israeli pressure."

In political circles here, the current view is that Israel can expect a fair deal from Burns there is evidence that Israeli officials will try to facilitate his difficult task.

This is based on what they call the friendly relations between Canada and Israel, who recently raised their diplomatic representation to embassy level, and also on Canada's record of peace-keeping activity during the crucial times before Israel became a nation.

Observers here, however, recalled that the inheritance of problems such as the Jordan river project will demand of Burns much diplomatic tact and determination.

The Jerusalem Post says Burns brings to his complex military, legal, political, and diplomatic difficulties "not only experience as a soldier but also as a statesman and diplomatic skill and political acumen."

The independent Haaretz says Burns is inheriting a difficult legacy and lacked of the kudos, too, and that of the whole region, we wish him success."

WILBERT COFFIN WILL BE HANGED ON NOVEMBER 26

Found Guilty of Murder Of U.S. Bear Hunter

By TOM McCUBBREY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PERCE, Que. (CP) — Wilbert Coffin has been found guilty of the murder of an American bear hunter and if no further move is made to save him he will be hanged Nov. 26.

Six English - speaking and six French-speaking jurors Thursday took only 28 minutes to decide that Coffin murdered 30-year-old Richard Lindsey in the wilds of Gaspe last summer. Minutes later Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix donned the traditional black cap and sentenced him to death.

Today the 43-year-old prospector, whose heavy police escort was to be driven through the hilly peninsula he knew so well as a hunter and prospector on his way to jail in Quebec.

Later he will be transferred to Montreal's Bordeaux jail for execution.

NO APPEAL DECISION

His chief counsel, Raymond Maher, said late last night shortly before leaving to visit Coffin's family at nearby York Centre, it has not been decided if an appeal will be lodged.

"We'll know in a few days," he added.

Richard Lindsey, his father, Eugene, 47, and Albert Clear, 20, were slain in the bush while on a hunting trip last June. The bodies of the three Hollidaysburg, Pa., tourists were found by police in late July.

The murder conviction was the second handed down in less than a month. Ernest Claivet was sentenced to death July 16 for the murder of Jean-Paul Pelchat of Manche d'Epee.

Coffin pale as Romuald Caron, the jury foreman, looked across the tiny courtroom at him and said:

Proposed Bridge At Burlington Now Designed

TORONTO (CP)—M. A. Elson, deputy minister of highways in Ontario department, announced Thursday that the proposed $15,000,000 bridge at Burlington would be almost completely designed.

Grading on the approaches will be started this fall.

The complete project, including the approaches and cloverleafs at each end, will cost $15,500,000 Mr. Elson said. Of this $12,000,000 will be spent on the 7,700-foot long bridge itself.

The bridge structure will have a 120-foot clearance over the ship channel and will be built parallel to Hamilton Bay. It will have two 24-foot roadways on either side of a central six-foot wide boulevard.

Reception Given to Duke Between Visits to Athletic Competitions

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh spent four hours at the British Empire Games Thursday, watching track and field events in the afternoon and cycling at night. Today he planned more of the same.

The games flavor dominated Thursday's social function, a reception for the Duke between his visits to the athletic competitions. Premier W. Smith, general chairman of the Games executive committee presented him with a watch and a complete set of Games medals. He hailed the duke's visit as "the crowning glory" of the Games. The duke also received gifts for Prince Charles and Princess Ann, sweaters made by the Cowichan Indians on Vancouver Island.

The duke came to the reception after three hours at Empire Stadium for track and field events. There he received a 21-gun salute and inspected a guard of honor. After the reception he headed for the cycling track.

At the track, as a light convertible came into sight, a cry of "Here he comes!" went up from the crowd.

Then came another cry, this one from a boy near the front, in a tone of disgust. "Hey, that ain't the duke!"

The car was carrying two reporters and a photographer.

The duke stayed at the track just under an hour, watching a 10-mile race in progress.

He was greeted by crowds on every side, at the hotel and at the games.

Today he was to speak at a Canadian Club luncheon and to watch the Games swimming and diving finals in the afternoon. There was no fixed schedule for tonight.

Three Other Boys Escape Injury In Accident at Tweed

Garry Holmes Dies Despite All Efforts to Revive Him

TWEED (Special) — Garry Holmes died this afternoon after rescue workers made desperate efforts to save his life.

Rescue workers today were fighting for the life of nine-year-old Garry Holmes, trapped in a sand pit cave-in, while playing on his father's farm on Highway 37, about a mile south of Tweed.

Son of Mr. Lyman Holmes, Garry was apparently digging in the sandpit for swallow eggs with three other boys when the sand collapsed on them. The other boys were reported uninjured.

In the pit with Garry Holmes at the time of the cave-in were his seven-year-old brother Dennis and Billy, 6, and David Thompson, 10, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson of Tweed.

Dennis was able to free himself and dashed home to raise the alarm. Dennis and Wayne Holmes, 16, his brother, returned and with the aid of Highway Department workers, dug the boys out.

Garry's head was buried under the sand when the rescue workers arrived.

Dr. J. F. McCue, Tweed, was called, and used the Sudbury Forestry workers were still working on the unconscious boy with a respirator.

Viet Nam Pleads For Assistance In Evacuation

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Viet Nam today appealed to the West for aid to give it the means to evacuate "hundreds of thousands" of Viet Namese who want to flee from communism in North Viet Nam.

The real reason is that the Progressive, Conservative government fears, and rightly so, that it will be beaten in Sudbury," said Mr. MacDonald. "The government may be able to fight an election in Sudbury but surely that is not the way of governing the people of that important area of a voice in the provincial legislature

Our candidate is in the field in Sudbury riding and has been there

Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, said his party is ready for the election. He declined to say on what grounds it would campaign.

"But we're ready anytime," he said.

The Sept. 16 by-elections were made necessary by the death of three members during the last session of the legislature: C. G. MacConnell, Leeds; J. D. Hault, Russell; and W. B. Harvey, Nipissing. All three were Progressive Conservatives.

The House standing: Progressive Conservative 76, Liberal 6, CCF 5, Liberal-Labor 1, Labor-Progressive (Communist) 1, vacant 4. Total 90.

Bluebird Tragedy Ends Happily

Mirror Criticizes Size of Retinue Dukes Will Bring to Canada

LONDON (Reuters)—The mass circulation Daily Mirror today criticizes the size of the retinue the Duke of Edinburgh and his daughter, Princess Alexandra, are taking to Canada this month.

Canadians are reported delighted to have the duchess and her daughter, the Mirror says in an editorial.

"But many are also justifiably shocked at the prospect of paying 15,000 sterling or so for the privilege.

"That, according to the Canadian press, is what the duchess' trip to Canada will cost the taxpayer. Canadians bargained for when they invited the royal party to an exhibition in Toronto.

"What has gone wrong? Simply this. Canadians have learned that the duchess and her daughter are taking with them to Canada: two ladies-in-waiting, one aide-de-camp, one secretary and three maids.

"No wonder some Canadians boggle!

"It is really impossible for the duchess and her teen-age daughter to leave home without a team of retainers!

"Is it really impossible for them to visit friends in this vital Dominion without paying for after by three maids?

"They need excess of 17, however pretty she may be, need the services of a maid and a half.

"Why, when two are invited to Canada, should nine have to go? "In Toronto an entire hotel floor has been reserved for this regal caravan. [illegible] this ostentation [illegible]

The Mirror adds that "understandably" Canadians are asking questions.

"Who's advised the duchess to take her own court with her on her travels? Who told her that Canada is incapable [illegible] still the fashion?

"They have ended—except in Christmas pantomimes!

"It does the Duchess of Kent a great disservice to wrap her in cotton wool.

"She has a reputation for charm, common sense and informality. Why surround her with servants and ostentation?

"Why not leave this kind of display to phoney monarchs and Hollywood czars!"

Drive to Reduce Teen-Age Gangsterism Pays Off

DETROIT (CP)—Police, newspapers, the courts and civic leaders in the Motor City combined in a drive to reduce teen-age gangsterism.

Since the drive was sparked by a gang fight on a children's playground 18 months ago, Detroit area judges have imposed stiff sentences on gangs of youthful hoodlums before them by roving police patrols.

The three Detroit newspapers took up the fight and have given extensive publicity to every gang-land. Blanche stories of minor cases appear each day including descriptions of crimes, names, ages and details of sentences.

Police have orders to enforce every ordinance available to them to clear the streets of gangs. Curfews are being strictly enforced for youths and girls under 17. A law making it a misdemeanor for a minor to smoke in public has been used, as have provisions against loitering.

An open letter from a gang member asked for help and said many members were drawn into the activity unknowingly by what was in store. Once involved they were afraid to break away because of reprisals.

Four boys involved in the fight were dropped from the school rolls. A girl was the victim of the other four. Witnesses said the youngsters were armed with baseball bats and knives. It was a wild, club-swinging, knife-wielding melee until broken up by police.

Others faced charges of robbery, assault and battery, theft, the delinquency of minors, theft, and possession of narcotics.

Farmers Ask Intervention In Heinz Strike

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Farmers of South Essex have asked for government intervention in the H. J. Heinz Company strike in Leamington.

The growers say settlement must take place quickly, if their crops are to be saved from waste in the fields. They estimate the tonnage of dollars.

Twenty-one powerhouse workers, members of an AFL union, have gates to the Heinz plants blocked with a picket line. More than 1,200 CIO packinghouse members are out of work because of it.

The Associated Growers represents 13 fruit and vegetable marketing groups, the Heinz plant has grow 44 different types of crops.

The organization instructed the president, Don Newland to wire Labor Minister Charles Daley of Ontario and request his intervention.

The farmers' wire will give added strength to Premier Frost, expected to come out of a town council meeting this morning.

Mayor Arthur Hazlewood announced she would request the meeting. Councillors and representatives and company officials.

BLIND CONFERENCE OPENS

PARIS (Reuters) — A "White Cane" conference to aid the world's sightless persons opened here Thursday night. Some seventy delegates from five continents, and the same number of observers, will attend the first general assembly of the World Council for the Welfare of the Blind. Col. W. A. Baker of Toronto, who lost his sight in the First World War, will preside over the conference.

Six Killed, Damage Heavy In Distillery Fire

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Bulldozers plowed through smouldering debris today in a rush job to get the fire-scarred American Distilling Company plant here back into full-scale resumption of whisky-making Monday.

A two-day fire that killed six persons, injured 26 and caused more than $7,500,000 damage was brought under control Thursday night.

The searing blue flame ate up from 90,000 to 110,000 barrels of aging whisky — enough liquor to fill 450,000 standard one-ounce shot glasses.

Lewis A. Brown of Greenwich, Conn., company president, said the loss to the firm was fully covered by insurance.

DISTILLERY SAVED

He announced plans to resume production operations up to almost full-scale by Monday. The fires and explosions destroyed four and damaged three of the distillery's 15 warehouses. Two processing and power plant and bottling facilities were spared.

The industrial wind shift played a big part in saving the $25,000,000 distillery from greater, complete destruction.

The dead were all distillery employees of Pekin.

The fire started early Wednesday morning, apparently from a bolt of lightning during a thunderstorm. It was pronounced fully under control until 42 hours later, at 8 p.m. EST Thursday. The distillery still was hot and smouldering today.

CHILDREN ENJOY WIENER ROAST AT THE ISLAND

Seventy-five children of the East Hill playground under the direction of the playground supervisors served a wiener roast at Zwick's Island yesterday afternoon.

A well-supervised program consisting of scavenger hunts, relay races and dashes for all age groups kept the children actively busy winning ribbons, peanuts and the ever famous "Bobbi Gum."

Finally when the pangs of hunger struck, the eager seventy-five, lined up patiently for their hot dogs and cokes and ice cream.

The bus arrived at five o'clock and returned the children to their playground.

The children and their supervisors wish to thank all age groups who helped in any way to make the wiener roast a huge success.

The two youths who apparently were interrupted in their search were arrested as they left the building.

Three 25-Horse Power Motors Taken Off Boats

Theft of three 25-horse power outboard motors from a shed at the rear of Jack Gover's outboard motor repair shop on South Front street was reported this morning to city police. The motors were new and valued at $300 each.

The three motors were owned by different men, who tied their boats up in the inner harbor at the rear of the Gover's place of business. Owners were reported to be Jim Cook, Clifford Fair and Doug Reddick.

It is believed the outboard motor thieves came up the harbor in a boat and under cover of darkness cut the control wires leading from the motors and lifted the motors off the boats.

"I didn't hear a thing" Mr. Gover said. "Our bedroom window directly overhead was open but we were not disturbed."

Nothing was watching, which sleeps on the premises, aroused.

Traffic Cases Feature Weekly Court

Traffic cases predominated the weekly magistrate's county court hearings at the Marian Congress charges and eight charges of careless driving being listed on the docket. Seven of the speeding charges, as well as those for careless driving were settled out of court with fines and costs paid.

Homer Harry Martin, driver for Kingsway transport, was convicted of a careless driving charge and was assessed a $10 fine and $7.50 costs. The court was told that Martin attempted to pass a police cruiser on a curve and forced the car to the shoulder to slow down to avoid an accident.

George A. Fitzgerald, Toronto, was given seven days on a drunk driving charge. On another charge of having liquor he was assessed a $13 fine and costs or seven days imprisonment, and on a charge of being without a driver's licence he was assessed $5.50 fine and costs or seven days concurrent.

Police told the court they had come on Fitzgerald pulled to the side of the road on No. 2 Highway, west of Marysville.

Approves Appointment

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen has approved the appointment of the Duchess of Kent as colonel-in-chief of the Essex and Kent Scottish Regiment, the defence department said Thursday.

Her husband, the late Duke of Kent, was colonel-in-chief of the Kent Regiment.

In the recent reorganization of the Canadian Army Reserve, the Kent Regiment and Essex Scottish were merged to form one unit.

The duchess will visit her new regiment for the first time during her approaching visit to Canada.

Special Junior Program Will Be One of the Features at Fair

Junior Farmers and 4-H Club members from the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Lennox and Addington will hold forth at the Belleville Fair on Tuesday, Aug. 17th, when a special junior program under the auspices of the Agricultural Society and department of agriculture for Canada and Ontario is being staged.

The junior fair program, which each year attracts over 200 boys and girls from the four counties, is under the leadership of Harold Detlor of Stirling.

Foremost on the day's program will be a judging of livestock judging competition, agricultural quiz and identification of weed and other seeds. The competitions will be under the direction of W. N. T. Ashton, agricultural representative for Lennox and Addington.

Winner of the livestock competition will receive the Bank of Montreal special silver tray, while the outstanding junior participant in the junior section will receive a mantel radio, courtesy of Northern Electric.

Prizes will also be offered for 4-H club exhibits, the exhibits to be judged on quality and confined to the project in which club members are enrolled.

Old gardens and homemaking clubs will also hold achievement days in connection with the fair.

The day's junior activities will be concluded with a complimentary banquet at Holloway Street United Church.

Pilgrims by Thousand's Converge On Quebec for Marian Congress

CAP DE LA MADELEINE, Que. (CP)—Prince Edward Island led Roman Catholics in prayer today as the Marian Congress entered its second day.

Pilgrims by the thousands converged on this shrine centre—all nearby Trois-Rivieres to pay tribute to the Blessed Virgin in an elaborate climax to Marian Year celebrations in Canada. Many Americans were also present.

Thursday, a day reserved for Quebec, saw Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec dedicate the devotion of the province, her institutions and homes to the Immaculate conception of Mary.

STRONGER STRETCHER

Earlier, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal, in a sermon after celebrating a pontifical high mass in the Trois-Rivieres cathedral, said devotion to Mary is a strong stimulant to Christian life and warned of the "offensive power of the Communist conspiracy."

A day of the congress has been reserved for each province, and PEI's day will be dedicated to Canada.

Bishop C. L. Nelligan of Pembroke, Ont., is officiate at today's ceremonies.

The congress, expected to attract 1,000,000 pilgrims, officially opened at midnight Wednesday.

In his sermon, Cardinal Leger described the congress this way:

"The incomparable spectacle . . . is a definite proof of the strength of Our Lady. Yes, it is truly the Blessed Virgin that is present here; her irresistable charm which drew this immense and pious flock."

In a strong tone, Cardinal Leger said he is convinced that the "wave of mud" which covers the earth is a reply of the devil to the Marian Year.

DEVIL'S REPLY

"Alcohol, drugs, crimes against nature, obscene magazines; dirty newspapers, this is the devil's reply to the cries of the rosary."

Two other cardinals are attending the congress—Valerio Cardinal Valeri, personal representative of the Pope, and James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto.

Jittery World Recalls Bombing Of Hiroshima

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Aug. 6, 1945, at 9:15 a.m., an atomic fireball flashed over Hiroshima, Japan, and 128,150 people were killed, injured, maimed or burned.

But Hiroshima was only the opening phase of the young atomic age. Nine years and $12,000,000,000 later, the popgun of Hiroshima had become a weapon so dreadful that it could end — blow a mile-wide hole, 175 feet deep, in the coral floor of the Pacific ocean.

NO COMPARING THEM

This was done with a 1952-model hydrogen bomb. Experts without doubt has undergone a good many refinements since then as a weapon of total destruction. The Hiroshima bomb had an explosive power equal to 20,000 tons of TNT. The hydrogen bomb TNT equivalent runs into millions of tons.

On this ninth anniversary of Hiroshima, here is how the U.S. stands in the world of the atom:

The most fearful development is that the U.S. has lost the American monopoly which existed in 1945. Now Russia has mastered the scientific and industrial techniques of manufacturing atomic weapons.

Today it's a race between Russia and the U.S. for atomic supremacy. American experts say they have the lead — but a lead that is being narrowed by Russia and Britain, too, has an advanced program.

STOCKPILE LARGE

The bombs which dropped on Hiroshima and three days later on Nagasaki plunged the world into two completed atomic bombs in the U.S. stockpile at that time. Now there are "baby" bombs, atomic artillery shells, guided-missile warheads and the hydrogen giants such as the one exploded in the Pacific during the 1952 tests. The stockpile now may run into the thousands.

Some military men believe these weapons have become so horrible that no power will ever dare the gamble of atomic war. But the fear that it may happen still drives the U.S. forward in the race for atomic supremacy.

World Surplus Poses Problems For Iranian Oil

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The victory: The United States and its Allies are keeping Iranian oil out of the hands of the Russians.

The price: The headache of trying to ease a new flow of oil into a world stream already distending its banks. Where will the oil be sold? Will it lower prices all the corner service station?

The danger: 1. Arousing the resentment of Iran's Middle East neighbors, who have been getting their own oil revenues in making room for Iran's oil; 2. Drawing down the flow of American independent oil companies whose output already is cut back because of the over-supply of oil; and 3. Encouraging other countries to follow Iran's nationalization lead.

American oil men think they can ease the flow of Iran's oil into the picture painlessly and to avoid the dangers by taking it slow and easy. They contend that Iran's Middle East oil will come to U.S. shores — domestic consumption cannot be increased if it did. Prices would be affected little — unless the world price structure should collapse in Iran.

When Iran closed down its British-owned oil industry three years ago, the world's oil supply was tight. And Iran, with 250,000 barrels a day capacity, was furnishing only a small part (about 9 percent of the non-Communist world.

Since then its neighbors, Kuwait, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, have stepped up their output to more than make up for Iran's loss. They are producing at a rate of 2,500,000 barrels a day.

World demand has increased by one-fourth in the three years, but production has more than increased even more. Production has run ahead of demand. There's a real need for Iran's oil now — in the non-Communist world. But Russia and her satellites have increased their oil output by 40 per cent since pre-war days. But in the same 15 years the U.S. Britain, Venezuela and the Dutch and is estimated to have seven times the productive capacity of the Soviet Union.

In wartime that would be allimportant. But there's still lack is considered one of the best insurances against its starting a third world war at this time.

Armed Strength Way to Peace Legion Told

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Legion has been urged to back more public support for the maintenance of armed forces.

Premier Frost of Ontario told legion convention delegates Thursday night that strength by the democracies is the way to peace and orderly security in the world.

"Never let us again neglect our armed forces as we did in the 1920s and the 1930s," said Mr. Frost, a Legion member.

"We must create public opinion that will enable the government to keep adequate forces, to ensure that our international pacts are not mere scraps of paper."

He spoke at a banquet given by the Ontario Legion for delegates on the eve of the convention's end. His words were applauded by legion leaders who earlier this week voted in favor of compulsory service in peacetime both the active and reserve forces.

Today, the convention will finish its work by the business of the biennial meeting and install its new officers, heads of the new president, Very Rev. J. O. Anderson, Anglican dean of Ottawa, for the next two years.

The convention was asked Thursday by Col. Sherwood Lett, chairman of the plan of the parent British Empire Service League for financial aid to veterans in poorer parts of the Empire and Commonwealth. Lett, K.C., Canberra, Conservative member of the British House of Commons and the legion's representative on the Empire council of the BESL, made the appeal.

Delegates also heard a Quebec proposal to observe Remembrance Day in the warmth of early summer instead of Nov. 11, but voted in favor of a song-writing competition to produce "a rousing song" especially for the legion.

U.S. Shrugs Off Red Dismissal Of Protest Note

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China's double dismissal of U.S. protests was shrugged off by the United States today as a gesture "which could not erase the record" standing against the Reds.

Protest notes were sent to Peiping through the British government more than a week ago to register anger at the killing of three Americans in a British airliner shot down by Communist fighters July 23 off Red - held Hainan Island. The U.S. demanded punishment of those guilty of the attack, and compensation.

The Reds rejected this protest as well as one against attacks on U.S. fighters by two Red fighter aircraft. The protest against the fighter attacks was strictly for the record since U.S. planes shot down the two Red aircraft.

A second note Wednesday, the U.S. renewed the protest and demanded the compensation. Peiping announced Thursday that the Reds who have apologized to Britain and offered to pay damages in refused the U.S. note.

U.S. REPLY MADE

Officials here said other steps were under consideration, but that the action of the Reds was relatively unimportant because:

1. The United States made its reaction known promptly. It dispatched two aircraft carriers to the trouble area immediately after the July 23 attack, and—whatever the provocation—shot down two Chinese planes. It was suggested that this was action the Reds would readily understand.

2. The protest notes, along with other official actions, have sought to make clear to governments and peoples in many lands the ruthless conduct of the Communists in attacking the unarmed commercial airliner in the first place. Peiping's explanation to Britain was that the plane had been mistaken for a Chinese Nationalist bomber.

3. The U.S. can and will make full use of this affair in arguing for a United Nations session of United Nations against any move to give Red China Chinese membership.

And even if the Reds had given assurances that such incidents would not be repeated, authorities said they would not be taken seriously.

Pilot Balked By Regulations Of Federal Govt.
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A 54-year-old American pilot who hoped to set an Atlantic crossing record has been balked by Canadian regulations he didn't know about.

But Paul Smith, a retired La Jolla, Calif., engineer, was ready to fly from Gander, Nfld., to Shannon, Ireland, in a single-engine plane, today.

"I haven't a grudge against anyone. But I resent the hoopla I've had this week told me about this law before I left."

The law is a U.S. government banned the flight under a section of the transport department rule which says a single-engine plane cannot fly farther than gliding distance from the Canadian coast.

Smith said he could understand the Canadian law "but this is not a stunt."

The six-cylinder plane carries 170 gallons of gasoline enough for 23 cruising hours. He hoped the trip from Gander would take only 14.

He planned to head out over the Atlantic and then switch to an automatic pilot designed by a friend. He wanted to give it "a good trying and shake it to as many people as possible."

It would have been the first ocean flight in that type of plane.

Smith says he will leave Gander when weather would permits and head for Chicago and then to San Diego.

MAKING DRIVERS GOOD AS GOLD

Frenchmen, to whom a fine degree of civility is as much the essence of life as an open prenijer in the morning, are hoping to form a steering wheel.

But for foreigners in Paris the only other homely thrill to be had besides throwing orange peels and candy wrappings from the top of the Eiffel tower, is the battle for survival amid the vehicles of the French capital.

Possibly in no other peaceful place on earth do the automotive instincts of his countrymen as a problem but speaking as pedestrian foreigners we always have regarded as an essential part of their civic character the Parisian's attitude that the car in front is serving no other useful purpose than to block the windshield.

Now L'Union Routiere, an association of French businessmen interested in highways, is proposing a remedy to this situation by offering a gold piece a day to the most courteous driver in Paris.

The first efforts of Routiere were regarded as a little discouraging. In the first week over two hours of spying, 28 traffic violations and two crack-ups to unearth a driver worthy of the money.

Anywhere else such an effort would be a plausible community activity. But in Paris the shades of Villon, Rimbaud, Lautrec and the scores of others once deemed socially irresponsible, rise up to ridicule the proposal as a bribe. In the pure Parisian atmosphere of a jam-packed Champs Elysees streaming under his chapeau worth all the monies in the world to a Parisian? It is to be hoped not, not only for the sake of the French, but for all those who look to France as the ideal in the unfettered expression of personal freedom. There is too little that is humanly natural left us now to trade it for lucre.

Besides, if there is any confusion of Paris' traffic will in time become just another tourist attraction in a city that has capitalized to the nth degree on every irrational and conventional aspect of its life to attract the well-heeled.

In retrospect, possibly the most irresponsible element in Paris is the tourist with dollars to throw away.

THE COST OF SERVING

Why is it sometimes difficult to get successful businessmen to leave private business and serve their country in government posts?

One answer may be found in considering what it has cost several members of President Eisenhower's cabinet to serve their country. These men, unlike our own cabinet ministers, were drafted from private business to the executive branch of government. In accepting these appointments it was necessary for them to sell any stocks which they held in private companies dealing with the government.

Secretary of Defence, Charles Wilson, who resigned the presidency of General Motors to accept his cabinet appointment, sold 39,470 shares of GM stock for $62 a share. The stock today is worth $80 per share. Mr. Wilson, by disposing of his stock in time, saved just $710,460 in direct stock value. In addition he exchanged his president's salary at GM of $566,000 a year for a cabinet minister's salary of $22,500. Eighteen months of this sacrifice have cost Mr. Wilson almost-a million and a half dollars of his personal fortune.

Robert T. Stevens, Secretary of the Army, sacrificed not only $10,000 in stock and salary losses, but control of his family business as well. He inherited a textile factory which he was forced to relinquish because it was working on government contracts.

Roger M. Kyes, Deputy Defence Secretary, and a former GM executive, resigned his position after one year and repurchased his GM stock at a cost to himself of $52,000 more than he paid for it when he sold it to accept a government job.

Paying an executive who can command half a million dollars a year in salary in private business $22,500 a year for working as a cabinet minister places the salaries of top government officials in their true light.

It is heartening to realize that there are men who will sacrifice such financial interests for the welfare of their country. But it is hardly surprising when the majority of such able men decline "the opportunity" to serve the public.

CHURCHILL'S BAGGAGE

On landing in England recently Sir Winston Churchill carried some unusual baggage, purchased in Canada. It included "two cases of Canadian apples, a large drum of old Canadian cheddar cheese and a cardboard box marked 'Rocky Mountain Stats' and adorned with pictures of bucking bronchos and cowboys.

Since he was in Canada only for a day or two and never west of the Ottawa river, the British Prime Minister has managed to take home with him a pretty comprehensive cross-section of Canadian life. (Winnipeg Free Press.)

BOYHOOD PRIDE

I.

A bamboo pole and a piece of string,
A can of worms and an old straw hat,
A barefoot boy, and the proudest king
Can never again have peace like that.

A shirt wide open—a tattered thing—
Blue jeans only a boy would wear,
A grieving foot, and the proudest thing
Will never again be as free from care.

A few small perch back home to bring
Grass stains thick where the youngster sat,
A proud little boy, but the proudest king
That never again be as proud as that.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The chief difference between a well-brought-up child and an ill-trained child is in their hands. A well-trained child can come into a strange room filled with interesting objects of all descriptions, bric-a-brac, fascinating small ornaments, books, barometers, ship models, typewriters open, Chin dogs, German bayonets and Eskimo ivory carvings, and touch not a single thing. Walking about with hands held under control, this child (which in these days is almost psychic imaging!) looks with the liveliest interest at everything in the room; and if at due time is invited to take hold and examine whatever most interests it."

The badly trained brat enters any room, living room, bedroom, kitchen or bath, and shoot forbidden fruit with unerring aim. Such a child in a room like the one described is the most serious problem is a menace and a horror. It is sheer luck if nothing is smashed inside of 4 minutes.

A child psychologist tells me that that instinct in the modern child is part of the acquisitive spirit of the age. We live in an era of unquenchable curiosity. It has most if not all adults in its grip. Parents see nothing wrong with a child who exhibits a prying spirit; as natural as the curiosity of a bear cub or a young raccoon.

"Indeed," says the psychologist, "we owe the present lively and a progressive age in which we live to that spirit of enquiry and that desire to possess which are the driving forces. What possibly happened was that about fifty years ago, or thereabouts, children began to be less well disciplined than formerly. They no longer had to be seen and not heard. So more did they have to stand around with their hands behind their backs, or else get smacked. So a generation of brats grew up, untrained, undisciplined, free to grab hold of everything they saw and examine it, or possess it if at all possible. And so dawned the Twentieth Century, with all its enquiry and its acquisitiveness. Nobody is to be denied. Everybody has a right."

"Was it ever denied," now about my typewriter.?"

"Keep it covered."

"And how about my Eskimo ivory carving?"

"Put it up high, out of reach," suggested the child psychologist. "That is, if you want to be old fashioned, and inhibit some poor child's growth into a full-grown, curious, acquisitive adult in this wonderful age."

Must Get There First

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

All sorts of out-of-the-way corners of the world are written up as offering dirt-cheap vacations — to everybody who is rich enough to get there.

As Many Firsts As Russians!

(Hamilton Spectator)

One of the delights of Europe is its memorials. No self-respecting community even of 2,000 or fewer souls would think of its establishment complete without its statue commemorating some native son who left his small mark in history's pages as a minor poet, partisan, or by fluke, the inventor of cornflake mushrooms, and every town is well dotted with little plaques noting that in this house or across from it distinguished born, spent his working years or died. Trivia, perhaps, these monuments to lesser luminaries — but they give a pleasant flavor and pride and oneness with its past.

By contrast Hamilton, with so uncommonly much to remember for its size, seems to be hard on its distinctions. The Loyalists, Sir John A. Macdonald, and G. W. Johnson and Tom Longboat and I Were Young, Maggie—that's about the sum of our civic remembering:

Where do we honor the men who, right here in our own, built the world's first long-distance power line and its first dining and sleeping cars, constructed Canada's first locomotive and its first threshing machine, manufactured the first sewing machine with a friction clutch, its first coal oil lamp, its first white paper, even its first tea and coffee?

Is there a monument on our waterfront to record that here was launched North America's first steam lake steamer?

Does any plaque on York Street remind us—and inform our visitors—that this is the birthplace and a blacksmith shop a Hamilton man discovered acetylene gas?

Is there anywhere around a small plaque to the Hamiltonians who left their mark on the Canadian Club; any memorial at all to those who launched the Women's Press Club, the first labor movement, Empire Day and daylight saving? Do we honor in any other way the names of the men who started Canada's first working class company and its first air line?

Do we honor to a score of distinguished citizens who contributed more of letters who were born in our city?

Does Tiger-Cat Town have any tangible monument to its outstanding string of firsts in sport?

We are, we tell ourselves, a practical, down-to-earth working city with no time for frills. With costs and taxes what they were we say, to ourselves, we can't afford and some petulants in the traffic circles are quick to point as far as we can go with civic embellishment.

And yet aren't we perhaps overlooking something more precious than the price that the stone and bronze memorials to our past would cost us?

Might we not be transmuting history into a happier, prouder, more cohesive community if, for the dollars for a monument on, say, Burlington Street to the men who made steel, the Steel City; if here and there on other streets and in the parks we put a few sensible record of figures who have left their mark on our times and years, like a Hamiltonian?

In fact wouldn't we be the best judges of the monuments worthy that we are citizens of no mean city?

Bear Market In Elephants

(Edmonton Journal)

When the average Indian maharaja is reduced to his last $6,000,000 a month allowance, he loses of the poor house haunt him day and night. He begins fretting about their palaces, these practically pauperized potentates are practically bare of all the luxuries of heretofore. Maximum Minister Nehru's fiscal savagery.

One of the latest items to be given the axe is that historic form of oriental transport, the elephant caparisoned beasts and all. The recent of market mechanics, unloaded their pachyderms on the open market. The animals, in these days—take much less than the $600 to $400 apiece, only half their original price.

Many of the beasts into bulk trading has flopped so miserably, the princes are unloading many of their pet possessions for something with which to stage a revival. Many of the elephants are furtively queuing up, when the elephant trainers are not looking, to get over bathrooms and jewelry with nearby merchants, multiplying the difficulties of that fellow Nehru."

There is, of course, simply no way of telling where all this will lead, or how it will be overcome. Perhaps it makes ends meet. Furthermore, that niggardly, $6,000,000-a-year pittance appears destined to become a permanent institution. It is, at least, something the people is any guide.

One thing is certain, though. The Indian maharaja had better not buy back any of their elephants, for the elephants will never forget the shoddy way in which they were shunted aside.

Money Can't Buy Peace

(Pueblo Star-Journal)

Americans have always been known in some parts of the world as dollar chasers. According to a recent scientific report, the concern of many people for money goes almost to the point of belief. William Kaufman, a Boston physician, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science that emotional upsets over money can cause all sorts of functional and physical illness. Headaches, stomach troubles, and back ailments are among the ills which he has traced to "money-sickness."

Anyone who makes much of a study of human unhappiness and tragedy is sure to be impressed by the large number of deficiency of men and women to bring disappointment to themselves by their own action. Here is just such a situation. And certainly no aches and pains ought to be more preventable than those brought on by undue concern about the dollar.

Since the beginning of recorded history, the world's greatest religions have warned that dollars have preached the dangers of materialism. But the warning is not ture—truer and more significant than ever before in this money-mad world. Peace of mind and happiness will not bring happiness. Financial difficulties success will not bring happiness. Happiness comes from spiritual, not material success—from the inside, not from outside.

Try it yourself! See if going to church won't do you more good than going to the bank.

About Time Roof Patched

(New York Herald Tribune)

News that a new roof is being put over Anne Hathaway's cottage in Shottery, near Stratford-on-Avon, England, is of even more moment than the fact that the cottage is of the sixteenth century, when the Hathaway family was poor and had a marriageable girl on their hands. The roof probably was pretty patchy in those days, too, though that didn't stop Anne from marrying Will Shakespeare before the fellow was always writing. She naturally moved out of the Hathaway cottage after the marriage, but the house has been preserved as a memorial, and even remembers Anne's parents, especially those with thatched roofs.

Shakespeare have had an easy time of it no matter where she lived for being married to a genius. Her attitude has been as trying those days as in these. There were two children to take care of, and the man of the house was continually running off to London to write plays and act the parts of his. And although a weary wife may have thought that her husband never even wrote the plays that bore his name, that was a whim of literary mix-up. Anne, of course, knew better, having had, to put it politely, a rival, man's writing and ways for most of her lifetime. Will, in fact, never forgot about time that somebody was getting around to fixing that roof.

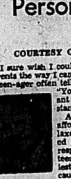
Athletic Variables

(New York Times)

When it comes to establishing athletic world records enormous precautions are taken before the challenging times and spaces are validated. But even after all the interested parties have made sure to the up-and-coming over the downand-gone, the qualifying and hyphenated go on for decades. And this is good. What pale entertainment sports would be if they offered no subject for small and hot talk.

Well, out of England comes a grand consideration. It seems that athletic prowess like javelins and shots and presumably even the human body grow exceptionally lighter the further they are from the equator. The fact that the earth bulges slightly at the middle and is flat at the poles has been known to quite a few hot talkers on sport for some time, but it is wonder that apparently none of them before Dr. Brady and this Newfoundland wrench into the works.

The same shot given the same force at Belleville would not go as far as it would at Melbourne. So that if you request a Canadian books to be revised with this geophysical variation in mind, the answer, naturally, might be for some newly observed wobble of the earth. And, if memory serves, does the moon overhead negate some of the earth's gravitational pull, making a javelin or shot or discus lighter than with the moon on the other side? There is massive mountain ahead of a sprinter pull him forward and a mountain behind to retard him? Is doubly distilled water a better sustaining medium than fresh mineral water? The possibilities seem infinite. .



Dr. Brady

"My boy is becoming a stranger to me; he never confides in me, anymore," parents remark.

Are you and your youngster becoming strangers because you do not respect him?

When he angrily and defiantly expresses ideas which to you are idiotic, immoral, communistic, dangerous, what do you do? Treat him as if he were middle-aged, like you, and tell him he should have given up such fool attitues?

Or do you demonstrate by your interest that you respect his right to express his ideas, no matter how incorrect they may be to you? For courtesy begets courtesy, and you are the example-setter.

If you do not know, read, but will find someone who will. Your younger attitude, loud manners will not combat his wrong attitudes. And beware—if you complacently swallow your pre-cooked ideas, he will swallow those of any other propagandist.

Instead of denouncing his "unreasonable attitude," you will promote mutual respect and friendship if you first hear him out, and then part forward for his consideration:

(1) Your own ideas, gained with clarity and conviction; (2) The teachings of great men, past and present, through literature and the arts; (3) Viable examples of the living of such ideas in your own family and the nation; (4) Your hope that the discussion will be continued from time to time, when you will both shed new light on it, learning one from the other.

Let your children think.

Weaker Sex Goes to War

(Ottawa Journal)

What finer thing, the song said, than to be an English gentleman? One answer could be that it required a finer spirit, and sturdier frame, to be an English gentlewoman a week. Woodham-Smith, author of a recent book on the Crimean campaign, tells us that Florence Nightingale, Lady Erroll, wife of the commander of the 600's charge, who was allowed to accompany her husband to the war. The campaign tent had only one bed, and Lady Erroll and one of her grandchildren asked Lady Erroll if she was comfortable. "Not in the least," His Lordship had the bed, and I slept on the ground."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

STEADY HAND AT THE HELM

Some people seem always to be getting the worst of it in the struggle of life. They are buffeted about by one unfortunate circumstance after another. Many decide at last that people are against them.

The truth of the matter is that every human being has his negative rough waters some time—and usually a number of times—during his life. However, there are few if ever done any boating knows that it is going through rough water it is necessary to manage the helm in such way that the boat does not get sideways and tossed about by the waves. This requires a steady hand at the helm and some knowledge of navigation.

It is hard for most of us to face the fact that the troubles of life in which we have become involved are largely our own fault. Perhaps it is because of pride, or self-justification, or perhaps our hand was not steady at the helm. Anyway we got ourselves into a position where the turbulent sea of life could not cope with us. If we had informed ourselves better, and had the seamanship that takes more skillful, we might have saved ourselves a lot of trouble. Storms come and go and there is nothing to do with situations of that proportion. But we can prepared to guide our own craft through the storm and to do it with some skill. It is well to experiment—should teach us something about the best way to handle ourselves in the next storm.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NATURE'S GUEST

I am vacationing in Nova Scotia as Nature's guest. It is a wonderful experience the same for many years. On my small island there are the pines and the overhanging fragrance of the balsam and spruce is stimulating to the body and the mind. The air is clean, washed in the sunny waters of the lake.

Being Nature's guest, I feel no restrictions. I am welcomed on all sides. The atmosphere is one of friendliness. A few days I made friends with the small red squirrel who comes and takes nuts from my fingers and romp in freedom, for they know I will not harm them. All animals in nature are that way. Be kind and considerate and they will reciprocate.

For a week I have put my field glasses upon a little nest in a big hemlock tree where several ving birds have been face to face with of Nature and its problems. Even among birds and animals there are enemies to face. I have often wondered why. At dawn and at sunset I am serenaded by a mixed company of bird musicians, and I know they are happy or they would not give forth their song.

I know by name every weed, flower, and every tree, as I walk about this island of rest, and I like to make me feel akin to all nature, and the sun, who arranged everything that is and has life upon this beautiful and interesting planet.

As Nature's guest you are not supposed to find fault with the weather but to take it as it comes without complaint. Complaining, to myself, is bad. Destructive and Nature opposes it. In the world of Nature everything is in a state of stride. You view evidences of bravery and rare courage time after time. You get a sense of inspiration back whenever you are Nature's guest!

New Citizens' Course

(Rodney, Ont. Mercury)

A short course in the procedure of Canadian citizenship for the new citizens would enable them to fully appreciate the privilege they have taken as their own and provide them with some understanding of the responsibilities which they must observe as citizens. It would certainly enable them to see the responsibilities of their citizenship with some judgment and fulling appreciation.

Wren Will Not Press Charge Against Doucett Right Away

WINNIPEG (CP)—Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member of the Ontario legislature for Kenora, says he has no intention of backing out of efforts to obtain a warrant charging Highways Minister Doucett with perjury.

He said Thursday that a Canadian Press story from Toronto quoting Mr. Doucett as saying he had decided against making further efforts was incorrect.

Mr. Wren said, however, he had declared that he would not press the charge "right away." He said this was his reply to a Toronto reporter by telephone from his home in Kenora when asked if he would press the charge immediately.

"I said I had given certain information to provincial officials and would await a report from them," Mr. Wren said. The Canadian Press by telephone from Kenora. "I believe I said I would have the matter for two weeks.

"There is no intention on my part of backing out. I am just looking for the proper way to handle it."

ASKED FOR WRIT

Mr. Wren tried last week to obtain a writ in Kenora and a justice of the peace refused to issue it until Mr. Wren produced additional information and witnesses.

In an interview last week, Mr. Wren said he had information which purported to show that Mr. Doucett had not given truthful testimony when he said before the legislature's select committee on highways irregularities he had not received gifts worth more than $100 nor had allowed employees of road contractors to work on his farm without remuneration.

Mr. Doucett said he had told the truth before the committee and would stand by his testimony. He termed Mr. Wren's accusation libellous.

Mr. Wren said he has asked again that the select committee investigating highway contract irregularities be called into emergency session to investigate his accusation.

EXCHANGE TELEGRAMS

He said he wired his request to committee chairman A. Kelso Roberts after Premier Mr. Roberts had not received his letter asking recall of the committee.

Mr. Richard Ivey made public the text of a reply to Mr. Wren's wire. He said:

"No letter has been received by me from you. When I leave the witnesses you wish to have testify and whether you yourself wish to give sworn testimony before the meeting, I will deal with the question of a date for it. As you know, when the committee adjourned, it was not the intention to reassemble before September except for an emergency."

Commuters Will Protest Ruling Of Rail Board

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The executive of the Canadian Commuters Association Thursday night decided to protest to the federal cabinet over the authorization by the board of transport commissioners of a 20-per-cent increase in commuter fares on the Canadian National Railways' Oakville-Toronto run.

Association president Hugh Morris said the board had "broken faith" with the association by handing down Thursday's decision before railway proposals for improvements and extended service had been filed with the board and association.

He said the association would stand by a previous agreement with the board that commuters should get whatever fares the board considered reasonable, but only if increased fares also applied to the Montreal service. The association represents more than 1,500 commuters in the Oakville area.

WILL REPRESENT ONT.

TORONTO (CP)—James Daffern of Toronto and Leslie McLeod of Guelph will represent Ontario in the first international apprentice contests for plumbers and pipefitters at Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 10-12, it was announced Thursday.

PICTON

'Quinte Loyalist' Collides With Pleasure Craft

PICTON — First collision of its kind to occur on local waters, saw the new ferry "Quinte Loyalist" collide with a pleasure craft at the Glenora - Adolphustown crossing. Stuart Snider of Glenora, a passenger in the boat, suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Snider, in company with a guest, Ronald Sharman, of Toronto, was cruising on the bay and the steering mechanism of the outboard failed. The motor was running and while they were attempting to remedy the trouble the small boat ran into the path of the ferry. A collision was unavoidable. Sharman jumped in the bay and swam about until rescued. Snider remained in the boat and in falling suffered an injured shoulder. The boat was slightly damaged.

Snider was treated at Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton, and then taken to Kingston General Hospital for X-rays. It will be several weeks before he is able to resume his work at the Glenora fish hatchery.

Machinist Faces Murder Charge In Boy's Death

MONTREAL (CP)—Lucien Picard, 45-year-old unemployed machinist, faces preliminary hearing next Thursday on a murder charge in what has been described as one of the most sordid slayings in Montreal's history.

A coroner's jury Thursday found the four-foot, 11-inch suspect criminally responsible for the gruesome death of six-year-old Raymond Trudeau. He was charged with the youngster's murder later at arraignment.

The dismembered body of the boy, who disappeared July 28, the day before his sixth birthday, was found last week-end. The head, hands and legs were discovered Saturday in two cardboard containers on a garbage heap near the waterfront. The torso was found Sunday in a room that had been occupied by Picard.

TESTIMONY SHOCKES

Testimony of several witnesses at the coroner's inquest Thursday brought gasps from spectators, particularly when Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Montreal medico-legal expert, said Terry young Raymond may have still been alive when the head was severed from his body.

But Dr. Fontaine added that he believed death was caused by strangulation.

A crowd of curious onlookers milled around outside the morgue and booed and hissed Picard as he was led in. One young Raymond "shoot him."

Fearful that someone might try to carry out a threat on Picard's life, police examined spectators for possible weapons as they filed into court.

David Trudeau, 33, testified how he identified his son.

NOTICED SMELL

Edmond Moreau, s-rooner at the Legauchetiere street rooming house where Picard lived, said he detected a strange odor coming from Picard's room late last week, and on investigating Sunday found the mutilated torso in a valise.

Henri Picard, 31, said he too noticed the smell Sunday when he visited his brother.

"He told me it was some meat he had to deliver in the north end," Henri Picard said, "I advised him to hurry up and deliver it as it was going bad."

Asst.-Insp. Henry Bond, head of the Montreal homicide squad, testified that an advertisement for a machinist found in Picard's room fitted a hole in the French-language newspaper used to wrap parts of the body found Saturday.

Picard, arrested Monday while roaming the streets of Quebec City, listened mutely.

Use of Eye-Screws May Damage Roofs

HAMILTON (CP) — Fred J. Veale, Hamilton's building commissioner, warned today that installation of eye-screws in roofing for television guy wires would weaken them and possibly cause leakage.

He said the practice here now is to hold the wires by brackets anchored into masonry on the sides of buildings, or to wood of not less than two-by-four dimensions.

Freighter Bearing Labrador Ore Warmly Greeted in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The SS Hawaiian, bearing 20,000 tons of high grade iron ore, greeted by whistling tugs a n d steamers, docked here today with the first cargo from the new Quebec-Labrador mining development.

Business and government leaders were on hand as the ship made its way up the Delaware river escorted by a fleet of tugs and water-spraying fire-boats.

In welcoming the shipment, Governor John S. Fine of Pennsylvania called the ore a "new weapon in the armament of freedom."

Workmen began unloading the vessel at a new $10,000,000 pier constructed at Greenwich point by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The celebration also served as the pier's dedication.

Brothers Attend Funeral Under Police Guard

TORONTO (CP)—Under armed guard, Peter Paul Puddlecombe, 16, and his brother, Robert, 18, occupied seats, awaiting trial on a charge of stealing chickens, yesterday knelt in prayer with their family in St. Michael's cathedral at a requiem funeral mass for their brother.

David Puddlecombe, 22, father of a two-week-old baby, died after being struck by a .22-calibre bullet.

Kenneth Ferry and Gerry Swain said they fired at fleeing men they suspected of stealing chickens.

Eighty live chickens were found by police in four crates in a truck wrecked during an early-morning chase Monday near Markham. They had been taken from the farm of John Torrance.

Army Worms Force Cutting Unripe Grain

DOWNEYVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Farmers in this little village, 20 miles northeast of Peterborough, are cutting grain not yet ripe in a desperate effort to salvage some of their crops ravaged by army worms. They have also called on their parish priest for special prayers.

Crop losses due to the worms have been estimated at a third at this farming community of 50 families.

The Ottawa valley and other sections of eastern and central Ontario have also been hard-hit by the plague.

In Downeyville, as the voracious pests ate their way through winter five-stock feed, farmers called on Rev. S. J. Coffey for special prayers. Prayers began Monday with almost the entire community attending.

Said farmer Leo Scully, one of the hardest-hit:

"If I hadn't cut, I wouldn't have any left now. It will be good calf-fodder even if it can't be threshed."

Fine said the shipment "will shape the lives of millions of people. New jobs, new opportunities, new challenges."

Philadelphia Mayor Joseph S. Clark, Jr., in calling the shipment "a source of strength to the free world" said the mast of the Canadian ore "marks the turning point which will make Philadelphia again the largest port in tonnage of imports in the United States."

The ore will be distributed by rail to five steel companies, National, Republic, Wheeling, Armco and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. These concerns own the Iron Ore Co. of Canada, developers of the four-year-old Canadian mining project, along with Hollister Gold Mines, Ltd., Canada, and the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland.

Brutality By British Police Charged

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will reject Poland's accusations of brutality by British police who marched aboard a Polish freighter in Hong Kong nines river last December and took off refugee Antoni Klimowicz, diplomatic sources said yesterday.

They acknowledged that one policeman used his club, but only in self-defence when crew members advanced menacingly on him and one seaman had already struck him.

The police went aboard the freighter, Jaroslav Dabrowski to take off the 26-year-old Pole, who had jumped ship and asked for British seeking political asylum. After he was taken ashore by British longshoremen the freighter captain was reported to have put him in chains by the Polish Consul.

Poland Tuesday handed the British ambassador in Warsaw a note vigorously protesting "police brutality" and demanding his return and compensation for injuries and damage suffered by the crew and the vessel.

Klimowicz, currently hiding in a London apartment as a "guest of the Queen," has been granted a week's permission to stay in Britain while his application for political refuge is considered by the home office.

Charges Discrimination In Legal Education

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice I. C. Rand of the Supreme Court of Canada, criticizes "discrimination" in legal education in Ontario in an article in the current issue of the Canadian Bar Review.

The Ontario Law Society, he writes, is admitting to the bar only Osgoode graduates, but a contested legal education in Ontario for 150 years, he says.

University of Toronto law school graduates can practise in any province but their own.

"Young men seeking admission to the profession are entitled to equality of treatment," says Mr.

Takes Patience To Teach Budgie How to Talk

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—Peter, a Budgerigar owned by Mrs. George Davis, not only talks —he can recite poems.

Mrs. Davis says Peter, her second budgie, came to her with down still on his feathers. She taught him to say simple words during the day when she was home alone with him.

After reading an article about a budgie who, could count she taught Peter to say numbers up to 10 and later to recite simple poems.

Like many budgies, Peter is shy before strangers.

His elocution is best when he's sitting before a mirror or can see himself in something shiny such as a wrist watch. He'll mumble unintelligibly to himself and then suddenly burst forth with understandable words.

In the presence of guests he becomes scared that he's shows such intelligence and flutters around before settling back to mumbling. He'll have no part of showing off in the most surprising feats of wishing for the merry Christmas and happy New Year.

Mrs. Davis says her budgie can learn to talk if the owner exercises patience—but it takes a lot of patience.

First Woman To Fly in Jet Thinks Craft Tops

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the first women to fly in a CF-100, all-weather reconnaissance jet fighter, thinks the craft is tops.

LAW. Helen Soney says the CF-100 is "the love of my life" because it's a two-seater. It gives her a chance to take a flight now and then as a radar tester.

"You," as she is known at the St. Hubert RCAF base, is an armament systems technician attached to 433 (all-weather fighter) Squadron.

HAS PILOT LICENCE

The curly-haired brunette from Port Colborne, Ont., won her private pilot's licence in June, 1951. She joined the air force six months later.

"I've been crazy about planes all my life," said the 26-year-old flying enthusiast. "I could never be afraid to be in the air."

She's job cobsists of servicing, checking and repairing airborne radar and electronic gun sights. She never dreamed her work would enable her to fly when she joined the air force, she said.

She will never forget her first flight in the CF-100, when she tumbled into a pilot's flying suit, adjusted the parachute which holds instruments and donned a crash helmet and oxygen mask.

MASK TOO SQUARE

"The fit wasn't too bad, except for the oxygen mask which was made for square-jawed he-men," she said.

Her job took only a few minutes. She spotted a moving target, locked on the hand control and the test — labelled successful — succeeded.

She took her basic training at St. Johns, Que., manning decot, and special trade training at Clinton and Trenton, Ont., in the summer of 1952.

She was originally with a Sabre jet squadron, and doesn't get too many chances to use her pilot's licence except for rare Harvard trainer flight.

Christian Dior Tosses Bomb Into Paris Fashions

By MARC PURDUE

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior, with his conservative double-breasted suits, sober ties and impassive face, looks just like the man behind the mahogany desk in the loan department of a big bank.

Yet this quiet, baldish, slightly paunchy one-time farmer is "fashion's creative genius," the man who's tossed another bomb into Paris fashions—an H-line bomb.

It's called the H-line because that's what the new form is supposed to resemble: Narrow shoulders, flattened busts, waistlines at the hip. Skirts are full, pleated or tight.

STARTED 'NEW LOOK'

Dior burst into this bitterly competitive trade in 1947, immediately setting it on its ear with the revolutionary "New Look."

The new gown became dictator of high style and never since has anyone come near toppling him from that profitable pinnacle.

Dior denies any intention of making fashion sensations.

In a book he wrote about three years ago he said fashion is in cycles with a complete revolution about every seven years.

Dior, 49, says he now is seven years old. So we come to the current question: Is he trying to effect a change single-handedly or just get out in front of an inevitable?

"Changes just come about and many things contribute when everybody is ready for them," he has said. "They are not forced by any one designer. They can't be."

This year Dior left skirt lengths alone. He already had his finger on hemlines: Lengthening them in the "New Look" and shortening them last year to 16 inches from the floor.

Fashion Flashes

Wherever young people get together there are girls wearing colorful party separates, such as a skirt of cotton organdy in a vivid floral and leaf print in nasturtium orange, green and white. With it is a square-necked halter top and tailored belt in orange cotton jersey.

Autumn rains will bring out the favorite trench coat, but not in the usual rainwear twills and poplins. It will be found in such fabrics as ribbed pima cotton, jersey and velveteen, with brilliant colors in place of the usual natural tones.

Juniors should not have to complain about their clothes, since great attention has been given to clothes for young folk by designers and manufacturers. A lightning-bug print in wonderful color combinations is used for a cotton costume, the short, bloused-sleeved jacket covering a camisole-top dress with stitched-down, accordion-pleated skirt.

Easy pants are still best-sellers, a typical choice being mid-calf pants of mixed-up patch-work-quilt cordiroy studded with rhinestones.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LIKE ANY BOY YOU PLEASE, GRACE!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 13 years old, and do not know whether or not I have made the right choice in a certain problem.

For three years now, I've liked a certain boy who is three years older than I am, and he has finally realized that I'm not just a neighborhood kid. This made me very happy.

The trouble is that, during the last month, I became interested in another boy, and now I am all mixed up. You see, when this second boy asked me if I liked him I said yes, but I don't know if I gave him the right answer, because every time I am around the first boy, I think he is the one I like. Everyone tells me, though, that if I drop the second boy I won't have a friend around here. —Grace

Dear Grace:

Why don't you start right now, at 13, to develop a sensible attitude toward boy friends? You have a perfect right to "like" any boy at all, and you should. The more friends you have the better, and don't let yourself by disturbed by any silly talk about your not having a friend left.

Don't do any silly talking yourself, either, that would indicate that if you like one boy you can't like another. I think all the boys will like you a whole lot better if you let it be known that you realize perfectly that you're a long way from being old enough to pick out any boy for a "one and only," and that you're sensible enough to be willing to wait for the appropriate time to do so. Have fun with all your friends, have good times sharing in all the activities girls your age do, in all ways be friendly, happy and a good sport, and you'll have a far better time than if you keep concentrating on how much another and analyzing your feelings about him. How about it?

MARRIAGE MAY BE ALL RIGHT HERE, BUT DON'T RUSH INTO IT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 20, I am very much in love with a boy a year and a half younger than myself. Although my boy friend is only eighteen and a half, he is very mature and acts as though he were 21 or 22, yet our friends don't think we should go together because of this age difference.

If we really love each other, I can't see why we couldn't be happy. Do you agree with me? — Joyce

Dear Joyce:

There have been many happy marriages where the woman is older than the man, but I wouldn't advise you to commit yourself unless you and this boy have known each other a good long time. An eighteen-year-old boy is usually less mature than a girl of even the same age. Hence there is apt to be a greater difference in maturity between a young woman of 20 and a boy of 18 than the chronological age shows.

Until you are certain, not purely in an emotional way but as the result of long companionship, that you are thoroughly compatible and congenial, it would be risky to marry. For while you and this boy may enjoy being together very much, that does not necessarily mean you would make a harmonious couple. Day in and day out association is an entirely different thing from a mere social relationship, and you would make a big mistake to jump to the conclusion that just because you are good friends you are candidates for marriage.

I agree with you that the age difference need not necessarily be a bar to your marriage, but I strongly urge you to think very seriously about the matter, to discuss it from all angles with this boy, and also wait a year or two before you make the final decision.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

You asked me to send my formula for plain cookies: 1-2 cup shortening, 1 1-8 cups sugar, 2 eggs 2 1-4 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. I usually add the whole egg, but once when I separated the yolks and folding in the beaten whites, would help to improve my product.—V. B.

ANSWER:

Since other readers may be interested in your problem stated in your first letter I will explain that your cakes were coarse in texture and had "runners" and that you do institutional baking.

I took your formula to a professional baker and he said you may be using flour that is "too strong." In other words you should use sifted special cake flour measured after sifting. You should buy shortening made by bakers by shortening manufacturers. Two of these are Crisco S.M., and Spectex, which the institution buyers can procure for you. Cream the shortening by adding the cake flour then sifting it again with the sugar, baking powder and salt. Add the shortening which should be at room temperature. Add the vanilla to the milk and add a little more than half of the milk and beat under electric beater, at low or medium speed for two minutes. Add the remaining milk and the whole eggs and beat two minutes longer at low or medium speed. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. Layers for 25 to 30 minutes, oblong or square cakes 40 to 45 minutes. The baker said that for the number of people you are cooking for probably you could increase this recipe of yours by four times for one large batch, I hope this helps.

QUESTION:

Being a working woman I have not much time for baking, but I do read and enjoy your delightful column . . . just now we have a thriving little mint patch. . . I wonder if you could give me a recipe for mint jelly. —Margaret D.

ANSWER:

Sure could.

MINT JELLY

Wash mint and measure 1 cup lightly packed. (It is not necessary to remove leaves from stems.) Crush them with potato masher in bottom of 3 quart kettle then add 1-2 cup cider vinegar and 1 cup water and 3 1-2 cups sugar and bring to boil over high heat. While the mixture is coming to the boil add green food coloring to give bright green shade—do not stint on the coloring. As soon as mixture boils, add 1-4 cup liquid commercial pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to full rolling boil and boil hard for 1-2 minute. Remove from heat and skim then strain through the fine sieve. Pour into sterile jelly glasses and cover with double coat of paraffin.

QUESTION:

Could you please tell me in what ways I could use the wheat germ sold in your stores here? There are only two of us in the family. We can't seem to use it up fast enough. So far I sprinkle it over cereals, porridge, and dip fish before frying. I keep it in the refrigerator to keep it fresh. Is this O.K. as you are here? Hope you can understand this. I am trying to compose in English. —One of your new readers.

ANSWER:

I think your English composition is fine.

Use wheat germ in your cooked cereal and in muffins, quick breads, biscuits, pie crust, yeast breads, nut and fruit cookies, butter-cakes that contain fruits and nuts, unbaked "ball" cookies, dumplings. In fact in anything that contains flour. Write to me whenever I can help. I hope you enjoy your adopted country and its people.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SUN-BURNED HAIR

If you are a sun-worshipper, you are probably a "golden girl" by this time. You have been complexion-wise, or if you have used your sun-tan oil or cream, keeping your skin in perfect condition. But what about your hair? Strong sunlight can raise the dickens with hair, causing it to become dry and brittle, often having a deplorable effect upon the color.

The effect on different colors varies. The brunette may find reddish streaks among the dark tresses. The true blonde may be dismayed to see that her locks are darker, the dark tone is not a solid mass, just touches here and there? White hair may turn yellow if exposure is continued for a long time.

This is precisely the right time for hair conditioning. A course of scalp treatment at the beauty parlor will be beneficial. But home treatments are possible and productive of splendid results if one is persistent.

If you would give your "glorious crown" a field day, promote growth, a healthy condition and attractive lustre this is what should be done.

Once a week start with a rousing brushing. The brush should be a narrow one, such as operators use in beauty shops, with firm bristles set in groups so the brush can be washed easily.

Brushing removes surface dust and brings away dead shafts. If vigorous enough it will have a vitalizing effect upon the scalp, too.

Parting your hair at various places, apply hot mineral oil with a medicine dropper trickling it along the partings. When it has been distributed give yourself a brisk five minute massage. Spread fingers and thumbs over your scalp and, with rotary motions, left and pinch the flesh. The oil should remain on over night.

Next morning start the shampoo with a rinsing of fairly hot water from the bath spray to remove as much of the oil as you can.

Mother's Helper

PAPER napkins or tissues are safety insurance in that final clean-up after Junior carefully tosses his bottle to the floor. When you've picked up the big pieces of glass and sopped up the milk, wet a napkin or a couple of tissues and go over the entire area again. Spinsters you couldn't see will stick to the dampened paper.

GOOD MANNERS

MADDENING COMMENTATORS AT SUMMER THEATRES

From Coast to Coast there are many, many Summer Stock performances being given in vacation-places. When you go to one of these, don't show off and sound off about the performance or the play with comments that you are absolutely positive will reveal your really remarkable sophistication and your unfailingly right ability as a dramatic critic. You probably won't believe this. . . but it's true that other theater patrons will be very much obliged if you will keep quiet and let them hear the performance, enjoy it in their own way, and evaluate it in their own way. As a matter of fact, they may have been able to enjoy quite a few performances before you arrived on the scene with your "enlightening" comments. . . .

Note: This suggestion about theater-commentators applies also to movie-commentators!

Sunday School Lesson:

This Is a Free World

By ROY L. SMITH

The strength, or the weakness, of a democracy depends upon the skill, the judgment, and the intelligence of the individual citizen as he makes his personal decisions. A totalitarianism can survive if it can have one strong man at the top and a sufficient mass of unthinking individuals to take his orders unquestioningly. The democratic system requires that every man decide his problems as though he were the final authority.

ALL FACTS NOT THE SAME SIZE

The first and basic principle the citizen must recognize is a very simple one—all facts are not the same size. The little child usually has a reason for doing childish things. It is the responsibility of the parent to train the child to see the difference in reasons, and to choose the most important from out of the multitude of last reasons.

Food, clothing, and shelter, for example, are highly important elements of life for every citizen, but there come times and conditions when other issues take precedence over even these basics. There are situations in which even a man's life is not the most important thing. The Apostle Paul said, in the midst of a crisis, "I do not account by life of any value nor as precious to myself" (Acts 20:24) and the boys who raised the flag on Okinawa said the same thing in only a slightly different way.

KNOWN BY OUR CHOICES

There is an old proverb to the effect that a man is known by the company he keeps, which could be better expressed if we were to say "a man is known by the choices he makes." And it is one of the functions of good religion that it furnishes us guidance in making choices.

Such is the major purpose of any religion, and all religious teachers—whatever their system of theology—have sought always to assist their followers in making the great determinative choices of life. All, for instance, are agreed that there are more important things in life than wages, dividends, profits, and accumulations of possessions.

The individual who sets out to achieve spiritual skills, even at the expense of economic advantages, can be sure that he has "stored up treasure in heaven"—treasure that is beyond the reach of depressions, stock market ups, current prices, or inflations.

NEVER SO MANY CHOICES TO MAKE

One of the reasons why the psychiatrists' wards of our hospitals are overcrowded is because we have so many choices to make, the necessity of choosing intrudes itself upon us every minute of every day. The farm hand who was employed to sort potatoes, putting the "big ones" into one basket and the "little ones" into another bin, expressed it for many of us when he said, saying, "It is not the work that wears me out. It is the decisions I have to make."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 8: "Choosing the Best": Matthew 6:19-34; Galatians 5:16-23; Philippians 1:9-11; 4:8; Thessalonians 5:21-22.

Choosing good TV programs from the many cheap, vulgar, wholesome reading matter out of the mass of printed stuff that comes from the presses, making up one's mind about public issues, and choosing personal conduct in the midst of a day of changing standards—these combine to make the burden of life hard and unless good religion can help us this matter it must surrender all its claim to being "good."

WILBERT COFFIN

"We find the prisoner guilty."

He appeared not to hear the court clerk ask him if he had anything to say. Then the judge pronounced sentence in English so that Coffin could understand what he was saying.

WOMEN SOB

At the rear of the court, Mrs. Rhoda Stanley, 26, his sister, and Marion Petrie, his common-law wife, sobbed as he was condemned.

Someone walked outside to tell Albert Coffin, a 70-year-old paper mill worker from La Tuque, Que., what had happened to his son. At first he didn't seem to believe it, then tears welled in his eyes. The old man turned, crossed the muddy courtyard, and sat slumped in his car.

Said Clarence Claar, father of one of the dead hunters:

"I think justice has been done. It will patch things up at home." ON HIS DAY

The verdict came in the 19th day of the long-drawn-out trial in which all testimony had to be translated either into French or English. The court presented 84 witnesses. The defence none.

The crown based its case on testimony that articles found in Coffin's possession belonged to the hunters and claimed that he had made lame excuses and contradictory statements.

Coffin's lawyers said others could have been in the bush at the time of the murder and that the crown had failed to establish that Richard Lindsay was killed with a Marlin rifle the prospector had borrowed.

Coffin at an inquest July 27, 1953, admitted meeting the Americans in the bush June 10 while on a prospecting trip and said he helped them repair their stalled truck.

The prospector later joined search parties which discovered the bodies of the missing men.

'Clucker' Clicks, Clouts Clincher In Electrics Win

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

Herb Henn's pinch double with the bases loaded and two out in the last of the ninth provided the margin of victory last night as Northern Electric edged the Frankford Mercantile 10-9 in the third game of the "A" section city playoffs. Northern won the series, two games to one and will meet Point Anne in the best-of-five series for the Bill Ott trophy and the city championship.

The winners appeared to have sewed up the game in the first inning when they scored six runs, but Frankford notched two in the third, another pair in the fifth and finally passed Northern with three in the seventh. The city crew tied the score at 7-7 before the half of the inning with Frankford netting a run in the ninth to set up Northern's 11th hour rally.

Doug Soules led off with a walk to open the rally and Glenn Young slammed a single into right field. Dafoe allowed the ball to bounce through him with Soules scoring for a 8-8 score, and all runners were safe on Cousins' fielder's choice ground-er. Herb Rankin ordered John Batchelor to present to the the bases with none down. Radner bore down, making Locke and DeRushie pop up but in stepped the "Clucker." The count ran to three and two with Henn not liking the second called strike, but his blooping single sent over first told the story.

Al Adams got credit for the victory in a three-inning relief job for starter Lum Carson. Adams gave up four hits for two runs while whiffing one and walking another. Carson was touched for eight safe blows but only one of the seven runs off him was earned. He got one on strikes while walking three.

Doug Radner hurled the route for Frankford, his fourth complete game in four days. The Northern bludgeons struck out eight hits off his slants last night while he fanned two and issued walks to four and hit two others.

Infield stages by Soules and Young, an error and John Batchelor's three run homer netted the winners first four tallies. A hit batter, walk and Carson's double made it 6-0 before Soules fanned for the third out of the inning.

Singles by Dafoe and Radner combined with Locke's two-run throwing error got a pair back in the third while a walk, error and singles by Cooke and Rankin netted a pair in the fifth.

Carson walked the first two batters in the seventh and when Rankin singled, Soules booted the ball in center with all three runners scoring. Adams came on at this point.

Soules' single, a sacrifice, stolen base and Cousins' ground ball got Northern's seventh inning tally while back to back triples by Rankin and Austin and singles by Leavitt and Gilmour scored the Merchants' final pair.

Young and Soules had two base hits each for the winners. Batchelor homered, while doubles went to Henn and Carson. Whitting claimed a single. Bill Rankin was tops for Frankford, pounding a triple and two singles while Dafoe and Gilmour had a brace of singles each. Austin tripled and Wickson doubled, while singles went to Cooke, Leavitt and Radner.

The line-up:

Frankford — Dafoe, Cooke, Cosgrove, Rankin, Austin, Leavitt, Wickson, Gilmour, Radner.

Northern Electric — Soules, Young, Cousins, Batchelor, DeRushie, Locke, Whiting, Henn, Calkin, Carson, Adams.

Line score R H E

Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Armstrong Head 'Greats' Named to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and former triple champion Henry Armstrong represented the "modern era" in a list of 34 pugilistic greats named Thursday to boxing's Hall of Fame.

The board of directors composed of boxing writers for the world's major news services selected 15 boxers of the "pioneer era" dating far back as the 18th century to start the hall off. An "oldtimers" committee of 20 named six more luminaries of the past who were active up to 1919.

Ninety-one boxing writers around the world then voted for 16 outstanding fighters who campaigned after 1919 and who have been out of action for at least two years. To make the grade, the "moderns" had to be picked on at least 75 per cent of the ballots. In this case it required a minimum of 69 votes. Only Dempsey, Louis and Armstrong could make it.

VOTING FIGURES

Dempsey received the most votes 81. Louis was named 78 times while Armstrong, only fighter in history to hold three titles simultaneously, collected 74 votes. Armstrong held the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight crowns at one time in 1938.

The "oldtimers" committee, made up of veteran writers and two former heavyweight kings, Dempsey and Gene Tunney, picked six former champions: heavyweights James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Johnson, lightweight Joe Gans and middleweight Stanley Ketchell. Fitzsimmons ruled three divisions —middleweight, heavyweight and light heavyweight—but not all at once.

Ketchell received the most votes from that group, being named on 17 of 20 ballots. Eleven votes were needed for selection in this category.

The "pioneer era" group included such Americans as John L. Sullivan, Jack McAuliffe, John C. Heenan, John Morrissey, Tom Hyer and Nonpareil Jack Dempsey, a middleweight not to be confused with the Manassa Mauler; England's James Figg, Jack Broughton, Daniel Mendoza, Tom Cribb, Gentleman John Jackson, Tom Sayers, Arthur Chambers, and Jem Mace; and Australia's Young Griffo.

VOTE EACH YEAR

The "oldtimers" committee and modern say writers will vote for other stars on the game each year. Plaques or pictures of those selected will be hung in the sports department of the Ring Magazine offices in Madison Square Garden until a permanent site for the boxing Hall of Fame is chosen.

Nat Fleischer, veteran boxing writer and official and editor of Ring Magazine, was the founder of the Hall of Fame.

In the voting for the moderns, Sugar Ray Robinson, the former middleweight king, barely failed to qualify with 66 votes. Behind him came such luminaries as Benny Leonard (63), Gene Tunney (58), Mickey Walker (57), Harry Greb (55), Tony Canzoneri (54), Barney Ross (29), Jim McLarnin (26) and Tommy Loughran (18). In all 57 boxers were named. Willie Pep, the ex-featherweight king, was picked 32 times but he didn't qualify as he still is active.

Bob Burns Paces Pack In Millar Golf

TORONTO (CP)—Veteran Bob Burns of the Cherry Hill Club at Ridgeway in the Niagara Peninsula ranked as the giant killer in opening play Thursday for the Millar professional golf championship and $2,500 in prizes.

Burns shot an unimpressive 3-over-par 74 in the morning medal-play qualifying round from which 32 players emerged for match play in the afternoon. His first opponent in match play was Hal Butler of Oshawa, one of two players who led the qualifiers with 67s over the par-72 Islington course.

The Cherry Hill pro eliminated Butler, 2 and 1.

Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener, Butler's co - medalist, came through his first match-play round with flying colors, eliminating Norm Smith of Toronto, 6 and 5.

Defending champion Gordon Bryden of Toronto shot a par 72 in the qualifying round and then eliminated Hugh Borthwick of Toronto, 3 and 2, in the afternoon.

OTHER FORMER CHAMPS

Four other former "champions" survived their first match-play round. Willie Lamb of Toronto defeated Al Nichols of Toronto, 2 and 1. Bob Gray of Scarboro, a former Ontario champion, ousted Vic Corvari of Toronto, 3 and 2. Norm Hines, the old hockey pro from Kitchener, took a 1-up decision from Lou Cumming of Toronto who ranked third in the qualifying test with a 69. Al Balding of Toronto, 1952 champion, downed Mel Warner of Toronto, 4 and 3.

Fifteen pros and one assistant pro went into the second round of match play this morning. The eight winners were scheduled for the third round in the afternoon. Semi-final and final matches are on deck Saturday.

Other players moving into today's second round included Bob Dean of Cornwall and George Clifton of Niagara-on-the-Lake.

ANOTHER ONE

With no details in from Oshawa at time of writing there is little comment we can offer on the debacle in Oshawa last night. We did hear that our side kicked the ball around but plenty in bowing to the Transporters 17-11 in what must have been another wild, woolly and wacky affair. The Oshawa scribe mentions something about the "fine win" after giving Snowball Wilson credit for a hit when the guy never even saw the plate, in that unreasonable facsimile of baseball the clubs stared here earlier this week. We do not know what calibre baseball the Transporters play against other teams—it should be good for they are leading the league—but when they cross diamond raiders with the calibre of Snowball they develops into something a dispered nine could beat.

However the win last night gives the Transporters unchallenged possession of first place in the league while the Bates dropped to third place and a .500 percentage. They go to Peterbrough tonight and they had better be on their toes for the desperate Petes are going all out for a spot in the playoff sun.

BETTER BE!

June may be the month for blushing brides, but July, if you listen to reports from various parts of the district "just ain't the month for fishin'".

It has been stated that July is the month when angling is uncertain. From our own safaris into the piscatorial realm, it matters not what month it is. It has always been uncertain, unless our favorite fish dealer has had a fresh shipment, part of which he will separate from himself for a fair amount of coin of the realm.

According to Bob Sheppard, Fish and Wildlife Department of the Department of Lands and Forests branch at Tweed, there have been not a few "gripes" about the lack of fish in parts of the area.

However, apparently the genius who find fishing supreefitable and pleasurable are the only ones doing the griping. There are other parts of the district where angling is reported to be good, but the boys do not bother to tell officials about it.

Take West Lake in Prince Edward County for instance. The boys of the old home town tell me that the lake off Wellington has been productive this season of the best fishing in years. The pickerel, bass and pike are rising to the bait in good numbers, and many a quota has been secured in a minimum of time.

From other parts of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence reports are different. Down Gananoque way, we are told, the local fishermen, tourists, etc., are bemoaning the fact that the fishy fellows have taken unto themselves a lengthy vacation. Golden along the St. Lawrence are reported to be finding it difficult some days to secure fish for the shore dinner. They claim the bass, pike and pickerel have followed the lead to fair smallmouth areas where the pickings are easier and they are not interested in any other kinds of food."

On the other hand, John Conway, Rochester, N.Y., assistant district attorney and three other attorneys of the Flower City, got a hot tip that the fishing were biting in the Bay of Quinte. They came. They fished. They "quote"d." The tackle-busters went home satisfied.

Anglers from this city who like the grey trout in northern lakes say the yield thus far this year has not been up to the par of former years. Yet some fine catches have been made in Muskoka, Belleville athlete, hooked a fifteen pounder in Desert Lake the other day.

Bob Sheppard says "many solutions to the problem may be available, one of these being that game fish schools scatter after the spawning periods. There is plenty of proof of this because a catch is taken over a wide area, and only one or two at each anchorage."

He says in the small inland waters it is because the minnows are easily secured in the shallows and the adult game fish will only school again when the warming sun forces these forage fish to cooler depths."

There has been proof that some fish are bloating themselves on the smaller fry. Take the case of those strange landlocked salmon and musky in Twin Sisters Lake, which haughtily disdained man-made lures when dangled under their mouth, but grabbed hungrily at minnows or other small fish. Maybe their cannibal instinct over-rides their actual hunger. Or maybe they are on a self-imposed diet.

But as Mr. Sheppard says: "There is the added consolation that real good fishing begins about the middle of August. We have been assured of this by experienced anglers and guides, and strangely to relate we have discovered this to be true."

Bob admits that at this particular time his department is unable to provide the exact solution for the July depression, but it is now August and the trend may be going into reverse. However he suggests that if anyone has a remedy for this so-called lack of fish, guides and resort owners would be very grateful for the information.

On The Football Fronts

(By The Canadian Press)

Al Lefty Sherman, starting his first season as coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, says he will call all plays for his quarterbacks in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, entry.

"Under my system players will have their hands full just executing the plays," the former New York Giant backfield coach says.

Sherman's spotter will be line coach Larry Cabrelli, who will relay information to him. The new coach says he will try to develop players for either offensive or offensive jobs, not both.

Two Canadians trying out with Ottawa Rough Riders are impressing coach Clem Crowe. They are halfback Boris Kotoff and end Bill Sowalski who played with Brantford Redskins of the Ontario Rugby Football Union last season.

In Hamilton, coach Carl Voyles showed his Tiger-Cats films taken during Wednesday's intrasquad game which didn't impress the 10,000 fans. Two players ended up as casualties following the rough and ragged affair. Quarterback Glen Dobbs suffered a twisted knee and kicker Tip Logan bruised an instep.

Mickey Paces Paleface Raid Into Wild Indian Territory; Chisox Stretch Win Streak

By BEN PHLEGAR

The American League pennant chances of Cleveland, New York and Chicago now seem certain to be decided in games against the five also-rans rather than in hand-to-hand combat.

With less than a third of the season remaining, the schedule is running out of the so-called "crucial" Indians-Yankees-White Sox series.

Cleveland has only five games left with the Yankees, two split by a game and a half, and six with the White Sox who are five lengths back. The Yankees meet the White Sox just three more times.

BETTER AGAINST ALSO-RANS

Cleveland leads the league solar because the Tribe has had better luck against the also-rans than either Chicago or New York. The Indians have whipped the "lowly five" 37 times while losing 16. Against the same outfits the White Sox have a 34-19 record and the Yankees 30-21.

The Yankees took a 9-8 season's advantage over Cleveland Thursday by virtue of the final game of a three-part series 5-2. The White Sox ran their current winning streak to seven games with a 3-1 triumph over Boston. Washington whipped Detroit 4-1 in the only other American League action.

The New York victory added on to their five game edge over Brooklyn which they lost 6-4 to Chicago. The Dodgers were walloped 13-4 by St. Louis.

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Milwaukee at Philadelphia were rained out.

MANTLE HOMERS TWICE

Mickey Mantle led the Yankee raid into Indian territory with two home runs and Joe Collins hit one. Rookie Bob Grim, with his inning help from Johnny Sain, posted his 14th victory. Sain gave up the only two Cleveland runs—a one-on homer by Larry Doby in the eighth.

The WhiteSox managed only five hits off five Boston pitchers but they got them when they counted most. Phil Cavarretta's five-run double in the first was the big blow as Bob Keegan won his 14th game.

A double by Wayne Belardi and a single by Al Dark ruined Bob Lemon's shutout bid with two out in the ninth at Detroit but the Washington infielder atoned with the rally for his 11th triumph. Mickey Vernon homered off loser Steve Gromek in the fifth.

TWO FOR MUSIAL

Stan Musial drove in seven runs in the Cardinals' one-sided victory in Brooklyn. Musial hit two home runs, his 29th and 30th, each with two aboard, and drove in another run with a sacrifice fly.

Stan's first blast drove Preacher Roe, 9-7, off. St. Louis scored six in showers. Rookie Brooks Lawrence won his ninth game since losing the club his first start and had a perfect day at bat with three singles.

Back-to-back home runs in the eighth inning by Ernie Banks and Eddie Mikels boomed the Cubs to victory over the Giants. Frank Baumholtz also hit into the scale for the Chicagoans.

Lefty Jim Davis, last of three Cub pitchers, stopped the Giants after they had put two on with none out in the eighth. Sam got Monte Irvin to rap into a game-ending double play in the ninth.

Woodbine Track

TORONTO. (CP)—The Ontario Jockey Club announced Thursday that entries for eight of the 21 stakes scheduled for the 21-day fall meeting at Woodbine Park close at midnight, Tuesday, Aug. 10. The meeting opens Labor Day, Sept. 6, and runs to Sept. 25.

The two biggest features are the $10,000 added Coronation Stakes Saturday, Sept. 18, Canada's richest stake for two-year-olds and the $10,000 added Jockey Club Cup Sept. 25, open to horses in the handicap division.

Stakes for which nominations close next Tuesday are: Sandown and Seagram to be run Sept. 8; Kennedy Road, Sept. 8, Fairbank Sept. 11, Autumn Sept. 15, Jockey Club and Jockey Club Cup, Sept. 25, Cup Sept. 29.

Nominations are already closed for Canadian Oaks, Princess Elizabeth to be run Sept. 11, Maple Leaf Sept. 19, Coronation, Breeders Sept. 22.

Except for the Coronation and Jockey Club, purses are $5,000 added for all stakes.

Dutchmen played their first intrasquad game Thursday night, Blake Taylor's Whites coming through with two last-quarter touchdowns to defeat Bob Celeri's Greens 24-17.

Col. Johnson Sweeps Honors At Rifle Meet

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Col. Steven Johnson has proved himself top marksman of the Ontario Rifle Association matches by winning both meet aggregates open to all comers. The other aggregates were restricted to Ontario contestants.

The matches' main event — the Lieutenant - Governor's—was won Thursday by a Toronto business man who d m i t t e d "playing hooky" to attend the shoot. CSM. Norm McLeod bested CSM. Norm Beckett of Hamilton in a tie-shoot for the top ten positions. Both scored 146 out of 150 in the 36-shot match at 300 and 600 yards.

McLeod, 56, has been a member of Canada's Bisley team eight times.

"I just came back from eight weeks' vacation," he said, "and really should be here."

He expects to compete in the Governor-General's match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association at Ottawa next week, but isn't about all."

Lieut. James Boa of Toronto and Sgt. R. S. Potter, Hamilton, posted 145s in the Lieutenant-Governor's while Officer Cadet C. O. James, Toronto, was close behind with 144.

Winners of the team match were Toronto's 48th Highlanders, Hamilton's Royal Canada Rifle Association at Ottawa, Toronto, and the army, North Bordon.

Following Johnson in the Dymond Memorial aggregate were Pte. E. W. White and Lieut. Gil Boa, Toronto.

Thrower Signs With Beaches

TORONTO (CP)—Willie Thrower who has just played as quarterback with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, says he was prevented from playing in the National Football League this season by NFL commissioner Bert Bell.

Willie, former quarterback for Michigan State and the NFL Chicago Bears, figures it's because he tried—and lost—a libel suit.

Recently cut from the roster of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Thrower said he thought he would take a shot at making Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL.

"But when I tried to get permission to try out with the Steelers I was told I couldn't."

He said he was also told if he waited a year he might have a chance.

Wins Ladies' Bowling Title

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Eleanor Crossen of Stouffville has won the singles title of the eastern Ontario women's Ten-Pin bowling championships. She defeated Mrs. Dick Edney of Smiths Falls in three games here Wednesday night.

Mrs. Isabel McGiffin and Mrs. Pat Penwell of Ottawa Elmdale Club took the doubles and a team from Ottawa Civil Service. Eleven clubs were represented in the tournament with others coming from Prescott, Cottenham and Kemptville.

Fences Win 6th Gold Medal For Canada; Landy, Bannister Lose, Qualify

Montreal Sabre Team Clicks Dream Milers Coast in Heat; Rich Ferguson Makes Final

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Marjorie Jackson Nelson, whose world-record 24 seconds for 220 yards still awaits official recognition, dupli-cated it Thursday at the British Empire Games in full view of the Duke of Edinburgh.

The 23-year-old Australian newspaper woman came from the straightaway with an amazing burst of speed that left her brilliant young teammate, Shirley Cripps, at least five yards behind.

When the official time was announced, a great roar went up from the crowd of 18,437 in Vancouver's new Empire Stadium.

Marjorie's 24 seconds in the 220-yard final duplicated the mark she made earlier this year in Australia. It bettered the standing world record of 24.2 made by Fanny Blankers-Koen of Holland in 1950.

RECORD FILED

A few minutes after her victory Thursday, Marjorie said her 24-second record in Australia has been filed for approval by the Amateur Athletic Union of Australia and she is "confident it will be recognized."

It was Marjorie's day, a fitting climax to the career of the world's greatest woman sprinter. On her return home she will go into the sporting goods store of her business with her husband, Peter Nelson, an Olympic 1500-metre cyclist in 1952.

The Duke of Edinburgh, clad in a grey lounge suit and wearing dark glasses, sat in a box and stayed for almost the whole card of a four-hour circus of record-breaking that has been part and parcel of every phase of the games.

The greatest milers in the world, counting Australia's Landy, a quiet for the Big Mile final Saturday, showed the way in the 4-1 games record Bill Parnell of Vancouver made four years ago at Auckland. He himself didn't even qualify.

SIXTH GOLD MEDAL

John Landy of Australia and Roger Bannister of England, the four-minute beaters, were in the tape eased up, looking around to make sure no upstart wanted to here in the heat. They qualified in each heat.

A few hours after the hullabaloo at the stadium, Canada picked up its sixth gold medal of the games with a three-man fencing sabre team. The all-Montreal team of Cliff Scherer, Jerry Kass and Roland Assilin defeated New Zealand 7-2, following up the 8-1 decision of Australia and England.

That gave Canada a 3-0 won-lost record for the event. England, defending champion, won a second with two victories and one defeat. Australia picked up a bronze medal on one win and two losses. New Zealand was last with three setbacks.

Later on, England and Australia split the two cycling champion-ships at 4 miles, both in record times. Lindsay Cocks, 20-year-old Aussie who paid his own way to Vancouver, won the 10-mile massed start in 21:29.3 and Ronald (Norm Sheil took the 4,000-metre individual pursuit with a clocking of 5:03.3.

Pat Murphy of Delhi, Ont., threatened in the final 3-mile race when he sprinted to the front of the big field with nine laps to go. But he couldn't keep up the pace and dropped back after leading for six laps.

ENGLAND LEADS

By night's end, 62 gold medals had been distributed in all manner sports on the program. England led with 18, followed by Australia with 14, South Africa with 11 and then Canada.

In the unofficial points standing on the basis of 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six places, England went into the second last day of the nine-day extravaganza with 378½ points, Australia had 253½, Canada 234, South Africa 168½, New Zealand 112½ and the rest nowhere.

In the mile run Murray Halberg of New Zealand finished first in the heat in which Bannister ran third and was timed at 4:07.4. Rich Ferguson of Vancouver, running in the third mile in the fastest time ever for a Canadian, finished behind Halberg in 4:07.8.

Bannister made it all look casual as he came in third, in 4:08.4, looking over his shoulder to see if teammate Dave Law did. Law did, in 4:06.8, a few strides ahead of John Disley of England.

SLOWER TIME

The second heat—the Landy heat—finished in a who's - who mix-up where affair in much slower time, 4:09.6. Landy was away last but after the first quarter had trotted into third place, behind New Zealand's Bill Baillie, a 19-year-old youngster in his first year of top competition, and Vic Hulett of Northern Ireland, who has hopes of pulling a big upset Saturday.

Parnell moved into second place behind Baillie, with Landy and Hulett in that order behind him, at the half-mile. At the three-quarters it was Landy, Milligan and Parnell, with Baillie, a step behind, and Ian Boyd and Cliff Brasher a few yards behind.

Landy moved in on the last lap but couldn't get by Baillie, who won. The New Zealander stayed there, almost reluctantly, it seemed, when the time-qualifiers were announced.

Top four qualifiers—Baillie, Milligan, Landy and Boyd — were checked off in that order at the finish. Parnell, who finished fifth, only inches apart, Boyd making sure he had beaten Parnell, who was fifth.

JUST A STROLL

Afterwards Landy said it was "just a stroll" and he needed the heat to keep fit. Bannister said he felt "very good" after the heat and "that's what I did." He is confident he'll "improve" tomorrow, "won't have to be a four-minute miler for the winner."

Halberg admitted he ran hard. "I've had to train in winter at home," he said. "It's cold."

Ferguson was bubbling at being "one of the select—"I'm lucky to be here."

Of the eight finals at empire Stadium Saturday, England and Australia each captured two, and four other countries helped themselves to gold medals—Northern Ireland, South Africa, New Zealand and Jamaica.

BLACK KENYAN

England has gained six gold medals in track and field and Australia five.

England's canoe was helped along Thursday by husky-browed Alan Laking, Kenyan native boy who became champions in the 1,000-metre and broad jump.

It was Wilmshurst's second championship. Earlier he'd teamed with Marjorie Jackson Nelson as the only double winners in track and field. The Englishman took care of both the 100 and 220 sprints and Wilmshurst won the broad jump Thursday to add to his hop, step and jump title.

Giant John Savidge of England was easily the class of the shot-putting field. Savidge, a Pavelich of Vancouver and Steve du Plessis of South Africa also beat the Canadian record of 58 feet, 3¼ inches. Savidge's winning effort was 55 feet, ½ inch.

Meet In Tennis Finals

TORONTO. (CP) — Butch Friedhoff and Carmen Bolton of Toronto will meet today in the finals of junior men's singles in the Ontario junior tennis championships.

The pair entered the finals Thursday. John Baarda Jr., and Joe Caruso of Toronto are entered in the junior boys' finals while Judy Travis of Toronto and Georgette Delcroix of Cornwall are opponents in the final of the girls' singles events.

ENTER BIG RACE

TORONTO (CP) — A nine-horse field, including four invaders from the United States and Quebec, will go to the post for the big purse in today's final of the $6,500 Canadian Cup Pace, richest harness race in Canada. Three horses that have been campaigning at the Buffalo raceway as well as Vernon Downs in New York state, arrived at Woodbine raceway Wednesday.

Northern 'Girls' Swamp 6RD By 24-4 Score

Unleashing a 21-hit attack, the Northern Electric Ladies softball squad had little trouble last night in handing 6 RD a lop-sided 24-4 defeat in the first game of the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League playoffs.

The two clubs go back at it Monday night at the six station with a Northern victory placing them in the finals against the winners of the Trenton Town-Trenton RCAF series.

Ann Mowatt got off to a 3-0 lead in the first frame and continued to score all the way through last night with the 6 RD hurler getting singles in the third and fifth frames with a pair in the sixth.

Linda Wagg went the route for the winners, allowing eight base hits while setting two down on strikes and walking three. Richardson and Myles shared hurling duties for the losers, Richardson giving up 31 hits, fanning two and walking seven.

Aussie Cyclists Will Be Asked To Apologize

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Amateur Cycling Association of Australia will be asked to apologize to the British Empire and Commonwealth Games authorities for the "disgraceful outburst" by Australia's cycling team manager W. E. Young, in leading the Australian walkout at Vancouver Thursday.

This was decided unanimously Thursday night by the Victorian Cycling Union Council whose president, M. Gray, said: "Young's outburst might have been made on the spur of the moment but it was not good sportsmanship."

Young withdrew the Australian cyclists after a dispute followed the disqualification of an Australian rider. But Australian games manager Jim Eve countered Young's action by saying the cycling manager had "erred," and that Australians would compete in the remaining events.

ASKS APOLOGY

Referring to the incident, the Melbourne Argus said Thursday in an editorial that Young's action was a blot on Australia's sporting copybook.

"Nothing less than a full apology in the name of Australia can even begin to erase it," it added.

The Melbourne Herald in its editorial said: "Not only should there be a public apology to Canada but Mr. Young should be promptly relieved of his position as cycling team manager."

Young received news of the association's decision at the British Empire Games cycling oval in Vancouver Thursday night and said he had "no comment at this time."

The Australian cycle team manager said he wished first to consult with his country's team and officials.

Vern Goyer Is Bright Spot In 'Worst Game of Season' As Oshawa Whips Batas 17-10

OSHAWA. —One of the best crowds of the season saw one of the worst games of the season, here at Kinsmen Civic Memorial Stadium last night as McCallum Transporters walloped Belleville Batas 17-10.

The win clinched first place in the standings of the Viadust-Ontario Senior Baseball League, for the locals, while the loss dropped Batas back into third place.

A special booster night with an army of attendance prizes attracted the increased attendance and they were treated to a comedy of errors in a weird display of defensive blunders that was infinite in scope.

Lack of pitching was a big factor. In all seven different players got a chance on the mound, but most of them had little to offer in the way of consistency. Hall's showing of two hits and two walks allowed in about three innings, while Tom Hall's effort was pounded hard in the 6th inning; Bill Bona, who started the 9th for Oshawa was driven out with four-straight hits following an error. Dick MacDonald and Mowatt wasn't feeling too well and they also got pounded out too while Dick Fitzpatrick pitched to 10 batters in the 7th inning.

Bob Bunton put out an Oshawa "first" in the 4th for Belleville's best mound effort. With the pitchers having trouble, it followed that the batters weren't going to have a big night and they did. Oshawa pounded out 18 hits and the visitors had an even dozen. Claude Carr, Dick Fitzpatrick, Keith MacDonald and Joe Bush each had two hits for Belleville, Bush having two-for-two.

Catcher "Mike" McArthur was Oshawa's best at the plate, with three-for-four including a double.

Bill Gingerich had three for five and Bunny Masson three for four, while Vern Goyer, Jack Joskoski, Bill Kellar and Nick Mrocsak all had a pair. Only the pitchers went hitless.

SCORE EVERY INNING

The Oshawa scoring was every inning of the game, with their 5-run splurge in the sixth canto being their best effort as the eight chances at the plate.

Belleville's lack of defensive fielding, coupled with Oshawa's vicious hitting, made scoring almost easy as they got the big hit in nings they enjoyed, Belleville had ll the same scores.

Oshawa was leading 7-1 going into the 6th inning and the Batas then struck for five runs to make it 7-6, but Transporters came right back with four more runs and staged their own 5-run parade in the 7th, to put the game beyond reach.

GOYER PROVIDES HIGHLIGHT

Big Vern Goyer, playing manager of the Batas, saved the game from being completely dull. After taking quite a ride from the Oshawa fans, every time when he started to talk back to the stands, the jeers reached great volume when he inserted himself as a pinch-hitter. He fanned on the first strike and the fans were howling for "the kill." But Goyer slammed the next pitch to the centre field wall, with the base-loaders scampering gaily for the best hand any visiting player-manager has received this year. He climaxed his effort and made it three RBI's for the one appearance when he succeeded in stealing home when the Oshawa battery failed to stay alert.

But this was the only bright spot in the visitors' display and the homesters are hardly likely to brag about from a fielding standpoint, with the exceptions of Bill Kellar and Bunny Masson, who both performed very well at their side of the infield.

Marlene Carries Six-Stroke Lead Into Second Round Ladies Tourney

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRIGHTWOOD, N. S. (CP)— Marlene Stewart, a sharp-shooting perfectionist from Toronto, has carried a six-stroke lead into today's second round of the 54-hole Canadian women's close golf championship.

The 20-year-old defending champ looked every bit a winner as she parred 11 holes and birdied one while carding a one-above par 74. Marlene shot a 75 Sunday in her first trip around the 5,677-yard course overlooking Halifax harbor.

Thursday she could have broken par—second accomplished here by a woman—if her putting had been better.

The large gallery cheered Marlene's soaring drives that carried well down the fairways. She went into the rough on the 13th and 16th holes but made remarkable recoveries.

Sixty-five Canadians teed off under bright skies and a hot sun dried up fairways soaked by rain Wednesday.

The final rounds of the interprovincial team event and junior matches will be played today while the Close tournament still has a few to go.

Ontario looked like sure repeaters in the provincial team matches, holding a 13-stroke lead over Alberta and Saskatchewan.

British Columbia trailed the two wheat province teams by a single stroke but Manitoba, the Maritimes and Quebec follow in that order but were well off the pace.

In the East-West play, a strong east team from the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario are expected to retain their six-stroke lead. Junior champions of British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta form the western four-some.

The junior matches are the only ones decided on net score. Their gross scores count in the close standings.

The top places ran true to form in the Close with Mary Gay, Kitchener, Ont., and Dorothy Herbertson, Regina, Sask., tied for second place with 86.

One of the best performances Thursday was turned in by Noreen Laing of Port Credit, Ont., who carded only 1 bad first birdies on the seventh and ninth holes.

Others with Noreen were Gail Rochester, Hull, Que., and Anne Sharp, Foothill, Ont.

Toronto's Ada MacKenzie, 5-time winner of the Close title who was paired with Marlene Thursday carded an 83. Miss MacKenzie will be honorary captain of the Canadian team and Ada will appose a British team later this month at Moncton.

The women's Open tournament begins here Monday.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How would you like to see the same show over 8,000 times?

Alexander Smallens is devoted to "Porgy and Bess." Because of this devotion, he is by far the world's champ in the marathon conducting of a musical work.

"How can you do it!" asked an amazed fellow conductor, Dimitri Mitropoulos, some months ago. "It would drive me crazy to conduct Beethoven's Ninth 20 times. Yet you have probably conducted Porgy and Bess' 250 times."

"It's 2,900," Smallens corrected.

VERY SIMPLE

"How is it possible?" exclaimed the New York Philharmonic leader.

"Very simple. Each time I enter the pit, I approach the music as though I have never done it before. I transport myself to Catfish Row until 11:30 in the evening."

I found Smallens relaxing at his hotel between performances here and asked him more about his record-breaking love affair with "P and H." He said it all began 20 years ago. He had just conducted the premiere of Virgil Thomson's "Four Saints in Three Acts" in New York. George Gershwin, who had been a casual friend, rushed backstage with enthusiasm.

"Alex, I'm writing a grand opera, and I want you to conduct it," said the composer. Three days later, he played the score for Smallens, who "fell in love with it."

NO SMASH

He conducted the first performance, at the Colony Theatre in Boston on Oct. 19, 1935. "Porgy and Bess" was not a smashing success, playing 16 weeks in New York and 10 on the road. Smallens went back to his symphonic and operatic conducting.

In 1940 he was appearing in Washington, D.C. when he received a call from producer Cheryl Crawford, who wanted to revive the opera at a Maplewood, N. J., summer theatre and proceed to Broadway if it went well. Smallens agreed, but suggested junking the song dialogue.

"George's music to Ira's lyrics was inspired, like Gilbert and Sullivan" said Smallens. "But his music to Dubose Heyward's prose was out of place."

The new gimmick worked, and "Porgy" prospered for three years, including 37 weeks in New York. In 1952, it was revived by producer Robert Breen and sent to Europe by the state department.

AT THE BELLE

"Knights of the Round Table", M-G-M's First CinemaScope Offering, is Color

One of the year's most eagerly awaited film attractions comes today to the Belle Theatre, with the showing of M-G-M's first CinemaScope production, "Knights of the Round Table," in color magnificence, starring Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner and Mel Ferrer, in a cast of fellow conductors.

Unfolded against breathtaking panoramic backgrounds of England's 6th century castles, jousts and tournaments with its tremendous battle scenes given a thunderous and eye-filling validity as photographed in the remarkable CinemaScope process, which permits the spectator a pictorial range never made possible in conventional films, here is a picture which offers entertainment the like of which never has been seen before.

It tells the story of King Arthur and the gallant knights who joined him in fighting to free England from the feudal chieftains. It is also the story of the ill-fated romance between Lancelot and Guinevere, the one which put their love aside when Guinevere becomes King Arthur's queen. It is this love affair which is used as a pretext by Arthur's greatest enemy, Modred, to stir up rebellion and throw England into a turmoil of warfare. But in the story's conclusion, Lancelot and Guinevere are vindicated, Lancelot slays the malevolent Modred, and Arthur's dream of a peaceful, united kingdom is realized.

Robert Taylor, as Lancelot, adds another stellar portrait to a gallery which includes his memorable performals in "Quo Vadis", "Ivanhoe" and "All the Brothers Were Valiant." Ava Gardner plays the role of the lovely Princess Guinevere, a striking contrast to her modern heroine of "Mogambo." Mel Ferrer the swordsman of "Scaramouche" enacts King Arthur. Heading the large supporting cast are two noted British players, Anne Crawford as the scheming Morgan Le Fay, and Stanley Baker as Modred.

"THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR"

A special added attraction on the same program, in CinemaScope by color, is the Academy Award winning Featurette, presenting Johnny Green conducting a full symphony orchestra in "The Merry Wives of Windsor", also a funny M.G.M. color cartoon entry "Billy Boy", and the popular Warner Bros. Newsreel.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Elkhter

Bridge is a game that can make a monkey out of any bidding rule. Study your pair of hands for a long time and decide your most correct contract, It can still be defeated.

Glow at the south hand in the deal you see here:

	NORTH
	♠Q 9 8 5 4 3
	♦A J 8
	♣K Q 8
WEST		EAST
♠J 7 2		♠K 10 6

♥J 6 3 2 ♥9
♦8 5 4 2 ♦10 9 3
♣A 3 ♣7 6 5 2

♥A K Q 10 8 7 5
♦K Q 7
♣J 4

Count the tricks in the south hand and you will total nine. That many tricks, rule says you, are enough for an opening bid of two in a suit. Start with two hearts.

Your partner in north has sure tricks. Rule tells him to make a positive response of two spades. This is a promise that north has the kind of quality that will help make a slam.

You may be a little wary because of the spade response. But you have an independent trump suit and no losers in spades. The spade situation is no detriment to your slam thoughts.

What intrigues you is that partner has promised a sure trick. It may only be king and queen of spades or clubs. In which case the opponents have two aces and slam will die because of them.

However, you have time to find out. So your second bid is three hearts. You may as well get some more information from partner before asking him how many aces and kings he has.

The second bid from partner is three no-trump, which tells you nothing more of value. So, you bid four no-trump; aces and kings asker. His reply of five hearts is signal for showing one ace and one king.

With an ace and king missing you could pass five hearts and play it there. Not being so timid you would probably go to six hearts.

Even when the west opening lead is disclosed you are not unhappy with what you see in dummy. But when you also lost a trick in trumps you are almost inclined to go back to Canasta.

The least you might say is: "There ain't no justice."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 7, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Better adhere to basic principles, avoid going overboard — in import ant matters especially. Aspects advise against taking too many chances. Be less forceful, more diplomatic if you would advance.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Stars suggest a review of expenditures. Consider well before going into new debt. Finish what you have started before taking on extra duties. Tact is essential.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Take day's doings in a calm, businesslike manner and don't let little things irritate you. Your innate desire to do a good job can be satisfied now if you run true to form.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Special issues, new ideas can advance if properly presented. Aspects stimulating. Those in executive and scientific work, doctors, bankers and general business can expect gains.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't plunge into your activities without fore-thought and strain. Work well-planned and carried out deliberatedly will bring success. Relax during p.m.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — You should have little to combat this fine day. However, give best efforts to each task to get the full benefits possible. Heart interests, family and social affairs also favored.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra) — Influences on an upward trend, so be ready to cash in on benefits available. Step out some; don't be too formal; try those new good schemes, write that article: in general, get going.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A slight recession in some respects. Think well on your mode of approach; ascertain what is going on around you. Your innate knack of seeing through ideas quickly will help.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Satisfactory trends for long-pull and stable undertakings. Watch economic outlook. Nit-and-miss period. Expenditures should decline, but double up on savings when possible.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be clear, definite in the methods you propose to follow this mixed sort of day. Avoid intensifying effort to the point of nervous exhaustion. Be will of harm. Be sensible.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A.M. hours will need most watching. No sharp answers, foolish show! Better check and look around for good leads. Don't let lack of appreciation upset you; have faith.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Proper administration of duties and business is most important to success. Beware of laxity after 2 p.m. Keep trying. You may get outside assistance.

YOU BORN TODAY: Are bright, active-minded, sometimes impulsive; could advance in business, art, or whatever your profession if you keep improving yourself. You are generally entertaining, personable, tactful. In taking over a new business or project do not be overly forceful. Think calmly, wisely and avoid haste, arguments. Remember that others may be waiting for the same things you are. Be honest, fair and always have faith in God.

GIVEN 45 YEARS

CHICAGO (AP)—Vincent Ciucci, accused of wiping out his family for love of the "other woman," was sentenced Wednesday to 45 years in prison. Ciucci, 36, had been charged with slaying his wife and their three children Dec. 5. The state said he wanted to be free to marry a girl he met in a night club.

Infinite Patience, Courage Mounties' Chief Weapons Winning Canadian West

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Supt. James Morrow Walsh of the Mounted Police "kicked Sitting Bull in the pants. But the Mountie first had thrown the mighty Sioux tribesman on the ground and the scruff of the Indian's breech-clout.

Reading of the late John Peter Turner's official history of the North-West Mounted Police, published by the Queen's Printer, you can't blame Supt. Walsh for losing patience. If any Mounted Police ever had reason to mistrust Indians, it was the proud, wily Sioux leader and his quarrelsome followers in Canada may well have been the cause.

As Sitting Bull, furious with the affront, picked himself up off the ground that summer afternoon in 1876, he started to draw a revolver from his belt but his followers restrained him. They did it out of respect—respect for the justice meted out by the NWMP.

PIONEER FORCE

The NWMP did more than any other single force to win western Canada from the Indians. Their main weapons were not guns and bullets but infinite patience, and raw courage.

The force came into being through an act of Parliament passed May 23, 1873. Supt. Walsh was among about 275 who marched across the prairies that summer to bring the law to whisky peddlers, horse thieves and Indians in the West.

He commanded a fort named after himself in the Cypress hills area of what now is southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. It was not many months after making Custer's famous stand in Montana that American general's last, the Sioux rode north seeking refuge from an outraged United States army.

Custer's cavalry was wiped out in June. By November the vanguard of the Sioux had entered western Canada. Some came in the Wood Mountain area, not far from Fort Walsh. When the first heavy snow spring that Sitting Bull himself was on the way, Supt. Walsh rode out to meet him. For support against the Indian horde, Walsh took a sergeant, three constables and two scouts.

INTO LIONS' DEN

Long before the little party of Mounties reached Sitting Bull's camp, it was surrounded by Indian scouts. None of the redmen, however, seems too near at the redcoated riders trotted right into the savages' camp.

Writes Turner:

"Barely had the superintendent and his companions dismounted at the edge of the camp than a chief, Spotted Eagle of the Sans Arc band, came forward accompanied by several headmen and announced it to be Sitting Bull's camp.

"It was also announced that this was the first time any white man, soldiers or scouts, had dared march into Bull's camp so unconcernedly."

Following a pattern which the Mounties by then had found effective with the Indians, Walsh explained Canadian laws and emphasized that they applied to red man as well as white. Sitting Bull said he and his people would obey them.

Then, writes Turner, "in a typical Indian oration," Sitting Bull said in effect:

"Yesterday I was fleeing from white men, cursing them as I went. Today they greet me, their lodges by the side of mine and defy me. The white forehead chief (Walsh) walks in my lodge alone and unarmed. He gives me the hand of peace. Have I fallen? Am I at the end?"

Sitting Bull was at the end. Unless he surrendered and went to live on a reservation, he faced eventual annihilation in the U.S. He was not welcome in Canada: the Canadian government had all the Indians of its own that it could handle.

SKILFUL DIPLOMAT

During the next four years, Walsh proved himself a skilful diplomat. The buffalo herds were diminishing, posing a constant threat of starvation for the Sioux, while Canadian Indians were being settled on reservations and provided with food. Sitting Bull tried every way his agile brain could devise for an invitation to remain in Canada, but Walsh never wavered. Always watchful and almost always patient, he constantly tried to steer the Sioux southward.

The day he lost his patience, and the end of his patience, Sitting Bull and a large following rode into Fort Walsh and announced they wanted provisions, especially tea and tobacco.

Turner writes that Walsh told the chief:

"Have you forgotten you are American Indians? You haven't any right to be in Canada. You've caused us police any God's amount of trouble; you've stolen horses; you've been a nuisance.

"You seem to think that all white men are afraid of you. You're wrong. . . get your provisions at the trading post. And if you keep on making trouble, I'll put the whole damn lot of you in jail."

COMMANDED NWMP FORT

Supt. James Morrow Walsh was among 275 men who joined up the Northwest Mounted Police in 1873 and marched across the Prairies to enforce law and order among whisky peddlers, buffalo hunters and Indians in the West. The NWMP did more than any other single force to tame the old West and win Western Canada from the Indians. Supt. Walsh once kicked Sitting Bull in the pants and threw him out of his cabin. (CP Photo).

Sitting Bull reminded Walsh that he was speaking to the head of the Sioux nation.

"I know who you are all right," Walsh cried. "What I said still stands. And another thing, if there is any more horse stealing, I'll put you on you, too."

Pointing an imperious finger at Walsh, Sitting Bull said: "No man can treat me like this."

"Are you threatening me?" demanded Walsh. "Are you trying to bluff the Mounted Police? Behave yourself or I'll throw you out."

Sitting Bull gave a low cry and tugged at the revolver in his belt. But Walsh seized the surprised chief by arm and breechcloot and threw him through the door.

Hit by Lightning Worker Describes His Sensations

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Francis Einarson, operator of International Falls municipal airport, can describe what it's like to be struck by lightning.

He was perched on the wing of a plane, into which he had just pumped 85 gallons of high-octane when the bolt struck. It left the imprint of his hand burned on the wing.

Witnesses said they saw a streak of fire "shooting out of his head, six feet into the air."

"When the lightning struck me I felt as if I were being blown apart," Einarson said today. "Five flew out of my body in all directions."

Plane Crash Kills 21 Passengers, Crew of Nine

Hits Hill on Takeoff, Corpses Burned to Ashes

TERCEIRA ISLAND, Azores (AP)—An Avianca Constellation airliner crashed here today killing all 21 passengers aboard and its entire crew of nine.

Their corpses were found burned to ashes.

The Colombian airliner was heading to Santa Maria but the airfield was closed due to thick fog.

It made its way to Lagens airfield here, after landing for the usual rest for the crew and passengers, the plane took off again to begin its second lap to Bermuda.

Two minutes later the plane crashed against the hills of "Caldeira de Aguaiva," about four kilometres to the north of the airfield.

After crashing the plane caught fire. Help was rushed to the spot but the plane was destroyed.

People at the airfield, from where the flames of the crash were visible, though it might be one of the many military planes that call at this airport. But soon, the control tower announced the Avianca plane had ceased to communicate with the airfield.

The plane apparently did not have sufficient height to overpass the hills.

Doctors Question Whether Quint Died of Epilepsy

NEW YORK (CP)—Physicians affiliated with two private New York organizations—the Epilepsy Association of New York and the Variety Club Foundation to Combat Epilepsy, at a press conference Sunday questioned whether Emilie Dionne died of epilepsy.

Dr. William Amols, neurologist of the Neurological Institute of Columbia University Presbyterian Medical center, said a "complete and accurate" report of the autopsy should be made available to medical journals as well as in lay men's language for the estimated 1,500,000 epileptics in the United States.

Dr. H. Houston Merritt, director of the Neurological Institute, said the mortality rate among epileptics is no greater than among non-epileptics. Epileptics, he said, usually die from natural causes, falls caused by seizures, suffocation from burying their faces in pillows while sleeping or from exhaustion resulting from a prolonged series of as many as 40 or 50 seizures.

Emilie was reported to have been found dead Friday with her head in her pillow, and was reported to have suffered at least three seizures or fainting spells since the previous day.

General Honors Businessmen For Aid to Corps

CAMP BORDEN (CP)—A little-known story of how a group of Toronto businessmen raised money to speed the development of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps was told Sunday by Maj.-Gen. F.F. Worthington.

Rather than wait for necessary funds through regular service channels, Gen. Worthington said he enlisted the aid of the group when the Second World War broke out.

He publicly acknowledged their contribution at the officer cadet inspection of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps School "Cadet week-end."

Only members of the group able to be present were J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Greenwood and Everett Bristol. Others in the original group were: R. A. Ludlow, F. J. Mulqueen and Leonard Brockington, honorary member of the RCAF.

Front St. Business Block Heavily Damaged in Fire

New Role May Be Decided In Few Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The role Canadian television will play in the field of politics may be decided in the next few months.

Talks on the possible use of TV for political broadcasting are expected to open here late this fall. They will be attended by representatives of the Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties and the CBC.

If the decision is to use TV for political broadcasting, time will be allotted to the parties for speeches by members of the four political parties. Such a decision also would involve the framework of regulations by which political speeches may be given and whether political meetings should be telecast.

COULDN'T AGREE

The last talks between the CBC and the political parties on the use of TV for political purposes took place before the general election last year.

The political parties were unable to reach unanimous agreement on the allotment of time on CBC television stations with co-operation in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. They also were uncertain how the use of television medium should be used. It was decided not to use TV during the election campaign.

If it is decided to use TV for political broadcasting, it is expected the CBC will adopt a pattern similar to that followed in the allotment of radio time to the parties.

Free air time is granted to the federal political groups on the CBC's Trans-Canada network on the basis of party representation in the House of Commons.

Valdmanis Committed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Dr. Alfred Valdmanis was remanded today to the Newfoundland Supreme Court for trial on charges of fraud.

Magistrate Hugh O'Neill refused to grant bail to the former Newfoundland director of economic development who is charged with defrauding two German machine companies of $470,000. A grand jury is being called into session to hear the case Tuesday.

A preliminary hearing ended today after a week-long session held in camera. The Latvian born economist was arrested on the RCMP April 23.

He will probably re-apply for bail from the Supreme Court.

Every man on the department and every available piece of fire fighting equipment was called out Sunday afternoon to fight the general alarm blaze which caused an estimated $150,000 loss in downtown Belleville. Firemen are shown at the height of the blaze fighting the fire which started on the top floor of the East Robertson block, causing heavy water damage to five Front Street stores and numerous insurance and law offices on the second floor.

GREECE, TURKEY AND YUGOSLAVIA IN BALKAN PACT

Alliance Will Be In Power for 20 Years

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The Balkan pact binding Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey together was signed today at Bled, Yugoslavia, the Yugoslav agency Tanjug reported.

The treaty will be officially known as an "agreement of alliance, political co-operation and military aid," Tanjug said.

SEALS WEAK SPOT

It is founded on the Balkan friendship treaty signed early last year. Given the blessing of the Atlantic Treaty powers, the pact will seal off one of the weakest points in West Europe's defences.

It will weld together for Western defence 25 divisions of some of the world's finest fighting men.

The fact is believe to provide for immediate military and other assistance by all the partners if one is attacked.

Greece and Turkey are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but Yugoslavia is not.

It is thought that the NATO powers would not be automatically committed if Yugoslavia were attacked and Greece and Turkey went to her aid. But an attack on Greece or Turkey would automatically bring in the NATO powers, as well as Yugoslavia.

CORBEIL (CP) — Emilie Marie Jeanne Dionne was buried today.

Hundreds watched as the body of the world-famous quintuplet was laid to rest in the small Roman Catholic cemetery here.

Her four quintuplet sisters sobbed bitterly during the committal service—few eyes were dry when the sombre service ended.

Grower W. H. LaFrance, Corbeil parish priest, sprinkled holy water on the grey metal casket and softly intoned the departing prayers, Marie, who was in the pew behind her parents, began to sob uncontrollably.

She left the church, assisted by her mother and her sister, Mrs. Rose Marie Giroouard.

More than 500 mourners crowded the faded red brick church. Hundreds waited outside beneath black and threatening skies, thrusting black umbrellas up into scattered drops of rain. More than 300 cars lined the roads leading to the Corbeil church. Practically every resident of the area was there—so were many Americans who had driven to the spot since the tragic news of Emilie's death was flashed across the continent.

There were 50 cars in the cortege from the Dionne home to the church. The procession was met at the door by Father LaFrance and five altar boys. Preceding the casket were six pall-bearers, dressed in light grey suits and black ties. Four were Emilie's brothers — Ernest, Daniel, Victor and Olivo, Jr.—and the others were brothers-in-law — Maurice Giroouard and Thomas Callahan of Espanola, Ont.

Mrs. Dionne, in black and the father, Olivia Dionne, dressed in dark blue, followed the casket with their youngest son Claude, seven, between them.

The first seven rows in the centre of the church were reserved for the family, relatives and close friends. The pallbearers occupied the front row.

The quintuplets Cecile, Marie and Yvonne were identical two-piece black suits. Annette wore a similar suit with a brief white collar.

No fewer than 21 priests were in the sanctuary. Father LaFrance officiated while the deacon was Rev. Victor Pilon of Mattawa, Ont., and the sub-deacon was Rev. W. Bradley of River Valley, Ont. Masses at the side altars were offered up by Rev. M. Sauge and Rev. M. Belanger, both of Ottawa.

Father Pilon is the former Corbeil parish priest who baptized the quintuplets.

The other priests were close friends of the family.

Indians in Ceremonial Dress at Reception

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh and Lena Tizya, a Loucheaux Indian girl, met Sunday in Canada's north. She was able to mention in passing that she had already been introduced to Princess Margaret.

The duke went to a reception at which Indians in ceremonial dress mingled with military officers and scientists from Resolute.

He talked to a woman 88½ years old who followed the "Trail of '98."

NO DULL MOMENTS

The duke arrived at the colorful Yukon capital after attending a morning church service in Vancouver.

He took it easy for a short while and once he started touring there wasn't a dull moment. The children got first call—after a drive around town and then the duke went cruising on the last of the Yukon river's sternwheelers.

Outside the high school, where one of the children fainted in the 80-degree heat, the duke met Lena Tizya. She mentioned she had met Princess Margaret when as one of two Yukon Girl Guides she got a trip to the Coronation.

East Robertson Block Badly Gutted In Two-Hour Blaze

Fire Started in Vanity Fair Shortly After Noon Sunday

Damage estimated at $150,000 was caused Sunday afternoon to business offices and stores in Front Street's three-storey East Robertson Block by a fire which is believed to have started in the Vanity Fair dance hall on the third floor. No one was injured.

The fire, believed to have started about 1.30 p.m., completely gutted the dance hall and burned off the building's roof. It was prevented from spreading into the Elks' Club rooms adjacent Vanity Fair and into second storey offices by a fire wall and fire doors on the second and third floors.

However, smoke and water damage in six street level stores and 19 second-storey offices was heavy.

Main floor stores heavily damaged by smoke and water were: Singer Sewing Centre., Bill Cook's Cigar Store, Doyle's Drug Store, R. E. Kuntze and Sons Electric Service centre, Dickens and Son bakery, Duff's Drug Store and the Children's Shop.

Second-storey offices involved were those of: C. W. Burr, general insurance; Great West Life Assurance Co.; R. E. Barrett, law office; Collins and Collins, law office; National Life Assurance Co.; R. D. Arnott, Q.C., law office; North American Life Insurance; Dr. J. R. Coltridge, dentist; J. E. Marsh, insurance; Miller Stone and Co., chartered accountants.

FOUGHT TWO HOURS

Firemen fought the blaze for two hours using an aerial ladder truck and seven hose lines before quelling the flames. Thousands of Belleville residents lined Front Street to watch. All available firemen in the city were called to help fight the flames and extra policemen were called out to keep the crowds clear of firefighters and to direct traffic.

R. E. Barrett, whose law office is on the second floor, was the only person in the building at the time the fire broke.

He had just arrived in his office, he stated, "when I heard a noise like a great bubble bursting. Almost immediately afterward I noticed smoke curling around the doorway. I looked out in the hall and it was filled with smoke."

PHONED HIS WIFE

"I phoned the fire department," said Mr. Barrett, "but the line was busy. I told the operator about the smoke and asked her to notify the fire department as soon as the line cleared."

Mr. Barrett then started throwing wills, deeds, files and valuable papers into the street to prevent their loss.

Belleville Police constable, Harry McKee, on duty at the Four Corners, noticed the fire about 1.30 p.m. and ran into the building to give warning to anyone, who might chance to be in the offices. He helped Mr. Barrett carry some files and a typewriter machine to safety.

First call to the Belleville police station was issued at 1.40 by Constable Bill Warring, who was not on duty at the time but happened to be on Front St.

Fred Navin, 45, and Ernie Fry, 51, both of Belleville were just pulling away from the curb in front of the New Service Lunch restaurant in their car, when they saw a third floor window explode. "It blew out like a blow torch," said Fry. "Smoke and flame shot out of the top floor window about 10 feet."

Fry stated that by the time he and Navin had found a place to park and called the fire station, that someone else had already notified them of the fire.

SAW WINDOW EXPLODE

Fred Reed, a few minutes arriving after we saw the window explode," said Fry.

Reed, 24, of 50 Church St., who wired the entire block following the fire, was six years old said that "it was not likely the wires that caused the fire this time. I rewired it completely six years ago, while working for the Belleville Electric Co. I don't think the wires could have done it."

Owners of most of the business premises and occupants of the offices were out of town for the week-end and could not be contacted at once.

R. E. Kuntze, proprietor of R. E. Kuntze Electrical Service, stated that the loss in his establishment "will run into thousands."

Included in his loss, besides all the electric motors on appliances, are four new pianos.

The staff of Bill Cook's cigar store tried to move some of the merchandise but loss was expected to be heavy. Prescription files in Duff's Drug Store were removed from the store, while firemen fought flames overhead.

One prophetic note in the afternoon's proceedings was a sign in the Children's Shop window advertising a "Smoke and Water Damage" sale. The sign was referring to a small fire in that store during July.

Sam Pappas, owner of the East Robertson Block, was in Toronto at the time of the fire.

When interviewed today he was reluctant to estimate the total damage to stores and offices but stated that he thought damage to the building itself would be in the neighborhood of $50,000 to $60,000.

He stated that the building was adequately covered by insurance.

He denied a rumor which had been circulating about the sale of the East Robertson Block.

"Nothing had been arranged for its sale," he said. "I am still the owner."

100 Acres Field, Bushland Burnt Over Near Lonsdale

A grass fire, believed to have been touched off by a spark from a locomotive, burned over about 100 acres of field and bushland south of Lonsdale in the 3rd concession of Tyendinaga Saturday afternoon.

Section men from the C.P.R. firemen from Bell-ville and volunteers made up of farmers in the district fought the blaze for nearly four hours before it was finally brought under control shortly after seven o'clock.

The blaze started on the right of way of the C.P.R. and burned for a considerable distance along the tracks before a north wind fanned it out into the fields and into bushland owned by Chas. Brennan. About 13 acres of bush consisting of cedars and pines was burned over before the blaze was stopped by the Lonsdale sidecut.

Canadian Pacific Railways section men fire guards each side of the fire were called in to fight the blaze, while two pumps owned by the Belleville fire department were used.

District firemen rallied to aid in fighting the blaze and at one time over 50 men fought to control the fire. No buildings were lost as result of the grass and bush blaze.

Farm women in the Lonsdale district served the fire fighters with sandwiches and coffee.

Heavy Rain Causes Some Flooding Along Dundas, Pinnacle Streets

Only slightly more than one inch of rain fell in the Belleville district on Saturday July, but Old Man Weather caught up in a hurry Sunday evening, when he poured nearly one inch of rain in half hour over the district in a two-hour period.

From 7:35 when the skies opened until nine o'clock 1.17 inches of rain fell, and until ten o'clock when the rain ceased exactly 1.36 inches of water had fallen.

At the height of the rain when water tumbled out of the skies in sheets, streets in the city's west end were totally unable to cope with the volume of water. In several instances pressure in the sewers was so great that heavy manhole covers were tossed into the air by the street.

Dundas street at the corner of Pinnacle was flooded over a foot deep with motorists on the No. 2 highway route having to slow up to hiclus to a crawl to negotiate the almost bumper deep water. Surface water from Dundas down Dundas and Pinnacle which storm sewers were unable to take, resulted in flooding.

In the Hastings Drive area where new housing construction is underway, at least two washouts were reported.

Wives of Three Provincial Police Officers Injured

Three Belleville women, all wives of provincial police officers at the Belleville headquarters, suffered a shaking up and cuts early Saturday morning, when their car was in a head-on collision with a panel truck on a narrow bridge at Westbrook, west of Kingston.

The three women with Mrs MacLeod driving were crossing a one-way bridge on which traffic is being routed, while a new bridge is under construction. Driver of the panel truck is believed to have missed the traffic light and crashed into the Belleville car.

JAMES ROSCOE WOODWARD
(Lindsay)

The funeral of James Roscoe Woodward, beloved husband of Ada Avery, was held from the Mackey Funeral Home, Lindsay, on August 3rd.

The deceased was born at Cresswell, Ontario, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot D. Woodward. He attended public school at Cambridge and high school at Beaverton.

He served overseas for three years during World War I with the 116th Battalion. He had been employed by the Bell Telephone Co. for about 25½ years a pound dressed at Toronto last week and about 29 cents at Montreal—equivalent to the price in Canada. Prices at last May hogs fetched about 40 cents a pound at Montreal and Toronto.

Officials estimate the current decline is more than a seasonal. They estimate that prices in the U.S. may drop a few cents more in the next few months as marketings increase. And the decline likely will be reflected in the Canadian price since Canadian producers will have to remain competitive.

Canadian marketings are running about 80,000 hogs a week, up from 70,000 a year ago. There also are some hog cuts in cold storage that soon will be coming on the market. Officials estimate this will boost marketings to about 100,000 weekly.

But the marketing peak is not expected until October and November. By that time farmers may be offering perhaps 125,000 hogs to the trade weekly. A lot of pork will be available for export.

Canadian hog prices will drop by November, they go not believe they will decline to the point that would encourage export. They believe prices will stay well above the price-support level of 23 cents a pound wholesale.

Pig Again Causing Surplus Problem in Pork Industry

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The pig, expanding in numbers, is again causing a problem of surpluses in Canada's pork industry.

For more than a year production has been increasing steadily and hog farming after the government reduced pork price support at the end of 1953.

This, coupled with a small but fairly steady outlet in the United States, tended to boost prices. Rural folk were encouraged.

Many farmers, with one eye on heavy grain surpluses and the other on the rise in pork prices, decided to feed more grain to livestock and sell the livestock. Production concentrated on hogs.

It takes about three years to raise and train a good herd of cattle for market, but it takes only about 10 months to get a litter of pigs ready for sale.

Now hog marketings are rising to a point where farmers soon will become more and more dependent on the U.S. market to absorb increased production.

In former months, it was the price factor that kept buyers from willing to pay that pretty well set the price Canadian farmers got for their hogs. Now the U.S. price seems to be setting the pace.

Student Carving Abstract Body Out of Tree Trunk

MONTREAL (CP)—Perched atop an old elm tree in down town section of Montreal, a 23-year-old art student works slowly and diligently on a self-imposed task that will take him another three months to complete.

Armand Vaillancourt, who studies at the Montreal Ecole de Beaux Arts during the winter, recently began carving an abstract body out of the trunk.

What will it look like? Armand doesn't know himself how it will turn out.

HIS WORKS

"If I did, no originality would be seen. I just work and model the tree as I feel at the moment," he says.

Expounding his view on art, Armand says it should be developed with a well-rounded early life. And to show that he practises what he preaches, he says that before returning to sculpture he studied music, wrote poetry, painted and studied dance.

Armand travelled extensively, studying customs and art forms in other countries.

He worked on a lake ship for two years, travelling between the Head of the Lakes and the entrance to the canal system leading down to Montreal. Later, he took a job on a Canadian freighter plying between here and the Caribbean.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock prices changed little in slow forenoon trading today.

New York Woman Angler Greatly Disappointed at Losing Huge Muskie

TRENTON, (Special) —Accounting to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beechler of Alden, New York, a monster muskie roams the west end of the County of Hastings. Mrs. Beechler took proof of their belief back to the states with her last week-end.

Earlier the Beechlers were out fishing between Twelve O'Clock Point pier at the east entrance to the Murray Canal and Indian Island. Mrs. Beechler's arm was almost pulled out of its socket at the beginning of a thrilling battle that ended in heartbreaks for the visiting anglers.

Three times the chucky pale had the big fish up to the side of their boat. But each time "Mr. Whopper" would make the fish. It took off for parts unknown with line, lure, leg it mouth.

Mr. Beechler has been coming to Canada to fish for the last 16 years. He has caught a lot of game fish in that time and when he says the three got away he means just that.

His wife but her thumb during the fight with the fish. It was painful but at least she had the evidence to show her friends.

The Beechlers stopped at Twelve O'Clock Point Lodge for the week.

Incidentally Mr. Beechler, who once saw a 62-pound muskie pulled out of Chautauqua Lake, south of Buffalo maintains that the Canadian giant they had hooked was even bigger.

Boss' Son Produces

It takes the boss' son to show the boss how it is done. Phillip Dewey of Hornell, New York, son of Mrs. Dewey, proprietor of the Twelve O'Clock Point Hotel, caught a 15-pound muskie just a short piece out from the resort on the bay side. It was his first visit to these parts in several years. In the meantime he has completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Marines in Japan.

W. Kasuba of Belleville is telling his friends about the 20 pounds of fighting fish flesh he subdued in thirty thrilling minutes. It took Mr. Kascuba six trips and many tedious hours to finally produce the fish. He might now can claim membership to the preferred Bay of Quinte Muskie Club.

While some anglers go out-and-in the big game Preston Thomas of Lockport, New York, finds he has best luck fishing for bass in smaller varieties. Early today he became the envy of the camp by displaying a hefty small mouth bass he caught off one of the canal piers.

Crawling Mass Eating Way Through Fields

MILLVILLE, N.B. (CP) — crawling, slimy mass of army worms is eating its way through New Brunswick potato fields.

Douglas Pond of the Entomological laboratory in Fredericton, says there was at least a dozen of them left in all of Victoria and Carleton counties.

The plague first broke out in the Hoyt district, 30 miles south of Fredericton, but was soon under control. The most recent outbreak began near Millville, 45 miles northwest of Fredericton, and has spread to 3 counties.

Harry Greenlaw, director of the New Brunswick seed growers association, termed the outbreak a "provincial calamity."

Mr. Pond predicted the worms would be found feeding in northern New Brunswick "possibly by next week-end" but the insects would continue to ravage crops in the southern part of the province "for at least another four weeks."

VALID 20 YEARS

The alliance, drawn up in French in 14 articles, is valid for 20 years.

A permanent council is established of the three countries' foreign ministers to meet twice yearly and direct the affairs of the alliance. The ministers will make decisions unanimously.

In case of aggression against a non-Balkan alliance country to which a member has defence obligations the three Balkan alliance members "will consult about measures to be taken."

According to article 10, the Balkan alliance provisions may not be interpreted as affecting in any way Greek and Turkish rights and obligations in the Atlantic Pact.

PROPOSE ASSEMBLY

The three ministers also decided to submit to their governments six "general principles" governing the formation of a Balkan consultative assembly.

They recommended that the assembly be composed of an equal number of legislators of each country and should meet regularly at least once a year.

Yacht Club Members Enjoy Sports Day

TRENTON (Special) — Approximately 50 power boats and three sailboats from the Trenton Yacht Club docked about 11:30 a.m. Members, families and friends to Weller's Bay Bald Head beach on Saturday for an all-day picnic and water sports day.

The picnic, headed by Yacht Club commodore, R. E. Whitley, in Bill Steenburg's yawl, left the club dock about 11:30 a.m. After a rendezvous at the beach the other boats followed and the boats proceeded through the canal into Brighton Bay, Presqu'ile Bay and Weller's Bay to Bald Head beach.

Members enjoyed water skiing, swimming and a variety of beach games.

The fleet returned to Trenton about 6.30 p.m. and escaped Sunday evening's threatening storm.

It was the first such venture of the Trenton Yacht Club in years and was pronounced a decided success.

ATTEND CONGRESS

Seven persons from Trenton, two from Campbellford and one from Peterborough, were among the 400 persons from the Archdiocese of Kingston, who took part in the two day pilgrimage to Marian year celebrations at Cap de la Madeleine, Three Rivers, Quebec, during last week-end.

Those from Trenton on the pilgrimage were Mrs. M. Auger, Mrs. Kathleen Busby, Alfred Pero, Isabel Hefferman, Monica Hefferman, Peterborough, Mrs. Frank Barry, Mrs. P. McAuley and Mrs. P. Dodson.

Those from Campbellford were Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. May Callaghan.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Trenton polio victim Duncan Campbell, 10, is apparently on the road to recovery in the Kingston General Hospital.

Yesterday his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Campbell received a report that their son was coming along as well as expected and there were no signs of paralysis.

The youth became ill at Cub camp at Cedardale, 12 miles south west of here on Lake Ontario last week. He has been undergoing treatment at Kingston since.

40-YEAR PAYMENTS

BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP)—Civic loans for house purchase may be repaid over 40 years if plans of Hove Sussex resort's finance committee are approved.

Group Team Work Provides New Parking Area

TRENTON (Special) — Through the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, Parks board officials, the town council and property owners with land north of the north wall to Fraser Park, increased parking space is now available to local and out-of-town car drivers. This added accommodation stands to benefit merchants in the downtown business section.

Much of the credit for this noticeable transition and further beautification of the waterfront area goes to Councillor James MacDonald who through his tireless efforts on parking and Mr. Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce brought about the agreement all parties concerned.

Parking which is a problem in the downtown sector may be eased somewhat by the cleaning up and surfacing of this former unkept spot.

Gold Production Up 20 Per Cent In Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—Production in northern Ontario's 32 gold mines has jumped 20 per cent within the last year, a mines department survey shows.

The figure was obtained by comparing the ounce-production per man employed in June this year with that in the same month last year.

This June, the 32 mines employed 10,830 wage earners and produced 401,026 ounces of gold, an average of 18.5 ounces per man. In June 1953, there were 12,279 wage earners with an average production of 15.3 ounces per man.

Mine officials say the labor situation is healthier now. They said the labor turnover was no heavy that unit production per man was declining to a point below the level where economic operation could be maintained.

EMILIE DIONNE

The biggest press and picture crew to invade the district since the quints were born in a little country farmhouse on May 28, 1934, was present. Photographers were permitted to take pictures from the balcony inside the church but could not use flash bulbs.

Throughout the church service, attended by civic and other leaders in the district, the crowd filled not the nave, draped in a gold and black shroud and flanked by six large black and gold candles.

FRIENDS IN CHOIR

The solemn requiem mass lasted 45 minutes. Masses at the side altars were of half-hour duration. Among the clergy in the sanctuary was Msgr. Dupuis of Hailleybury, vice-general of the Timmins diocese, garbed in a scarlet robe.

The choir of about 25 was composed chiefly of girls from Cobalt, Bonafield and the surrounding countryside. A few had attended school with the quintuplets.

Press reporters and camera men lined the fence around the grave yard almost two hours before the arrival of the funeral cortege from the church. Some were allowed inside near the grave, newly dug by Emilie's uncle Alme Marsaw, in the plot holding the bodies of her pioneer grandparents.

The funeral procession came slowly down the mile and a half of country dirt road from the church, followed by a procession of relatives, friends and mourners.

SISTERS SHOCKED

Father LaFrance and three altar boys, carrying the cross and candles, filed into the little graveyard, followed by Emilie's parents and sisters. At the graveside the pall bearers stood on each side of the shallow grave with set faces.

The four quintuplet sisters clustered together close by. Their faces were white and again they sobbed quietly as the graveside rites proceeded. Alice seemed to be deeply shocked and trancelike.

The service was tense and hushed broken only by the priest's intoning of the committal service and the sudden wailing murmur of the mourners giving the responses.

STAY IN PARK

After the service the family and immediate relatives turned away and walked to the cars outside. A group of priests and nuns remained, their heads bowed, praying quietly as more rain fell. The rain turned to a drenching downpour a few minutes later.

No Operation Could Have Prevented Death of Quint

NORTH BAY (CP) — Maurice Girouard of Waterloo, Que., brother-in-law of Emilie Dionne, said Sunday Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec medico-legal expert, told him no operation could have been performed or no treatment prescribed that would have prevented the 20-year-old girl's death last Friday.

Dr. Fontaine performed the autopsy in Montreal Saturday. He reported Emilie died of an epileptic stroke brought on by glandular disorders that created a congestion of the lungs.

Mr. Girouard quoted Dr. Fontaine as saying:

"No doctor in the world would have been able to determine exactly Emilie's disease by x-ray."

It could be detected only by an autopsy.

Mr. Girouard said:

"He (Dr. Fontaine) said the gland under her brain (pituitary) was the size of a lima bean, whereas normally it would be the size of a pea. He said that at her present age it was three to six times larger than normal and that this had been the case since birth.

He also said the family should be glad that Emilie had died in the manner she did. He was of the opinion that her disease could have brought great suffering to her.

"Dr. Fontaine was very co-operative and very sympathetic. He said that the late Dionne family was one of the most complete ever carried out in the province of Quebec. He lasted two hours and showed Emilie's death was almost natural under the circumstances."

Oliva Dionne, Emilie's father, said the family had known for many years that Emilie suffered from epilepsy. He said she occasionally experienced fainting spells but was not troubled with them last spring or last winter.

Mr. Girouard said the public about the epilepsy because we felt it was a purely personal matter." said Mr. Dionne. "We did everything we could for her. When she was a child, she was treated by a specialist in Ottawa and a few years ago by a specialist in New York. Dr. Wilder Penfield, one of the world's most famous brain specialists, in Montreal. Last fall she spent seven weeks in the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal undergoing a thorough check-up.

"I never objected to the autopsy being made on Emilie. When I first heard about it, I regretted that it was necessary bringing the body home, but I did not resist it being done. In fact, I am glad now that it was done because it has put an end to some ugly rumors that were going around."

Critics Want Better Teachers For Less Money

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—R. O. Macfarlane, a former Manitoba deputy minister of education, says critics of present-day teaching methods and school courses expect more than they are willing to pay more.

Addressing 200 delegates to the first annual Couchiching conference, sponsored jointly by the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs and the CBC, he said Sunday:

"I have heard critics, stating the qualities of a good teacher, set forth a list that would reflect an earning capacity on the part of the proud possessor of many times greater than the salary schedule of our most bountiful school board at the present time."

Mr. Macfarlane, now a member of the staff of Carleton college in Ottawa, added:

"We must not expect more from our public education than we are prepared to pay for and in no place is this more obvious than in the teacher."

Prof. G. M. A. Grube, Trinity College classics professor at the University of Toronto, said languages, mathematics, history and science hold greater educational values than "learning to run a typewriter, or shopwork."

He suggested most Canadian students are capable of a greater mental development than they attain in today's school system.

Public school teachers who are being paid, for the most part, less than factory workers will have to be drawn sooner or later from the bottom half of the ability groups, predicted Prof. Goodwin Watson of the education department of Columbia University.

He said that if teachers were to be drawn from the real poor, chasing power they enjoyed before the war, their salaries would have to be doubled from. the pre-war figure.

The conference, with the theme "Canada Grows" runs to Aug. 13.

EDINBURGH MEETS

Phillip seemed to be having a fine time every moment. But the northern menu was one thing that didn't appeal to him. He was offered Teslin lake trout, boiled chops of Yukon mountain sheep or roast loin of moose with sherry sauce. He settled for roast turkey.

CHIEF'S WEAR MEDALS

At the reception the duke met the "king and queen of the Yukon" — Mr. and Mrs. George Black. They were married back in the gold rush days.

Two Wolf Indians were there, wearing their coronation medals. They were Frank Sidney, 48, and Patsy Anderson, 76, both chiefs among their own people.

Sidney drove 118 miles from Teslin to get to the reception but shrugged off the distance. "The duke came further," he said.

One of the first things Phillip asked him was if any progress is being made in wildlife conservation. He answered that the last four years have seen much improvement.

The welcome was the heartiest the duke has received — even better than the one 900 miles south in Vancouver. And the duke seemed to be having more fun.

On the tour of the town he passed the ecrie Indian burial grounds where pint-sized houses are built over the graves to protect the spirits of the dead, and saw the Indian Sled Crew is supposed to have lived in.

Fishing Tug Reaches Shore

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) An American fishing tug, the Junior F of St. Ignace, Mich., reported missing Sunday in the Whitefish Bay area of Lake Superior, has reached the Michigan port of Paradise, 15 miles north of here, unscathed.

The Coast Guard said it knew nothing of reports that a Canadian tug, the Elfie, was missing in the Whitefish bay-Parasieme Island area with five men aboard. No tug matching that name is known here.

Department of transport officials in Toronto said they had no tug registered under the name of the Elfie.)

(THE STRATFORD FESTIVAL

Canada is indebted to Stratford for the production of its Shakespearean Festival.

There can be no denying that it is not only a theatrical success but a definite advance in the cultural life of Canadians. Reports from Stratford indicate that three of this year's productions, after ironing out those flaws inevitable in the initiation of any great work, have achieved a degree of technical excellence that will become the basis of reference for live theatre in Canada in the future.

The inspirational use of a circular stage has, in its second year, proven to be a stroke of genius and daring of true and permanent value. It may even be described as a contribution to the theatre as a whole.

The Festival has given Stratford a unique place in the world of theatre on this continent. It cannot help but give Stratford residents a pride in the accomplishment of their fellow citizens in organizing and executing a project of international significance.

However the Festival has done more than that. By employing the talents of aspiring Canadian actors and actresses from coast to coast in a first class enterprise that has won critical approval from some of the world's sternest drama critics, the Festival has provided them with invaluable experience in top notch company. Dr. Tyrone Guthrie's direction alone will probably be remembered as a highlight in the careers of most of the Canadian players no matter what success may be theirs in the future.

The attention of the Canadian public has been directed to the living theatre with a forcefulness that no other native production can claim. The Stratford Festival also provides an example of what can be accomplished in seemingly difficult circumstances by people of imagination, energy and perseverance.

There has been some criticism of the choice of plays for this year's performance. "Measure for Measure" was described as being lightweight. "The Taming of the Shrew," produced as an 1880 vehicle, and directed with gusto, has been called more Guthrie than Shakespeare. Some have questioned the production of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" at a "Shakespearean" festival. But whether one calls the Stratford Festival a "Shakespeare Festival," a "Sophocles Festival" or a "Guthrie Festival," all seem agreed that it is great entertainment.

Further, one considers that the Stratford Shakespearean Festival is whetting the general public's taste for living theatre, providing an example for producers, training Canadian talent, enhancing Canada's prestige internationally. It is entertaining as well, there would seem to be no question that it is a contribution to the cultural life of Canada and therefore deserving of all the praise which has been heaped upon it.

THE GREATEST ATTRACTION

Belleville is singularly lacking in historic, natural or man-made monuments that in summer are known as "tourist attractions."

Peterborough proudly boasts the world's largest lift-lock—a mechanical marvel that unfortunately gives no infrequently the impression that tourists alike witness it at work only by chance. Kingston has Fort Henry, complete with miniature army in traditional garb, exploding cannon, and souvenir shops. It also has the Royal Military College, Queen's University and the Murney tower on city park.

Trenton is the gateway to the Trent River system and one anchor of a beautiful waterside route that stretches all the way to Georgian Bay. Picton claims 'Lake-on-the-Mountain, the Sand Banks, and one of southern Ontario's most delightful scenic routes along the high shore to the Glenora-Adolphustown ferry.

Point Anne and Marmora can both awe visitors with mammoth holes in the ground adjacent huge industrial enterprises.

Belleville has neither canals, liftlocks, lakes-on-mountains, sand banks or holes in the ground from which to harvest power, university, or military school. It is devoid of "tourist attractions."

Belleville, however, is known as "the friendly city" and "the heart of Hastings county." It is also that hint at its greatest attraction: Tourists may be impressed by the beauty of Belleville's residential areas and by the magnificence of Belleville's trees, but this city's greatest attraction is the warm, genuine friendliness of its residents. It is an attraction that lasts all year long.

And then again there are the Belleville girls.

ANOTHER MISSING DECADE

The Durham Chronicle, in an editorial entitled "Missing Decade," noted with some surprise that at a gathering in Durham no women responded when a prize was offered to women in their seventies but many responded when a call was made for those over eighty.

The editorial would like to point out that if this is true then the 70 to 80 span is the second missing decade in a woman's life. It is very well known everywhere that the longest 10 years in a woman's life are from 29 to 30.

WORLD BUILDERS

Unless inhabited they are,
Just a jest for us to guess,
Then every planet, every star
Must be a barren wilderness.

If in their orbits they were hurled
Merely to shine upon us all,
Then ours must be the only world
With happy homes and gardens small.

If men and women are not there,
No love, no crime, no school-belle sing,
Those areas vast are bleak and bare
And lost to many a lovely thing.

From men and women come the new,
They build with hand and heart and mind,
Doing what God would have them do,
They strive to better what they find.

Refinement Unlimited

(Hamilton Spectator)

We don't know why the press of this country should be so shocked that good lady in Jaquet River, New Brunswick, who, the other day, celebrated her 113th birthday.

It was conceded she was "probably" the oldest woman in the country and Canada's only centenarian incorrigible Canadian genius for not over-stating things—and that kind when it comments other than a certain feeling of the inadequate.

But the reason her long years give us a deep sense of national pride is that she said the least absurd thing we have heard said in connection with this kind when asked the reason for her longevity. She didn't say it was because she never took a drink, or that it was because she took two good slugs of whisky every evening; she didn't say she never smoked, or that she smoked from the time she got up until she went to bed; she didn't say she always made sure of eight hours' sleep or that she got along with three hours; she didn't even say she never worried (bless her!).

Th.Only thing she did say was that she was content to live with bread made from the more coarsely milled grain than they use now. This estimable old lady was born a hundred years too soon. We have come a long way. In our wonderful scientific wisdom, crusades we have found a way of putting back into bread (theoretically) the vital vitamins we take out in milling. Who knows but that some future centenarian, facing a reporter may rejoice in having been helped by the discovery of a great scientist who found a way of putting back calcium into milk and other great scientists found an ingenious way of refining, and minerals and vitamins into refined beef. Is it too crazy to contemplate?

Dust has closed Helen's eye, as a poet observed long centuries ago, but the magnificent story of her beauty refuses to go out of date. As a first step, the walls of Troy have risen once again in Rome's Cinecitta Studios. On Roman soil will be re-enacted the ancient, legendary struggle, the quarrels of heroes, the wrath of men and gods, the petty ambitions and devious stratagems that made up the long years of the Trojan War. In the full range of Achilles is to be sausaged, the noble Hector will fall, the guile of Ulysses and Sinon will breach the Trojan walls and at least a slight renaissance of classical learning may be expected to result.

In the recent past some of the best American movies pictures, among them "The Robe" and "Moulin Rouge" and "Man on a Tightrope" have been made abroad. Perhaps a change of scene brought inspiration to the directors and will do the same for the tale of Troy.

RATHER BE CALLED LIVE 'ROAD HOG' THAN RISK DEATH

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

Talking about highway accidents, I had two narrow escapes lately.

In the first case I had a fire blowout when catching a large sharp nail while travelling on the final highway at about 45 m.p.h. Luckily I didn't go any faster.

In the second instance a car ahead of me suddenly and without warning slowed down almost to a stop to make a right-hand turn. Had I been travelling at 35 or 40 m.p.h. many cars following would have surely crashed into him in spite of the fact that I have first class brakes and a vehicle in first class order. So you see, Mr. Editor, I would rather be called a road hog or anything else but be alive than be a breaker of the speed-law at the risk of my life.

New Thought About Grants

(Ottawa Journal)

Those who hold that a grant from a senior government to a junior government is easy money to be welcomed with loud shouts of joy should note the difficulties being taken by the hard-headed citizens of the state of Indiana. In record time this request is studied by the Wall Street Journal.

The chief city, Indianapolis, took the lead during the war in declaring that it didn't need war grants and refused to say which most communities were clamoring for. The city has successfully fought a proposed federal grant of $2,000,000 for slum clearance—Indianapolis raises its own funds by property and personal taxes. The new improvement and businessmen of Indianapolis defeated a federal scheme to provide $1,000,000 for flood projects—they said the city was not threatened with flooding and that was not needed.

The Parent Teachers Association of Indiana has been resisting federal aid to education and has succeeded in keeping the state out of it. A federal school-lunch program? The PTA opposed federal aid for school construction: "We see no point", is says" in sending our tax dollars to Washington to be returned to us with strings attached and direction on how our schools will be run."

The Indiana legislature passed a resolution to refuse any federal public inspection, despite its conflict with a state law which prohibited publication of the names of persons on relief. This gesture might have cost the state $20,000,000 in welfare grants from Washington. But the state stuck to its point, amended its own law to allow inspection of the rolls—and got the money. The biggest fight, "many deadheads removed themselves from the relief rolls when they feared the rebuke of their neighbors". The result of it all was that some money was saved by the taxpayers.

Indiana has come to realize, it appears, that the body of taxpayers is one and indivisible, that federal aid is a higher authority in tax money just the same, and that it is only way by which economy can be effected.

There is a moral here for Canada where governments could study to advantage — governments federal, provincial and municipal.

Woman's Shape Always Same

(Vancouver Province)

Mr. Clif Cassini is a man who devotes his talents to dress designing. At his recent Summer showing of styles in New York he took occasion to deliver what he regard as a very caustic observation about his art as it relates to his customers, or more correctly we should say his customers as they relate to his art.

"The basic woman shape is always the same," he observed, "and I don't believe in tampering with it by literary exaggerations."

Mr. Cassini is not, however, above improving matters with subtle little alterations here and there, but only where this will correct some obvious short-coming or overcome the rough unfinished look, so to speak.

If he could be basics in this way we predict Mr. Cassini will continue to ride the pinnacle as a fashion dictator. He is working a field much given to weird absurdities from at different periods in its history.

If anyone cares to know what I think about smoking I'll be glad to there it is.

When I was slaving it as an honest doctor—so honest that I never made more than the barest living for my family, I can say in a happy conscience about it and no regrets—I smoked cigars. My patients were cigar makers and they liked to pay their bills with cigars. I lost one of these patients when I moved from one town to another; I lost the second because I installed the daughter as stupidhalmic goitre only, when a more eminent physician pronounced her illness pulmonary tuberculosis. Subsequent history indicated that the eminent physician had gone wrong and . . . but even so the cigar maker had no further use for me.

Not long afterward I was impressed by the evident enjoyment a young clergyman in the neighborhood got from his pipe when he dropped in of an evening. So I began smoking a pipe, fifield with the mixture that is advertised by J. M. Barrie in My Lady Nicotine. Oddly enough, when I was in London in '51 I was astonished to see only an occasional pipe smoker, and I was disappointed when London tobacconists looked blank when I asked for the Arcadian Mixture —for that matter, American dealers seem to be fresh out of it nowadays.

So I'm a confirmed, but moderate, indeed I may fairly say occasional, cigar smoker, and without cutting specific statistics or the opinions of the experts for the moralorise my prejudice, I assure you I do not worry and I don't think that any smoker who is temperate need worry about cancer, high blood pressure, coronary thrombosis obliterans (Buerger's disease), arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, pyorrhea alveolaris or coronary thrombosis from chronic carbon monoxide poisoning. I am sure that by certain tobacco smoke that causes these pathological effects.

Texan Finds Quebec Is Big

(Montreal Star)

We like the story of the widespread amazement of a visitor to Texas. The amazement when told that the province of Quebec was actually larger than the Lone Star commonplace. He found that, he said, "impossible," but in the light of that suspect, was "sacrilegious" or even "blasphemous." For Texas, as everybody knows, is bigger than Texas must be largely fabulous.

Texas is big enough to become statistical and flourish figures about, but we confess to some scepticism when we are told that its comparatively small potatoes Texas crop is bigger than the province of Texas, which is, we admit, "some" State takes in an area of 267,339 square miles, whereas the province Quebec, on the other hand, spreads to know that it contains more than twice as much of the earth's surface. Looking at it another way, if Texas were turned upside down top of Quebec there would be enough left to make a rim all around the edges to make another New York State, California and Texas, and still over.

We produce these facts in no spirit of boastfulness only in the interests of accuracy and in true kindness toward one in the throes of overcoming the shock of errors, concerning tons of pressure and strain on the earth for many years and never suspecting a gale is blowing. The foliage is so designed as to split the wind, like a sail, but not as much of its force as is safe. The floor of a forest must be admirably arresting and shifting for every breeze; small stirrings when the normal wind blows, great heavings and waves when a storm is wind takes hold. We suppose that leaves of plants to be busy with their chemical duties with respect to light. But they have a double duty. They have the mechanical duty of breaking the wind and doing the cultivating of the soil to which, at the time, they will be added as compost, and leaf mold.

In a few days, the hale August sun will be high and the chief cultivation of the earth for the year will take place. Forest soil is one which is sparsely covered in spring and early summer with tender vegetation, but is densely carpeted with tougher growths that jealously guard the moisture ready for the winds. And when the winds come, we see a busy, noisy, and wonderful fighting, writhing, waving, struggling in the annual job of plowing and wrenching the dark moist earth below.

SMOKING AND CANCER

Having read carefully nearly everything that has been written lately about smoking and cancer, I continue to enjoy my flock of tenshelf straight stem pipes — I have 15 of 'em in commission, smoke a different pipe every afternoon (if I am on the bowling green) or every evening after dinner (if I am at home working, no kidding, all day). Some ten years ago I did worry a bit about a wee white spot on my lower lip. Lest it should prove to be leukoplakia (smoker's patch), which in some instances seems to be the fore-runner of cancer, the surgeon I consulted removed it under local anesthesia. I remember how he seemed to fiddle around too long and I said "Well, let's get going—I'm due on the bowling green in an hour." But the surgeon said "You can't get out of here too soon to suit me—

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BITTERNESS CAN MAKE US SICK

Ever hear of an inferior complex?

Of course you have, and perhaps have experienced such a thing yourself. It may arise from a lack of sleep or good food, or a series of frustrations—for frustration is an integral part of every normal life and it is not to be wondered at that something some psychologist would have a name for it.

But if you do pity yourself, and if this self-pity arises from any sort of physical disturbance, the chances are that you will get over it after a good night's sleep, or a vacation or a good evening of laughter and fellowship with friends. But if you are built that way, pretend to have nothing but contempt for those around about you, then you are sick. When you see the cause of your illness you immediately cry out, "Three sneers for everybody," you know that you are looking at a sick man. He needs understanding. Perhaps he needs more love. Surely he needs to be needs—as all of us do—the redeeming love of God translated abroad as a celestial light in his heart.

If we are wise, we will avoid bitterness no matter how irritated we may become—no matter how badly we may be justified. It is possible to diagnose the health or illness of any mind, soul and body by observing the extent to which one cherishes bitterness or spurns it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Doing a little tree pruning around the cottage, I cut a branch of sumach and carried it over the rocks to dispose of it in the fire. It went still be a bonfire the first calm evening. There was a strong westerly blowing. As I was feeding the branch aloft, and when the wind caught its leafy wingspan, it was dragged as though I were holding a spread sail. If you want to know the wind, look at the trees, hold a good-sized branch up in the breeze and feel the unmistakably pull.

We think of soil cultivation as started by human enterprise. But cultivation is going on continually in wild nature's way, by wind, rain, and doubtless every small plant, using its foliage and fallen wind, is busy aerating and pulling and kneading the soil under it. A large elm in a pasture must be exerting tons of pressure and strain on the earth for many years and never suspect a gale is blowing. The foliage is so designed as to split the wind, like a sail, but not as much of its force as is safe. The floor of a forest must be admirably arresting and shifting for every breeze; small stirrings when the normal wind blows, great heavings and waves when a storm is wind takes hold. Controversial Fish Bill Ready for Vote in House

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is T-Day in Congress. The "T" is for trout.

Up for a vote in the House of Representatives is a controversial bill aimed at outlawing what proponents term a gigantic fraud against the United States eating public—the smuggling of foreign fish under the banner of the American trout.

The bill would require that imported fish be plainly identified as such on shipping packages and on restaurant menus.

It has the backing of major sportsmen's groups, 31 state fish commissions and 225 commercial trout farms.

CATERERS OPPOSED

Opposed are fish importers, restaurant owners, the state department, federal food and drug administration and federal fish and wildlife service.

The sportsmen's groups, including the National Wildlife Federation and Izaak Walton League, favor the bill because the trout farms supply most of the trout in the states for "planting" in fishing streams.

The commercial hatcheries also sell stocking trout for private owners, taking the fishing pressure off public streams.

The state fish commissions obtain from the farms a major supply of eggs for their hatcheries and trout for fishing streams.

Operators of the farms have complained that they are being forced out of business by heavy imports of what they describe as inferior fish grown in warm Japanese and Danish waters and sold under false pretenses in the U.S.

The operators says imports from Denmark totalled 304,000 pounds during 1950 and have increased to about 200,000 pounds monthly.

FEEL PENALTY HEAVY

The trout farmers say they applaud the bill for many reasons, including the proposed penalty for violation of the law: A maximum of a year in jail and $2,000 fine.

Opposition of the federal agencies, particularly the state department, surprised sponsors of the bill. Senator Henry Dworshak (Rep.-Idaho) and Representative Hamer Budge (Rep.-Idaho).

Budge said the state department's opposition has held up favorable action on the bill for "many months." The bill, introduced early last spring, was approved by the House in June, 1953.

"The state department says it's worried about impairing the economic rehabilitation of Japan and countries under the foreign trade program," Budge said. "But it does not seem to care about the survival of 225 small business enterprises in this country."

The food and drug administration, Budge said, has only 1,000 employees to enforce the law, and the fish and wildlife service does the measure would increase consumption of domestic trout.

In House debate on the bill Thursday, Representative Howard Smith (Dem.-Va.) asked whether it would be necessary for the state to list each fish's "pedigree . . . point of origin . . . who was the father and grandmother . . . where it was spawned?"

Will Break Ground Tuesday For Project to Harness Power

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — New York state and Ontario will join hands across an unfortified frontier Tuesday to break ground for a project to harness the electric power potential of the St. Lawrence river.

"The giant dam and powerhouses to be built within five years will produce 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year—more than the output either of the Grand Coulee or Hoover dams.

The $600,000,000 job, planned for 22 years and dreamed of for generations, will be ushered in with ceremonies on both sides of the border.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Governor Thomas Dewey of New York will turn the first official taps gang in the sod-turning near here and at Cornwall, Ont.

RELIEVES POWER SHORTAGE

The power will help relieve a shortage that has plagued the northeastern United States and Canada for more than a decade. The power produced is to be divided equally between the U.S. and Canada. New York state will have the entire U.S. share of the cost.

The project, when completed, will give considerable help to the region by reducing the differential between the cost of electricity here and in other parts of the country.

But it won't go all the way to solution of the power shortage. Still hanging fire is the $400,000,000 Niagara development program, delayed by the failure of the two states to decide who should build it—the state power authority or a group of five utilities headed by the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp.

DAMS ON A RAISED RIVER

The St. Lawrence project will consist of a half-mile dam stretching from Barnhart island to the American shore near the power houses from the island to the Canadian shore, and two smaller dams upstream.

They will raise the level of the river about 86 feet at this point and flood Long Sault island, just upstream of the dam site.

Another casualty of the project will be the spectacular Long Sault section of the International Rapids, which will be a quiet lake when the job is done.

Although ceremonies will mark the start of work on the Canadian side, actual digging already has begun. The Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission has completed test borings and field reconnaissance.

LONG-PLANNED PROJECT

Plans for the power project and the St. Lawrence seaway were before Congress from 1933 on, but they failed to make substantial progress until Dewey ordered state officials in 1948 to divorce the power and seaway issues as far as New York state was concerned.

Washington first refused to approve the procedure, but the federal power commission changed its stand in 1953, and a new agreement was signed with Canada.

The U.S. Supreme Court cleared away the final stumbling block by upholding the power authority licence last June. Meanwhile, the seaway, separated from the power project, also managed to clear through Congress this spring on its own steam.

19 Persons Die Violent Deaths During Week-End

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway accidents took the greatest toll of lives as 19 persons met violent death in eastern Canada during the week-end.

Quebec had 7 provincial fatalities with eight deaths. Seven persons were killed in Ontario, three in New Brunswick and two in Nova Scotia. No fatalities were reported in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, a Canadian Press tabulation showed.

Traffic mishaps claimed the lives of 11 persons. There were five drownings, five deaths in a fall from a house roof, another was crushed to death under a load of dynamite and a boy was burned when trapped inside a blazing play fort.

MOTORISTS KILLED

In Ontario, Mrs. Norma Brissette, 21-year-old Sarnia mother, was killed when her car crashed into a tree on the Pacific Railway division reserve 40 miles northeast of Sarnia. Her husband James, 25, and a 21-month-old daughter were injured.

Fortunato Mosello, 68, of Toronto was fatally injured when struck by an oncoming car as he was walking out from between two parked cars on Lake Shore Blvd. E., Toronto. He died when struck by a car near his home at Langstaff, 20 miles north of Toronto.

Verne Bower, 17-year-old Grey township youth, was drowned in Lake Huron near the Point Clark Coast Guard station. Bower, 16-year-old girl friend. He pushed her into shallow water where she was picked up by a boat. When the boat returned for him he had disappeared.

FELL FROM BOAT

Elias Leppanen, 53-year-old Toronto carpenter, was drowned when, police said, he accidentally fell from his boat while fishing on Lake Wilcox, about 20 miles north of Toronto.

Seven-year-old Michael Mezenchuk of the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke died in hospital of burns suffered when his car was trapped inside a flaming play fort.

Another fire chief George Kennedy, 46, died in hospital from injuries received when he fell from the roof of his home while fighting a fire.

PAPER PRODUCTION

Efforts Made To Aid Angling On Lake Huron

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Canadian and American fisheries experts are expected to meet in Sarnia of Lake Huron in an effort to improve the catches of commercial and sport fishermen.

A series of surveys, described as the most extensive of their kind yet undertaken on the Great Lakes, will try to determine the physical characteristics of the bottom of the lake and the distribution and movement of fish, including the destructive sea lamprys.

The authorities are also trying to locate feeding grounds where many fish are likely to congregate.

Recently, in the second of three two-day surveys, five Canadian and three American craft loaded with scientific equipment, set out from Sarnia harbor to study the temperature, drift, depth, pressure and mass movement of lake waters.

INTERESTED FISHERMEN

Some of the vessels were ordinary fish boats manned by commercial fishermen vitally interested in the project because of a decline of marketable fish in recent years.

Each boat followed a carefully charted course along which, at 20-mile intervals, surface water temperature readings were taken. At seven-mile stations a device known as a bathythermograph, which records the temperature and depth of the water at prescribed glass slides, was lowered over the side. Water samples at various depths were put in glass jars containing preservatives.

Small plastic bottles were scattered from all operating stations with postcards inside to be mailed by the finders to the research group conducting the tests.

Father of Quints In Buenos Aires Sends Condolence

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Franco Diligenti, father of the 11-year-old Diligenti quintuplets, Saturday sent telegrams of condolence to the Dionne family on the death of one of Canada's quints.

Diligenti said he had sent a telegram to the parents of Emilie Dionne, who died suddenly Friday, and another to her four sisters.

He and his wife Vollota received the news in a telegram from a relative of the Dionne family.

Although the families had never met, they were linked by a pen friendship and the children exchanged birthday and Christmas cards, he said.

The Diligenti quints, three girls and two boys, were 11 on July 15 and now are believed to be the only surviving quintuplets in the world.

Colored Trio Thrills Capacity Audience

A capacity audience filled the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle on Friday evening to hear the Lacey Trio College singers from Pasadena, California.

After a brief song service, the pastor, the Rev. Eric Strain, introduced Mr. F. H. Lacey, tenor, who has been singing gospel songs for over thirty years. Mr. Lacey, in turn, introduced Mrs. Lacey, and Miss Woodard, of Phoenix, Arizona the third member of the trio.

These colored singers thrilled the audience with such songs as "Mansion Over the Hilltop", "The Jericho Road"; "How Did You Feel When You Came Out of the Wilderness?" and the equally well known "The Grumblers' Song", all of which made one think of the Celestial melodies that one day will be sung around the throne in Glory.

Girl Manning Lookout Post In Forest

By HAL BOYLE

MOUNT HARNEY, S.D. (AP)—A princess dwells atop this 7,240-foot peak, the highest mountain between the Rockies and the Alps.

She is Kathy Clark, 19, a forestry student at the Iowa state agricultural college, and she mans—all by herself—the highest of 16 fire lookouts in the 1,500,000 - acre Black Hills National Forest.

I jeeped up to her solitary eyrie with her boss, supervisor Jack C. Kern, for a look at the way Kathy, a pretty, dark-haired girl, passed up coming down to another jeep. After 19 days and nights of fire watching, it was her day off.

DEPENDABLE GIRLS

Kern grinned, and waved her on. "Six of our 16 lookout posts now are manned either by girls or by husband and wife teams," he said. "The girls make very dependable fire-watchers.

"Kathy is one of our very best. She likes the work. She lives in a little kitchenette beneath the tower, and does her own cooking and laundry.

"Kathy stays up here eight to 10 days at a time. No, she doesn't get lonely. The job isn't as monotonous as a lighthouse keeper's. There is always something to do, and, of course, there are a lot of visitors in the summer."

DEVOUT LISTENER

An unidentified crippled girl, her crutches cradled in her arms, watches with rapt attention as Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, delivers the sermon during a Pontifical High Mass, part of a 10-day Marian Congress at Cap-de-la-Madeleine, Que. The congress, part of Marian Year celebrations, is expected to draw 1,000,000 persons, including many from the United States and all parts of Canada. (CP Photo).

Paper Criticizes Old-Maid Clothes Of Princess

LONDON (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial Sunday advised 17-year-old Princess Alexandra to get rid of her "old-maidish" wardrobe before she leaves for America.

The princess, daughter of the Duchess of Kent and cousin of the Queen, flies to Quebec Aug. 21 with her mother for a tour of Canada and will visit New York City Sept. 14.

The tabloid, under the headline "No way to dress a princess", complains that Alexandra is appearing in outfits that make her look almost twice her age.

S.A. Nurse Says It Is Normal To Be Neurotic

TORONTO (CP) — South African nurse Irene I. Marwick says it is normal to be neurotic — "most people are."

Miss Marwick, a third-generation South African, matron of Tara neuro-psychiatric hospital in Johannesburg, is in Toronto for the international congress on mental health which begins Aug. 14.

"Nearly everyone has a neurosis of some kind," she said in an interview. "I tell my nurses I have the most common of all neuroses, a dripping nose when I have no handkerchief."

Miss Marwick, a promoter of relaxation, says a person can't relax mentally until he relaxes physically. Johannesburg, she said, is a very hard place in which to relax because of the high altitude.

PROVIDES FREE CARE

Transvaal is one of the few provinces in South Africa with free hospital care and patients at Miss Marwick's 225-bed hospital have no worries about bills. Tara is the only hospital of its kind in South Africa. It is for patients of European origin. A separate mental institution is maintained for non-Europeans.

Miss Marwick said there is a high rate of mental and emotional illness among Africans, who are in a stage of transition from tribal background to urban life.

Montreal Girls Answering Lure Of Far East

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal girls are answering the lure of the Far East in hope they can sandwich some sightseeing tours in while they are on a year-long tour of duty with the Canadian Red Cross in Japan.

Betty Davidson and Janine Caron are among girls who volunteered to serve with the Red Cross in Japan and Korea. They will be allowed one week off every four months, and plan to spend that time visiting historic Far Eastern centres such as Hong Kong.

Both have already travelled more than most people, being employees of Trans-Canada Airlines.

VISITED EUROPE

They have seen Europe, Bermuda, Jamaica, Florida and Haiti, and Miss Davidson has made additional trips to Trinidad and across Canada.

In Japan, they will work on recreational programs for Canadian service men. Their pay is equivalent to that of a second lieutenant and they get uniforms, board and lodging.

They may be stationed at the Maple Leaf Club in Tokyo or at suburban Ekias, headquarters for Canadians on leave from Korea.

They expect to be busy on welfare work including personal shopping for service men, organizing sight-seeing tours, doing library and correspondence work and helping wherever they can.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MARRIED LESS THAN A YEAR, THEY QUARREL CONSTANTLY

A young wife who seems to have right on her side of a marital argument wants to know how she can get her husband to see it. She writes:

"My husband and I have been married almost a year, and will be lately l. to quarrel. He works at night, and he gets mad if I go out with my girl friends. He says he is going to quit work if I don't stay home. I wouldn't mind staying home, but when he has a night off, or on Sunday, he always brings his friend George along, no matter where we go.

"Can you tell me how we could work this out so we won't quarrel all the time?"

I think it is fine that this wife has the good sense to want to make a serious effort to work out the problem between herself and her husband. Too many young people who have been married only a short time feel that they are under no serious disagreement comes along, that it represents something very final that can be separated only by separating, or even divorce.

Personally, I think this husband is quite unreasonable in not wanting his wife to go out with her girl friends if she enjoys it and it is working. That doesn't seem fair. Of course, if she is always out late, or going to questionable places, he would have a perfect right to object; otherwise I don't think he has any such right. Nor does it seem very fair for him to insist on having his friend go with them on all their outings.

Altogether, if there are no important points on his side that his wife has failed to see, I am sure that she is in the right, and he in the wrong.

However, that doesn't mean she should rush to tell him he is wrong and do any gloating. It simply means that she must use all her intelligence, and all her patience, for him, to try and get him to change his attitude.

I wouldn't be surprised, in fact, if a demonstration of real affection might not change him very thing that would do the trick.

Let's say, for instance, that the next evening he wants to go out instead of quarelling and arguing with her about it, she could say quietly to him, give him a loving kiss and say: "Why wouldn't mind if I went to the movies with Jane tonight if you would you? It's so lonesome without you, and I'll come to be home early." When Sunday comes around, and they're planning an outing from which, she'd like George to be definitely "included out," she might say lovingly: "I couldn't we just go by ourselves this time? I love you so much, and I see so little of you, that I'd like to have you all to myself once in awhile."

Love and persuasiveness often succeed where even the most reasonable and logical arguments fail. I hope this proves true with this young couple, and I'm sure that you will write and let me know if it does.

TOO MUCH can't be said on the subject of car safety for your children. It's wise to have special locks which prevent car doors being opened from inside. Such locks are available in most hardware stores and you needn't drill holes to install them.

GOOD MANNERS

WHAT GIFT TO YOUR HOSTESS

Choosing just the right gift for your hostess is a challenge. You want to find a something that will show your appreciation for hospitality, will show your taste, your pleasant discrimination. Something with an air of interest, not something that is merely to be appreciative. And something that will be appropriate to that hostess, or useful to that hostehold. . . and please not a white elephant.

Some guests, charmingly aware guests, have the endearing habit of looking and listening while they are visiting. . .keep their eyes and ears wide open to "spot" something that will be particularly welcome to the hostess, or to her and her family. It may be the mention of a new book, plethaps a biography, useful in satisfying her family. If it's a must-loving family, it's usually easy, and a joy, too, to find a new musical record, or, perhaps an L.P. record of a symphony or opera or even a record or two of "modern" music. The newest book on gardening for the hostess with a garden. Perhaps a special cookbook for the hostess terrified by new recipes.

Today's informal living and informal entertaining usually mean that electrical appliances are delightfully welcome; no hostess ever seems to have enough, and you can find them in many materials such radiant plastics lately), in many lovely designs. Or two or four or more hostess trays, in one color and design, harmonizing colors. Also, for buffet service, "indoors or out," there is a wide choice of colors. Also, for buffet service, indoors or out, there is a wide choice of sturdy metal or plastic items that will be just right for your hostess's need. Then you can buy a gadget unless you are positive it will be useful. If you notice that there are many pretty soup-shots "on the loose," think about something distinctive—a similar-sized glass pitcher for iced tea or fruit drinks, a dark blue saucepan to yearn for a library-set, a pair of scissors and paper cutter neatly contained in a tooled leather sheath.

To show your hostess that you have the knack of sending gifts that have a "just-to-your" personality, a gift that will show that "their" initials or name is a fine touch. Perhaps an evening of parties: well-styled and charmingly designed paper napkins, of various convenient sizes, coasters or small plastic plates in a variety of radiant colors; paper cups for long drinks, a generous supply of book-matches, all artistically packed. Or for picnic-enthusiasts, paper napkins in various sizes, perhaps even a roll of wax paper. Or a collection of face paper doilies in all sizes and in different shapes. Or in the stationery department of your store you might find some of the "gift" stationery items as: printed pads for telephone messages, all artistically packed. Or for shopping, for marketing (some with magnetic pencils); packets of floral note cards; a decorative box filled with pencils and rubberbands; a pocket box with gleaming white pencils ready to be name-stamped.

As a personal gift to the hostess there is the alluring world of "bath-things" in the "delightfully and sweetly scented," as the old song goes! Or a lovely-to-have-a-year gift to the family, you might like to send a subscription to a magazine that seems fitting to the family-interests.

And then, ladies and gentlemen, there is the wondrous world of so-called "gourmet foods": pates in various forms; a delicious chicken, a smoked turkey; delectable cheeses, from here and there; packages of crackers or biscuits for every use, for every taste; jars or glasses or tins of a limitless number of hors d'oeuvres; containers of all kinds of nuts; interesting condiments; herbs, salad oils and vinegars of various types; jars of exotic fruits. Good fodder for the hostess' larder!

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE PLEASING COUNTENANCE

An expressive face that communicates pleasant thoughts, that is responsive to the conversation of other people, is beautiful with a charm that makes mere beauty of features unimportant.

Every girl and woman should ask herself if her face is expressive. If it isn't there is a possibility that she may wind up with the "dead pans," and that would be pretty terrible. You have seen them. Blank as a piece of white paper! Eyes staring into space, or beyond you.

Studying the performance of one's face in a mirror is a good way to find out how one looks to others.

The femine face can express youth or maturity by its behavior. Pleasant emotions swing the facial muscles upward with the result that one looks vibrant, youthful, alert. Unpleasant emotions draw the muscles downward, bring drooping age lines.

Like the body, the countenance should have poise if it is to be interesting to the beholder. It is an asset that should be carefully cultivated because ridgedly individuals are never artful creatures.

Even the slightest facial contortion can create an unpleasant effect, to say nothing of the generally able effect such contortions have upon the tissues and delicate fibers.

Let the corners of your mouth droop and your expression becomes doleful and discontented. If one compresses the lips, they look smug and prudish, disdainful, intolerant. That habit will never do for beauty. The former will tell at a glance if such faults are committed.

Do you frown when annoyed or irritated? The little upright lines resulting from that will soon be in, become permanent defects. Don't do it!

Calgary Girls Winding Up Bicycle Tour

TORONTO (CP)—After a year spotted with flat tires, broken chains and other hazards of travel two Calgary girls are winding up a bicycle tour of Canada.

Ruth Holman and Ruth Moore have shipped their bikes home by express from Toronto and they will hitch-hike the rest of the way back. They have been all the way from the Yukon to Newfoundland.

One year and two months ago the girls quit their office jobs to take to the open road, starting with $150 each, two bicycles, two bedrolls and plenty of courage.

"The craziest thing we ever did," said Ruth Holman, "was the day we cycled from Princeton to Vancouver. It was 150 miles and we pedalled from eight in the morning to one the next morning!"

AHEAD OF SNOW

After a brief trip by plane to the Yukon they headed east. They were one jump ahead of the snow all the way.

During Christmas in Toronto they worked in a department store, then headed to Montreal and Ottawa. They spent the winter working at a variety of jobs to defray expenses till the roads were clear of snow. As soon as spring blossomed they toured the east coast and fell in love with Newfoundland.

"The people were so friendly, and the island really beautiful," they said.

They recalled one night camping out in Newfoundland when they got a scare. It turned out to be a friendly moose.

The girls had praise for the friendliness and co-operation of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association.

"But we'll be glad to get home again," they said.

BELL REMOVED

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—The old school bell in Niagara Falls, Ont., bronze bell in the Niagara Falls collegiate that was ordered removed after prankster climbed four flights of stairs and narrow ladder to get it early one morning recently.

ATTEND PICNIC

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—An estimated 5,000 Negroes from all parts of Ontario met at nearby Port Dalhousie Monday for the annual Emancipation Day picnic. This is the 31st year the picnic was held there.

SCHOOL NAMED

BRANTFORD (CP)—This city's newest separate school will be named Holy Cross, it was announced from 1907 to 1914. James W. George, chairman of the Catholic school section 3 and the school would probably be ready for the fall term.

300 SAVE BARN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A hastily-formed group of about 300 ripped the end wall from a barn on the farm of Walter Gaughy at nearby Wilton Grove and thereby burning hay into a field to save the $10,000 building Friday. The building was saved but about half of the 20 tons of hay was burned.

Blueberries-Luscious, Beautiful

By Mary Moore

Raspberries have seeds that get in your teeth; strawberries have to be hulled, cherries have to be pitted, peaches have to be peeled, but blueberries are all good —just lovely luscious juiciness and with an unusual color and bloom thrown in for free.

They are among the most perfect of fruits and one of the Canadian fruits that conscientious cooks should make a point of serving regularly. They contain minerals that are rare in Canadian fruits.

With that little eulogy I shall now launch into a list of blueberry recipes that once made up are r joy to eat.

OLD-FASHIONED STEAMED BLUEBERRY PUDDING

Four cups blueberries, 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups flour, 2-3 teaspoon salt, 3 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Sift flour then measure it and sift it again with the baking powder and salt. Cut the butter in as you would in making pastry, then add the milk and beat until thoroughly mixed. Sprinkle the sugar and lemon juice over the berries and fold the floured berries. Fold them into the batter, stirring as little as possible. Pour into buttered mold, cover tightly and steam for 45 minutes. This should serve eight warm and hearty. If it is a delicious dessert - to a meal where potatoes are not served in the first course.

FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE

(10x1 1-2-inch pie plate)

Four cups fresh blueberries (or if you are making this in the winter you will need 2 packages frozen berries), 1 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup (4 tablespoons) cornstarch, 1-4 cup cold water, 3-4 cup hot water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Wash berries and drain well. Mix together sugar, salt and 1-2 cup of the berries. Stir the cornstarch into 1-4 cup cold water to make a paste then stir that into the berry-sugar mixture, then stir over low heat the hot water until thick. Cook over boiling water covered for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and add lemon juice and rind and let stand until cold. Pour into large pastry-lined pie plate, seal on gashed crust. Brush top lightly with milk. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 45 minutes. For an 8-inch pie plate one-half above filling is sufficient.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

One and one-half cups sifted flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup milk, 1 egg beaten till light, 1-2 cup milk, 1 cup washed and dried fresh blueberries. Sift together into mixing bowl the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add the shortening, egg and milk and stir just to mix with fork. Fold in berries. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full and bake at 400 deg. Fahr for 20 to 25 minutes.

NOTE:

Some of our readers went to know as many ways of using wheat germ as possible. Here is one of the ways. Instead of using 1 1-2 cups flour use 1 1-4 cups and add 1-2 cup fresh wheat germ to recipe for blueberry muffins.

STIRLING

W.I. Hears Interesting Talk On 4-H Work in Canada

STIRLING — On Wednesday evening, the members of Stirling Women's Institute entertained three neighboring groups at the community hall and over 40 ladies were in attendance.

Summer blooms were used as decoration and low bowls of mauve and white phlox enhanced the beauty of the long table set the full length of the hall along the south wall.

The president, Mrs. S. McMurray, conducted the opening exercises and expressed a gracious welcome to the 25 guests from Pinegrove, Chatterton and River Valley Institutes.

Mrs. E. Foster gave her report.

ASSEMBLY SINGING

Mrs. Hiriam Rodgers led the assembly, singing with Mrs. Floyd MacInnes, as pianist.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, reporting River Valley W.I., based her message on, "Gleanings from A.C.W.W. She syncopized the first prize essay on "The Rural Home". Mrs. Laura Pentlinnen of Finland, who is a member of "The Finnish Martha's Association", was awarded the $100 prize in 1953, in the essay competition conducted by "The Associated Country Women of the World."

Mrs. Pentlinnen described her home land as a view of mountain heights and endless forests with her home perched like a red strawberry at the fringe of the village.

She also gave a graphic picture of the birch trees planted in her childhood, the flowers that surround her home and a bird's-eye-view of the inside of the home with its solid home-made furniture, all painted, in a cool shade of green.

READY-MADE MUSIC

She tells how ready-made music is now prevalent in Finland, and says the frantic hurry keeps everyone in a rush. They have electricity to pump water to the cowshed and from there it is carried in buckets to the kitchen. As yet their is no telephone in their village.

She closed her essay with these words, "Continuous work from early morning to late night is the way of life in all country homes. On the wall of her home there is a picture with the words, "Pray and Work". It is a heirloom and I hope to be able to leave it as an inheritance to my children. It is an apt text for a farmer's home and brings blessing to those who follow it.

The prize was donated by Mrs. Helen C. Smith who served for many years as vice-president of A.C.W.W. In June, 1954, Mrs. Smith visited Mrs. Pentlinnen, who lives on a farm, teaches in the village school, and walks five miles there and back every day.

Mrs. Smith then attended the A.C.W.W. annual meeting in London, England, on July 1st and told the group how the prize money had been spent for a pressure cooker, thread for weaving curtains, and a traditional table cover and various other items, all purchased in Helsinki, the capital of Finland.

Mrs. Floyd MacInnes, contributed a piano solo for Chatterton W.I.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. L. Rodgers introduced Mr. Oliver Dalrymple, agricultural representative of Hastings County. He gave an interesting picture of 4-H club work in Canada, with headquarters at Ottawa.

There are 4-H clubs for young men and women between the ages of 13 and 20 years. The girls and young women are banded up with a home-making club and they aim to prepare them for complete living.

The Garden Clubs are sponsored in the spring and various food clubs and clothing clubs prove interesting in the winter.

The boys have various farm projects which centre around calf clubs, swine clubs and potato clubs.

Four-H Club work is a nationwide program in Canada and guidance is given by extension workers from departments of agriculture. The whole concern is to help to promote the attractiveness of rural life and to learn improved ideas. The principle is to "Learn to do by Doing".

Each member is personally responsible for the project which is located at their own farm home. They elect their own officers, make their own plans, and they are trained in parliamentary procedure.

Here the speaker asked the institute members to give their support to the newly appointed home economist, Miss Faye Irvine, B.Hsc.

He explained that junior farmers are from 16 to 30 age group and that they work as a community and have a different set up. He gave the full story of the 4-H club work which began in 1914, and felt the majority of those who participated should be better Canadian citizens as these young people are taught to solve their own problems.

The speaker also gave a graphic picture of the recent 4-H ceremonial night held at Deseronto, on the Indian Reserve. This international convention now embraces rural youth in 27 countries. The official emblem is the green 4-leaf clover, with the letter "H" on each leaf to symbolize equal training of head, heart, hands and health. The 4-H pledge is—"I pledge my head to clearer thinking; my heart to greater loyalty; my hands to larger service; my health to better living, for my club, my community and my country."

DIFFERENT PROJECTS

There are 18 different projects and the young women's program is similar. A woodcarving group at Ottawa ties all of Canada into a national week and proficiency winners from each province compete at the Royal Winter Fair. This year Edmonton, Alberta, will be the setting for the special week's events and a trip to this affair is the highest award a club member can achieve.

65,000 CLUB MEMBERS

In 1953 there were 65,000 club members and 20,000 girls were registered in home economics. Any organization is told of the great interest of the T. Eaton Company in this work and read an excerpt from a recent Royal Bank publication, which was loud in its praise of this work. Plans are being made by two clubs in this district to help with the purchase building, food terminal and C.N.E. late in August.

A set of slides was then shown depicting maintenance of farm machinery, various exhibits, at Belleville and Peterborough Fairs, the boat trip through the Thousand Islands, a bus trip to Ottawa, and a group of girls working with wool. The pictures were educational and interesting.

SECOND SPEAKER

Mr. Dalrymple introduced Mr. Don Bell who is a native of Manitoba, and said he received his training in forestry at Toronto University, and now is in charge of the Moira Conservation Project in the county of Seldoma. Mr. Bell said, "Conservation is here today as it is a way of life, and he presented an informative conservation film entitled, "For Years to Come".

In his address, he gave a brief picture of the Moira Watershed and explained what causes erosion.

THOUSANDS VIEW

THOUSANDS VISIT

An estimated 5,000 persons Sunday filed past the open casket in the living room of the Dionne home near this community in the North Bay district of northern Ontario. Many were neighbors who had followed the fortunes of the quintuplets since their birth in a humble farm home May 28, 1934.

Others, including some United States tourists, were probably just curious but all were admitted for a last look at the girl who died last Friday at Ste. Agathe, Que., of what a medical expert said was epileptic stroke brought on by glandular disorders that created a congestion of the lungs.

The body lay in a grey metal casket surrounded by flowers. Emilie's dress was of crepe in her favorite shade, light blue, trimmed with white lace. Her pale hands clasped a white rosary.

If the crowds which filed silently past the bier for two hours looked for the surviving quintuplets, they looked in vain.

OTHER QUINTS' VIGIL

Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Marie met their sister's body when it arrived by funeral coach from Montreal Saturday night, then sat vigil it until 2 a.m. Sunday. Shortly after dawn, they arose and resumed their tearful vigil, but, when the visitors were admitted to the fenced-in Dionne property, the four black-clad girls went to a secluded upstairs bedroom.

Their father, almost entirely grey at 51, stood beside the casket, gravely accepting the handshakes of many persons who approached and spoke to him. His wife, calm despite her grief, sat with two other women beside the doors leading to the verandah and greeted many women callers personally.

Outside the imposing yellow-brick Georgian mansion, the scene was reminiscent of those August Sunday afternoons of the late-1930s when crowds of well-wishers from many parts of the world used to gather in the sunshine to watch the famous five at play behind one-way-view windows of a public pavilion.

LONG LINES

Once again, men, women and children from all walks of life assembled in long lines which spilled out onto grey asphalt parking grounds where cars stood in row upon glistening row, just as they did prior to 1940 when the public showing of the children ended. This time, however, there were grey skies instead of sunshine and an air of grief hung over the assemblage.

Five officers of the North Bay detachment of the Ontario provincial police were posted on the grounds, at the gate and in the Dionne home, but they were not needed. The crowds were quiet and orderly.

Some women and even a few of the men had tear-stained cheeks upon emerging from the house.

Among the callers was Mr. Dionne's sister, who had a cloistered convent at Hull, Que., to come home for the first time in 22 years. She was Rev. Sister Ange du Bon-Secours.

Messages of sympathy, too, arrived at the Dionne home. Hundreds of mass cards were delivered to the family along with more than 50 telegrams, including wires from Premier Frost of Ontario, Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York and Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal, and from Hon. W. A. Dafoe of Toronto, brother of the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe who first attended the quintuplets.

Cardinal Spellman's telegram said:

"Deeply grieved at Emilie's death. Regret inability to attend funeral but offering mass for her and for your religious consolations."

Cardinal Leger expressed his "deep regrets" and offered condolences to the family.

Premier Frost's message said:

"My wife and I were profoundly shocked to learn of Emilie's passing and sympathize deeply with you. The links which bound Emilie and the four survivors of the famous group are broken, but may we console you with the assurance that the people of Ontario and all of Canada will enshrine Emilie in their hearts."

FINNISH TRIBUTES

One of the most moving spectacles in the many tributes to Emilie came at Pembroke, 150 miles away from the Dionne home.

The hearse bearing the casket stopped at Pembroke while Mrs. Rose Marie Dionne Girouard and her husband, who accompanied the body from Montreal, paused to eat.

A group of nuns passing in a car recognized the funeral coach and stopped beside it. They knelt on the dusty main street of Pembroke and prayed together for the salvation of Emilie's soul.

Hundred groups stopped in awe to watch the scene. Several persons knelt in spontaneous reaction. An old man sat on the curbstone and sobbed.

The humble parish at Corbeil has no official grave-digger and each family must dig its own graves. Alme Marasse, a greying uncle of Emilie, dug the grave in which shy and quiet Emilie will rest a mile from the little farmhouse in which she and the other quintuplets were born.

"TAKING IT HARD"

The father, said the surviving quintuplets are "very upset" by Emilie's death and are "taking it hard."

In the crowd that gathered Sunday to view the body, every age group was represented. Several old women from neighboring Corbeil farms limped on crutches through the gates and mingled with United States tourists in blue and sport shirts and with fathers carrying small children in their arms.

EXPRESSES THANKS

When the long, tiring ordeal of the afternoon ended at 4 p.m., the quintuplets' parents expressed their gratitude to the crowds and representatives of the press.

"We are very, very grateful," Mr. Dionne told a newspaper man acquaintance. "The way everyone had been so kind to us is more than we can express. Please thank them all."

All cameras were barred from the property. Photographers who were told by police of the ruling made no protest. They left their cameras and equipment with friends at the gate and quietly joined the silent file towards the big Dionne house.

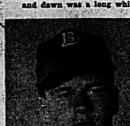
Drama, Heartache Feature England's Victory In B.E. Games; Canada Third

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

QUITE A GUY!

Keith MacDonald, Prince Edward's athletic gift to our town, munched himself a banana. After all, it was the only food he had eaten since a crack o' dawn breakfast, and dawn was a long while previous.



KEITH MacDONALD ... can play almost any position.

Keith hopped out of his car at the Bstas' senior baseball team rendezvous prior to leaving for Peterborough to fill a Viaduct League scheduled fixture. He brushed off his clothes, waved a cheery greeting to his mates, and yipped "O.K. let's go."

This "hard rock" from down under Prince Edward County is one of the better athletic assets this town has acquired from the county that is tops in raising edible produce. It has turned out some mighty fine athletes, too.

Keith is currently filling a vacancy around third base for the Bstas, that was sadly lacking from the start of the season. Originally a second baseman, although he can play almost any position.

Keith filled himself into the hot-corner spot like a hand into an old glove and has come up with a fine chore. Coach Vern Goyer is, and should be, mighty thankful for a guy like MacDonald. The fans agree.

Keith comes from a solid Prince Edward county family. One long connected with agriculture. And if he has his way, that is what he will be doing for some time to come, for the rest of his life. He is up with the lark, is as familiar with the business end of a tractor as he is a hockey stick or baseball mitt, and puts in a power of hours a day on the MacDonald ranch at East Lake a few miles out of Picton.

He thinks nothing of driving to Belleville or wherever his hockey or baseball team is playing after a hard day's work on the farm.

He keeps himself in prime physical condition. Ask any of the Senior "B" hockey stalwarts in the district group. Keith backs up from mid-ice and rattles around the boards with a fist, buddy, unless you wear a big, broad smile. 180 pounds of Prince Edward sinew and muscle might be behind a solid right to the jaw.

He has been connected with sport both in Prince Edward and here since he swung a mean right at a mosquito that tackled him in his crib. He has played baseball, softball, hockey, tennis, practically everything in the sports calendar—and is good at all of them. He is one of the fastest skaters in the Senior "B" group of the district, and while not a prolific scorer, has come up with some fine supporting efforts. He is a great competitor and plays to win all the time.

Keith attended Albert College for three years and distinguished himself there, both academically as well as in the sports field. He won the school tennis title for two years in a row as well as the table tennis crown. On the other side of the school ledger he won a scholarship in religious education.

Keith comes by his athletic ability naturally. His father, Norman MacDonald, who with Mrs. MacDonald operates the popular summer resort at Lakeland on East Lake, Prince Edward, was an athlete of more than passable ability. He was a baseball and hockey star when a younger man, and has never lost interest in sport. Mrs. MacDonald, the former Aoda Osetransfer, is a fine sports fan, too. She nearly misses a game, and one of the most ardent supporters of one Keith MacDonald, and the team for which he plays is, "Mother."

And if you want to become a good athlete, take Keith's recipe, or one of them. Drink a quart of milk with each meal.

DOTS 'N FLASHES

Peerless Roger Bannister headed a trio of Commonwealth stars in one of the most spectacular track spectacles ever staged in history. It was a breathless race, was that mile, which fairly reeked of dramatics as Bannister closed the gap and went on to win over Australia's Lew Jones, but not all the way. Light glory went to the sensational duo. Our own Rich Ferguson galloped home in third place in the fastest mile ever run by a Canadian. Then there was England's Peters in the break-down marathon. A truly glorious finish to a great series of sports events . . . Hoskings and Oshawa tacked on two wins at the expense of the Toronto Caterers over the week-end, and with Oakville's recent defeat, practically gives the Bstas a playoff spot . . . There is a strong possibility they may play in Peterborough tonight. Hoskings are due here for the final game and the Bstas go to Oakville for a single which will wind up the schedule . . . Northern Electric ladies play Trenton 6 R.D. in the second game of their softball playoffs tonight. Better go along, Mary, and bring back the score . . . No word at time of writing regarding the Senior "B" hockey group meeting in Peterborough on Sunday. Will likely have it on another page before press time . . . Bryson Reid's Regents go to Deseronto tonight in a Belleville District Baseball League fixture. Bryson's boys have been playing fine baseball lately and should take this one . . . In softball: Bobcats play Stewart Warner this evening at the Alemite, while Northerns trek to Point Anne in the first game of the finals.

Bannister, Peters and Landy Mark One of Most Dramatic Spectacles in Sports History

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Englishmen, one a tall, angular doctor of medicine and the other a wiry little optician, gave the 1954 British Empire Games a thrilling and agony in one of the most dramatic spectacles in sport history.

Few will forget Dr. Roger Bannister, his face contorted and long blonde hair swept back by the breeze, streaking across the finish line in 3:58.8 to once again break the mile's four-minute barrier on the Games' final day Saturday.

Everyone will remember Jimmy Peters, the dead-game marathoner who couldn't stay on his feet no matter how hard he tried.

Nor will they forget how John Landy, at 25 the world's master of the mile with his still-to-be-recognized record of 3:58, ran out of steam in the stretch-drive and was whipped by five yards by Bannister although he, too, broke four minutes with a 3:59.6.

BOTH TREMENDOUS

Both Bannister and Peters were tremendous in victory and defeat. Bannister excited the nearly 35,000 fans. Peters brought tears as he stumbled, fell and reeled again and again in the stretch before he won what might have been the fastest marathon ever run.

Bannister had his race planned and he made his move when he saw Landy tiring after the 10th lap. Peters may have beaten himself because of a desire for speed in the grueling, hilly, 26-mile-385-yard grind which he never finished. Exhausted, he had carried away on a stretcher as Scotland's Joe McGhee trotted to victory with the cheers of many.

These were the highlights of the nine-day Games, fifth and biggest since they started in Hamilton, Ont. 24 years ago.

Some of the others were nearly lost in the excitement. Athletes from the 24 competing countries shattered records, breaking 37 of them. England's onslaught won her the unofficial team championship with 514½ points over the defending Australians, who came second with 363¾. Canada was third with 320.

TRIPLE WINNERS

There were the triple gold-medal winners of New Zealand's Yvette Williams and Australia's Marjorie Jackson Nelson and the last-minute scratch of Sheila McDonald of Toronto, Canada's main hope in field events, from the discus final Saturday.

Canadians grabbed nine of the 91 gold medals at stake, two coming in upset victories.

Probably the biggest surprise of the stadium-filled crowd was the stunning defeat Wednesday of England's vaunted 4-mile-relay crew by the rowing events by a young and comparatively inexperienced University of British Columbia crew. Another was Canada's win in the men's 440-yard relay over favored Nigeria Saturday.

CANADIAN THIRD

Bannister brought the house down with his great stretch run. Richie Ferguson of Toronto, 22-year-old lead-scholar, was third in 4:04.6. It was the fastest mile any Canadian has run.

Bannister's time by quarters: 59.2, 59.8, 59.6, 1:00.2. Landy: 58.2, 1:00.1, 1:00.1, 1:01.2.

Behind Ferguson were Vic Milligan of Northern Ireland, Murray Halberg of New Zealand and Ian Boyd of England in that order.

The first mile—variously called the mile of the century, the miracle mile and the mile of the four masters—was essentially just what had been expected. It was a battle between Bannister and Landy.

All the talk that strategy would play such a part that four minutes wouldn't be broken turned out to be the wildest guesswork. Both Bannister and Landy ran their hearts and legs out. At the finish Bannister was on the verge of collapse. He was held up by teammates and officials while he and Landy stood out of cameras. He even draped an arm about the shoulders of his great rival, who finished fresher.

THEY JOGGED

Bannister quickly recovered and called to Landy and Ferguson: "Let's jog about a bit." They did. Bill Hulbert, New Zealand took the lead among the eight starters at the gun. The runners were close together and for a while David Law of England moved in front but soon he dropped out when he broke a spike in his shoe.

Landy went to the front at the top of the straightaway on the first lap and stayed in the lead until he was caught near the same spot three laps later by Bannister.

The Englishman was 10 yards or more behind Landy after 1¼ laps. He gradually closed the distance and at the three-quarter mark was just behind the Australian.

They ran that way until they swung around the final turn, when Bannister moved in front with his great kick and Landy, fighting desperately, was beaten. As they headed into the straightaway Landy looked over his shoulder—the wrong shoulder. Bannister, even with him on the other side, spurted ahead to win by five yards.

COLLAPSE STUNS CROWD

Experts said the marathon epic-ode was worse than the famous collapse of wine-lover Pietro Dandolo, who fell on his face in White City Stadium in London 46 years ago before 27,000 persons, including Queen Alexandra.

J. C. Binks, an 80-year-old Englishman who saw both marathons, said the Peters case was "horrible, sickening and terrible."

Peters, a believer in speed on a marathon, started the race with a sprint.

The crowd was still on edge over the Bannister-Landy run when the stadium gates swung open and Peters, the first of 16 who had left the track 2½ hours earlier, stumbled in.

He made his way slowly down the inclined roadway to the track, swayed, stumbled and sprawled. Sometimes he sat on the track. Then he would topple backwards, get up, walk a few yards and fall again.

HEART RENDING MINUTES

The crowd hushed. Some fans cried. Field events stopped and athletes looked on in amazement. In 15 minutes Peter crawled or stumbled only 200 yards to what he thought was the finish line.

When he started the marathon, he reeled off five miles in 29¼ minutes. When he reached the stadium he was clocked at two hours and three seconds.

If he had not collapsed Peters might have carved more than 10 minutes off the world record of 2:17:39.4 he set last June. The Games record is 2:30:49.8. In the confusion that followed the other marathoners finished before Peters they reached the gates. McGhee came in about 25 minutes later. His time at the tape was 2:39:36.

Although Peters failed to cross the finish line, he was actually disqualified. The English team trainer, Mickey Hayes, confident Peters had won when he crossed the line marking the finish of most track events, caught the dead-game Englishman as he fell over it.

LINE STILL DISTANT

Under marathon rules, which forbid a competitor to receive any form of assistance, that immediately disqualified Peters. The finish line for the marathon was still 385 yards away when he was carried off the track on a stretcher.

The year's other gold was grabbed back. Jack Mekler of South Africa was second, Johan Barnard of South Africa third, Barry Watson, 25-year-old farmer from Hamilton, fourth, and five others to finish, including Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who became ill.

Peters' plight reminded Durando's collapse. The Italian, who always struggled with Chianti wine in a marathon, was three minutes ahead of Johnny Hayes of the United States when he famed 1908 race. As he entered the stadium, he drank a glass of wine, thinking the race was his. He staggered under a hot sun and collapsed near the finish.

QUEEN GAVE CUP

Hayes won. Queen Alexandra gave Dandolo a gold cup as a consolation prize.

Royalty also witnessed Peters' gallant bid for victory. The Duke of Edinburgh saw both the mile and the marathon Saturday.

The triple gold-medal winners of Miss Williams, 23-year-old Auckland secretary, made it Nos. 1, 2 and 3 School girl in the world-fusion. Miss Williams, 23-year-old Auckland secretary, made it Nos. 1, 2 and 3 School girl in the world-in the broad jump and the discus. She took the shot-put earlier last week.

Mrs. Nelson, who is retiring from competition, helped Australia victory in the women's 440-yard relay Saturday. She won the 220-yard dash and the 220 earlier, equalling her world's record of 24 seconds flat in the latter.

Canada smashed the record in the men's 440. The team of Jack Stonehouse of Hamilton, Bruce Springbett of Vancouver, Harry Nelson of New Westminster, R.C. and Don McFarlane of Hamilton did the distance in 41.2 seconds, eclipsing the old mark of 41.6.

Toronto Leafs Extend Lead In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs still hold first place in the International League and they can thank first baseman Ed Stevens for doing a lot to keep them up there.

One of the leading home run hitters in the circuit, the former Brooklyn Dodger clouted his 22nd and 23rd homers of the season Sunday moved 2½ games ahead of Rochester Red Wings. The veteran's first blast led off the fourth inning of the opener, and the Leafs tallied three more times in the same inning for a 4-0 victory over Ottawa.

Stevens got another round-tripper in the second game, which ended 4-4 tie called by curfew after 7½ innings. Bill Stewart's two-run double in the last inning saved Ottawa from a double defeat. The suspended game will be completed when Toronto plays again at Ottawa, since the Athletics don't play at Toronto again.

BRAVES IN FIRST

In a doubleheader at Montreal, the Royals split with Rochester. Allie Clark hit his 11th homer in the 11th inning of the first game to give Rochester a 3-2 victory, five hits as Montreal took the nightcap 9-0.

Buffalo Chuck King hit a three-run homer at Havana as the Bisons beat the Cubans 7-1. King also got three singles and swiped a base. Five of the runs came in the sixth after the Cubs' Cueche.

Jack Meyer of Syracuse tossed a six-hitter to defeat the Virginians 6-2 at Richmond, striking out eight batters. Bob Usher and Jim Lonnett sparked a six-run, sixth inning Chief rally with back-to-back homers.

They'll Do It Every Time

Rich Ferguson, Canada's Great Miler, Wants to Race Landy, Bannister Again

By JIM MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rich Ferguson would like to run against John Landy and Roger Bannister again.

The young Toronto runner, 23 last Tuesday, astounded Canadian track circles Saturday, finishing third to Bannister and Landy in an amazing 4:04.6 in the British Empire Games "Mile of the Century."

He was not surprised at his placing, he said, but he was "excited about my time."

Ferguson is Canada's best mile runner. He also is ranked at the two-mile and half-mile distances. In the Games half - mile, he equalled the Canadian native record of 1:52.7, three seconds better than his previous best. His mile time is a Canadian native record, 6.4 seconds better than the previous mark set by Bill Parnell of Vancouver.

PLANNED IT

Ferguson planned the mile run and carried it off as he expected.

"I figured Murray Halberg was the man to beat for third place and Bannister were out of reach," he said in an interview. "I planned to stay as close to Bannister as possible and found that I had the endurance to do it."

Ferguson ran with Bannister to the half, trailed him by about five yards to the three-quarter-mile point and finished about 15 yards behind Landy. He was another 15 yards ahead of Vic Milligan of Northern Ireland and Halberg of New Zealand, who was fifth.

The University of Iowa student, who returns to school this fall, credited his two-mile running and four weeks of training in the mountain for the Games, with building up his stamina and condition. He said he plans to keep running the mile, two miles and half-mile although he keeps Bernie Wefers' times down is tremendous. He should become a terrific miler."

Don't Look Now—It Could Be Cleveland And Milwaukee In World Series

Tribe Leads Yanks by Four, Braves Blast Giants for 3 As Brooklyn Creeps Closer

By JOE REICHLER

Cleveland's steady stream of victories and Milwaukee's spectacular late - season drive have brought up the possibility of a renewal of the 1948 Indians-Braves World Series rivalry.

The betting gentry probably will give long odds it won't happen, but baseball has had miracles before. Remember the New York Giants' incredible 1951 finish?

Just 13 days ago, on July 22, the Braves were mired in the National League's fourth place, 13½ games behind the seemingly runaway Giants. The Indians were leading the American League, but their margin was a hairline half-game over the New York Yankees.

TRAIL BY 7½ GAMES

Since then the Braves have climbed to where they now trail the pace-setting Giants by only 7½ games. Cleveland has widened its margin over the Yankees to four games.

Milwaukee whipped the Giants again Sunday 5-2 to sweep the three-game series at the Polo Grounds. At the time Al's performance by southpaw Warren Spahn and a perfect day at bat by leading third baseman Eddie Mathews were the features. Mathews smashed his 30th home-run of lusty Sal Maglie, singled in another run and scored twice.

Effective pitching by Bob Lemon and Art Houtteman and home run hitting by Lemon and Larry Doby highlighted the Indians' 7-2 and 5-2 doubleheader sweep over the hapless Philadelphia Athletics. Lemon's homer with one on overcame an early 2-1 Philadelphia lead in the first game.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Pinch hitter Jim Delsing's two-run homer in the 10th inning broke up a free-hitting affair. Detroit made it two in a row over the Yankees with a 10-8 triumph. The Yankees had rallied to overcome 4-0 and 8-3 Tiger leads to force the game into overtime.

Brooklyn's runner-up Dodgers closed to within five games of the Giants with a 20-7 romp over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Aided by third baseman Jack Cassini's two-out error, the Dodgers zapped seven runs in the fifth inning. They unearned, to set a scoring record for that inning. Carl Erskine achieved his 14th victory.

Chicago's third place White Sox divided a doubleheader with Washington. Rookie southpaw Jack Harshman shut out the Senators 4-0 after Washington had won the opener 7-6. Roy Sievers wielded the big bat in the first game, smashing his 20th and 21st home runs.

DIVIDES FOUR HITS

Jacks Jensen divided four hits, two runs and two runs batted in equally in each game as the Boston Red Sox took both ends of a doubleheader from Baltimore 4-2 and 4-1.

Robin Roberts became the first pitcher to win 12 games and outfielder Del Ennis drove in six runs as the Philadelphia Phillies took two games from Chicago's Cubs 8-4 and 8-3. Ennis hit his 19th home run for the Phils in the first game.

The Phils tied a National League record in the eighth inning of the nightcap when Granny Hamner, Danny Schell and batting pitcher Herm Wehmeier all tripled in a four-run outburst.

Pittsburgh's cellar-dwelling Pirates surprised the St. Louis Cardinals with a pair of victories 12-3 and 5-3 for their second doubleheader sweep over the Red birds in three days.

Canadian Girl Asks AAU For Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jackie MacDonald of Toronto, a last-minute scratch in Saturday's British Empire Games discus final, has asked for a full hearing by the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada.

Her case may be heard at the annual general meeting of the AAU here today.

Her withdrawal from the event was made after an advertisement in Vancouver newspapers showed her holding a soft drink bottle. In a statement Monday, Fly Breuchaud of Montreal, general team manager, said the scratch was made "in order to avoid any possible repercussions because of certain publicity that appeared in the press."

Canadian officials made no further statement.

WANTS HEARING

Miss Macdonald, second - place winner in the women's shot-put last week, said a "cloud has been placed over her amateur standing and I want a hearing to present the facts of the case."

Her father in Toronto has retained a Vancouver lawyer.

Miss MacDonald, 21 - year - old school teacher said in a statement Sunday:

"While at a sports clinic . . . in Vancouver, a picture of me was taken which I understood was to be used for a news release. Later I gave permission for the use of this picture in the newspapers.

"I wish to state emphatically that I felt no guilt in any permission, and I feel equally sure nobody had, not having accepted remuneration, nor endorsed the product in the picture, I have not at any time violated in any manner the amateur code.

SAYS NO RULING

"With regard to my withdrawal from the discus throw in the British Empire Games on Aug. 7, 1954, to the best of my knowledge, there has been nothing on the part of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada as to my amateur standing.

"I have been told by an official of the team that the decision to withdraw me was made by officials of the Canadian team who felt that there might be objections raised by the members of the other teams on the basis of the above-mentioned picture being published.

"I have heard that the matter as of my conduct is to be brought up at a general session of the AAU of Canada meeting and that I will have an opportunity of being heard at this time, and fully explaining the situation."

The decision to withdraw the scratch was made at a closed meeting of some Canadian officials Saturday. Miss MacDonald was not present and she said Sunday she earlier had explained her position to officials.

The news of her official withdrawal was relayed to her by Bob Calder of Montreal, manager of the men's track team.

"He told me at the stadium," Miss MacDonald said.

Was Keyed Up to Win, Said Bannister, 'Ran As Hard As I Could'—Landy

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Roger Bannister "was keyed up to beat Landy," and he did, John Landy "ran as hard as I could but I saw the writing on the wall."

That's how the world's two fastest milers saw the British Empire Games "Mile of the Century," run Saturday before more than 32,000 fans, including the Duke of Edinburgh.

Bannister called his race precisely right.

"I ran my race," he said in an interview after winning the Games mile in 3:58.8. "I ran independent of the others, setting my pace for 3:59, which I felt would win.

"I was a little anxious for a time, letting Landy get in front by 15 yards. But I had planned my race.

DANGEROUS MOMENT

"I felt there was a dangerous moment on the back stretch when Landy made his move. Then I knew I had to keep fairly close to him without using my reserve energy.

"By the last corner I realized Landy was tiring and I felt then that I had the race won.

Landy, the only Australian in the eight-man field, said he had no one to set the pace for him. "So had to set it myself. He moved to the front early and stayed there until the last turn.

"It was a wonderful race except for the last 220 yards," he said. "That was horrible.

"I realized it was a matter of whether I could bluff Roger. But Roger didn't bluff. I ran as hard as I could hoping to get far enough ahead so Roger couldn't catch me.

CONFIRMED FEARS

"When I looked over my shoulder at the last turn and saw Roger closing up, I knew it was just a matter of time. I looked back just to confirm my worst fears. The minute I looked ahead again, he was past me."

Bannister said he would have preferred another opponent for the race, run in blazing sunshine, but conditions here were "much better" than at Oxford last May when he became the first man to run the mile under four minutes.

"I was not nearly so tired today as I was at Oxford," he said. "But I had to run against a strong wind there."

The long, lean Englishman said he worried only about Landy.

"I have very great respect for John Landy," he said, "and I knew that I had to give everything to beat him."

Landy was gracious in adding: "Roger was the best runner of the day, there's no doubt."

FUTURE OBJECTIVES

Bannister's next objective is the European Games at Bern, Switzerland, next month. After that he is not sure.

"My medicine comes first," he said. "Now that I am a doctor, I can't leave those responsibilities to some one else while I go around running in the mile."

Landy is not certain of his future either.

"I would like to try myself in the miles and maybe in the three miles. I feel I can break a few records in those distances. . ."

On his feelings about losing to Bannister, Landy summed up this way:

"I can't be disappointed. If anyone had ever told me I would run the mile in 3:58.4 and come second, I'd have taken him on a bet right there."

Talks about:
LARGE BILLS
And How to pay them
Most people spend large sums of money only when they know where the money is coming from. But there are some bills that you just can't plan for—for instance, car smash-ups, unexpected medical expenses, fires, thefts and anything completely out of your control; bills . . . that hit you like a bolt out of the blue. These large bills are often a serious concern to a family. That's where a Niagara loan can really be of help. At any rate there are a lot of losers in one of which were winners by people who carefully think our service was a mighty fine answer to the difficult kind of problem. You'll find if you inquire, the friendly loans at Niagara Finance often have lower rates. Another point about Niagara, loans to $1500 are life-insured at no extra cost to you. If you have a large unexpected bill which you can't handle why not drop in or phone; we'll be glad to see you.

Re-powers Your Engine
TCP
TCP; a Shell-discovered fuel additive now blended into both Shell Gasolines, sets free the captive power formerly locked in by lead and carbon deposits. It's the greatest gasoline development in 31 years.
Acts so fast it repowers your engine before you've finished your second tankful.
Did you know that up to 15% of your engine's power is actually trapped . . . that you are paying for power you aren't getting?
The reason is this: Every gasoline sold today contains deposit-forming compounds. And, as gasoline is burned, lead and carbon deposits form on the walls of the combustion chamber and on the tips of the spark plugs. In the combustion chamber these deposits become red hot, especially when you are accelerating, and set off the gasoline-air mixture before the piston reaches its proper firing position. Power works against you, not for you. This condition is called pre-ignition and it not only wastes power and fuel—it also is responsible for a most severe kind of knock—engineers call it "wild ping."
These deposits also cause power loss by short-circuiting spark plugs, causing them to misfire when you need power most.
Now, however, there is a way to release the imprisoned power in your engine—and quickly!
It's TCP, the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead. TCP additive actually repowers your engine by changing the character of the engine deposits. In the combustion chamber it, "fireproofs" them so they cannot glow and cause pre-ignition. And, because it makes the deposits nonconductors of electricity, spark plugs no longer short-circuit—they fire on time. Power works for you—not against you.
By the time you have finished your second tankful, you'll be getting up to 15% more power. But remember—because these deposits are constantly building up, continued use of Shell Gasolines with TCP is essential to retain full benefits.
Shell Gasolines with TCP are available only at Shell dealers.
Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Old-timers who still play bridge are good estimators of the final contract their pair should reach. But they lack some of the precision of moderns who use a system with definite signals.

Take the matter of one-jump responses to an opening one bid. To all players it means practically the same; go to game. But to precision bidders there is also a definiteness to certain details. If the one-jump is immediate it also promises two sure tricks. It is an assurance that two of the tricks held by partner are of the quick trick variety; aces or their equivalent.

There is a very important purpose in offering this information. Before the bidding gets too far along it tells opener that a slam may be worth probing. He is told fast to keep slam in mind.

The two sure tricks promised are among tricks enough that will help make game with what opener has announced so far. That is, the tricks in responder will make game with the tricks in opener.

An opener shows—a minimum of five tricks. What is the balance for game shown by responder? Simply count how many tricks it takes to make a game. The answer will then be obvious.

Take these partnership hands shown here:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠K 6 4	♠A
♥Q 8	♥10 7 2
♦K 8 4 2	♦A Q J 9 7
♣A 9	♣K J 8 5

South starts with an opening bid of one heart. North responds with three diamonds; an immediate one-jump takeout. With the five promised by south, north shows six to promise 11.

If the hands ends with five diamonds as trumps, 11 tricks will be needed. North says they have that many with the south show of five. He also promises two sure tricks among them.

Times are when the showing of sure tricks will not effect the final result. The same may be said of the number of tricks shown. But these are good reasons for refusing to show them.

Some players hide behind the skirts of arrogance.

AT THE BELLE — The greatest adventure romance of all time, M.G.M.'s CinemaScope production, "Knights of the Round Table" in color magnificence, is attracting large audiences to the air-conditioned Belle Theatre, where it is continuing today and Tuesday.

AT THE ODEON McCARTHY THEATRE
(General Advance)

Columbia Pictures "The Iron Glove," swashbuckling adventure drama starring Robert Stack and Ursula Thiess in color by Technicolor, opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Richard Stapley is featured in the principal supporting role.

A story of high adventure, flashing sword play and Machiavellian intrigue whose action takes place in early 18th century England and France, "The Iron Glove" deals with the attempt of the Scottish Prince James Stuart, pretender to the throne of England, to become king. A brilliant swordsman and dashing adventure feared throughout all Europe as "The Iron Glove," Stack is one of James Stuart's staunchest adherents, pledged to defend the cause and life of the Prince.

"The Iron Glove" tells how Stack carries out his mission, fighting to defend his Prince and himself against the machinations and attacks of the royalists in England and France. The film is said to be a swashbuckling thriller in the best tradition of derring-do motion pictures.

Highlights of "The Iron Glove" are said to be Stack's acrobatic swordplay, pitched battles between the King's forces and followers of the Stuarts and the romantic topplay between Stack and Miss Thiess, a beautiful adventuress who is in the employ of his royalist enemies until love develops between them: Miss Thiess, beautiful young actress who has been acclaimed as "the most beautiful girl in the world," makes her Hollywood film debut in "The Iron Glove."

Richard Stapley, as Prince James Stuart, is featured in support of the stars of "The Iron Glove." Written for the screen by Jesse L. Lasky, Jr., DeVallon Scott and Douglas Heyes, the new swashbuckling adventure was directed by William Castle and produced by Sam Katzman.

'Babe' Takes Fifth Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—Babe Zaharias, golf's famed "Comeback Gal," scored an eighth-stroke, record-breaking victory with a 294 total Sunday in winning her fifth All-American women's pro title, but nearly was disqualified.

Although the Babe turned in a wrong final score of 74, instead of a 75, tourney officials waived the usual penalty of disqualification under a USGA clause permitting such action under "unusual circumstances."

Rules chairman Arch Matson said the Babe, being mobbed by photographers as she finished, was unable to check her card properly before she turned it in.

Mrs. Zaharias, the year's leading feminine money-winner, tacked a $1,000 first prize on her previous total of $9,832 and also pocketed $1,500 for her record-breaking second round of 69.

Barber Wins All-American Golf Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry Barber conquered Tam O'Shanter's tricky, rain-dampened greens Sunday for a closing 69 to win the All-American golf title with a 72-hole score of 277-11 under par.

The pro from La Canada, Calif., pocketed $3,600.

Barber came out ahead in a pressurized final round that dispelled the challenges of Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., and British Open champion Peter Thomson.

Littler, the 1953 U.S. Amateur champion who turned pro last February, missed by inches a 25-foot putt on the last hole that would have sent the final round into a sudden-death finish.

Littler took a par on the closing hole for a 69 and 278. Thomson faded to 73-for-279 and third place. Littler pocketed $2,350 and Thomson $2,000, while $1,600 each went to Pete Cooper and Bob Toski, who tied for fourth.

Ray Hornell, of Windsor, Ont., who led through the second round, finished seven strokes back of Barber with 284. Horvath, with brilliant first and second rounds of 68 and 69, carded off with scores of 73 and 74 Saturday and Sunday. He tied for 10th place and won $715.

Oshawa, Hoskings Win in Viaduct Elgins Drop Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Thomas Elgins, who earlier this season would have been a good bet for the Senior International-Canada Baseball League pennant are a slump. The Elgins lost a doubleheader at home. What's more, 2,400 fans in St. Thomas Saturday gloomily watched the Elgins' bid to win over the Hamilton Majors in 18 innings of play.

The Majors, whose twin victory moved them into third place, edged the Elgins 3-2 in the first game and took the second 5-3. Solid pitching in both games was the base for the wins.

In Brantford the second-place Red Sox downed the last-place Guelph-Waterloo Royals 7-5 and in Galt the fifth-place Kitchener Panthers pulled an 8-3 victory over the league-leading Terriers.

SIXTH VICTORY

Bob Brake won the first game for London by holding the Elgins to five hits. It was his sixth victory in 10 decisions. Wilmer Harris, who also tossed a five-hitter, took the loss.

Manager Frank Colman hit a homer in the fourth for one run. Gord McMackon's double, which chased home Bob Ward who had singled, scored the winning run in the sixth.

In the nine-inning second game Bill Best allowed only six hits to earn his seventh victory as against three losses.

Outfielder George Crouch banged out three hits, including a triple and home run, and plated four runs to lead the Majors to victory. Les Thomas also clouted a homer for the winners while Freddy Thomas poled one for the Royals.

A double and three singles by centrefielder Tex Kaiser was a big factor in Kitchener's victory over Terriers. Keith Weiss hit three for three, including a double, and rapped three RBIs.

Southpaw Bill Allen gave up nine hits but was master of the situation over Creighton Indians in a Nickel Belt Senior League game at Sudbury Sunday.

Toronto Caterers dropped two week-end games in the Ontario Baseball League play. Toronto Hoskings defeated the Caterers 7-6 Saturday by scoring four runs in the eighth inning and Oshawa squeezed by Peterboro 10-9 victory over the Caterers Sunday.

St. Thomas plays at Kitchener and Galt is at Brantford in International-Canada play Tuesday.

Balding Wins Millar Trophy Over Tucker

TORONTO (CP)—Al Balding of Credit Valley golf club Monday defeated Lou Tucker of Toronto, 4 and 2, in their final-round match for the Millar professional golf championship at suburban Islington course Saturday.

As well as the Millar Trophy, Balding collected the $350 first prize money, while Tucker received $350 for his second-place finish.

Balding shot one-under par to defeat Tucker, whose game was almost as steady. Balding's medal score was a five-under-par 66 for the 18 holes played, and, with a little luck on some of his putts could have been lower.

Tucker overcame Balding's early two-hole lead with a birdie two and a birdie three on the sixth and seventh. For his birdies Tucker used a No. 8 iron to come within about four feet of the pin and then sank his putt.

WEDGE SHOT

Balding, who defeated Stan Horne of Montreal in the 1952 Millar final, used a No. 9 iron. He then won the 10th and 14th and made a great wedge shot to take the dramatic 15th hole and thwart Tucker's bid for his first Millar title.

In the semi-final round Saturday, Balding stopped defending champion Gord Brydson of Toronto, 2 and 1, and Tucker defeated Clair Chinery of Hamilton, 3 and 2.

Brydson and Chinery collected $200 each, while the quarter-finalists, Jack Kay of Toronto, Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener, Bob Lamb of Toronto and Bob Dean of Cornwall picked up $100 apiece.

Marlene Will Form Top Combo After Winning Fourth Close Crown

BRIGHTWOOD, N.S. (CP)—Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., won her fourth successive Canadian women's close golf title Saturday and today will start after her second open win.

Medal play began this morning in the qualifying round for the Canadian Open with match play beginning Tuesday.

Ninety-two golfers were scheduled to tee off for the championship flight. The open, unlike the Close, is decided on match play.

Brightwood pro Sam Foley said the women's par of 73 on this hilly but not overlong course "should remain unbroken.

Last week in defending Marlene shoot a 75 in the rain. Foley said she could be the girl to turn the trick but the best she got in the Close was a one-over-par 74.

The 20-year-old girl was runner-up for the 1953 open title won by Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif. Miss Romack will not defend her title, Marlene won it in 1951.

Marlene finished the Close Saturday with a nine-stroke lead over Dorothy Herberton of Victoria, her closest opponent. Marlene had a 54-hole score of 74-81-77—232. Miss Herberton had 80-80-78—241.

Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., in second place at the end of two days of play, slipped to third and ended up at 81-82-78—243.

About 14 Americans are included in the field for the open headed by Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., twice winner.

600 Marksmen Open Shoot

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Some 600 top-ranking British and Canadian marksmen were on hand along these ranges today in opening matches of the annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize meet.

Two matches, the Sherwood and Governor-General's, both of which count in scoring for the grand aggregate competition, are scheduled today. The two match also will be held for riflemen not ranking in the first 150 in the grand aggregate for the last 10 DCRA meets.

Today's top two-day shoot, top aggregate standings are added to scores posted in the final stage of the Governor-General's match. From these are chosen Canada's 18-man team to represent Canada at Bisley, England, next year.

The big climax of the meeting is the competition for the Governor-General's Gold Medal, most prized award in Canadian shooting. It was won last year by Lieut. Hugh Thorburn of Victoria.

Britain is represented by two teams—a crack 16-member senior team and a 14-member Imperial cadet team.

'Slo-Mo-V' Sets Speedboat Mark

SEATTLE (AP) — A red-tailed queen of the lakes has assured herself of another year's custody of the Gold Cup—the symbol of victory in the "world series" of speedboat racing.

For the fifth straight year one of Stan Sayres' Slo-Mo-Shun thoroughbreds has been the champion of the fastest hydroplanes Saturday on Lake Washington.

This time it was the Slo-Mo V, driven by Lee Schoenith of Kent, Ohio, which won all three of the 30-mile heats and set a speed record by averaging a fraction more than 99 miles an hour.

Runner Hits Telephone Pole

VANCOUVER (CP) Stanley Cup of England arrived into a telephone pole at the 22-mile mark of the Empire marathon Saturday. He smacked senseless for a moment and when he came to his first words were "Fine, I'm finished—take it!"

Told that the great English miler had won, the badly-beaten marathoner commented: "God bless him."

He added: "I can't let England down. I've got to finish. Get the shoes off me. My feet are burning."

Cox was carried off in an ambulance.

Man Behind Every Major Foreign Policy Decision In U.S. Is Called 'Master Spy'

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the background of almost every major foreign policy decision made today by the Eisenhower administration there is the figure of a man who may well be called "master spy."

He is not a shadowy government agency whose lines of espionage and information spread around the world, and penetrate even behind the Iron Curtain in the desperate and often dangerous game of matching wits with the Communists.

Few people know how and where he spends hundreds of millions of dollars—or in fact how much he does spend. Few know who his agents are or how they operate. Only a handful of senior government officials have access to his reports and estimates on Communist moves and probable plans.

UNDERCOVER EXPERT

He is Allen Welsh Dulles, 61, chief of the U.S. central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Dulles is a lanky, 190-pound, pipe - smoking lawyer with grey hair, a bristling moustache, and a deep resemblance to his older (by five years) brother, State Secretary John Foster Dulles. He looks more like a scholarly headmaster than the expert in cloak-and-dagger affairs that he is.

It isn't difficult to see how faulty intelligence or a wrong estimate on enemy intentions and capabilities could lead to diplomatic blunders and even to military tragedies such as Pearl Harbor and the surprise invasion of North Korea by the Chinese in 1950 which smashed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's offensive.

Dulles today is confident he has developed the machinery and techniques to avoid any such failures in the future.

Guesses on how many people are employed by CIA range from 3,000 to 30,000. Estimates on spending range up to and above $500,000,000 a year.

FAST 'ROOKIE' STAGE

U.S. experts have figured the Russians are spending about $2,000,000,000 a year on espionage. Add all the millions spent by the United States, Britain, France, and the other nations—and it is apparent espionage has become a multi-million-dollar business.

Dulles was born in Watertown, N.Y., April 7, 1893. He joined the U.S. intelligence service in 1916.

During the Second World War he was urged to set up a European espionage headquarters in Bern, Switzerland. In November, 1942, he crossed the border into Switzerland just as the Allied invasion of Africa was launching under way in North Africa. He was the last American to enter Switzerland legally from German-occupied France before the border was closed.

WORKED WITH GERMANS

Dulles' first assignment was: Find out who in Germany was opposed to the Hitler regime and if those people were working to overthrow the Nazi government.

It wasn't long until his sources had arranged for him to meet a German underground agent. In a hotel room in Bern, Dulles finally faced Hans Gisevius, German vice-consul at Zurich and a member of the German secret intelligence service, the Abwehr.

Gisevius was a genuine anti-Nazi. He and others like him, were convinced that Hitler had to be destroyed or Germany would be destroyed.

From Gisevius, Dulles learned there was in fact a German underground and that its members were actively planning to kill Hitler. The plot was climaxed on July 20, 1944, when a bomb exploded only six feet from Hitler in his East Prussian headquarters—but the stout leg of a table deflected most of the blast and Hitler lived to order a purge of the conspirators.

Gisevius was in Germany at the time and was among those marked for death. He went into hiding but managed to get word to Dulles. Dulles had experts in London forge indentification papers giving Gisevius the name "Dr. Hoffmann." The papers were smuggled to him.

Gisevius used the phony papers to escape to Switzerland and a reunion with Dulles. Gisevius now is living in Dallas, Tex.

USEFUL CONTACT

During this intrigue, Dulles also was in touch with another anti-Hitler German who had access to secrets of the Nazi foreign office. This man was given the code name of "George Wood."

"Wood" came to see Dulles in Switzerland while on a courier mission—and from this contact the German poured 2,600 secret documents into Dulles' hands.

From Wood, Dulles learned of the secret Nazi rocket experiments being conducted at Peenemunde—and Allied planes were turned loose to batter the site. They say the program back perhaps by six vital months.

Wood also gave Dulles the tip that later disclosed the British ambassador in Turkey, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, had a valet called "Cicero" who was selling allied secrets to the Nazis.

BANCROFT

Accused Fined For Destroying Beaver House

BANCROFT — Pleading guilty to a charge of driving, whilst his ability was impaired, Farley Haynes, of Trenton was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills at Bancroft's court. OPP Constable John Hawkins, giving evidence, said that when on patrol on the evening of July 24, he observed a car driven by the accused proceeding erratically along Highway 62, about 20 miles south of Bancroft. On stopping the car he found in it a case containing nine empty beer bottles and, under the driver's feet, a partly full bottle.

A fine of $50 and costs was levied on Thomas Minnie, of Maynooth, who pleaded guilty to a similar charge. OPP Constable Ray Hooker told the court that, when called to the scene of an accident near Maynooth on the night of July 17, he noted that Minnie smelled strongly of alcohol and, during questioning, continuously repeated himself.

Arraigned on charges of dangerous and careless driving, John Joseph McKee, of Hamilton, was remanded on bail of $500. The charges arose as a result of a fatal accident on Aug. 2, when Howard William Adams, also of Hamilton, was killed.

Lawrence Kuiack, of Whitney, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $30 and costs.

For destroying a beaver house, Arnold Young, of Bancroft, was fined $10 and costs, and Elmer Rutledge, also of Bancroft, paid a similar amount when convicted of carrying a high powered rifle on Sunday.

Freeman Fransky, of Bird's Creek was fined $15 and costs on a charge of having liquor at a place other than his residence.

Police Patrolling Bavarian Factories As Strike Continues

W. Germany Has Biggest Labor Problem Since War

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Armed police today patrolled Bavaria's biggest factories as a strike involving 220,000 metal workers crippled production for the second straight day.

In Munich, pickets and non-strikers frequently came to blows. Police intervened and offered armed protection to any workers who wanted to enter the plants.

Picket lines were reinforced in Nuremberg to bar non-strikers from work.

SOME GIVE IN

So far, 49 firms employing 26,000 workers have given in to union demands for a wage increase of three cents an hour. Other employers are sticking to their offer of half that much.

In northern Germany, violence flared in the shipbuilding city of Hamburg which was gripped for the seventh day by a strike of 15,000 city employees who handled the public transport system, and the gas and water works.

The Hamburg union has dropped its wage demand from ten cents an hour (2.3 cents) an hour to seven pfennigs (1.6 cents). The union says it is prepared to grant a five-pfennig increase.

The metal workers are far from united. Company officials insist only about 20 per cent of the workers are on strike. The union claims the figure is 70 per cent.

HELD OFF DEMANDS

The two strikes present West Germany with its biggest labor problem since the war. Unions have been holding off with wage demands to help Germany win its battle for economic recovery.

But now, the workers say, the battle is well in hand and it is time for wage increases. The average wage for metal workers is about 400 marks a month ($95).

Prohibition Era Gang Leader Freed from Jail

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, prohibition era gang leader, was freed from prison Monday.

A federal judge ordered his immediate release from the penitentiary he crashed out of in 1942 in a sensational prison break.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes held that Touhy's 1933 conviction in the abduction of John (Jake The Barber) Factor, big time confidence operator, was obtained through lies.

Tears streaked Touhy's face as Barnes granted him a writ of habeas corpus.

"It's like beginning life again," he said as he walked out of the courthouse.

The stocky, 55-year-old convict, now grey haired, was sentenced in 1933 to 99 years on conviction of kidnapping Factor and was given another 199 years for his part in the 1942 break from the Stateville penitentiary near Joliet, Ill.

Touhy led the other convicts to freedom in the prison breakAgents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation shot two of them to death and captured the others.

In his 558-page decision, Judge Barnes said he did not believe Factor actually was abducted. The jurist compared to "medieval criminal" the Illinois law under which Touhy was sentenced for the prison break.

Ben Schwartz, assistant attorney-general, immediately asked for a certificate of appeal to test to overturn Judge Barnes' action.

Lively Bullock Causes Plenty Of Excitement

LIVERPOOL (AP) — Eugenio Sanchez battled a reluctant bullock in the odorous waters of Liver-Pool's Canada Dock yesterday and won a great victory.

The bullock, a six-month-old 1,000-pounder, roamed freely, unbound from here to eternity aboard the Spanish freighter Galea. Somewhere en route to Spain it was to be eaten by Eugenio and others of the Galea's crew.

Three men tried to coax Ferdy aboard ship. But the bullock took a flying leap over the dockside. Eugenio jumped after him.

Four times Ferdy swam the dock Eugenio caught up with the bullock and poked and prodded him to a ramp. Ferdy was ferdy but it didn't end there.

The bullock charged round the dockside in his best bullfighting fashion. Eugenio ran back aboard. Emerged like a cowboy, drank a large brandy and went back to the fray.

Cheered by his shipmates, he tempted Ferdy once more and slipped a rope round his neck.

And Ferdy, defeated at last, walked tamely up the gangway to die by a seacook's sword.

Hidden Peak has defied previous expeditions.

Mrs. Molly Edmond, a registered nurse from Toronto, and Mrs. David Lugsoy, floating near a boat, saw Mrs. Basil Bailey, also of Toronto, applied artificial respiration until police arrived with a resuscitator.

The baby was brought to hospital in Barrie, where his condition was reported good.

Mrs. Joseph Lugsoy, of Toronto, said: "I thought I was vacationing at a nearby cottage with her husband and children. It was not immediately known how David got into the water.

Eden's Plight--Will Winnie Retire?--Inspires Song and Censor's Ire

By DANNY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The plight of Anthony Eden—called to become prime minister if Sir Winston Churchill retires—has been chronicled in song, but the British censor says it can't be sung.

It was also the fate of the featured tunes of a new London revue, "Airs on a Shoestring," banished the seven verses with a stroke of his official stamp, "deleted by the lord chamberlain."

The censor is the Earl of Scarbrough, a former Conservative member of Parliament. His job is to licence theatres and censor all "ayes," usually looking for obscenity.

The long years through which Eden, 59, has patiently waited to take over from the 79-year-old prime minister is the real favorite topic of the British people and press and the producers of the new revue thought it topical.

They wrote a song for Churchill's becoming a Knight of the Garter, Britain's highest honor, and his being asked which he is considerably proud, and to slips and pieces of paper political judgment that his critics "accuse him of."

The song also refers to recent American criticism of Eden, the foreign secretary.

It says, sung by a lady:

"Thirty odd years of frustrated desire

Waiting for senior men to retire.

Assistant, adviser, consultant and guide

Always the bridesmaid—never the bride."

Donald Monat, 26-year-old producer of the revue, said he protested the cut, but the lord chamberlain insisted it had to go, unless Eden gave his permission. Eden was busy at the Geneva conference.

DUKE WINDS UP NORTHERN TOUR AT COPPERMINE

First Royal Member Inside Arctic Circle

PORT RADIUM, N.W.T. (CP)—Mosquitoes, a bit of the midnight sun and Indian trappers are all in the Duke of Edinburgh's picture of Canada's far north.

Today, he gets his last look at it. With a trip to Coppermine, 980 miles north of Edmonton, he will become the first member of the British royalty to set foot inside the Arctic circle.

After two hours there, he'll fly south to Yellowknife, where he'll spend the night before flying south-eastward to Churchill, Man.

Philip arrived here Monday evening after flying for eight hours, with only two brief stops, over some of the most picturesque land in the Canadian sub-Arctic.

GIFTS FROM INDIANS

He changed from an RCAF C-5 after arriving at Fort Nelson, B.C., from the Yukon capital of Whitehorse, to an a.b.i.B.H.A. Canso which next put him down at Fort Simpson, a two-mile-long village on an island in a moose-hide gun case by treaty Indian John Tizo, while kerchief of yellow silk about the neck, touched down three hours later on the east shore of Great Slave lake, more than 100 Port Radium workers and their families competed with a long blast from the diesel freighter "Radium" in the hearty welcome.

VISITS URANIUM MINE

The duke dined with Harold Lake, manager of security-conscious Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited's uranium mine here. To get to the town company president W. J. Bennett led him up an 80-foot rock bluff via steep winding stairs.

The duke—unlike other members of his party and most newspaper men who had changed to bush clothes—still wore a city sports jacket and grey flannels.

He was to change later for later a hard hat, oiled coat and rubber boots for an hour-long tour of underground workings at the mine.

Sub-Arctic insect life was not bothering him. He was not a royal party. At Fort Simpson, sand flies by the millions swarmed around the Canso, but disappeared.

A construction worker, asked how he kept them off, replied with the gun case were kept busy alternately waving and slapping bugs.

No Charges Laid

SEAFORTH, Ont. (CP)—A coroner's jury inquiring Monday into the death of two persons in a car-train collision here last week has found "some negligence on the part of both drivers involved."

Mrs. Mary Love, 66, of Tuckersmith, driver of the car, and Mrs. Norma Hayes, 30, of Clinton, passenger, wife of the truck driver, died of injuries received in the collision.

The jury, headed by Clinton Hays of Goderich said after the inquest that no charges will be laid against Mr. Harvey arising out of the jury's verdict.

Prime Minister Says Project Will Continue to World Peace

CORNWALL (CP)—The $900,000,000 St. Lawrence power project and seaway will contribute to the peace of the world, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke after officiating at ground-breaking ceremonies here marking the start of the power development by Ontario and New York state.

His remarks were included in the text of a speech issued to reporters before delivery.

U.S. CEREMON Y

The Canadian ceremony took place 90 minutes after Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York officially launched the power project on the American side of the St. Lawrence.

Mr. St. Laurent said the $600,000,000 power project will draw the people of Canada and the United States closer together. The seaway, to be built with the $300,000,000, would bring enormous benefits to millions of Canadians and Americans.

Rivers, mountains and forests long had been considered a natural barrier that made excellent national frontiers but they also divided people from each other, he said.

This still might be true to a certain extent, but it no longer was the case as far as the St. Lawrence river was concerned. This great waterway had become more and more a bond rather than a barrier between Americans and Canadians.

Mr. St. Laurent said undertakings of this type show what could be achieved when nations work together for the common good. Such projects were a part of the strengthening of the forces of the free world, for it was in keeping with the policy of the North Atlantic Treaty to build up and maintain the strength of democratic states to discourage and deter aggression.

It was for that reason that Canadians and Americans could feel that the power project and the seaway would make a contribution to world peace.

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York hailed the St. Lawrence power project as a great example of international co-operation today at the start of work on the $600,000,000 hydro-electric plant.

There is little likelihood that its vast dams, linking the United States and Canada, will be outmoded by atomic power plants in 30 years or more, he assured in a speech prepared for the project's ground-breaking ceremonies.

The governor was to speak after a parade from flag-draped Massena to an oat field at Polley's bay, five miles outside the village, where he set off a blast of dynamite signalling the start of construction.

Dewey said the question of possible competition in the near future from atomic power plants was given careful thought before going ahead with the decision to harness the St. Lawrence.

Experts consulted by the state advised that "the promise of atomic energy for general consumption is still," he added, "but even by the end of 30 years cannot be expected to compete with cheap water power from the St. Lawrence.

The start of the St. Lawrence project brings "a day of celebration of international co-operation," Dewey declared.

"The free world will be materially safer from attack, physically and spiritually, as a result of this day's deeds. May the free peoples go marching forward in this spirit, ever more closely bound together by the ties of respect, affection, regard, and joint achievement for the common good."

India Accepts Portugal's 'Urgent' Plea for Action

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters)—India today accepted Portugal's "urgent" plea for action to set up an impartial investigation of strife in Portuguese India.

But India's note, handed to the Portuguese minister here today, rejected as impractical certain details of Portugal's note Monday calling for a six-nation team of neutral observers to be sent there immediate talks with Portugal to work out a plan.

The notes were exchanged as the 7,608-ton Portuguese steamer India sped toward India with reinforcements for the Portuguese garrison in the enclaves of Goa, Damao and Goa. Portuguese authorities in Goa ordered all Indian nationals in Goa expelled within 24 hours.

Portugal asked that the neutral team of investigators consist of observers of three nations chosen by Portugal and three by India, to send "urgent reports" to their governments on disorders in the colonies.

The observers must be from countries recognized diplomatically by India and Portugal.

Today's Indian reply called for immediate talks between the two nations to discuss details, and said New Delhi "welcomed" the opportunity.

However, India accused Portugal of "wild and improper allegations" about India's role in the dispute and asked that the Lisbon government "desist from" such charges; contended the Indian government has "neither committed nor connived at aggression;" and said that other nations intended to interfere in the dispute.

Monday's eviction order by Portuguese authorities in Goa means all Indian nationals resident there must get out within 24 hours. Several thousand persons will be affected, most of them casual laborers.

India's Indian note said the Portuguese colonies are "entitled to their freedom" and "determined to win it," but that India has "always been anxious to find solutions by conference and negotiations."

Monday, India vigorously denied she might use force against the Portuguese colonies.

She called a British note asking her to "refrain from resorting to force" an "unwarranted implication."

Next Sunday, anniversary of India's independence, it said to have been chosen by "Goan volunteers" from India to proclaim their determination march to "liberate" Goa, largest of the Portuguese settlements.

MENDES-FRANCE'S RECOVERY PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL

Assembly Gives Premier Wide Special Powers

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly today approved Premier Mendes-France's economic and financial recovery program by a massive majority.

The deputies in giving the premier a new vote of confidence, accorded him wide special powers to deal with the situation until March 31, 1955.

IN BIG SLEEP

Mendes-France earlier told the assembly that a series of new measures must be taken to awaken the country which is "wounded in a big sleep, dreaming of the past and having nightmares filled with fear about the future."

He said the government must step in to aid marginal enterprises and reconvert them to profitable production. He said the nation has been able to keep going since the war only because of aid from the United States.

Further, he asserted, other European countries have let down their barriers to permit much greater free trade than France. He said this has been possible only by this but that if France does not do the same the trade of other European countries doors will be closed to French products.

ANSWERS DEALERS

Mendes-France said the aim of his program is to restore the health of the French economy and that it can meet internal and external competition.

The premier said that about two to three per cent of the nation's production is vanishing down the entire economic structure. By taking firm action now, an entirely new impetus could be given to the country's economy.

Robot May Have Detected Flying Saucer

OTTAWA (CP)—Is Canada the first country in the world to record a flying saucer with instruments?

That question is being debated here today after the transport department's flying saucer sighting station reported that it had detected an unexplainable object in the atmosphere over Ottawa Sunday.

The explanation said the 48-year-old nobleman, still in serious condition from a bullet wound in the stomach, fears Mrs. Mary Wheeler, 40, may use violence against him next.

"Lord Vivian is somewhat apprehensive of Mrs. Wheeler," explained Mrs. Whoopenpoop, wife of Lord Vivian's valet. "She has been spending another hearing in nine days.

FORMER RESIDENT WINS FISH DERBY AT FORT WILLIAM

Mrs. Clarence Auld, Fort William, a niece of William and Fred Arthurs and Mrs. J. Ellis of this city, and a former resident in this city, captured the angling prize, a television set, offered for the Fish Derby of the Nesbitt Silver Boat Club of Fort William in July.

During the twelve hours of the Derby, the anglers enjoyed perfect weather and some splendid specimens were secured but Mrs. Auld came in with a lake trout that weighed 16 pounds 4½ ounces to head the list. The fish caught ranged from the 16-pounder taken by Mrs. Auld to a six-ounce minnow taken by a cookin' woman resident of Fort William.

Obituary

MRS. CORY NELSON PALMER (Hillier.)

On Tuesday evening, August 3, one of Hillier's oldest and most respected residents Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Palmer, died at her home at Hillier, after an illness of some weeks. She had been in poor health for a number of years, but since the death of her husband one year ago, her health and strength had failed.

A year ago last January 11, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Palmer celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary surrounded by children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, and numerous relatives and friends. Mr. Palmer died on June 28th of last year.

Born in Murray township on November 7, 1861, Sarah daughter of the late Gebrge A. Flindall and his wife, the late Babbie Flindall, the late Mrs. Palmer leaves many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

On January 11th, 1893, Sarah Elizabeth Flindall was married to Cory Nelson Palmer, of Hillier. Mourning the loss of a loving mother are two sons and two daughters, Benjamin Palmer of Brighton, Ivan Palmer of Toronto; Mrs. Wellington (Luella) Jordan, of Hillier, and Mrs. Chester (Grace) Shannonville. Twenty-two grandchildren and seventeen great grandchildren also survive.

The funeral service was held at the home of the deceased, on August 6th, at 2 p.m. Rev. F. C. Stanley, pastor of Hillier church, conducted the services at the home and at Glenwood Cemetery in Picton.

Many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the love and respect in which Mrs. Palmer was held by all who knew her.

Last evening, Mrs. Wilson Adams, Archie Cox, John Campbell, Stanley Herrington, Ross Burris and Fred Way.

- LATE GARRY HOLMES

A sorrowing community mourned with members of the grief stricken family Sunday as the body of Garry Holmes was laid to rest. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Holmes, Tweed, who lost his life Friday in a sand pit cave-in, was laid to rest in Victoria cemetery.

St. John's United Church was filled to capacity for the funeral service conducted by Rev. A. L. Price of Warkworth United Church, a former pastor, assisted by Rev. George Bandy of the Methodist Church, Tweed.

Bearers were W. Countryman, Jr., Ken Fisher, F. Cassidy, M. Hanna, Reg. Reid and Charles Martin.

Early History Of Local Rail Told Rotarians

"We cannot close our report without calling the attention of the agriculturists of the Province at large to the fact that there never was a time in the history of Canada, when their prospects for securing wealth were more promising than the present."

The above quotation, which sounds peculiarly apt to present-day Canada, actually is 100 years old. It is an extract from the report of the Belleville Fair of 1854, parts of which were read to the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club at the Hotel Quinte yesterday, by Notarian Fred Hyman, vice-president of the Belleville Fair Board.

The 1854 optimism of the Hastings Agricultural Society, sponsors of the fair, was based on a treaty of reciprocity signed that year by the U.S. and the British North American colonies, which, the Society opined, "must prove most beneficial—for it insures to the Canadian farmers an extended market for all that he can produce, free of duties."

"The Country of Hastings," the report states," is perhaps improving and progressing in all that is valuable in the province, and it is questionable if any other can be found better if as well calculated to promote the prosperity of the industrious farmer and mechanic."

The report urged construction of roads from Belleville to Tweed, Georgetown, Hastings, Frankford, Stirling and to the Marmora iron works which then were "producing large quantities of very superior iron."

150 MEMBERSHIP

Financialwise, the board lists a 150-membership subscribing £37.10 shillings; £6.10 shillings was paid by township Hastings, with a £20 grant from the government. The amount paid over to Branches was £127.17.6d, and "paid in premiums general expenses £216:16:10½ pence."

This year alone the grandstand show, running for three days and nights, will cost about $4,200, Mr. Wilson told Rotarians.

He noted the risk taken by the Fair Board in presenting the fair since bad weather could ruin a diverse effect on attraction.

"It is rather a costly affair, and if we don't have fine weather we could easily go into the red," he said.

"The prize list, if taken up completely, would total about $9,000," he said.

He expressed appreciation to donors of prizes to the fair and "without which it would hardly exist unless they get help of some kind."

Mr. Wilson declined the Fair as "the farmers' show window" and one way quality can be improved by those who exhibit and those who come to see the display.

A color film on last year's Fair highlighted his talk.

Cash, Cheques Taken While Family Away

It was a [illegible] and homecoming for Rigid Parm, Thurlow township, who yesterday returned home from a holiday to find that his home had been entered and over $200 in cash and cheques stolen. Provincial police are investigating the break-in.

Dr. Summerby Takes Up Medical Practice in City

Dr. John H. Summerby has recently arrived in Belleville from Moncton Army after taking practice in association with the Doctors Bateman on the Belleville Clinic.

Born at St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Dr. Summerby took his preliminary education at Lachine High School before attending McGill University where his studies were interrupted by two and one-half years service with the Canadian Army after which he returned to McGill to complete his studies in Science and to take his medical training.

Since graduating from McGill University Medical School in 1951, Dr. Summerby has spent three years in postgraduate training at the Montreal General Hospital and the Children's Memorial Hospital in preparation for general practice.

In addition to his medical interests, Dr. Summerby has given considerable time to Boy Scout and Scout activities, was active in community sport circles, and is a member of the Royal Canadian Army (Royal Montreal Regiment).

Dr. Summerby and his wife reside at 217 Pinnacle St., and carry on his practice there.

Seventy Attend Square Dance Class at School

The class for square dance instructors, sponsored by the Recreation Commission, got under way last night at Prince Charles School is progressing favorably, with seventy persons on the list in attendance with Bill Workman, recreational director of Trenton, in charge.

Last night, Mr. Workman instructed the class in the basic patterns of the square dance and then the whole class enjoyed a couple of squares. The instruction at these classes, which will be run along the Wednesday and Friday night of this week and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of next week are open to all residents of this school free of charge. It is the hope of the commission that the instructors will assist in forming square dances that will be sponsored by the commission so that all can more thoroughly enjoy this healthy form of recreation.

The commission is also sponsoring an Arts and Craft exhibition and it is hoped that a school can be established in the city where more residents can become interested in this form of hobby.

Quinte Players Give Polished Performance in 'Mister Angel'

Harry Segall's "Mister Angel" a spirited, comedy mostly about a celestial creature making like a cat-tleman, Monday night was presented at Tobe's County Gardens as the final offering of the Quinte Players first summer theatre venture.

The piece was in complete contrast to their previous presentation, the eerie "Night Must Fall," and provided a polished medium for this talented group. Last night's audience took enthusiastically to its witty dialogue and malicious situations despite a stubborn first act where the laughs came in on a wing and a prayer.

The greatest drawback to this entire summer theatre project has been the small stage area allotted the players. Here the trouble is not to fill the stage, but rather to conserve it, which embarrasses the actors into stunted gesturing and manoeuvres. Director Syd Ross, however, made as much play of what area was left after the furniture was moved in and set an active pace to the production.

Jim Alexander, confidently carried the main role of the Angel Charles who transforms himself into a human and nearly gets in like it, though a shade of modulation in his first scene might not be amiss. Miriam Bishop, well-known in theatre work here, makes her debut with the summer theatre and was pleasingly natural as a successful actress wanting to be a successful woman. As her husband, Ray Johnson playing a theatre producer was sufficiently fast talking to be unteligible at times. As Iren, an unborn angel wanting to be born and the cause of all the trouble, Thelma Alexander showed up as a sprite wit aplomb while director Syd Rose eased into his part as a cynical film actor. Joan Richards turned in a relaxing study of a woman playwright out to get an angel for her play and who nearly lands the real thing.

A peculiar cameo was given by Don Rose, playing a detective who might have crawled out of a mahogany box, if nothing else. Mr. Rose's interpretation of a Manhattan "Dinkerton" proves that Mack Sennett must still be a force to be reckoned with in the theatre.

Phillipa Faulkner's single flaring and stylized setting struck an excellent keynote to the play's atmosphere.

Last night's audience at "Mister Angel" was a discouragingly small one and there now are only two performances (tonight and Wednesday) left. It is a production which might profitably be taken in, staged by a group that does this city proud. (H. M.)

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Stock prices turned thoroughly mixed in slow forenoon trading today.

First-hour volume — less than 400,000 shares—left industrials with a few more than gains and losses as there were many issues traded with no price change. Utilities were narrowly ahead and steels and financial institutions a little lower.

Papers, the market's greatest weakness Monday, turned mixed. International continued Monday's sharp decline and Fraser was also off. St. Lawrence Cor. eased after reports of lower six-months profits. On the upside, Powell River moved ahead smartly and Consolidated and Great Lakes also gained.

Davis Leather lost more than $1 in the first hour. Chemical Research hit a 1954 high of $2.92.

Western oils eased pennies but Canadian Collieries and Pacific Pete countered for good gains. Base metal trading was light and left juniors a little weaker, seniors steady.

Golds eased pennies but Renable and Macassa climbed in juniors. Holding companies were also ahead, Prospectors Airways making the biggest climb.

Rix Athabaska moved up in uranium. Other uranium were ahead pennies. Manitouwadge and Hathurst issues drew little interest.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, graded, in fibre cases: A large 45-46; medium 35-36; A small 30-31; B 33; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 50-51; A medium 40-41; A small 35-36; B 38; C 31.

Butter solids: Ontario, 1st grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 55½; 36¼.

Strike May be Settled Wednesday

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The 44-day-old strike of production workers at the Kelvinator of Canada Limited plant here may be settled Wednesday when the union will recommend that workers accept terms worked out Monday at a conciliation meeting called by provincial Labor Minister Daley at Toronto.

The Toronto meeting, attended by Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, lasted all day in Mr. Daley's Queen's Park office.

However, details were kept secret pending their presentation to striking workers at the Kelvinator plant here.

START NEW TREASURY

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost Monday took part in a ceremonial ceremony for Ontario's new $2,600,000 treasury building in Queen's Park. On hand were Col. W. Price and former premier George S. Henry, each of whom once held the treasury portfolio now handled by Mr. Frost.

Pair to Stand Trial for Assault

George Storms, 22, and Douglas Parsons, 21, both of this city, will stand trial on a charge of assaulting John Heffernan, Canniffton Road, last June 29th causing actual bodily harm.

The two young men were today committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction by Magistrate T. Y. Wills when they appeared for preliminary hearing. Storms and Parsons were charged with assault with intent to rob but the committal was on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. Magistrate Wills ruling there was no evidence to support the charge on which they appeared.

The charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm carries a maximum sentence of three years.

$4,000 BAIL

Bail for the two men was set at $4,000. Both men also face an additional charge of assault with intent to rob J. Sharpe. These charges were both enlarged.

Only two witnesses were called by Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson at this morning's preliminary hearing. Cpl. Reg. Rackham of the Ontario Provincial Police identified photographs taken at the scene behind Front street stores where the assault on Heffernan is alleged to have taken place.

Police Constable Lyle Davis told of being called to the area behind Diamond's and Wray's stores where he saw Parsons standing beside a truck peering up an alleyway towards Front street. He said he saw Parsons pick up an object from the ground and a minute or so later heard a scuffle in the alleyway and two men came into sight, one shoving the other.

As the two men neared the truck the officer said he heard a voice say, "Now, let him have it."

The officer said Parsons struck the man over the head with the object he was holding in his hand.

Then the officer said, a voice said, "What shall we do now, get a case of beer or what?"

RECOGNIZED BOTH MEN

The officer said he had called to the two men to stop and with that they turned and looked at him, yelled "cops" and turned and ran in different directions. He said he easily recognized the two men in the lamp-light behind the stores.

The officer said he had chased one of the men half way up an alley and then returned to the victim who identified himself as John Hefferman, was getting up to his feet. An empty wallet was found at his feet. Hefferman had suffered a cut on the back of his head where he had been struck and was taken to hospital where four stitches were required.

A jagged piece of broken concrete was presented in court, the officer saying this had been picked up near Hefferman. When picked up there was fresh blood on it, he said.

On cross examination, however, Constable Davis would not say the concrete object presented in court was the piece found at the scene.

Parsons was represented by John Lennox, while Alan Sprague appeared for Parsons. Neither accused had anything to say before being committed.

Holiday in England Greatly Enjoyed Although Weather Was Unfavorable

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. A. A. Vanderwater, and her daughter Linsey have returned from a three-month trip to England, where they visited relatives and friends. They arrived at Montreal on the Empress of Scotland last week-end.

During their stay in England, mother and daughter found conditions returned to pre-war days. Rationing was off, Mrs. Vanderwater explained. There was plenty of food and lots of lovely garments in the shops. Like other Canadian travellers of the British Isles this year the Trenton visitors commented on the bad weather in England have been having all season.

Rain, grey skies and hardly any sun were met with all through out the Vanderwater's holidays.

With headquarters at Mrs. Vanderwater's mother's home at Leicester, mother and daughter made side trips to Canterbury, Dover, Bognor Regis on the south coast and Norfolk County.

Miss Vanderwater was particularly thrilled with her first view of Buckingham Palace in London and Sandringham Palace in Norfolk County. She also heard broadcasts her Christmas message to the people of the Empire and Commonwealth.

On her way home mother and daughter had a splendid view at floating icebergs inside Belle Isle Straits. They enjoyed uneventful ocean crossings over and back.

While in England Mrs. Vanderwater received a pleasant surprise visit from her husband, F/O Alan Vanderwater, who flew to England in an RCAF North Star.

The Vanderwater family resides on Flint Street, Trenton.

GOES TO FRANCE

F/O Louis LeCompte the well-liked Photography Officer attached to the Public Relations Branch at Training Command headquarters has received notice of his transfer to France. He will exchange jobs with F/O Ken Coleman who is coming to Trenton after three years' service abroad.

In the three years F/O LeCompte has been stationed here he became known for his fair dealings in sport. In the winter he refereed O.H.A. hockey, a game he learned in the Ottawa Valley and played well during his earlier days in the R.C.A.F.

Mrs. W. A. Fraser, recently in a Kingston hospital for treatment, is convalescing at her home on Dundas St., Trenton.

LEAVES FOR WINNIPEG

S/L Roy Wood, public relations officer at Training Command headquarters here, left early today for Winnipeg to commence his duties as PRO with "Operation Prairie Pacific" the R.C.A.F. Air Cavalcade touring 26 centres in western provinces and cities western Ontario during what next month. The tour ends at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

The cavalcade comprises 18 jet aircraft including equal numbers of CF-100's, Sabres and T-33's.

For the next month S/L Wood's office will be in the back of a Canso amphibious aircraft preceding the show with a staff to assist newsmen in covering the exercise.

Engineer Hurt, Jumps from Engine Before Collision

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—An 18-car Toronto-bound Canadian National Railways freight train crashed into the rear of a second standing freight today spilling goods along the right-of-way near this town 25 miles west of Toronto.

Norman McFaggart, 46-year-old engineer of the moving freight jumped from the cab just before the collision and suffered facial, arm and shoulder injuries and was taken to hospital.

He was the only person injured in the wreck.

Canadian National officials said the wreck occurred because a warning message was never received.

CNR officials said the first freight, a 50-car train that left Stratford 15 minutes before the second, developed a hot box and had to stop for repairs. It was partially hidden on a curve, they said.

The locomotive of the second freight was derailed when it crashed into the caboose of the standing freight. Debris from the caboose was thrown over a 200-foot embankment. Two other cars were damaged.

Fight Looms Between Rival Fishing Groups

VANCOUVER (CP) — A major battle between factions of fishermen on the British Columbia coast loomed today following announcement that gillnetters will send 30 boats to the fishing grounds in defiance of a salmon tendermen's strike.

The action followed an earlier report from Vancouver island that troller fishermen there had also decided to defy the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) and go back to work.

Some 640 UFAWU tendermen, who normally handle the catch from the fishing fleet to the canneries, went on strike four days ago to back demands for a $20 monthly payhike and fringe benefits. Present basic pay for tendermen is $1.20 an hour.

Cornwall Group Wants Seaway All-Canadian

CORNWALL (CP)—An all-Canadian development of the St. Lawrence seaway is sought by a Cornwall district group known as the Citizens Joint Action Committee for the All-Canadian Seaway.

The organization is sponsoring a trip to Ottawa Aug. 19 by a 30-car motorcade to present a petition supporting a brief to Lionel Chevrier, head of the St. Lawrence seaway authority. It has also scheduled a public meeting here for Thursday night.

The brief contends that the Wiley - Dondero Act authorizing United States participation with Canada in the seaway and power development was passed without reference to Canada or to Canada's undertaking to go ahead on the power scheme, if necessary.

CITES SUPPORT

The committee says it has the support of Cornwall township council and the blessing of Mayor Donald Mitchell of Cornwall.

Canadian-U.S. ceremonies today and tomorrow will mark the opening phase of the St. Lawrence project.

Some district residents have reportedly been reported engaging in land speculation. Several have purchased farms of land along what they think will be the route of the relocated highway or of the new Canadian National Railways line.

It is claimed by some residents that Ontario Hydro's policy of keeping the compensation-relocation figures under wraps for so long has encouraged speculation. Others, however, say lack of details and Hydro's show of strength in expropriating two farms last week has kept speculation to a minimum.

Most of the land that has changed hands during the last few months will not be directly affected by the flooding.

A NEW ERA OF SERVICE

The St. Lawrence River, a dominant influence in the growth and development of Canada since the first white men began exploring the heart of this country nearly three and one-half centuries ago, officially began a new era of service today at a simple ceremony in Cornwall.

The joint action of provincial government leaders and officials of the Ontario Hydro met with the governor of New York State and state power authorities to turn the first sod for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. Premier Minister Louis St. Laurent and New York's Governor, Thomas E. Dewey, headed the ceremonial parties which broke ground for the giant project in ceremonies at Massena, N.Y., and Cornwall.

The project will open a clear water passage from the ocean to the inland seas of the Great Lakes, has been a dream in the minds of North Americans for more than a century. The project has been studied often and often the subject of political manoeuvring for decades as first Canada and then the United States balked at assuming the necessary commitments. In 1953, 20 years after plans for the seaway and power project were placed before the U.S. Congress, approval was finally won for the power phase of this great scheme. Only this spring did the seaway project, which had been combined with the power phase of St. Lawrence development, receive the approval of the U. S. Congress.

Now the project has begun. In five years it is expected that a nine mile dam stretching from Barnhardt Island to the American shore, two powerhouses from the island to the Canadian shore and two smaller dams upstream will raise the level of the river 80 feet. The $600 million project will provide 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity which will be divided equally between the Ontario Hydro and New York State.

It is expected that the seaway, so long envisaged, will, in its reality, become the less significant feature of the project. The seaway's impact on Great Lakes' ports such as Toronto, Hamilton and Oshawa will be great but as an already busy waterway becomes busier with the commerce of the world and ships carrying iron ore from the newly-opened iron deposits in Labrador.

But it is the power phase of the project that ultimately will mean more to the prosperity of eastern Ontario than the seaway. Industry locates where its basic ingredients can be found in abundance. Cheap power is one of industry's basic requirements. Power developed by the St. Lawrence project, coupled with cheap transportation provided by the seaway, seems assured of attracting the magnet that will attract new industry and its workers to eastern Ontario. The prosperity of Eastern Ontario, intimately associated with the St. Lawrence since the days of the Northwest Company and the fur trade, has become even more dependent on this great and magnificent river. The future of eastern Ontario looks as wondrous and sparkling as the brilliant blue waters of the St. Lawrence, and as full of success, as the ever-new wonder and certainty of the river.

THE "QUINTS"

Everything that ever happened to the Dionne quintuplets became the personal concern of people everywhere, and especially of Canadians. And so it is that the death of few children at short months after her 20th birthday, became a time of personal sorrow for all her fellow Canadians.

The birth of the "Quints" as they were affectionately known, captured the hearts of a generation. The truly miraculous nature of their birth and survival has never ceased to be a source of wonder. Their every moment from infancy to childhood has been recorded in newspaper stories and magazine articles. The people of Ontario, especially, took the Dionnes to their hearts when the province practically adopted them as wards to prevent their exploitation.

The Dionne quintuplets were born on May 28th, 1934, in a world that was questioning the validity of family life. Every physical condition surrounding the place of their birth seemed aligned against their survival. Marie, the smallest, weighed less than two pounds. No specialists hovered around the Dionne household every month from infancy to childhood as has been recorded in newspaper stories and magazine articles. The people of Ontario, especially, took the Dionnes to their hearts when the province practically adopted them as wards to prevent their exploitation.

The Dionnes were poor at a time when men and women in North America were weary of a great depression and reluctant to assume the burdens of a family. But there was always enough food and clothing. Despite the publicity that made commercial exploitation of the Dionne quintuplets remained unspoiled units in an especially close family circle. Mr. and Mrs. Dionne proved to be models of common sense in the raising and educating of their children. Then came the time for the girls to part and go their separate ways in life they did so as individuals assuming their individual responsibility.

The wonder of the Dionne quintuplets was a phenomenon that grew as the years went along. The miracle of birth which their birth brought so vividly to the attention of the world, has now given way, in the death of Emilie, to a reminder of the mystery of death.

The poignancy of grief of the Dionne family and of Emilie's sisters in particular, has touched the hearts of people everywhere.

The secretary's out of town,
Letters I'll write tomorrow, maybe.
A luncheon date, I'll put it down,
Perhaps, or possibly or maybe.
The check book's somewhere put away.
This stack of bills I ought to pay.
I'll get around to them some day.
Tomorrow, next week, next month, maybe.

Typewriter needs a ribbon new.
When I have time I'll get one, maybe.
There's much she did that I should do;
And will when I'm not busy, maybe.
Already wrinkles line my brow,

My fountain pen needs filling now,
But I have never learned just how.
The office boy will fill it, maybe.

I think when rings the telephone,
That call is unimportant, maybe.
It's hard to get along alone.
I told her I could manage, maybe.
I'm getting grouchy, callers say.
Now while the hair that once was gray,
I have a headache every day.
That's due to overworking, maybe.

He Found Key To Happiness

(Hamilton Spectator)

Just the other day in Paris a 67-year-old doctor faced his tenth major operation.

This time they amputated his left hand.

"I willingly give that," he said calmly, "for the lives we saved."

Henri Bourdon meant that. In 1909 as a young laboratory assistant at Paris' Pasteur Institute, he worked with a medical team using one of the first X-ray machines to ease human suffering. Through the First World War he went on exposing himself to the rays, taking pictures of thousands of wounded soldiers. Doctors at one point urged him to wear protective gloves. He tried and discarded them, said no. Hindered his work.

Bourdon has lived to give life to others.

In spite of the amputating and the pain he himself has suffered, he is a happy man.

He is happy because he has never sought happiness; he has served and has asked for nothing but the right to serve.

This is not a pollyanna interpretation of human nature. Not one of those sugary copy book recipes so popular in magazines, Sunday school book and magazine markets. The calm and confidence of the human heart is not produced by the pharmacentic, nor by self-gratification (in any guise), nor through any way-of-life stretch of synthetic theory by possessions.

What Bourdon discovered was no accident and certainly there was no premeditation in it. It is at once the key and sole existence of the human spirit — the central fact of Christianity but not the essential wisdom of centuries of teaching and weighing the true values of life.

It strikes home in more ironically in this era of boredom, when entertainment flourishes as it never did in the days of wine, and when people have more safety and more comforts than could be dreamed of in the wildest fantasies of ago. Yet there is growing restlessness.

Norman Cousins, thoughtful editor of the Saturday Review, put it quite plainly in New York what very few like to say: "We are not going to be able to carry our way out of what is basically a profound spiritual crisis by economic or political means," he warned. "Instead of sitting down and letting our minds become clogged with the fantasies of comedy on TV, we should learn the art of creative thinking. We should stop being terrified by reading. We should remember the old saying that a book is more blessed to give than receive and that it is better to read and think your own ideas rather than merely receiving the wits and wisdoms of others. We should develop an intense awareness of what is going on, and a virginal curiosity that life is worth living."

Never have people had to work less. In the technically advanced countries it is almost an ideal to be paid to loaf rather than to work. New devices, gadgets — they reduce toil and increase leisure. The proliferating media of amusement and crowded stadia are dramatic testimony to the popularity of mass escapism. A torrent of sleeping pills — the "pill" habit depends on relaxation." The ancients understood it better than we do: "It is hard to read, when you have nothing to do."

Song Maker Is Honored

(Christian Science Manitor)

"Give me the making of the songs of a nation, and I care not who makes its laws." So said a wise man 250 years ago.

Perhaps he has written so many songs which helped build morale in times of national testing. Irving Berlin has just received a medallion as a lawmaker would be proud to have earned: a gold medal authorized by Congress and presented to the popular composer by President Eisenhower.

The rollicking star of Irving Berlin rose from the land of opportunity over the international horizon to the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Its light mellowed with the years which brought such other melodies as "Always," "Russian Lullaby," "White Christmas." And his appreciation of America gave his fellow countrymen the almost hymnlike "God Bless America."

For many millions of his compatriots living far from America not only part of war efforts but of the homely things people fight for when, along with ideals, they are threatened—the things of home and schoolime, ice cream parties on the "front piazza," song fests round the campfire, memories of tuneful times when "Ma" and "Pa" were just those high-school graduates of whom the neighbors said, "They make such a nice couple."

If Mr. Berlin's melody glows with more than the usual radiance of gold and if the official reasons for the decoration seem to be only part of the story, a lot of unofficial folk will know why.

New Senate Small Talk

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

A Washington correspondent covering the McCarthy-Stevens hearings wanted to make certain that his publisher would have the facts straight on the radio. Noting that the television cameras were focusing on Senator Mundt, acting chairman of the committee, the newsman moved in and cornered him as he left the room to get into the picture.

"Don't you want to ask me a question?" the senator asked.

"No", the newsman said, "just something so that it will look as though I was asking a question."

Mundt leaned over in confidential pose and said:

"Now let a day go by without writing to your mother."

New Raincoat With Old Flaw

(Detroit Free Press)

A rubber waterproofing for raincoat fabrics that "breathes" has been developed. It permits a passage of air, but not water.

About 90 percent of the body humidity trapped by conventionally treated rain garments will pass through this new coating. It is said that such raincoats soon to be marketed, will offer the same amount of comfort as a cotton shirt.

In one respect, however, such a civil will be no improvement over present types. When it rains at 4 a.m. it will still be hanging in the office, and the days it rains at 5 p.m. it will be in the hall closet at home.

No Luddites Needed Today

(Winnipeg Free Press)

The Luddite doctrine — named after a harmless Yeoman hatchet who about a century ago—regarded modern machinery as dangerously anti-social because it replaced employment, while mobs of workmen destroyed a few machines in the Midlands, instead of men, in the construction of the Cano Causeway and the St. Lawrence Seaway. Dredging machinery, he says, will replace "hundreds of men who need employment." As the Financial Post observes, it would certainly be possible to dispense with most direct labor on these great public works if the use of machinery were unlimited, while Post adds, "give the men spoons to dig with and the job would last much longer."

The purpose of these projects is to provide employment temporarily (at the cost of the taxpayers) but permanently (at the cost of the) increasing the efficiency of the nation's productive machinery so that more labor will be released for other work. Our present standard of living is the gift of the machine and it does not reduce the efficiency of the machine, and of the men who operate it, to say, with Lewis Ludd, if he were alive today, would understand that obvious fact. Even on second thoughts, Mr. Bengough doubtless will understand it also.

What Causes Blushes?

(Unesco)

—Question: What causes blushing?

Answer: The rush of blood to the surface of skin is carried out by a vast network of blood vessels. Very fine nerves, parallel to these vessels, can increase the diameter of the tubes, causing the vessels either to dilate or constrict. Sometimes the nerve centre handle, and centred in a part of the brain called the hypothalamus.

When we are angry or in high emotion — particularly by shock to our modesty, or by shame — the nerve centre communicates an impulse to the vessels in the emotional centre communicates an impulse to the vessels in the face and the superficial blood vessels, causing them to dilate and thus permit a greater flow than usual of blood. This produces a reddening of the skin, particularly on the face.

The phenomenon is not confined to the human race, but affects all races, though pigmentation may make it more or less noticeable.

Contrary to common belief, the fact of blushing is not always caused of a crime or other fault cannot be interpreted as evidence of guilt. Blushing is more than the emotional susceptibility of the individual.

Worse Than War

(Fort Arthur News-Chronicle)

A major war would not contribute local names to a casualty list that is growing more than provided by motor traffic; nor as continuously.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON GETTING A THING DONE

There is a peculiar satisfaction that comes to one in starting out on a job or proposition and finishing it. The multitude of inventions have been conceived and started upon, only to be cancelled for others to seize upon, to improve and complete.

Any kind of work that is worth while takes will, courage and perseverance. It doesn't leave it to finish itself! It is interesting to note that the ordinary person is apt to have the intelligence to carry through his work to finish. It is only a genius does not place his name upon his work until it is finished to his satisfaction. Nor does the poet or writer. An unfinished piece of work is not a work of art. By getting the thing done, you are then free to pass on to something else, or to simply stay a piece or two, and then quit.

A very wise friend of mine once advised me to finish everything I started. I have never forgotten that good advice.

Get the thing done even though it takes you more time than you expected. Get that inward satisfaction that is a man's own being days. Finishing the job you start, getting it done with your approval and the approval of your own home is a shopping center with a space of several vacant lots, but with the foundations all finished, and for years now you pass the vacant spaces and wonder why the building was never finished.

Started. Finish. Don't interrupt, go to a finish with it. Get the thing done. Keep that happy and vital spirit within you ever steadily burning!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE MAD, MAD DOGS OF ALABAMA

I am going to tell mothers something which I hope will save them a lot of needless worry. Though all the dogs and politicians in Alabama go mad.

I quoted here conclusions reached by Drs. Denslow and Dowling of the Jefferson County (Birmingham, Alabama) health department after 17 years experience:

"The persistence with which fatalities continue to be equally distributed among the treated and untreated affords ground for wide speculation." (Persons, bitten by dogs feared to be rabid, that is, given so-called Pasteur treatment.)

"Rabies is primarily a veterinary problem. Regardless of its prevalence among dogs, it will never become a cause sufficient morbidity or mortality among human beings in this region to warrant the rabies capital of North America) allow its classification as a public health problem of importance.

"If rabies were as easily contracted by man as is commonly supposed, it would in Alabama be almost the rule rather than exception of death. Instead, it continues to be a very rare disease."

Now, mothers, don't you see there must be something fishy about the scares that politicians in health departments (in Alabama and everywhere else in the country) periodically whip up, to keep people in general and particularly mothers of small children in dread of "hydrophobia"?

If I or a child dependent on my judgment were bitten by the wildest, maddest, most rabid wolf, dog or other animal, I assure you there would be no Pasteur treatment. The wound would have proper surgical treatment for the prevention of tetanus (lockjaw) and the patient would get tetanus antitoxin or mould and a second dose 5 to 7 days later, and that's all.

It wouldn't give a second thought to whether a laboratory man found "Negri bodies" in the brain tissue of the animal or not. No one has proved scientifically that "Negri bodies," so-called, are the cause or are found only in rabies. Indeed no one has proved scientifically that such a disease as rabies occurs in man.

It is difficult to distinguish tetanus (lockjaw) from rabies (hydrophobia) in authoritative textbook descriptions of the two diseases. But there is no question about the prevention of tetanus or about the cause—the toxin or poison produced by growth of the germ in the wound.

I believe that most of the human fatalities ascribed to "rabies" are actually due to tetanus, and the tragedy is that by their precipitation with the imagined "danger" of rabies so many physicians fail to give the genuine protection against tetanus.

Indeed, the very "first aid" treatment which many politicians serving as health commissioners have given today—cauterization with fuming nitric acid or other destructive agent — favors development of tetanus as any 20th century surgeon knows.

Parenthetically, this is 1954, not 1854. Let the politicians stage mad dog scares without your indispensable cooperation. Don't let them drag your children back into the 19th century.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ULTIMATE

We are all dazzled at times by the repute we get as to the wealth and natural resources of the world. We are told that new oil fields are constantly being opened, new iron and uranium deposits are being discovered. We are told of the astonishment of the total of our national savings. Then when it comes to the amount spent by governments, our heads fairly swim. There are sections in the world which appear to have very little natural resources, and there are people who live in underprivileged life. But in the western hemisphere, we view our present and future as something of those which may be available to our descendants with the realization that we are the present generation.

And yet are these things the things of real value? What is real wealth? What is intellectual character? Life comes down at last to material treasures in the form of minerals, factories, farms, great accumulations of money in the amount of vast physical power—all this is good but it is not the ultimate good. In the end there is no good but goodness. The things of infinite value are the world are the people who inhabit the planet, and the things of the world which make lives is personal moral character.

There is no good but goodness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The human voice has its uses, but singing is not one of them, except in the shower bath or particular circumstances. First: it has to be a pleasing voice, and the world is chock-full of tuneless dread has a voice that is generally pleasing to nearly everybody. Second: the song to be sung must be agreeable to a majority of those listening, or the whole thing ought to be called off. The idea often fred Waring's radio programmes, for instance, and in service clubs and that sort of thing, that everybody can sing. The results are pretty awful. Some religious denominations get around this by employing choirs either to do most of the singing or to drown out the doubtful bawlings of the body of the church. Service clubs, of course, have a full set of synthetic good nature that they forgive anything.

Then there are professional people, singing teachers, and those with well above average ear and such instruments as accompany voices, who zeal in the belief that everybody can sing and that everybody should. The fact remains that mighty few people can sing well enough to be allowed to do so. The proof is to be found in the radio. If that's the best the professionals can do, what more evidence do we need with respect to us amateurs.

Now and again we are offered good reason to believe that the human voice is the musical instrument with the throat can approach lunacy. On the radio I have just heard Fred Waring's choir and orchestra, which we soprano-haters and yodelphobes will admit is a pretty good outfit, doing a recording of the Peer Gynt Suite by Grieg on the side and Rumanian Rhapsody Suite by Tachalkowsky on the other. Somebody with a sardonic sense, to have wrote words to go with these beautiful orchestral compositions, and to hear Waring's choral singing, with human voices, to perform the intricate and delicate sounds which the composers wrote for such subtle instruments as the violin, woodwind and brass was at first an agonizing and presently an excruciating experience. It sounded like the bird house at the zoo at feeding time.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds Fine 'Children's Day' Meeting

RAWDON — On Thursday last approximately 35 members and visitors and 25 children gathered at River Valley school house on the Frankford Road, for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute.

Mrs. Ross Bush presided with Miss Eleanor Bush as pianist. Mrs. J. L. Donohoe reported a bank balance of approximately $60 and read several letters of thanks for fruit boxes received. Some money raising scheme will have to be arranged in the near future to augment the funds. A letter was read from Miss Faye Irvine B.H. Sc., newly appointed home economist re sponsoring a girls' club. The project will be, "What Shall I Wear?" and Mrs. George Rosenow will be club leader if enough girls can be lined up for the project.

All the ladies were invited to attend Achievement Day, September 3rd in Stirling.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Percy Ulman. Topic will be "Community Activities and Public Relations" under the convenership of Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Will Ashby.

PROGRAM

The program was arranged by Misses Eleanor Bush and Adeline Bush with the former presiding. Donnie Carr and Allan Carr each gave a recitation and Donnie Carman sang a selection.

Mrs. Percy Fleisman gave a concise and descriptive picture of her recent bus trip to Guelph. She vividly pictured the countryside, the flower town of Brampton, with its rows of gladioli and Eaton's shopping tour in Guelph, and then the welcome at the agricultural grounds by Mrs. McPhailas president of Ontario Institutes.

The group viewed the many pictures of art in the library and the afternoon program was in the Memorial Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Kidd delighted with music and Mr. Raymond was chairman. Miss Ethel Chapman gave an outstanding message on the theme "Prayer". Several trumpet solos and vocal selections interspersed the program.

SICILIAN PANORAMA

Miss Anna P. Lewis showed interesting pictures of her recent trip to the Island of Sicily. The seaside, native fruits, fern trees (which are now almost extinct), all were of interest. The trip home gave a good view of the Sunken Gardens, the Burlington Skyway and the industrial city of Hamilton.

Recitations were then given by Jean Donohoe and Betty Hanna. Misses Helen and Margaret Morrow contributed a piano duet and Misses Edith De Jong and Louise Zuidena sang with Miss Jean Zuidena as piano accompanist. Miss Nancy Finkle gave a planoforte selection and Miss Betty Hanna read a selection and Miss Marilyn Conley delighted with piano music. Miss Grace Beasman sang unaccompanied, "Summer is the Time for Fun."

Miss Adeline Bush conducted a contest for all the public school children with five groups participating. All received a treat of confectionery.

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE"

Mrs. Chester Sills gave a descriptive account of the recent Shakespearian play "Measure For Measure" at Stratford, which she attended. The theatre is held under canvas and seats 2,000 people each evening and the seats are all reserved weeks ahead. This is the second annual festival and is the dream of Tom Patterson who felt because the town was called Stratford, and its river Avon, that it would be an ideal spot to hold a Shakespearian Festival. The town has a population of over 19,000 and they are considering the idea of a permanent home.

Mrs. Sills described the stage which is built in two tiers like a wedding cake. Film star James Mason, in the main character in the play, and Tyrone Guthrie is a natural director, as is Cecil Clarke. The large audience is kept in rapt attention and with noise at a minimum all the voices (even though they are soft in some parts) can be heard distinctly. Mason came from Hollywood to participate in the Stratford plays. The speaker also spoke of the Canadian actors and their parts in "Measure For Measure."

Group pictures were then taken on the school house lawn after which the refreshment committee served sandwiches, cookies and freshie. Each person at the meeting received two chocolate bars as a souvenir of the meeting.

Mrs. D. Bush voiced a gracious thanks to the two speakers, to the children, to program committee and the lunch committee.

The group spent a social half hour in the school room and the children enjoyed themselves with the swings and slides on the lawn.

Strange Aircraft Sprays Shells On British Town

LONDON (AP) — Air ministry officials sought today to identify the jet aircraft which swooped over Bridlington Monday and fired a burst of cannon shells into the seaside Yorkshire town.

"There were a lot of Royal Air Force planes and some Canadian aircraft in the air there yesterday and it will take some time to sort everything out," a spokesman said.

Two houses were damaged by the shells and a farmer working in a field had a narrow escape. Several witnesses said the aircraft resembled an RAF Meteor jet.

The jet aircraft flew in from the North sea. An air-sea practice range is located in Bridlington bay, six miles from the town of Bridlington.

Wife Preservers

Veal roasts require longer cooking time than beef and are always cooked well-done. As veal usually has little fat, the roast may be rubbed with fat to help keep it juicy and tender. A few slices of bacon laid over the roast also give the meat a nice flavor and prevent it from drying out.

Weddings

ALMEY—BURLEY

At the Pentecostal church, Peterborough, on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. Fred Parlee, pastor, performed the double ring wedding uniting Velma May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Burley, of Peterborough, to Vernon John Almey, son of Sergeant-Major and Mrs. E. Almey, of Trenton.

The church was beautifully decorated with gladioli and the guests' seats were marked with bows of ribbon gladioli. Miss Mae Barbara Johns played the wedding music. Before the service Mr. Roy Howard sang "O Perfect Love" and during the signing of the register sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in ivory satin, the dress having long torso lines and a flowing train and was finished with long sleeves and a neckline inset of net. Her veil was of Chantilly lace and fell in fingertip length from a crown of seeded pearls and rhinestones. Her bouquet was of gladioli cups and red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Vaughn Langen, attending her sister as matron of honor was wearing a waltz-length gown of orchid chiffon with bolero and mittens to match. Bridesmaid Miss Winona Greenwood was wearing lime green net over taffeta, also in waltz length, with matching bolero and mittens. Vonda Langen, niece of the bride, was her junior bridesmaid and her dress was of daffodil yellow taffeta with a net overskirt, bolero and mittens. Each of the attendants carried an old-fashioned Colonial bouquet of Demure Sweetheart roses and Fuji 'mums and wore a crown headdress of the same flowers.

The groom's attendant was his brother, Mr. Clive Almey, of Trenton. Ushers were Keith Gainsforth of Trenton, and Leslie Metcalfe.

At the reception, held in the Kawartha Room at the Empress Hotel, the bride's mother received her guests in a gown of powder blue nylon lace over taffeta and wore a navy picture hat and navy accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. The groom's mother was wearing dark blue floral design crepe with a white hat with flower trim and white accessories and her corsage was of pink roses.

When the bridal couple left immediately after to honeymoon in the Muskoka, the bride was wearing a grey bengaline suit with white accessories and her corsage was red Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Almey will live in Wawa, Northern Ontario, where Mr. Almey is on the primary school teaching staff.

FISHER—SINE

Pink and white gladioli, backgrounded by ferns, adorned Bethesda Hall of Wallbridge United Church, Wallbridge, Ontario, on Saturday, August 7, at 11.30 a.m., for the marriage of Loreta Arbilla Sine, of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine, to Lieutenant Robert Edgar Fisher, of the Royal Canadian Infantry Corps, Camp Borden, Ontario, son of Mrs. Robert Fisher, and the late Mr. Fisher. The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Carman Sine, of Harold Ontario, aunt of the bride, presided at the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Shirley Irvine, Reg'N, of Belleville, rendered "O Perfect Love" and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beautiful gown of fragile Chantilly lace. The bouffant skirt was flounced in the Elizabethan manner and the matching jacket featured an organdie collar and tapering sleeves ending in lily-points at the wrists. Her veil in fingertip length of tulle illusion was held by a matching Chantilly lace headdress studded with pearl sequins, and she carried a hand bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

She was attended by Mrs. Robert Maloney, nee Jane Ketcheson, of St. Thomas, as matron of honor; Miss Margaret Rose Sine, sister of the bride, as brides-maid, and little Miss Barbara Bean, of Belleville, as flower girl. All were gowned of white nylon designed with scattered Sweetheart rosebuds with wide sashes of deep pink taffeta, with matching headdresses of pleated taffeta, matching elbow-length taffeta gloves and carried ballerina hand-bouquets of Pinnochio Sweetheart roses, gladioli petals, and trailing ivy. The matron of honor and the bridesmaid wore ballerina-length gowns, and the little flower girl, a short-length frock.

Mr. Desmond Fisher, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Lorne Sine, brother of the bride, and Mr. Robert Latta, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlors, which were appropriately decorated for the occasion with pink and white gladioli.

The bride's mother, wearing navy blue lace and crepe with white and blue accessories and corsage of deep pink roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in shrimp colored lace and crepe with beige accessories and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

For the wedding trip to Deer Lodge, Haliburton, the bride chose a coatdress of mogashel linen in intermission shade, white accessories and corsage of bronze 'mums. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will reside in Barrie, Ont.

Before leaving, the bride presented her bouquet to her grandmother, Mrs. Murney Sine, who was unable to attend due to illness.

Guests were present from Valcartier, Quebec, Camp Borden, Toronto, St. Thomas, Hipworth, Belleville, Ivanhoe, Springbrook, Trenton, Ottawa, Nova Scotia.

Manufacturers Take Second Look at Ideas

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Brassiere and corset manufacturers are taking a second look today at Parisian dressmakers' new ideas about the female figure.

Some are now saying there can be gold in flattening out those curves.

The exaggerated bosom and the pinched-in waist were a bonanza for the industry. But how many manufacturers in any industry that lean on fashion balk at a change?

If the hour-glass look runs out, as Paris decrees, it might lead women to think they needed a new wardrobe—from the skin out.

Foundation garment makers first feared the flat look would mean a return of the corsetless days of the 1920s. Now most of them say the foundation garment—though somewhat changed—will still be necessary if the new duds catch on.

DEPENDS ON FILMDOM

Some doubt that they will, however. They contend the mass market in the U.S. usually follows the taste, if any, of the reigning Hollywood movie star. Present contenders for that title all tend toward the lush side.

"If the new style catches on, we can profit from it," one foundation garment expert says. "Bosoms will still be there. In the new styles they just aren't top heavy."

One selling point the industry spokesmen see sharpening up is that women's waists will be freer. The new foundation garments will let out some of the pinch in the middle. They will hold the hips more firmly and make them look slimmer, less rounded.

Manufacturers doubt if the new fashion, supposing it catches on, will show up much in the stores before spring. Retail store buyers can bite a few nails in the meantime, pondering that situation.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WEDDING INVITATIONS OUT, SHE FINDS SHE'S NOT IN LOVE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in a desperate situation. The invitations to my wedding are out and now I feel I'm not really in love with the boy I was going to marry. In fact, I don't believe that I ever was in love with him, but just pretended myself that I was because my family liked him so much and he was so ambitious for us to get married. He is 22, a year older than I am.

I have not said anything to anybody about how I feel because I thought I would just go through with it anyhow, but I just don't believe I can. What is the world am I going to do? — Alice R.

Dear Alice:

There is only one wise thing for you to do, and that is to call off the wedding. Naturally, I am not under-rating the distress it would cause you to do so at this point. But it would be far worse for you to go through a wedding ceremony feeling as you do about it. If you're perfectly certain it's really lack of love on your part and not just a case of pre-marriage nerves, all right. The latter is not at all uncommon.

If you are in a state of mind to distinguish between these two, and are confident you don't love this young man enough to marry him, then don't hesitate. Act quickly aside from dooming yourself to unhappiness if you marry a man you don't love, it would be quite unfair to the man himself to carry out a pretense of loving him.

My advice to you is to tell your friends immediately how you feel, and that you think it would be wrong from every angle to go through with the wedding. Then stick to it and don't let either the young man himself, or any parents, or your fear of embarrassment for calling off a wedding at the last moment persuade you to do otherwise. You would not be the first girl who has had the same experience, and, hard as it will be at the moment, it will not blight your life.

YOU'RE MAKING A FRIEND OF THE WRONG KIND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in love with a boy who has had some bad experiences in life and as a result is very bitter about everything. He says he has no use for anybody, or even the opposite sex, and he doesn't believe in anyone. I have not been out on too many dates with him, but I often meet him on the street, and sometimes I can see he has been drinking a little. At times he says will tell me "Neither you nor any other girl is any good." He is 20 years old and I am 22.

I like him so much that I am all mixed-up about whether or not I should go out with him when he asks me. — B.H.

Dear B.H.:

I think it is quite foolish of you to spend so much time and thought on a young man who apparently insults you most of the time. If he has had tragic experiences, as you say, his bitterness may be understandable to some extent, but at the same time, if he were a really worthwhile sort of person, he would be making an effort to adjust himself to the present rather than wallowing in the disillusionments of the past. What you say about his drinking doesn't sound at all good, either. Anyone who tries to escape from himself and the world through liquor, is not a person with whom to become involved.

Frankly, I can't see any reason why you should feel yourself to be "in love" with such a chap, and I advise you to pull gracefully out of any relationship you have with him. You must know other young men who would make far better companions for you.

Busy Week-End At Art School

MADOC—Last week-end the Don Valley Art School was the meeting place of students from all over Ontario. Local people joined in art appreciation with artists from Ottawa, Toronto, Peterborough, St. Thomas, Chatham, Aylmer and Belleville.

Rex Frost of CFRB was guest of the week-end and did a feature broadcast at the public lecture Saturday night. Randy Friesland of Toronto Fantasy Farm is here for an indefinite period of time. Kenneth Chute, husband of the managing director Mildred E. Chute, was a guest during the week-end. Lesly Radcliffe president of the Don Valley Art Club in Toronto was a week-end student along with other members of the club.

Sunday afternoon the students with their instructor, Marg Schleindl and Professor Schleindel, the director, Mr. Cadwell and managing director Mildred E. Chute were in a sketching party on the farm of James Fox of Eldorado. Don Fox and Harvey Delves of Toronto guided the group through the interesting mines and ruins of forgotten gold rush days.

Many were more interested in finding Fox's gold than in painting but managed to get a sketch done before the afternoon was over.

The Don Valley Art School Art attended the Moira centennial celebrations last Monday and had a successful day.

Charles Wakefield, well-known painter of Toronto, will be the instructor this week.

Beauty

FASHION BEGINS WITH FOUNDATIONS

Corsetieres say that women are much too casual about their foundation garments. Sometimes they do not go in for a fitting to come inspection when being fitted and, if told that alterations should be made, are apt to leave in a hurry and will take the garment as is. Often they are content with girdles that do little more than anchor their stockings, select brassieres that "just seem to" smoothing more.

No part of a woman's wardrobe has such an influence on her figure as the foundation. It also contributes to health, posture and comfort. Fitted perfectly, it invites her to carry her body beautifully. It will minimize too rounded curves if they are present and improve proportions with the result that a frock will fit more smoothly.

The woman who first selects a frock or suit, unfamiliar with corsets, later in a new girdle and brassiere, may find her measurements slightly different, the fit over which the dress less smart in appearance. When planning a new wardrobe, begin from the skin out.

While fashions in clothes change from season to season, fashion demands a good figure if they are to be worn with flair and distinction.

When skirts are full, they require a small, trim waist or at least a small-waisted look. A girdle that rises high to nip in the feminine equivalent of a brassiere and girdle combination is a necessity.

When a sheath is worn, attention must be paid to hip and thigh control. To be properly "under-dressed" a woman should have a foundation for daily wear, office, home or street; one for sports and outdoor activities; a third for formal occasions.

The girdle and bra combination is the mainstay of the everyday wardrobe, or an all-in-one garment may be preferred. It is just as essential for the home-body to wear a comfortable, controlling garment as it is for the career girl who must look fashion-right and figure-right at all times.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A NOTE, NOT A "THANK-YOU" CARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is being married in another state, and several of the members of the immediate family are staying overnight with friends of the bride. Is a purchased "Thank-you" card with a short message written thereon sufficient to thank for their hospitality, or must a gift be sent, and if so what would you advise? — E.A.C.

A ready-made "Thank-you" card is printed or engraved or of whatever type. . . should never, under any circumstances, be used to say a thank-you of any kind. For such kind and generous hospitality, the guest should write a note on writing-paper, either letter-paper or note-paper. Worded somewhat like this:

Dear Mrs. Allen,

You and your husband were extremely kind to offer us such charming hospitality at the time of Dorothy's wedding, and we are deeply appreciative. You were so thoughtful in all your friendly plans for our happiness and comfort, and we shall always cherish the memories of our visit with you. Very special thanks to you both.

We do hope that whenever you are to be near hear you will give us the delight of coming to visit us. We shall welcome you a wedding but we can promise you a most hearty welcome!

Our thanks again, and our friendliest greetings. . . Sincerely

A gift isn't necessary, but I think it would be charming for you to send some thoughtful present with your thank-you note: perhaps a box of some special sweets, or a currently-popular book, or a food or other item that is a specialty of your home-town. Such a generous gesture of hospitality as this should, I think, receive a return-gesture of special appreciation.

SHOULD SHE PROVIDE SALAD FORK ALSO?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My dear friend Mrs. A and I often serve a salad (on a separate plate) with the main course, either at luncheon or dinner. She always provides a salad fork as well as the luncheon fork or dinner fork, placing the salad fork to the left of the luncheon or dinner fork. Is this 3-fork service necessary, or it it quite proper to do as I do, serve only the one salad fork and the one fork? — H.C.

The 3-fork service is considered the correct table-setting. . .so many people like to have the salad fork on the table. But there really can be no "serious objection" to placing only one fork.

CONCERNING MARRIED BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear and long-time friend has asked me to be bridesmaid at her October wedding. I accepted, most happily. Now my mother says this is incorrect, as I am married and have two children, a girl of 7 and a boy of 5. I'm so unhappy about what my mother says, for I am very much wanted to be in Anne's bridal party. Please advise me. — Jean B.

Here I come a-hastening, to assure you that of course, of course, it is correct for you to be a bridesmaid in your friend's bridal party. Today no distinction is made between married and unmarried attendants, and quite often there are more married attendants than unmarried attendants, both in the bride's party and among the bridegroom's attendants. (As a matter of fact, very often a little son or daughter of a matron of honor or a bridesmaid serves also in the bridal party, the little boy as page, the little girl as flower girl.)

Did You Know Pickles Are Good For You?

By Mary Moore

In an old Pennsylvania Dutch cookbook I found a story relating the reason why children be fed pickles. They believed that they help children to have a sweet stomach.

And now we read that pickles and vinegar-containing condiments are recommended especially in summertime, because food poisoning bacteria don't like an acid atmosphere (which pickles provide).

Besides which I have letters here on my desk asking for some favorite pickle recipes and I see the cucumbers in the garden beyond our fence are ripening so the time has come.

ICICLE PICKLES

(This is for Mrs. J. S.)

Wash 6 quarts cucumbers that are 3 or 4 inches long. Cut them in halves lengthwise. Make a brine of 2 cups common (non-iodized) salt and 1 gallon boiling water. Pour over prepared cucumbers in crock or preserving kettle. Let stand 24 hours. (This brew ferments as it should so do not be anxious.) On the 5th day drain off brine and cover halved cucumbers with clear boiling water and let stand 24 hours. On 6th day drain. Dissolve 2 tablespoons powdered alum in boiling water—enough to cover, and pour over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours. On the 7th day drain. Make a syrup of 2 1-2 quarts cider vinegar, 2 cups sugar and 2 tablespoons whole mixed pickling spices. Heat to boiling and pour over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours. On the 8th day drain and reserve this pickle liquid. Heat it to boiling add 2 cups sugar and pour over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours. On 9th day repeat what you did on 8th day (that is boil liquid and add 2 cups sugar). On 10th day repeat what you did on the 9th day (that is boil liquid and add another 2 cups sugar). On 11th day drain and reserve liquid. Place cucumbers in hot sterilized jars. Heat the liquid add 2 cups sugar and strain to remove the whole spices. Pour over cucumbers and seal.

NOTE:

If you have a cool cellar and desire to do so, pickles may be kept in crock but must be covered with heavy waxed paper and a plate to weight down pickles and keep them submerged.

NOTE 2:

Sixteen cups of sugar are used in all.

When you serve the above pickles it is a good idea to cut them into crescents and chill in refrigerator before serving.

SWEET MIXED PICKLES

(This is for Lucy W.)

Four medium heads cauliflower, 50 3-inch cucumbers, 1 quart small pickling onions, 1-2 dozen sweet red peppers, 1 bunch celery hearts, 4 cups vinegar, 2 cups water, 4 cups sugar, mixed spices in cotton bag. Cut vegetables into desired shapes, leaving cucumbers and onions whole and washing them all well. Soak overnight in brine of 1-3 cup salt to each quart of water—enough brine to cover. Drain well. Boil vinegar, sugar and water 10 minutes, add vegetables and boil just until cucumbers change color. Pack into jars, add 1 teaspoon mixed whole spices to each quart (if crock is used put all spices in bag and leave in crock), then fill jars to overflowing with the boiling vinegar and seal.

NAB DOPE SMUGGLERS

ROME (AP)—A ring centered at Beirut, Lebanon, is smuggling narcotics to Europe and the Americas on a large scale, Italian customs police said today. They announced that three merchant seamen are under arrest. A police spokesman described the four seamen as "an important link of the organization which has succeeded in smuggling great quantities of drugs into Europe and the America."

Wife Preservers

One way to use leftovers of meat and vegetables is to line a baking dish with cooked potatoes. Fill the center with chopped, cooked meat or stew. Cover with cooked potatoes, and bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) until hot through and brown on top. If you have only a little potato, make only the upper crust of it.

Canadian, U.S. Medical Standards Highest in World

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian and American medical standards are among the highest in the world says Austrian-born Dr. Diana Kindler, who studied in Romania, practised in Italy and emigrated to Canada.

Dr. Kindler, who worked in an office to earn her living after the death of her husband in 1952, is one of six immigrants serving as interns at the Women's College Hospital, Toronto.

They are required by law to spend a year in a recognized Canadian hospital before taking up general practice in this country.

Dr. Brigitte Kalow worked in several Berlin hospitals before coming to Canada. Dr. Elizabeth Stelzer, a widow with three children, graduated in 1934 from the University of Leipzig, and was in general practice for 10 years before leaving her native country for Venezuela. There she taught at the University of Merida for three years before coming to Canada.

Dr. Olma Remz, of Switzerland, is hoping to specialize in children's work. Lithuanian-born Dr. Ruta Stanlyte has been in Canada only seven months, likes it very much and hopes to stay here.

Dr. Joy North of England, senior interne in obstetrics and gynaecology at WCH, is here for a year on a special appointment.

How's the set working?

Are you getting the clear image that you should? Or are your favorite programs jumpy and blurred?

A TV set, as you well know, represents a pretty fair-sized investment — like your refrigerator and your kitchen range. The greatest dividend on that investment is enjoyment.

We're in business to sell TV, to sell you . . . your family . . . your friends on the idea of owning a TV set.

It's in our best interests, as well as yours, that every set in the community performs to perfection. After all, a contented audience is our best form of advertising.

So, if everything's not just right, why not give us a call?

We stand behind our service, just as we stand behind the products we sell. Otherwise, we could not stay in business.

We're a small, progressive company, not so large and preoccupied with the pursuit of wealth that we can't render service.

When you're down our way, drop in to our store . . . and we'll show you our stock. And if you want skilled, speedy action on TV, it's free.

If you're in the market for a new set right now we'd like you to be sure to see the new Zenith Trans-Oceanic which are sold by Gene Hitchon Radio and Television, 4 Bridge St. E. Belleville. Incidentally, they're one of our best buys today for a dozen good reasons from the reflection-free screen to their Delicoat furniture-style cabinets.

Aho-Dori Is Rare Breed Of Albatross

TOKYO (AP) — The aho-dori has come back from extinction! Maybe that doesn't mean anything to you, but it does to naturalists —and all the aho-dori's.

Aho-dori is a rare breed of Albatross. He is so rare that he was found before the war only on Tori Shima, a small island 370 miles south of Tokyo.

Japanese naturalists took good care of aho-dori for years. But then came the Second World War and there was no time to play nursemaid to albatrosses. Beside neglect, there were two volvanic eruptions of great violence on Tori which were supposed to have discouraged the breed further.

NO AHO-DORIS

After the war, when the care and feeding of rare albatrosses was once more a matter to be given attention, the naturalists went back to Tori. Alas, no aho-doris. At least not at first sight. Then they announced that the species was extinct.

But Japanese weather station on Tori never gave up hope. Recently it found the body of a recently defunct albatross and sent it to a science lecturer in Tokyo. Sure enough, it was an aho-dori!

That spurred the hunt of Japan's bird experts. And soon. Once, a member of the society, is happy to report, there are at least two aho-doris albatrossing around on Tori.

And soon, he hopes there will be a lot of little aho-doris.

BREAK GROUND

Ontario's share of the construction cost will be approximately $240,000,000 and New York appears to spend approximately the same amount. But interest and other charges will involve a $315,000,000 bond issue for the New York authority.

The project has been in the works since 1921, when the New York legislature and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt established the power authority as an agency of the state to improve and develop the St. Lawrence.

Plans for the power development and the seaway were before the U.S. Congress from 1933 on, but they failed to make headway until Dewey ordered state officials in 1948 to divorce the hydro-electric and water aspects, so far as New York was concerned.

CHANGED STAND

Washington at first refused to approve the procedure. But in 1953 the federal administration changed its stand and a new agreement was signed with Canada.

A last-ditch battle by several objectors delayed the project another year. The U.S. Supreme Court cleared the final barrier by upholding the power authority's 50-year license last June.

Meanwhile plans for the U.S. to join Canada in building the seaway also cleared Congress during the current session.

A report issued Monday by the New York state power authority detailed plans and potentialities involved in harnessing the St. Lawrence river.

Robert Moses, chairman of the power authority, said in the report that the present schedule calls for "the sale of power in 1958, and completion of the project a year later."

The report's engineering analysis—prepared by the firm of Sanderson and Porter, and Uhl, Hall and Rich—said the development should be supplying power for up to 100 years.

The costs of such power, figuring operating expenses and amortization of investment and carrying charges within only 30 years, was estimated at 6? per cent of the costs of equivalent power produced by steam.

The report said power demands have exceeded supply throughout the northeast U.S., and added:

"By direct transmission to and by interconnections and exchanges with the various public utility companies serving the northeastern states, power generated at the St. Lawrence could be distributed over a large area which is thickly populated and highly industrialized.

"This area might include eastern New York state, New York City and all of New England except Maine. . . . Service to this extensive area would require an elaborate transmission system; therefore, the engineers have based their preliminary studies on a limited section lying almost entirely within New York state. . . .

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding the financial page with a thoughtful expression, and ma said, William, have you ever heard the theory that your best ideas come to you in the middle of the nite when you're asleep and all unconscious, and then of course when you try to remember them in the morning they are gone like the summer snows?

Why yes, I understand that's when the greatest writers have their greatest thoughts, and they punch themselves awake and write them down for posterity and their own curiosity pop said, and ma said, Exactly, William. Now I'm constantly having clever ideas and snatches of thoughts when I'm on the borderline between sleeping and being awake, and last nite I made a little scientific experiment to see if they were worth preserving, she said.

Do you mean you woke yourself up and captured them alive? pop said, and ma said, More than that I sat up 3 separate times and jotted down 3 separate thoughts on my side table. And then they are stil here. Do you want to hear them, William? she said.

I insist, pop said, and ma said, Well, the first one is, Said the little red hen to the big brown cow, bow bow. And the 2nd is, Come to breakfast, for the dinner bell is rusting on the shelf. And the 3rd is, Bas bas black sheep, wolly any have. Now that last one seems like a kind of a joke if you study it carefully, but they really don't prove anything do they, William? she said.

They prove a writer ought to either stay awake and write, or go to sleep and keep quiet, pop said. Being the end of the subject.

Parking Meters Gaining Wide Approval in N.Z.

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z (CP)—Since parking meters were introduced here against the stiff opposition a year ago, they have gained wide approval.

The Auckland city traffic department introduced the meters with some trepidation, since this is one of the few places outside North America where they have been tried.

Motorists were critical, and even resentful, at the innovation. Some opponents said the practice of "charging for the use of the Queen's highway" was un-British. Business men feared they would drive customers elsewhere.

ALL WERE PLEASED

Now all parties are enthusiastic about the system.

F. J. Brown, secretary of the Automobile Association, said the council of the organization considered the meters had improved parking considerably in congested areas. The turnover of space was much greater and vacant spaces in key areas were easier to find.

The secretary of the main business area association said firms had no complaints. The public appeared to appreciate the innovation and the general assurance of parking space now provided had encouraged more people to use their cars.

Insurance companies are pleased too. They say they are getting fewer claims for dented fenders since properly measured parking bays were provided.

Typist Awarded $70 Damages For Testimonial

VEREENIGING, South Africa, (AE)—A 17-year-old girl typist has been awarded $70 damages in magistrate's court because her employer gave her this testimonial:

"To whom it may concern:

"This is to certify that Miss . . . has been in our employ since 1953 to March 31, 1954, to our extreme regret. During her employment with this company she did everything in her power to demoralize our sane way of thinking, at times driving us almost on the verge of insanity.

"Her method of typing and keeping of books was utterly disgraceful. The type of language she used to the public was shocking, resulting in clients taking defamatory action against us with the result that in being sued for damages we have been driven bankrupt, and the reason for her termination of service, as we could, as we were not in a position to support her and her children any longer.

"Please don't feel sorry for us as we won't feel sorry for you if you decide to accept her into employment. We no longer remain, yours faithfully . . ."

The judge commented: "The defendant intended it to be a jest, but he went too far."

MARMORA

Mrs. John Lough Marks 94th Birthday at Daughter's Home

MARMORA — On Sunday, August 8, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Moffatt, North Hastings Ave., Marmora, Mrs. John Lough, attaining to her 94th birthday.

Native-daughter of Marmora township she has the distinction of having resided in the Marmora district for her full lifetime.

She is the daughter of pioneer settlers. Her father, the original James Bailey, came from Belleville to reside near what was formerly called Bailey's Corners.

In 1860, the year of her birth, he was listed in the directory of the County of Hastings as residing on part of Lot 15 of the 7th concession of Marmora township.

Mrs. Lough claims to have been born on the property spoken of as the Cyrus Fralick farm.

Her mother's name was Isabella Crawford. She received her mother's Christian name with the addition of Anne. After her marriage she lived for 56 years with her husband, who died 12 years ago, on the farm, in the near vicinity of her birthplace. Since his death she has resided with various children in turn and for the last five years with her daughter, Mrs. Moffatt.

Upon the farm she lived an industrious life, but always found time to keep up with reading.

She was married to John Lough at her father's residence, about half a mile west of the corners where in later years the Trinity Anglican Church, was erected.

OLDEST RESIDENT MEMBER

The late Canon C. M. Harris, of hallowed memory, was the officiating clergyman. Mrs. Lough attended St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, where she was confirmed, then Holy Trinity, and upon its demolition, returned to St. Paul's to be the oldest resident member of the congregation at this time.

On the whole she enjoys good health for one of her advanced years. She regrets her hearing has become impaired and that her vision is not so good as it was.

She says of her occasional attendance at St. Paul's: "If I cannot hear the message I can hear the music and so follow the hymns."

Her memory is rather good regarding events of her early life. Contrasting conveniences of the past with those of the present she remarked: "There is a wonderful difference in life today with things more handy than in the past."

She has never attended the movies but found the radio a pleasing diversion when on the farm. She has not witnessed television thus far, but seems to think she would like to.

Of eight children born of her marriage there are five living today: Charles, Springbrook; Allen, Malone; Mrs. T. Moffatt (Margaret), Marmora; Thomas, Madoc, and Mrs. Lewis Phillips (Mary), Marmora. There are 19 grandchildren and a number of great grandchildren.

On Sunday morning Mrs. Lough attended morning prayer at St. Paul's and during the day received gifts and cards from relatives and friends to her evident delight.

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. V. McPherson and daughter Grace, of Windsor, with the former's sister, Mrs. T. McMillan, on visit from Glasgow, Scotland, are spending a few days' vacation at Mr. Manley Lavender's cottage, near Glen Allan Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, daughter Phyllis, and son, Gerald, and Mr. and Mrs. Hibert Williams motored to Owen Sound on Sunday to visit relatives there. Mr. Lloyd Williams remained there until Thursday, but the rest of the group returned home on Monday.

Flowers on the altar at St. Paul's on Sunday were in memory of Mrs. Clara Smith and Mrs. George Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. G. McMaster and son Scott, of Port Perry, are holidaying at the cottage of Mrs. McMaster's father, Mr. Manley Lavender.

At St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday flowers in memory of Mrs. Albert Bartlett who died a year ago, graced the communion table.

MARCH WEST

Eighty years ago a detachment of the old North-West Mounted Police, set out across Western Canada, bringing law and order to the Prairies. This photograph shows a painting entitled "Crossing the Dirt Hills—1874." The painting is by Bruce Stapleton, Toronto free-lance artist, who painted a series on the history of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police eight years ago. This painting, now owned by the Calgary Brewing Company, hangs in the dining room of the Cascade Hotel at Banff, Alta. (CP Photo).

North-West Mounted Police Brought Law to the West

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Eighty years ago this month 274 officers and men, with horses, carts and oxen were nearing the toughest stretches of the famed march west of the North-West Mounted Police.

Out of this unveiling 1,000-mile trek came law for all the West between the Red river and the Rockies. It signalled the start of homesteading on the Prairies, which within 50 years were to become one of the world's great grain sources.

It was no column of spit and polish that set forth from Camp Dufferin—now Emerson, Man.—in 1874. By autumn of that year it was a ragged group of hungry, thirsty men.

PICKED UP RECRUITS

The force had started from Toronto on June 6, going by train through the United States to Fargo, N.D. It picked up more recruits along the way, including some in Chicago, and set out from Camp Dufferin on July 8 under command of Commissioner G. A. French.

The column was cut off from civilization for four months until new supplies were obtained at Fort Benton, Mont., after it had reached the Cypress hills.

The force split at La Roche Percee, now Estevan, Sask., and one column under Inspector W.D. Jarvis moved north, finally reaching Edmonton Nov. 1. The remainder, under Commissioner French, headed for what now is southern Alberta.

BATTLE FOR SURVIVAL

By September, it was so cold that each man gave up a blanket to try to protect the ice-bound. They wrote in his diary: "I begin to feel very much alarmed for the safety of the force."

Water was short and there was little feed for the animals because of the foraging buffalo herds. On Sept. 11, this force reached the junction of the Bow and Belly rivers, then moved south to the Sweet Grass hills. The shoes of many of the men had worn out by this time, and old sacks or underwear were wrapped around their feet.

One column under Assistant Commissioner J. F. Macleod kept moving northwest to the junction of the Belly and St. Mary's rivers it found Fort Whoop-up deserted. This "whisky fort" was one of the main bases of operations for the outlaws and desperadoes who exploited the Canadian Indians.

Fort Macleod was built in October after the column was nearly wiped out by a stampeding buffalo herd estimated at between 30,000 and 100,000 animals. But by December, the whisky trade had disappeared in the area.

CONTROLLED FUGITIVES

Fort Walsh was built some 110 miles east of Fort Macleod by another group. It later played an important part in controlling Sitting Bull and his Sioux who fled to Canada after annihilating Maj. Gen. G. A. Custer and his 7th U.S. Cavalry Regiment. The massacre took place in 1876 in the valley of the Little Big Horn river, 300 miles south of the Cypress hills.

French, trekking slowly to the northeast on his return, passed through Fort D'Appelle and Fort Pelly and on Nov. 9 reached Winnipeg and a week later Camp Dufferin.

On July 20, 1876, Macleod succeeded French as commissioner and Fort Macleod became headquarters for the NWMP. In 1904 "Royal" was prefixed to NWMP and it was not until 1920 that the force took on police duties throughout Canada as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Chinese Father Fights to Get Son Admitted

HAMILTON (CP) — Lam Fook Yeuk is fighting to get his son into an immigration department order prohibiting his son from entering Canada.

Yeuz is in Hamilton sanatorium, too ill to go to the Ontario Supreme Court where the immigration order can be reversed.

His lawyer and friend, Chris Kelly, an interpreter, a notary public and a stenographer went to his bedside today while the 45-year-old Chinese whispered the story of the birth of his younger son, Lam Gook Wan.

Seven months from Lam's eldest son, Lam Wai Yen, and Mrs. Wong Ting of Barrie, will also be read in Supreme Court.

"His wife and two daughters are still in Communist China," said Kelly. "But one of his sons escaped to Hong Kong and our immigration department will not let him enter Canada because...they say he is over the age limit, of 25."

Young Lam has no official proof of his age. Immigration officials said x-ray pictures showed he had a bone formation older than 25 years.

"These x-ray tests are hopelessly inaccurate and unfair," said Kelly, "and we hope to prove it with our affidavits."

Hints for Hay Fever Sufferers

TORONTO—To the many thousands of sufferers from ragweed hay fever in Ontario, there are really only two things which can give uniform relief — complete eradication of ragweed, or removal of the sufferers to areas free of ragweed. The first is progressing, but is far from accomplishment. The second presents something impossible to most people who, annually, go through the hay fever season in states ranging from "mildly irritated" to "insufferable living."

In years past, much has been written about hay fever, its causes, its reliefs and its cures. However, no one suggestion seems to fill the bill — that is, apply to all cases equally well. Annual injections have helped many, in varying degrees. Masks and inhalers have helped some but most hay fever sufferers would rather bear the tribulations of their allergy than put up with the discomfort of wearing masks or inhalers.

TEMPORARY RELIEF

Sprays help temporarily in some cases, but often only aggravate others. Drugs have been used successfully in relieving the profound temporary relief, but in most instances the effectiveness of these drugs is greatly lessened as the sufferers' system become accustomed to them.

Diet, exercise and rest all have come into the picture through various advocates of relief or cure for hay fever. High protein diets have helped many, in some cases.

In the selection of homes, hay fever sufferers should try and choose locations distant from weed-infested areas. The pollen of summer hay fever weeds, ordinarily, does not travel very far, and a mile is usually a safe distance. The pollen of the ragweeds and other fall hay fever weeds, however, is very buoyant, and in windy weather may travel three to five miles.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

What can be done about it? Here are a few helpful suggestions by the Departments of Health and Agriculture for Ontario.

1. Go to a safe haven from hay fever. Hay fever sufferers are vacation almost anywhere in Northern Ontario, including most of Haliburton, Muskoka, Parry Sound and north thereof. Complete relief can be obtained by most sufferers in Northern Ontario. To be doubly safe select a place well removed from the main highway or close to extensive farming areas.
2. Pull or destroy all ragweed in the immediate neighborhood. Urge local municipal authorities to spray or cut ragweed. Organize citizens' committees for local ragweed control drives. Report neglected infestations.
3. If business or other obligations will not allow for a vacation in the north then there are one or two self helps which will bring some measure of relief. Any air cooling or ventilating system where the outside air is drawn through a filter or cleaner will reduce the pollen count in the house very materially.
4. Another simple method is to keep one room in the house tightly closed all day. During this time any pollen in the room will settle and the hay fever sufferer can get some measure of relief during the evening and often a comfortable night's sleep.

Hay fever is no respecter of persons although first attacks more frequently occur in persons between 20 and 30 years of age. The average victim suffers from six to eight weeks. Usually the hay fever season is over on the arrival of the first frost. An attack begins like that of a common cold with sneezing, itching, redness and suffiness of the eyelids and watery discharges from the eyes and nose. The irritation interferes with rest. Most so called remedies provide very temporary relief. However, a series of inoculations to be completed before the hay fever season starts affords relief to some people, but this treatment must be repeated from year to year or considerably less frequent intervals throughout the winter.

Owner of Car Will Be Charged Says Department

TORONTO (CP)—W. B. Common, director of public prosecutions, Ontario attorney general's department, said today the owner of a car will in future be charged in traffic violations whether he is at the wheel or not.

The department moved to close a supposed loophole in the law which has permitted drivers to beat speeding charges because they could not be positively identified.

No change in the Ontario Highways Act will be necessary to put the new ruling into effect, it was reported. Charges will be laid under Section 48 which states that the owner of a car is responsible.

Police said radar traps in operation on Highway 400 and the Queen Elizabeth way this week-end slowed traffic as motorists sighted warning signs.

Checking on the standings, we learned that the Bataa are actually two percentage points behind the Hoskings with 15-13 for .536. Hoskings have a 14-12 mark for .538 with four games to play. The Oakville Oaks have 12-17 for .414, with but one game to play while the Peter stand a good chance of ousting the Oaks for their record is 11-16 for .407 with three games left. The Toronto Caterers trail with 9-18 for a .333 mark with three games left. Oshawa Transports are out in front with 21-6 for .808 and three games left.

Efforts are being made to have the Hoskings play their game here Thursday night, but thus far, Manager Carson says, there has been no headway.

WRESTLING

The Mighty Ursus from Mexico, the 300-pound giant, has joined forces again with his pal George Bollas, alias the Zebra, and the pair will match their villainous strides with Paul Baillargeon and dynamic Ray Villmer at Friday's fiesta of fireworks and fury at Memorial Arena.

Villmer and Baillargeon showed their power against Hugo Togo and Lee "The Lord" Henning last week while Ursy and Bolly were planning new attacks. Vern Taft meets Tucker Lindsay, a colored sensation in the semi-final, while Tiger Tasker and Bob Jackson clash in the opener.

HOCKEY!

The Senior "B" hockey moguls of teams representing the district got their heads together in Peterborough over the week-end and the gist of the meeting was a lot of breeze-shooting with very little done regarding operations for the 1954-55 season.

Three teams, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough, signified their intention of entry, while Orillia, who has been dangling for a berth in the Toronto Metropolitan League, was uncertain. Harris representative never here and mentioned something about an entry, but it is doubtful if it is accepted. It appears Orillia draws not a few of its players from that district.

Oshawa Truckers, it is reported, stated they will play sixteen games in the Whitby Arena. There was much discussion, plenty of verbal smoke and little fire over the Motor City crew. But, we are informed, it is quite likely they will enter with the fiery Wren Blair waving the banners.

The five teams which played last season will play an all-star pre-season game with outstanding players from Belleville, Peterborough, Orillia and Kingston lining up against the 1954 Senior "B" champions from Oshawa. The proceeds of the game, which will be played in Kingston Community Centre, will go to minor hockey development of all teams concerned.

Another meeting has been called for September 12 in Peterborough at which time it is expected all teams will be entered. Each club must post a $500 bond as a guarantee of faith they will complete the schedule.

Further to the above, we learn that Stouffville is a possible entry and all teams concerned attended the glad hand. Lorne Cooke, Kingston, and Frank Buckland, Peterborough, OHA executive members convened the get-together. Alderman Bruce Smith of the Belleville Arena Commission, represented this city.

WINGDING IN DESERONTO!

It looked like old times down Deseronto way last night when the Sonny Green-coached squad of the town to the east played Bryson Reid's Regents in a scheduled Belleville District Baseball League game. The game ended 9-8 according to the official scorer but he could be wrong. Deseronto claimed the scuffle ended in a 9-all tie. In any event they argued long and loud with fans clamoring on the diamond for some time after Umpire Timmy Williams called the game on account of darkness.

This department saw one umpire, at least, who figures discretion is the better part of valor. He was picked from the crowd, and incidentally is connected with the Deseronto team. He called the last player to bat "safe" at first when he was at least two feet off he bag, then wisely dashed for the crowd and disappeared. He hasn't been seen since. He will probably be found in a hideaway, looking up baseball rules, that is, if he can see well enough to read.

In any event there could be some fireworks at the Exhibition Grounds tonight when the teams clash again starting at 8.30. Sonny's boys will be vengeance-bound and tonight's tussle could have all the earmarks of a grudge game.

Sensational Aussie Denies He Stepped on Flash Bulb, But Doctors Confirm Story

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bashful John Landy just isn't talking about his injured right foot.

Although two physicians reported Monday that the sensational Australian runner had competed in the British Empire Game's Mile of the Century here Saturday with four stitches in his right foot, Landy steadfastly maintained it wasn't so.

Dr. Ken Young, director of the University of British Columbia health services, said Monday that Landy was treated for a cut on his right foot two days before he ran the mile in 3:59.6. He finished about five strides behind the only other miler to have broken the so-called four-minute barrier, Dr. Roger Bannister of England.

JOHN LANDY

DOCTOR SAYS CUT STITCHED

And the attending doctor, who declined use of his name, told The Canadian Press that the black-haired miler had four stitches on his right foot "just in front of the heel."

The injury was first reported by Andy O'Brien, Montreal Star sport writer, in a copyrighted dateline story.

Landy, interviewed in his room at Empire Village here following the report, said "It is . . . silly to think that I ran the mile with four stitches in the foot."

At a press party for the Doctor Young had confirmed O'Brien's story, but still emphatically maintained that "there was definitely nothing to it."

Apparently Landy kept news of his injury hidden from Australian team officials.

CONTRADICTIONS

Jim Eve, manager of the Australian team, and assistant general manager Bill Kenny, termed first reports that Landy had stepped on a flashbulb while leaving the showers' last Thursday "pure bunk."

But both Bannister, who ran a 3:58.8 mile to beat Landy, and Rich Ferguson of Toronto, who finished third and Landy had told them well in advance of the race that he had cut his foot.

Bannister told The Canadian Press that Landy had mentioned his him a week before the race that he had stepped on a flash bulb.

"But he kept right on training, so it couldn't have been very serious."

Bannister also said "it was quite possible" for a man to run with four stitches on his foot.

The doctor who attended Landy said he examined the ace miler again Sunday and "some of the stitches had not broken." He added that the runner "suffered no pain during the race."

Landy showed no sign of a limp Monday and appeared in good spirits. He leaves here for London May. 13 and will compete in the Highland Games at Edinburgh, Scotland, Aug. 21.

Canadian Wins Connaught Match At Prize Shoot

By Cecil Smith
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—A Canadian Monday outscored a British marksman to win the shoot-off in the Connaught match at the annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize shoot.

CQMS. John Draper, 25, of South Porcupine, Ont., sent 19 consecutive bulls-eyes flying to the target before edging out A. J. Tetlow, 25, a member of the British rifle team, as dusk started to fall across the Connaught rifle ranges near Ottawa.

CQMS. Draper and Tetlow tied with WO 1. George Worstick of Camp Borden, Ont., in the match proper earlier in the day, scoring possible 300s firing 100 rounds from each of the 300 and 500-yard ranges.

SHOOT-OFF

In the shoot-off, WO 1. Worwick was eliminated in the regulation five shots after he dropped to an ilner on his fourth shot.

A silent crowd watched the two remaining riflemen go into a shoot-shoot competition. It appeared the contest might go on indefinitely but then Tetlow dropped to an inner four on his 20th.

Then CQMS. Draper steadied his rifle and fired. A cheer went up from the crowd as the marker scored it a bulls-eye.

Maj. F. R. Vine of Camp Borden, Ont., fired eight extra bulls-eyes before he emerged the winner in the tyro match open to marksmen who have no ranged in the first 150 in the grand aggregate in the last 10 DCRA meets.

Maj. Vine tied with seven other marksmen in the match proper with possible 50s from 200 yards.

SHOOT-FOR-SHOOT

Officer Cadet W. H. Waring of Sackville, N.B., forced Maj. Vine into the shoot-for-shot competition, but dropped to an inner og his third shot to finish one behind Maj. Vine with 39.

In the other shoot-off, Lt.-Cmdr. R. Ryan of Kingston, Ont., edged out three other competitors to win the Bronze match. He carded a score of 45 of a possible 50 from 500 yards to retire Lieut. G. S. Boa, Dominion Rifle Team Captain, Vancouver, and Capt. H. McBratney of Brockville, Ont., both finished with 42, eight off the possible.

Earlier, the four tied with 47s out of a possible 50.

ONLY POSSIBLE

F. H.Schrader of Buffalo, N.Y. posted the only possible to win the Sherwood match, scoring seven consecutive bulls-eyes. He emerged with a possible score of 35 from 200 yards.

Lord Alexander, Britain's defence chief and formerly Canada's governor-general, visited the camp and spent some time along the half-mile firing range talking to competitors. He also chatted with members of Britain's 15-member team.

In Ottawa as the guest of Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, adviser on militia matters and president of the DCRA, Lord Alexander was accompanied by Gen. Letson and Brooke Claxton, Canada's former defence minister.

Leafs Lead Red Wings By Three Games

(By The Associated Press)

Havana Sugar Kings are going to have to hustle to clinch a play-off berth in their first season in the International League. Their lead over fifth place Syracuse is dwindling steadily.

The Sugar Kings lost another half-game Monday night by bowing to Toronto 11-5 and now lead the Chiefs by only half a game. Syracuse wasn't scheduled Monday.

What makes matters worse for Havana is that the Sugar Kings have played five more games than Syracuse and have lost two more. Syracuse has played 113 games. All of the first division clubs have played more. The International League, like the majors plays a 154, game schedule.

Toronto stretched its lead over idle Rochester to three games with the victory over Havana. Third-place Montreal lost to Ottawa 7-4 in the only other action.

Third baseman Hec Lopez led Ottawa with three hits including a bases-empty homer. Hal Bevan drove in three runs.

Belligerent Braves May Hurdle Brooks And Threaten Giants For Lead

Trail 'Bums' by Four Games And Line Sights on Leaders; Tribe May Need 4-Game Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York made its move early. Milwaukee went into high gear late last month. The question now is: Are the Dodgers ever going to start clicking?

Brooklyn is back with virtually the same team that pulled away from the pack last August and finished 13 games in front. But only rarely this season has it looked anything like the 1953 aggregation.

The door to the top has been left wide open in recent weeks by the first place Giants. After their June surge the New Yorkers have rocked along at a 19-16 clip since the traditional July 4 turning point.

But the Dodgers, who trailed by 3½ on Independence Day, still are three full games behind. They've won 20 and lost 16 while the Braves have come with a rush, winning 24 and losing 10, to pull within 4½ games of Brooklyn and 7½ of the Giants.

Dodger supporters are quick to point out the bad year Roy Campanella is having. The big catcher, troubled by an injured hand, is 15½ behind his 1953 total in runs batted in and more than 100 points below his batting average of last year.

But Campy mainly was just another gun in what already was the most powerful attack in baseball and his cohorts—Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges—still are doing all right by last year's standards.

The Dodgers would appear to have a slight break over the Braves and Giants on the remaining schedule. They have 21 games with first division clubs, but 12 of them are in Ebbets Field and they have 19 games left with their most favorite foe, the Pittsburgh Pirates. Last year Brooklyn beat Pittsburgh 20 times. This year the Dodgers stand 10-2 with the last place club.

Milwaukee has the most games left, 47, and the most home games 25. The Braves also have the toughest against first division clubs, 17. But they have to play 12 more with St. Louis and the Cardinals always have been tough for Milwaukee.

Nine games remain between the Giants and Dodgers, six of them in Brooklyn. The Giants also have 12 left with fourth place Philadelphia and five with Milwaukee. The Giants stop off for a single game in Pittsburgh tonight and the Braves open a three-game set in St. Louis.

In the American League the New York Yankees, now four games back of Cleveland, start a string of 15 games against second division foes by entertaining the Philadelphia Athletics. Cleveland goes to Detroit.

A LESSON FROM THE BOSS

Larry Doby Is Prime Candidate For MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Larry Doby, Cleveland's soft-spoken outfielder, is making a habit of saving his big bat as the Indians threaten New York Yankees' five-year supremacy in the American League.

Doby, one of the prime candidates for his circuit's most valuable player award, produced several vital blows last week while Cleveland built its pace-setting margin to four games over the Yankees and seven over the third-place Chicago White Sox.

Four of Larry's hits were home runs, giving the 29-year-old lefty batter from Patterson, N.J., the league lead with 26. He also drove in 11 runs to take over the top spot in that department with 82.

Doby, who has played in every one of Cleveland's 110 games, also has starred afield, making only two errors in 215 chances.

CHANCE'S REMOTE

Showing a .283 batting average with 119 safeties in 420 trips, Larry's chances of winning the triple crown appear remote, however.

Ivy Noren, the Yankees' versatile outfielder, continues as the leading batter with a .339 mark although he slumped 11 points last week with only five hits in 54 at bats.

Minnie Minoso of the White Sox moved to within 12 points of Noren at .327, despite a three-point loss on 5-for-19.

In the National League, Duke Snider of Brooklyn, Dodgers maintained a comfortable lead, collecting eight hits in 26 trips which left him with a .354 average.

Stan Musial, in a good position to challenge for his seventh batting title, is second with .330.

Win or No Win, Flo Chadwick Gets $10,000

VICTORIA (CP)—Florence Chadwick's courage has earned her a bonus of $2,500.

The former San Diego steno reporter who failed in her attempt to swim the strait from Victoria to Port Angeles, Wash., Monday will receive $10,000 instead of $7,500.

Carl Pendray, president of the British America Paint Co., sponsor of the swim with the Victoria Times, made the announcement after the attempt failed.

Originally she was to receive $7,500 for attempting the swim plus another $2,500 if she made it.

Mr. Pendray said payment of the full $10,000 was made for "the wonderful service she has given Victoria."

Edmonton Eskys Again Tabbed Contenders for Western Title

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, who finished as eased-up first in the Western football conference last season, are tabbed as contenders for leadership again in 1954.

Despite the loss of coach Darrell K. Royal and halfback Billy Vessels, both Western Interprovincial Union all-star selections last fall, the split-T Eaks are expected to field another top team.

The new coach of the community-owned Eska is Frank (Pop) Ivy, like Royal a split-T graduate from Oklahoma. The 1953 regular season champions have two outstanding halfbacks from top United States split-T clubs—Bernie Faloney from Maryland and Frankie Parker from Mississippi.

LOST TO WINNIPEG

The lanky 28-year-old Ivy replaces 29-year-old Royal, who resigned to take over as head coach at Mississippi U.

Eaks, who lost to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the 1953 playoff finals, have replaced Vessels, a U. S. Army inductee, with Faloney and Parker, chosen on many all-American teams last season.

The Canadian newcomer with the most expected potential is halfback Dave West, picked up on waivers from Winnipeg after a controversial 1953 season that he started with Calgary Stampeders.

Eaks, if they win the WIFU and advance to the Dominion semi-final and the Grey Cup game, will take part in 26 contests this season. They play exhibition games Aug. 13 at Toronto against Argonauts, Aug. 16 at Ottawa against Rough Riders and Aug. 18 at Kitchener against the ORFU Dutchmen with whom the Edmonton club has a working agreement. They open their 16-game regular schedule in Regina Aug. 30 against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

BIG HOLE

Edmonton, winner of 12 of 16 games last season, has a big hole to fill as a result of the loss of tackle Wilbur (Big Daddy) Jones who has forsaken football for a wrestling career started in his native California. Snyder set a WIFU record last season by booting 21-for-31 for a 67-per-cent conversion record in the point-after-touchdown department.

Eaks sold halfback Jimbo Chambers, a long-legged Negro from Montreal, to British Columbia Lions. Chambers, after a sensational 1953 season in which he scored 11 touchdowns, made only brief appearances on the field last season because of leg trouble.

In the uniform of B.C. Lions, making their WIFU debut this season, Chambers will again be playing for coach Annis Stukus who brought him to Edmonton.

Lions, joining Edmonton, Winnipeg, Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary, boost the WIFU into a five-team circuit.

STILL HAVE MILLER

Eaks still have halfback Rollie Miles, the nimble-footed dasher from Washington, D.C., who was picked off a touring baseball team and who many Edmonton fans believe is just as good or better than Vessels, 1953 Schenley Award winner.

Miles, another Negro, joins five former Eska shoes for the 1953 WIFU all-star teams in seeking places on this year's edition.

Top newcomers include tackles Bob Dean from Washington Redskins and Roger Nelson and Jim Weatherall from Oklahoma, halfbacks Ralph Hunter from Biola College in Idaho and Edward (Glenn) Lippman from Texas A. and M.

Leon (Willie) Manley, an all-star tackle last season, is being converted into an end where Eaks also have Rollin Prather, an "export" from Kansas. Frank Anderson from Oklahoma and Gilmer Spring from Texas.

COMMUNITY PROJECT

The green-and-gold uniformed Edmonton team is a community project. Directors serve without pay. Profits are ploughed back into the club and Eaks have reported surpluses the last three seasons.

Early this summer the club already had sold more than 31,000 season tickets for 19,587-seat municipally-owned Clarke Stadium. New bleachers boosted seating capacity to 24,000 for last season. Eaks always play at home before standing-in-the-aisles crowds.

Prices for seats ranging from $1.65 to $3.75, the club in the past has had no trouble meeting expenditures which run about $350,000 a season.

Club president Ken Montgomery, commenting on 1954, said: "We hope to have a good season with the split-T. All other clubs have strengthened since the 1953 season but we hope to hold our own in 1954."

Coach Ivy said:

"Barring injuries to key personnel, we think Edmonton has a good chance to finish in one of the three playoff spots."

Takes Lead In Tourney

HAMILTON (CP)—Pete Hildrop, 20-year-old assistant pro at Hamilton Chedoke Golf Club, Monday fired a 70-73—143 over his home course to move into the lead in opening rounds of the annual Ontario assistant pro tournament.

Chedoke pro Bob Cooper of Ancaster with 147 and third Bert Stone of Lambton with 148.

Final round of the 72-hole tournament will be played in early September, probably at Thornhill Golf Club near Toronto. Winner of the Canadian final in Winnipeg.

The tournaments are sponsored by the Canadian professional golfers' Association.

FOUR IN A ROW FOR MARLENE

First woman to cop the Canadian ladies' close golf title, petite Marlene Stewart, 20, is congratulated by Noreen Laing, left, of Toronto, who came in fourth in the tournament at Dartmouth, N.S. Mlss Stewart, from Fonthill, Ont., captured the title with a 223 total for 54 holes, nine strokes better than runner-up Dorothy Herbertson of Victoria, B.C. (Central Press Canadian).

Celeri Stalks Panthers For Dutchies Win

HAMILTON (CP) — Bob Celeri, the quarterback who didn't quite make Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four last year, led Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to a 24-16 victory over Hamilton Panthers Monday night, in an exhibition football game.

Celeri bootlegged the ball to perfection and his passing was good. His punting gave the Dutchmen the opening point, when he booted the ball 53 yards for a rouge.

Bill Graham, on loan to the Panthers from the 7T-Cats, skirted around end for 32 yards and a touchdown in the first quarter. He also kicked the convert. His running play was set up by Bob Dawson, another T1-Cat player, who quarterbacked the Panthers. Dawson threw a 15-yard pass to Graham who got to the 2 before being pulled down.

Another ex-Hamilton player, Blake Taylor, scored for the Dutchmen as the first half ended. Jim Crossan's convert was wide.

DAWSON REPLACED

Bob Dawson was injured shortly after the half started, but Bill Rogers proved himself an adequate replacement. Rogers threw to Bob Dodds that brought the Panthers in the Dutchmen's 10. Celeri went around end for five and Rogers looped a pass to Ken Stanley in the end zone for the touchdown. Graham missed the convert.

Bill Crossan made a long running well for the Dutchmen, scampered around end for six yards and five yards. Crossan's run was good and the score was even, 12-12.

Fumbles dominated the night. On the first play, he heaved the ball to Celeri who fumbled but who sprinted the remaining 20 for the touchdown.

The 16-12 lead for Hamilton was its last of the evening. Kitchener added to its lead midway through the third quarter on a touchdown pass by Celeri to Bob Kuntz bulling his way through the centre for the other. Graham added the convert to give the Dutchmen a 24-16 victory over the Panthers.

Nine Named To Baseball Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Baseball's Hall of Fame "got" Bill Dickey and eight other baseball immortals in the past, and the man who used to feed with the writers waited brok-en-hearted for the addition of plaques to the nine new members.

Before Terry, visibly affected, left Bill Dickey had told the crowd, "This was the nicest thing that ever happened to me." The Commerce, Texas, native of Main street, listened attentively while baseball's Veterans' Field called the roll of the men to be honored.

Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, who died in January, 1954, Dickey and Dickey had been elected by per cent of the veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association, was represented by his widow.

None of the six new members of the Baseball Veterans Committee was present. Chief Bender, the old Chippewa Indian pitcher who the Baltimore Athletics; Ed Barrow, builder of the Yankee empire and discoverer of Honus Wagner; Bill Klem "The Old Arbitrator" who was "Mr. Umpire," for years, and Harry Wright, manager of the old Cincinnati Red Stockings and Boston Braves, all are dead.

Tommy Connolly, recently - retired umpire-in-chief of the American League, and Bobby Wallace, Hall of Fame infielder, pitcher and manager, were too ill to attend.

Marlene Stewart Faces Tough Battle In Quest for Canadian Open Crown

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRIGHTWOOD, N.S. (CP)—Marlene Stewart faced one of the toughest battles of her career today with opposition stiffening toward her bid for the Canadian open golf championship and a sweep of the 1954 double crown.

Marlene, the 20-year-old Fonthill, Ont., golfer who won her fourth straight Canadian Close title Saturday, finished Monday's qualifying round for the Open title in a dead heat with Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont.

Each carded a five-over-par 78. Marlene did it with a pair of 39s and Miss Gay with 41-37.

Right behind was hard-driving Miss Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md. She fumbled once during the first nine to finish with a 41 but settled down to card a 37 coming on a series of slick iron shots and putts which, except for a bull that refused to fall into the cup on the 18th hole, would have made it a three-under 35.

Ninety-one golfers teed off Monday in brilliant sunshine and temperatures in the mid-70s. Thirty-two with 89 or less qualified for the championship division and a crack at the title that Marlene captured in 1951 at the age of 17.

The 32 include 25 Canadians and seven Americans, five of whom are among the top half.

Only three strokes off the pace set by Marlene and Miss Gay were Barbara Brunning of Arkmonk, N.Y., and Noreen Laing of Port Credit, Ont., both with 81s. Miss Laing's second-nine score of 36 was the lowest of the day.

Also crowding the leaders were five players—four Canadians and an American—all with 82.

Today marks the start of match play with scores based on the numbers of holes won and the field divided into groups of two players. The qualifying round was based on medal play in which the strokes are used as the basis.

Amateur Status Canadian Star Still Unresolved

VANCOUVER (CP)—The amateur status of Jackie MacDonald was still unresolved today after a closed session here Monday night of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada registration committee.

The 21-year-old Toronto school teacher is entered in the British Empire discus event in the British Empire Games Saturday shortly before she is due to leave for Montreal.

The action was taken by the manager of the Canadian team after her picture appeared in a soft drink advertisement in a Vancouver paper.

A final statement is expected from the committee today.

Morris M. Bruker of Montreal, AAU president, said: "We are not most arrived at a solution. Once we get written information that substantiates Miss MacDonald's statements, we will make a final decision and after the cloud lifts seems to have settled around her."

ACTION "PROPER"

He said the committee "recognizes that the action taken on Miss MacDonald was proper to protect the athletes and other nations in the Games and to position be clarified."

"She was withdrawn from the Games," he said. "She was not suspended."

Fred Foote, president of the AAU's central Ontario branch, appeared on behalf of Miss MacDonald. She was not invited to attend the session personally but waited outside the meeting room almost all day for her case to be considered.

TEAM WON'T GO

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia's eight-man rowing team, surprise winners over England in the British Empire Games last week, will not be sent to the European championships in Amsterdam, Aug. 28 to 29. Coach Frank Read said Monday plans for the trip have been cancelled because the financial problem is too great.

Pt. Anne Edges Northern Electric 5-4 In First Game O.A.S.A. Playoffs

(BY GARRY ALEXANDER)

A pair of timely hits by Nick Sero and Stan Strahan gave the Point Anne Cementmen a 5-4 verdict over Northern Electric in the first game of the best-of-3 series to decide which team will go Senior "B" and Intermediate "A" in the O.A.S.A. playdowns. A second-game win of five series will be played at a later date for the City "A" championship and Bill Ott trophy.

The Cementmen blew an early 3-0 lead and were all tied up at 4-4 going into the eighth inning. With two down, Nick Sero drove one into Curren's slanting deep to centre field, bouncing it off the fence. Stan Strahan and Doug Soules' glove for a stand-up double. Bob Strahan stepped in and popped out to the single in left-centre that scored Sero with the decisive marking and evening up the series.

Far from beaten at this point, the Northerners rallied in the ninth as Earle Goyer stretched a one-out triple and brought Carson to the plate. He hit a hard bouncer back at Bob Hunter who threw the runner out at first and Strahan tied it up by coming to the plate for a game-ending double play.

Bobby Hunter went the route against the visitors, allowing them seven hits and was credited with the win. He whiffed three while walking the same number and hitting once and issuing five passes to three. He settled down after a shaky first two innings and with a little more batting support might well have been on the other end of the decision.

Infield singles by Wardhaugh and Hull put Northern runners on second and third with only one out to open the game and Big John Green came through with a sharp single to left-centre, scoring both runs and a lead for a river of the Ox-pointers.

Northern's only error of the game, Stanley Carr on a ground ball, paved the way to the winner's circle. Wardhaugh singled him home. Two walks filled the sacks but a play at third made the final out.

Cousins started Northern on the comeback trail in the fifth with a single and Carson's bunt single plus Hunter's throwing error placed one run. Soules base hit cut the margin to 3-2 but Nick Sero got one back in the sixth with a triple and infield out.

A walk, sacrifice, Carson's single plus throwing errors to Bob Strahan and John Green permitted the tying runs to cross home plate in the seventh and set the stage for the Pointer's clutch hit.

Nick Sero had a good night with the wood, hitting a triple and double as well as scoring the tying and winning runs. Jack Wardhaugh had two singles while one each went to Hull, Goyer, Green, Wade and Bob Strahan.

Earle Cousins with a triple and single shared batting honors with Lum Carson who had a brace of singles in a losing cause. Locke, Young and Soules also had safeties.

Line ups:

Northern—Soules, Carr, Young, Batchelor, Locke, DeRuhile, Whiting, Cousins, Carson.

Point Anne—Bob Strahan, Hunter, Stan Strahan, Wade, Hull, Sero, Green, Goyer.

Movie Column

By JOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The man in the faded sport shirt and blue jeans was not a janitor or a prop man. He was the most sought after creator in show business.

The new look in film directors is Elia Kazan, a man who at 44 has brought more magic to the stage and screen than most others accomplish in a lifetime. He defies the tradition of Cecil B. DeMille, who works in putters and is followed by a platoon of flunkies.

I found Kazan in sloppy attire, chatting aimlessly with a passerby in a studio street. He was finishing up "East of Eden," and he looked tired.

"I'm worn out," he said. "I started 'Tea And Sympathy' last July, and I've been working ever since. I went right from there into 'On The Waterfront' and then to this picture."

WILL QUIT

So what is he going to do next?

"Quit."

"Quit?"

"Yes, quit. I'm going back to my farm in Connecticut. I've got four children and I miss them. I'd much rather talk to them than anyone else around here. I don't think I'll do a thing for six months. I'm tired."

EXPENSIVE VACATION

This will be an expensive vacation, Kazan could name his price with any movie or play producer in the business. But he prefers to pick and choose. And he won't work unless he is his own boss, in pictures at least.

"Nearly all of the pictures I've done in the past few years have been produced by me," he said. "Darryl Zanuck backs me and takes the producer's credit, but he lets most of the work up to me."

"On The Waterfront" is being hailed as the best picture of the year, and I remarked that it seemed to me the first time that Kazan has mastered the movie medium. His previous films showed effects of his stage training.

"A lot of people have told me that," he replied. "I think it is only party true. I used some of the things in 'Panic In the Streets,' and I thought I got some good effects in 'Zapata.'"

A FORMER ACTOR

He said that he spent 10 weeks on "Waterfront," a hugely successful film in these times. But by shooting in the actual locales he still managed to bring the film in under $900,000. It will make a mint.

AT THE CAPITOL — Buzzing. Lucille Ball is skeptical of Vivian McCarthy's attentions in "Look Who's Laughing," RKO feature comedy with Fibber McGee and Molly, and Edgar Bergen, as their co-star. High jinks attend their foiling a plot by one Gildersleeve. On the same program in Technicolor "The Silver Lode" starring John Payne, Lizabeth Scott and Dan Duryea. The smash double bill opens Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

Kazan (he pronounced his first name Ellie-a) was born in Constantinople. His father was a Greek rug importer who settled in New York in 1913. Elia went to Williams college and Yale drama school. He first found fame as an actor, starring with Ingrid Bergman in "Lilliom" among other things. I asked if he would ever act again.

"No," he replied. "I'd be embarrassed."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 11, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Hold a tight rein on your emotions today and you'll find home affairs, business, your work running smoothly, if not gainfully, all the way. Day favors sound matters, artistic professions.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Venus and Saturn favorably aspected, augur for personal achievement and pleasant relations with family, friends and business associates—If you do your share to attain these.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Restrictions abroad now, so you may feel stymied in some ways but, if wise, you'll use your innate commonsense and not be too demanding nor overreach in any direction. Moderation!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Refuse to be downcast or diverted from doing what you know to be your duty and what is immediately urgent. Some friendly rays for intelligent, unselfish actions, clever management.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Neither a too promising nor a too discouraging day. You'll know to be up to par where you want real returns but this does not mean rushing around or jeopardizing your health. Your best is good enough.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Do not overdo on this somewhat mixed day. You will probably gain more by quiet, serene planning and action than if you push too hard.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Similar influences to Taurus. Things can move smoothly if you use your finer qualities and don't make sudden drastic changes in plans or schedule. Keep cheerful, get rest.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Jupiter's configuration stresses care in money matters, investments. Avoid extremes all through the day and promote harmonious understanding with others. Much can be achieved.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Head advice to Scorpio. Know that artistry and finesse in undertakings will yield solid rewards. You are skilled in what you do; show it. Fine day for recreation, rest.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn in benefic position. Personal interests are favored, also matters connected with industry, the professions and mechanical trades. Mining, handling lumber, tools favored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your Uranus' aspect now urges calmness, control of restlessness, self-restraint generally. It should be a responsive period for your talents and your innate patience with routine tasks.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Don't let your sympathetic nature be imposed upon and don't be easily upset. Day will respond generously to serene, consistent efforts. Recreate moderately.

YOU BORN TODAY are dependable, especially in an emergency; are courageous, quick of action, unselfish when others are in trouble. You have talents for a variety of endeavors especially for a profession or calling that brings you in contact with people, perhaps groups or organizations. You may tend, however, to be dictatorial, not willing to listen to suggestions. You realize that those who give orders should also be able to take them. Pray for humility in your growing, your education, cultivate patience.

500 SCHOOLS

NEW DELHI (CP)—The government of India has announced plans to open 500 "multi-purpose" schools at a cost of $525,000,000 each district to have one such school. Vocational training will be included among courses.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"You should have seen her when I tried to take her up to the top of the Empire State Building!"

Lyttelton Will Be Made Viscount

LONDON (Reuters) — Oliver Lyttelton, who retired as colonial secretary last month, is to be made a viscount, it was announced Monday night.

Lyttelton, 61, had been colonial secretary since 1951.

The former cabinet minister moves from the House of Commons to the House of Lords under the new title which has just been approved by the Queen. This will necessitate a new parliamentary election—one of five pending contests—in the Aldershot constituency where Lyttelton in 1951 gained a majority of 8,549 votes.

Northern Girls Oust 6RD By 8-2 Score

The Northern Electric ladies scored an 8-2 victory over 6 RD in the second game of the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League semi-finals last night to take the series in two straight games. The Belleville girls will now meet the winners of the Trenton Town-Trenton RCAF series for the league championship.

Linda Wagg continued to hurl excellent ball for the fast, young Northern team, setting the 6 RD lassies down on three hits while whiffing two and walking only one. Myles went the route in defeat, giving up 18 hits of all types while fanning three and walking a pair.

The victors got a five-run explosion in the third frame to take the lead and held it by adding singletons in the fourth, fifth and seventh. 6 RD rallied feebly with one in the fourth and another in the sixth but Wagg held them under control in the main.

Carolyn Baker paced her team at bat with a double and three singles while Shirley Ive clouted a homer and two singles. Helen Reeves also hit well with a double and a brace of singles.

Regents Win, Deseronto Tie? Is the Question

In a wild and wooly game that ended in fans swarming over the diamond, Bryson Reid's Regents edged the Deseronto nine 6-5 as was it a nine-all tie? at Deseronto last night. No one seems to know. Deseronto was tripped 9-4 going into the bottom of the sixth and-a-half frame when the umpire term were out and the bases loaded.

Plate Umpire Tim Williams called "one more batter" and the hitter rapped out an infield hit that was tossed by the fans. The umpire an unidentified Deseronto resident, who, it is claimed is connected with the Deseronto team signalled the runner safe, then dashed for the clubhouse and disappeared. He was not able to be found.

The Regents claimed the last batter was out by two feet, and so it looked from the sidelines. They claim the game was called one minute the ball was hit and claim the victory. But Deseronto fans screamed that the tying run had crossed the plate before the play was made at first. Umpire Williams was non-committal.

Regents didn't look so good in the innings. They passed up three opportunities to retire the side but errors of omission and commission enabled the Deseronto team to score at least four times.

The Regents exploded for six runs of three hits in the first inning off Mike Perry who was wearing a Napanee uniform. He settled down after that and held them to four clouts for five innings good for three runs. He struck out five and walked only four.

Harv Stoliker gave up eight hits for five and two-thirds innings for eight or nine runs, and was relieved in the bottom of the sixth by Oliver. Stoliker fanned two and walked four.

The Regents added two runs in the fourth and a single in the sixth. Deseronto scored two in the first, singles in the fourth and fifth, and four—or was it five?—in the sixth.

Casey hit a home run for the Regents with Stoliker and Adams each getting two singles. L. Brant had a double and two singles for Deseronto with Bud Green getting a pair of singles.

The teams play back here again tonight in Exhibition Park starting at 8.30 and it should be one of the best games of the season.

The Deseronto management said that last night's game would be protested. If the Regents were awarded the victory.

ATTEMPT NEW RECORD
VERONA, Italy (Reuters)—Twenty-three young men and a girl today begin a world record attempt to descend more than 2,160 feet into the "Priest's Hole," a limestone cave in the Lessini hills near here. They hope to beat the French cave record of 2,126 feet made in the Trou de Glaz.

Bunton in Fine Relief Role As Batas Rally to Nip Petes; Clinch Viaduct Playoff Spot

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Spotting the Petes an early 5-1 lead, Peterborough overpowered the local batters later and went on to take a 9-5 COBL victory over Peterborough before a dismal crowd here last night. The Quints now have completed plans for the standing with the Petes in a precarious fourth-place slot just up on Oakville. The Petes and their postponed games are to be cleared up this week, if possible, to permit the top four teams to go into loop playoffs.

Smart relief hurling by Bobby Bunton gave Batas the win, as he blanked Petes on a four-hit relief after relieving Sammy Mulholland with one away in the third beat and the Quints. All for Peterborough. With no other moundsmen available, Lowrey had to go the route, allowing 15, some of them rather scrashy—and getting shaky support.

Tony Pettit hit three for five to lead Batas at the plate. Bunton (who went in late for Vern Goyer) got a trio in one inning between Vern got a triple and single in four, Peter Jones two for four, and Al Kelleher two for five. The Quinte crew played good defensive ball. Pete and Jones were outstanding by Dick Fitzpatrick being a fielder. Peter Jones was ejected by umpire Bill Hunter in the top of the eighth for arguing too hotly over a called strike.

Lowrey and Fred Garvey had two for four each for the Petes, and Cliff Gowan and Bill Hunley each one for two, the latter, a double. He and Goyer drove in a blood for a twin killing once, Goyer to Hunley to Pete Jones, and Tony Kotowski drew applause for Youthful Glenn Pagett at short throughout the nine innings. Both Fred Garvey and Edger came up with some good plays too.

Petes scored three in the second on Al Kelleher's double and hits by Ed Redmond, Pagett and Peter Jones. Batas got one back in the third on two walks, a sacrifice hit by Redmond, and a single by Pettit, scoring Kotowski and Huntley's double in the eighth also provided a rally, but they died on base.

Batas got one in the third on a hit by McCormick, relief server and an out. One more tallied on Redmond, Pagett and Peter Jones, Kelleher and Pettit. They broke out for four in the fifth on two errors, a walk, two steals by Pete Jones, singles by Pettit and McCormick, a triple to right centre by Vern Goyer. The last Batas run came in the sixth on a sixth stanza on five singles in a row by Vern Goyer, Fitzpatrick, Bill Hunley, Lowrey and Pettit.

Boston Bruins Will Try Out American Players

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League said Monday night they will depart from tradition and sign American players for the first time in their history.

Weeks after the Bruins' president Walter Brown said the youngsters chosen "will be given the same opportunity to advance up the ladder as Canadian boys. The American boy will be given no preference," the Bruins. No reason why it can't be the same way in hockey. The only reason they haven't done it is the lack of proper development channels such as the Canadian junior leagues."

Archie Moore Meets Johnson Wed. Night

NEW YORK (AP) — Some old fighters fade gradually. Others show their age in just one fight and then the axe falls. It's good.

So far, Archie Moore, the 37-year-old light heavyweight champion, hasn't shown even the faintest sign that he's on the way down. And that's after 11 years of prize battling and 141 fights.

Harold Johnson, who celebrated his 26th birthday Monday, hopes old age will catch up with Archie in one sweep Wednesday night when the two collide in a 15-round title scrap at Madison Square Garden.

"If he falls apart in one fight, I sure hope it happens Wednesday," said the usually non-talkative challenger from Philadelphia.

"But I'm not counting on anything like that. He's tough, real tough. Every one of our four previous fights have been close and tough.

Moore won three of the four 10 rounders, including the last one July 23, 1952.

Johnson scored his victory Dec. 19, 1951. Archie hasn't been beaten a bout since he was 18 straight.

American Rink Defends Title In Bowls Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—The Hyde Park N.Y., rink of Jack Bowles, successfully defended its 1953 Eaton Gold Cup championship here Monday in the rinks competition which opened the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association's annual tournament.

The same rink last year plowed its way through the United States and Canadian contestants.

Biggest upset of the day was when the Knowles rink tilled the highly-touted rink of Bill Hancock of Toronto, 17-6 in the afternoon play. In Monday night's round, the U.S. champions defeated a rink from Toronto skipped by W. E. Power, 21-11.

SEMI-FINALISTS

Three other rinks are in the semi-finals: Stanley Gretton of Hamilton; R. Y. Hall of Hamilton; and H. H. Reid of Toronto. Finals will be played off in the afternoon.

Other cups being played for are the Robert Simpson Trophy, the Toronto Trophy and the Ontario Northern Electric Co. Trophy.

Sixty-four rinks started in Monday's competition, the largest number paring the field down quickly. United States entries numbered 16.

By the end of last night's play, the Simpson contest was down to the semi-finals, with the Pilot Trophy at the end of the third draw and the Northern Electric Trophy at the end of the first round.

ANOTHER BIG PAYOFF

TORONTO (CP) — It happened at Woodbine raceway Monday—a huge daily double. Two tickets, each bearing a winning combination, were sold. Each ticket, unidentified, carried away $1,308.70 for a $2 investment in the double, and together better collected $500, for his $10 straight ticket on rank outsiders Jimmie Dean, a four-year-old gelding owned by Ross Holmes of Milton, Ont.

Jimmie Dean won the second race and returned $100 to win, $25.30 to place and $12.20 to show. He was linked with Mitti Herbert, owned by James Levesy of Woodstock, which was the first race and paid $14.20 to win.

Stewart Warner Trims Bobcats By 8-6 Score

Stewart Warner, taking advantage of every opportunity, downed the Bobcats 8-6 Monday night at the Ashmile Field for their first win after five starts in a round robin AA playoff with Bobcats and Maclac.

The winners struck for five runs on one hit, three walks, two errors and an interference with a batter in the first inning. They added a single run in the fourth and two in the sixth for their winning margin as they fought off late inning Bobcat rallies.

Bobcats started the scoring in the first inning with Nolan singling, moving to second on Doc Berry's sacrifice and scoring on Gowe's broken bat single to short centrefield. McBride dodged home on third base hit, both as Harry Wardhaugh and Duke Doran filed out.

Stewart Warner scored five runs in the bottom of the first. Bertrim was safe on an error at second, Doug Murray sacrificed, Ted Hurst walked and Bertrim scored on an error at short that gave Bob Brooks a life. Shorty Miller and Stan Greegan walked, forcing in Hurst.

Plate umpire Herb Pointer ruled that Temple Smith walked with Don Ashley and Brooks was forced in. Dinsley Greegan forced to plate Miller and Greegan. Murray popped to second and Bertrim, up for the second time, got the third out on a grounder to the pitcher.

Bobcats came right back in the second frame on two errors on singles by Temple and Donovan, two errors at short and two outfield flies.

Both sides settled down after the wild fifth inning with Bobcats held by the winners over the final seven frames.

Buck Thrasher, on the hill for Bobcats, gave up only two hits in the first. He struck out one and walked seven. Jack Reid mopped up in the eighth inning for Bobcats and striking out one.

Dracup was safe and struck out none in going the distance for Stewart Warner.

The most spectacular play of the night was Gord Donovan's theatrical catch of Bertrim's sinking liner to centrefield to lead off the second inning for Stewart Warner. Donovan made his catch behind the ball, rolled over twice and came up with the ball in his glove.

McBride had two doubles in four trips and Bone had two singles in four. Gripe had a single in a hit attack. Bob Brooks singled twice in a four trip stint and Stewart Warner's six hit assault.

The line-up:

Bobcats—Nolan lf, Docherty 2b, Bone 1b, McBride ss, H. Wardhaugh 3b, D. Greegan cf, Thrasher p, Burshaw p, relieved by Reid in 8th.

Stewart Warner—Bertrim 3b, D. Murray 1b, T. Hurst lf, Brooks c, Miller 2b, Greegan cf, Ashley rf, Dracup p, F. Murray c, E. Donovan batted for Ashley in 8th.

Score by innings:

Farmers - Attention!
WANTED: A number of progressive farmers in Eastern Ontario who would like to operate a special research project in raspberries, either for your local trade or for shipping to Ottawa, and Montreal dealers. Recent Ontario-Quebec production figures prices of $0.45c per quart and dealer reports would indicate short supplies everywhere.
To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a world known fruit research station is prepared to give many years experience in commercial production to personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. $1000.00 per acre should be easy, based on present conditions.
Because of the acute shortage of certified planting material, bookings can only be made for FALL PLANTING 1954, limited to one acre.
If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming, write Box 400 Campbellford, Ontario, on or before August 15th, giving location of your property. Interview will call later and completely analyze the business, soil requirements and preparation, up-to-date cultural practices, home markets, and surplus shipping, cost of planting, estimated yields and profits per acre. Late replies cannot be covered.

Emilie Dionne Choked to Death Says Quebec Medico-Legal Expert

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec medico-legal expert who performed an autopsy on the body of Emilie Dionne, explained today the girl choked to death.

Dr. Fontaine, elaborating on a statement made Saturday at the conclusion of the autopsy that the immediate cause of death of the famed quintuplet was "asphyxiation"—or suffocation. This occurred, he said, while Emilie was seized by one of a series of epileptic fits.

SEVERAL FITS

"I cannot say definitely how she was asphyxiated, but that is how she died," said Dr. Fontaine.

"Apparently she had had a series of fits—no one knows exactly how many—Thursday night. Perhaps her lungs became too exhausted to breathe. It was obvious that she had epilepsy for a very long time.

"It was at first my opinion that she smothered herself during a fit but no one at the Ste. Agathe hostel where she was could remember whether the body was found face up or face down on the bed."

He said a preliminary examination showed all Emilie's endocrine glands were enlarged—particularly the pituitary, thyroid, ovaries and spleen.

TONGUE IN TEETH

Dr. Fontaine said there was no trace of knife, nor any marks of violence that would have appeared on the body if Emilie had fallen and injured herself.

Dr. Fontaine said the girl's tongue was clamped between her teeth "so we know she did not swallow it and choke as some epileptics do during a fit."

Dr. Fontaine said a more complete report will be made after microscopic study of some of the enlarged organs.

Sunday, two doctors of the Neurological Institute of Columbia University's Presbyterian medical centre questioned whether Emilie died of epilepsy.

Dr. Fontaine commented today: "They should not have been so hasty in their criticism. It was a clear case of asphyxiation. They should have asked me directly for findings."

THOUSANDS MOURN WITH FOUR REMAINING QUINTUPLETS

An estimated 5,000 persons paid their last respects to Emilie Dionne, who rested at her home in Callander, Ont. Members of the family, including the four remaining quintuplets and Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, appeared tired and worn as they walked by the casket. Mr. and Mrs. Dionne lead the sorrowing sisters to the burial services for Emilie.

Observers in Karachi Believe Red Movement on Upswing

By EUGENE LEVIN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Just how strong is the Communist movement in Pakistan?

This has become the leading political question here since the East Pakistan government crisis exploded on the national scene last spring. It was quickly followed by the outlawing of the Communist party.

Political observers in Karachi provide no ready answer, but they generally agree that the Red movement is on the upswing. They disagree, however, in assessing the present power of the Communists.

In East Pakistan, the Communists had protected themselves into the political limelight—perhaps out of all proportion to their actual numbers and strength.

UNITED FRONT

The United Front, which defeated the centrally-ruling Moslem League in East Pakistan provincial elections four months ago, had Communist backing. The front also incorporated some Red ideas into its platform, including a professed distaste for receiving American military aid.

Following the provincial election, several riots in which hundreds were killed occurred in East Pakistan. Karachi charged the outbreaks were fomented by Communists and other "subversives," presumably a reference to pro-Indian elements. The United Front counter-charged that the national government was responsible.

In Karachi, there is a tendency to emphasize the Communist role in East Pakistan, separated from West Pakistan by more than 1,000 miles of Indian territory. Some suggest the Reds want to turn East Pakistan into one arm of a giant pincers movement—with Vietminh the other arm—to pinch off Burma, Thailand and the rest of South Asia.

The first days of June—following the central government's dismissal of the United Front provincial government and the institution of central rule over east Pakistan—saw a wave of arrests in the province. The number arrested totalled more than 500.

Most of these persons, government spokesmen say, were Communists or fellow-travellers. About a dozen others, including some newspaper men, were arrested in Karachi.

Almost overnight, critical voices were raised. They said in effect:

OTHER REASONS

"True, Communism in East Pakistan, and maybe in West Pakistan, too, is on the upswing. But is its strength being exaggerated? Aren't there other reasons for the opposition to the Moslem League rulers in Karachi?"

These critics touched on a key point. The East Pakistanis have many grievances. Separated as they are from West Pakistan, the easterners believe they are being exploited.

East Pakistan has more than half the country's population, but the ruling Moslem League has been dominated by politicians from the west. Urdu, the language of the west, had been rejected as the national tongue. East Pakistan's Bengali language was not recognized until after the United Front's sweeping election victory.

However, the greatest spur to the East Pakistani's rejection of the Moslem League has been increase in unemployment in the region's jute industry, a shortage of consumer goods and sharp jumps in the cost of living.

In this atmosphere Communists found a fertile field for their activity. But the assumption that they took over the United Front is open to question.

The casket containing the body of Emilie was carried by four of her brothers and two brothers-in-law. The burial plot was at Corbeil, in the tiny graveyard of her forefathers.

British Laborites At Stockholm On Way to Russia

(Fraser Wighton, Reuters political correspondent, is flying to Communist China to report the visit of Clement Attlee and seven other British Labor party leaders. He will also describe the China scene as he sees it.)

By FRASER WIGHTON

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Clement Attlee and a British Labor party delegation bound for Moscow and Peiping arrived here Monday night from London.

The British Labor party chief was immediately ringed by newspaper correspondents. They asked him what he hoped to bring back from his goodwill mission to Communist China.

"Friendship and peace," he answered with a smile.

Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Undeen, British Ambassador Bernett Hankey and Chen Chau Uan, Chinese Communist charge d'affaires in Stockholm, met Attlee's party of eight at the airport. No official representation was planned rain and mist to be on hand.

SEES NO BASIS

Before the party left London airport, Attlee told reporters he could see no basis for any American misunderstandings about his visit to Peiping.

"Our friendship holds with the United States," he said. "We are in favor of world peace and the more contacts we can make the better. Because you recognize a regime it does not mean you approve everything it does."

Aneurin Bevan, leader of the Labor party's left wing and a member of the party delegation group, said he hoped the journey would result in better relations between Britain and China and "might help to avoid driving the Chinese into the isolation that the Russians had been in for so many years."

There is a very real danger of this happening, he declared.

Asked from what source the danger stemmed, Bevan answered, "I think it comes from certain elements in the United States."

In Moscow, the Soviet foreign ministry Monday released its program for the two-day visit of the eight Labor party leaders to the Russian capital, but no mention was made of any plans for them to see Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov.

STRICKEN BY POISONING

OSANBRUECK, Germany (AP) —Sixty employes of the city labor office were stricken with food poisoning and taken to hospital Sunday night. Health officials blamed potato salad which had been served from a zinc tub.

SHIFT 1,000 PASSENGERS

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—More than 1,000 passengers on four transcontinental trains were shuttled to and from Jasper by bus along a jarring ranger trail Monday after a washout on the main CNR line, caused by near-flood conditions.

Prehistoric Indian Campsite Found

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two Toronto school teachers have discovered an eight-acre prehistoric Iroquois campsite in Methuen township, about 40 miles northeast of here.

Paul Sweetman and Lester Bissell say the site backs up the theory that the Iroquois were natives of southern Ontario rather than of New York state, where they moved to at a later date.

Sweetman said the site doesn't seem to be connected with Indian ritual about the carvings found earlier in nearby Burleigh township.

The two men unearthed some 200 artifacts, including pieces of charred corn cobs and beans.

Their two-month research program was financed by the Ontario department of education.

BORN IN PLANE

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Mrs. Dan Cook Monday gave birth to a baby girl in an airplane 90 feet above the Cross lake narrows. She was picked up at Grand Rapids, 100 miles southeast of here, by veteran northern Manitoba bush pilot Jack Lamb, who planned to go her to nospital for the birth. Mother and child were reported in satisfactory condition.

Heinz Officials, Union Leaders Are Summoned

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Union leaders and officials of the H. J. Heinz Company have been summoned to Toronto to meet with Hon. Charles Daley, Ontario labor minister.

The move came on the day the strike of 21 powerhouse workers, which has closed down the plant and put 1,200 production people out of work, went into its third week.

The men went on strike July 18 to enforce demands for a 35-cent hourly wage increase and time and a half for Saturday and Sunday work.

The Essex County Associated Growers and Leamington town council had asked the labor minister to intervene.

Farmers fear their crops will rot in the fields, unless the Leamington plant goes back into production.

The least that could happen to the growers, should the strike continue, is a rapid decline in prices, spokesmen for the farmers have said.

New Evalvation Ordered by Govt.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A new evaluation of expropriated farmland at the scene of the Windsor airport expansion has been ordered by department of transport officials at Ottawa.

New offers in writing will be made to farmers involved in the land dispute which has been waged between the department and landowners east of the airport.

A time limit will be set for acceptance of the new offers by the government. If the farmers have not accepted upon expiration of the time set, the entire issue will go into expropriation procedure before a county judge.

The Ottawa announcement was interpreted as a conciliatory move by the department and one which will result in an offer of a higher price to the farmers who, for the past several weeks, have sharply opposed government attempts to settle for $300 per acre.

FESTIVAL CROWDS BIGGER

Emilie's Illness Diagnosed As Epilepsy in '46

OTTAWA (CP)—A child specialist here Monday said he diagnosed Emilie Dionne's illness as epilepsy in 1946 when the young quintuplet was 12 years old.

Dr. Horace Viau, head of the pediatrics department of St. Louis Marie de Montfort Hospital, said the girl who died last week at Ste. Agathe, Que., was admitted to hospital here under the pseudonym Miss Michaud for examination.

"She was brought to me by her father after she had suffered an attack at her home," Dr. Viau said. "At that time I took her under examination at General Hospital and discovered she was suffering from epilepsy."

He said she remained in hospital here about a week, returning from time to time later for further examinations. Her condition was kept secret to avoid publicity.

Dr. Viau said a few professional men here knew he had examined Emilie and diagnosed her condition. However, to make the information public would have broken the medical code of ethics not to reveal information concerning patients.

Dr. Viau said that since medical experts have determined her condition by autopsy "I can speak of the case freely."

U.S. Govt. Obtains Injunction to Halt Atomic Strike

4,500 Workers Ordered Out at Early Hour Today

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—The government has obtained an injunction to stop a scheduled strike today of CIO production workers at key atomic plants here and at Paducah, Ky., where the nation's entire output of a vital ingredient for atomic and hydrogen bombs is produced.

The Taft-Hartley injunction was shipped out Wednesday night by U.S. district judge Robert L. Taylor at nearby Knoxville to block the strike of 4,500 workers ordered for 8 a.m. (local time) today. The move came just hours after President Eisenhower said the government could not permit a work stoppage at the plants for reasons of national security.

Emerson Pownall, president of the local, promised Wednesday night that the workers would be back on the job today.

COOLING OFF PERIOD

The injunctions provide for an 80-day cooling off period in which the workers continue on the job and management and labor talk over holding a lockout while negotiations continue.

This was the second time the Taft-Hartley law has been invoked to stop a strike of the same workers. President Eisenhower ordered an injunction early last month, but the workers went back to their jobs voluntarily.

Said Pfc. Robert Geyson, of Washingtonville, N.Y., driver of the Otter: "I explained once what it was like and how it felt, but never just like it was made for him."

More presents poured in for Princess Anne and Prince Charles. Two beautiful polar bear rugs were presented to the duke by two Churchill youngsters. Making the presentation on behalf of Churchill's children were Winnifred Brown, 16, who has lived on the Arctic coast, and Jimmy Hayden, 13, of Boston. He is the son of Lt. Col. R. H. Hayden, chief of transportation with the U.S. forces at this base.

"Will them yourselves!" the duke asked.

BAD DUST DAY

Fort Churchill is an experimental and testing station where Arctic equipment is tested, both U.S. and Canadian. The northern test of Churchill is a summer-month's grain shipping port which slashes the distance between Canada and the continent.

All day long the duke had a busy day. He visited two museums—the other was the jewelry exhibit of Arctic equipment—looked at dock facilities, went aboard ship, had tea with the navy and visited military hospital patients.

But the Churchill visit didn't think the duke was going to reach here because of fog. But he made it, expressing the pleasure of honor as soon as he stepped off the C-5.

Senator Wiley Against Pulling Out of U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) told the Senate Wednesday that if the United States pulled out of the United Nations "we would probably precipitate a third world war."

Wiley, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he had read in the newspapers that Gen. Mark Clark advocated withdrawal from the UN.

Clark testified before the Senate Internal security sub-committee Tuesday that he favored breaking diplomatic relations with Russia and organizing the UN "against the Soviet Union."

"I haven't had much respect for the United Nations," the general said.

Wiley told the Senate:

"I suggest that he (Clark) read what the UN has accomplished.

"I suppose the 10 Commandments have not accomplished what they were supposed to accomplish. However, the 10 Commandments, when they are utilized by millions of good spirit, who live according to the spirit, prove to be very valuable.

"The trouble is not with the mechanism. The trouble is with those who attempt to operate the mechanism."

CPR Dayliner Makes Record Run in Test

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A Canadian Pacific railway diesel "Dayliner" ran from Toronto to Peterborough Wednesday on a special run. It covered the 79 miles in 81 minutes. Harvey Linders was off the previous fastest time.

And it did not hit its top speed of 85 miles per hour, but maintained a steady cruising pace of 65.

The latest Dayliner will form an addition to the present Peterborough Dayliner link, enabling passengers to travel from the city to Toronto in less than six hours running time when the service is inaugurated Sept. 26.

1 Killed, 7 Hurt In 2-Car Crash

UDNEY, Ont. (CP)—One person was killed and seven others injured Wednesday night in a two-car collision north of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Linders of Ajax, Ont., and their four children, all in the second car, were injured. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Linders and their son Harvey are in hospital suffering head and face cuts. They were reported in fair condition today. Three children were treated after receiving face cuts.

Police said the accident occurred when Apps' car drove out from a concession road on to the highway, 140 miles north of Toronto, striking the Linders car.

Times Praises Canada, U.S. On Seaway Project

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada and the United States will always be two separate sovereign and independent nations, "but the more they get mixed up with each other in the peaceful pursuits of trade, commerce and culture, the better," the New York Times says today.

Congratulating both countries on the beginning of the St. Lawrence power project, the Times continues:

"The St. Lawrence, which divides us as geographic boundary is one which, is now the basis of a bond of union, and this is a cause for rejoicing and congratulations."

The general opinion was that perhaps the most important part of the Seaway project is the long-sought fact that the people of the United States and Canada will be bound even closer together by the same interests and feelings."

DUKE PILOTS ARCTIC VEHICLES OVER TUNDRA

Finds it Hard to Keep Track of the Days

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, covering as much of Canada's North in so little time, is finding it hard to keep track of the days.

While visiting Churchill Wednesday, the duke toured the little Eskimo museum crammed with exhibits gathered by missionaries at the Roman Catholic Oblate order in their wanderings over the face of the Arctic.

He was asked to sign the guest book. He picked up the pen, then paused.

"What is the day?" he asked.

As soon as he got an answer he signed "Philip 11th August 1954. We QUEREC TODAY."

The duke flew into Churchill Wednesday from Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories. One day before he was in Fort Radium and in Coppermine, on the coast of the Arctic Ocean. He flies to Quebec.

The sailor with the pilot's license, who also has a sailing for test cars, had a new experience on the barren tundra outside this port on Hudson bay.

He took over the controls of two pitching, skittering Arctic troop carriers, the Canadian Penguin and the U.S. Otter, in a three-mile trip through water and spongy, muddy muskeg.

Said Pfc. Robert Geyson, of Washingtonville, N.Y., driver of the Otter: "I explained once what it was like and how it felt, but never just like it was made for him."

More presents poured in for Princess Anne and Prince Charles. Two beautiful polar bear rugs were presented to the duke by two Churchill youngsters. Making the presentation on behalf of Churchill's children were Winnifred Brown, 16, who has lived on the Arctic coast, and Jimmy Hayden, 13, of Boston. He is the son of Lt. Col. R. H. Hayden, chief of transportation with the U.S. forces at this base.

Driver Nearly Runs Over Limp Form of Woman

SIMCOE (CP) — A motorist nearly ran over the limp form of a woman on the highway on the outskirts of Delhi in this tobacco growing district Wednesday.

A doctor called to the scene said the woman was unhurt.

Giving her name as Bernice Murdoch, 42, of Hamilton, the woman said she had been without food for nearly two days and had failed to find work in the tobacco fields.

Granny McCollum at 86 Leaves Alone for Annual Fishing Jaunt

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Granny McCollum, 86-year-old wonder of the northland, has left for her annual hunting and fishing jaunt 150 miles by air north of here—alone as usual.

Mrs. H. T. McCollum's determined last words to protesting relatives were: "I'm going and my body's going to tell me I'm not."

But it hurts Granny to go the easy way by air.

Five years ago when she was 81 she hiked northeastward, followed a 2½-mile foot path from the transCanada highway to the lake, toted a 50-pound pack, her fishing rods and as a concession to femininity, a handbag.

Mrs. McCollum announced her it was time to slow down. Since then she has been flown in either July or August by taxi with early fly.

Her destination is a three-roomed log cabin by her husband, the late R. T. McCollum, 20 years ago. He died 10 years ago and since then Granny has returned each summer alone.

Mrs. McCollum has no trouble living alone. She is an expert hunter and angler. For an emergency she has a white flag which will bring aid from any of the half-dozen neighbors living around all over America. It is unprecedented for a loyal party big-shot to unloose such an attack on the leader. And as such it takes on a big significance.

The News Chronicle, Liberal, says:

"Powers for Dr. Edith Summerskill. Dinners with Malenkov. The party is undergoing a transformation being dreadfully confirmed. The British Labor leaders can be up to no possible good in Moscow."

But it says McNeil's views do not represent Labor opinion as a whole.

"Most of us are glad this pilgrimage is taking place, although we have our reservations about it. We hope that the conversations will bend over backwards to impress the Labor leaders.

"But their British Socialists are not fools. In Britain we have confidence in Mr. Attlee in particular. The Americans should have confidence in him, too, even if they give them lectures on their constitution. And if they cannot do that, they should show some respect for British common sense."

1,500-2,000 Ton Daily Mill To Process Uranium Ore

Possibility for Bancroft Area

Editor's Note: This week's Financial Post features a special article on possibility of an uranium mill near Bancroft. The report is written by Gordon M. Grant, Financial Post staff writer.

A substantial new Canadian uranium-producing area was beginning to take shape this week.

The area: near Bancroft, some 80 miles by rail north of Trenton in Eastern Ontario.

Hinted was a new 1,500-2,000 ton daily custom mill and capital expenditure of up to $15 millions. A new townsite, or townsites, in the Bancroft area with ultimate populations running into the thousands also emerged as a distinct possibility.

And construction—even plans for construction—of a custom mill at Bancroft would have wide implications for further exploratory and mine-taking activity in what is probably Ontario's most accessible uranium area.

The Post emphasizes that no final decisions have been made. Months may go by before anything concrete develops. But the government-owned Eldorado Mining & Refining Co. is now giving serious consideration to establishing the large custom uranium recovery plant.

Proposals advanced by companies here have and are receiving lengthy investigation and a favorable decision would come as no surprise. Sufficient work has been done at Bancroft to indicate a large quantity of uranium is present and it is now regarded as a matter of time until some definite production plans take shape.

An up-to-2,000-ton daily custom milling plant and capital outlay of $10-$15 millions would have broad impact on the sparsely settled area, which possesses many advantages by way of available power, established roads and rail. Main operations would be some 12 miles west of Bancroft, the nearest town.

For a large custom mill to be feasible, Eldorado is understood to feel that sufficient ore must have been established to assure return of expenses before the green light can be given the project.

Apparently there are no particular objections to establishing a custom mill in the Bancroft area. At Beaverlodge, Eldorado has already set the precedent of providing custom facilities. Provision of a custom mill at Bancroft would not mean that a custom mill might have to be built at Elliot Lake in Western Ontario or elsewhere, because only at Bancroft is there at present a close concentration of potential uranium mines which would contribute mill feed.

Three properties—two of them already undergoing—are reported taken into consideration as possible initial customers for a custom mill. Centre Lake Uranium Mines, now opening up a second level from a new shaft, and the adjoining Macassa-sponsored Croft Uranium Mines, would be the apparent centre of the operation, with ore also to be supplied by nearby Dyno Mines. Sinking of a shaft has been recommended for the company's consulting engineers Simard & Knight.

An extensive uranium occurrence has been outlined in drilling by Faraday Uranium Mines about six miles to the east of Centre Lake with $250,000 of financing arranged for going underground. However, it is not believed that the Faraday property has been included in planning for a custom mill.

Centre Lake is reported unofficially to have been securing initial results on its second level exploration of the property earlier in the adit. Assays are only available for about 100 ft. as yet. There appears to be some reason for thinking that Eldorado may contract for custom mill ore up 1,500 ft. of drifting on this level before "going firm" on the Bancroft custom mill project.

Moscow Visit of Br. Laborites Draws Scorn, Splits Party

LONDON (Reuters) — The extreme right-wing Daily Sketch today pours scorn on the visit of the British Labor parliamentary party by Clement Attlee to Moscow and Peiping.

Comment is also aroused in other newspapers by the criticism of the tour made by Malcolm McNeil, a leading Socialist, over a U.S. radio network Wednesday.

The headline to the Daily Sketch's editorial charities: "Oh, what a lovely war!"

"The ill-starred Attlee - Bevan band of Russia and Red China has already produced one sour note," the paper says. "But it is a bigger one that we expected.

"There are in fact two rows. One, still simmering, with the United States. The other, now boiling over, is so violent that it has re-split the Socialist party and dealt it a fearful blow.

"Mr. McNeil ensures that his attack his where it hurts most by making it in a statement broadcast all over America. It is unprecedented for a loyal party big-shot to unloose such an attack on the leader. And as such it takes on a big significance.

The News Chronicle, Liberal, says:

"Powers for Dr. Edith Summerskill. Dinners with Malenkov. The party is undergoing a transformation being dreadfully confirmed. The British Labor leaders can be up to no possible good in Moscow."

But it says McNeil's views do not represent Labor opinion as a whole.

MOLOTOV WARNS AGAINST DANGER OF WORLD WAR

Socialist Leaders Leave for Red China

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov issued a grave warning against the dangers of a new war Wednesday night during dinner exchanges with the visiting British Socialist delegation headed by party leader Clement Attlee, it was learned today.

Molotov sounded the warning in one of eight toasts at the British embassy dinner attended by Premier Malenkov on the eve of the delegation's departure for Communist China.

COULD GAIN NOTHING

The Soviet foreign minister said a new war would bring "calamitous suffering" to China, Britain and France and the three powers could gain nothing from such a war.

This was taken by the eight-member Labor delegation as an oblique warning against the rearmament of West Germany—an issue on which the Labor party is divided.

It was understood that no specific proposal or new slant on Soviet foreign policy emerged from the long evening's talks at the dinner table or in private talks between Soviet leaders and the British delegation leaders.

Molotov told the Britons there does NOT exist Communist China's admittance to the United Nations and expressed hope for closer relations between British and the Peiping regime.

TOAST TO ATTLEE

Attlee, left-wing rebel Aneurin Bevan and other delegation members are travelling in a special Russian plane to China after a two-day stay in Moscow.

The central theme of the toast and discussion Wednesday night was understood to be a "peaceful coexistence" and a denial of interference in the internal affairs of other states.

Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev also made mention that Russia wanted a strengthening of relations with Britain.

Molotov said the toast was with not only of the Labor party but of the entire British people, including the Conservatives and Prime Minister Churchill.

Also in the eight toasts was for Queen Elizabeth or the Soviet president, "peaceful coexistence" and "peaceful coexistence" and Attlee "Anglo-Soviet friendship."

NO WOMEN

Dr. Edith Summerskill, a former cabinet minister, proposed a toast to "the Soviet ladies," and said afterwards she had discussed women's rights with Malenkov.

She told him she had learned at Moscow University earlier that day that 51 per cent of the students were women, and asked him if he approved.

"Wholeheartedly," replied Malenkov. "Women have been oppressed too long. It is no good trying to establish equality in the state without helping women in the first place."

JAIL POLICEMEN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Officials revealed Wednesday that at least 29 policemen face jail conviction of active participation in a series of 18 unsolved bombings and burglaries here in the last two years. One policeman was jailed on burglary and grand larceny charges. Two others were suspended.

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank H. Hall, leader of negotiators for rail unions threatening a general strike, today indicated the unions are willing to resume negotiations with the railways at the request of the government.

Entering a conference at which Prime Minister St. Laurent was to make this request, Mr. Hall told reporters:

"When the prime minister asks you to do something, I suppose that's the proper thing to do."

This was his reply to a question as to whether the unions would go back into the negotiations that were broken off June 22.

Hall and five other top officers of the unions that have been engaged in a fight with the railways for fringe benefits since late last year went into conference with the prime minister and Labor Minister Gregg at 11 a.m. in response to an invitation issued Wednesday by the cabinet.

OTHER MEETINGS

This meeting was to be followed by one between the ministers and railway officials. The two transcontinental railways after which a third session with the disputing parties together with members of the prime minister's office later today.

As the prime-minister and the other chiefs got together 24 hours after the announcement of a membership vote authorizing Hall and other leaders to call a strike of 145,000 railwaymen, the company officers were standing by here for a summons to the prime minister's office.

President Donald Gordon headed a small group from the government-owned CNR, and the CPR delegation was led by that company's vice-president, R. B. Crump.

The company officers reached here late Wednesday night, a few hours after they had announced the vitation was sent to Montreal from the cabinet meeting.

Union men arrived by train this morning and walked on the picket line duties directly to the East Block of Parliament Hill.

Hall, with a cluster of reporters around him, walked swiftly from the station, plowed through a red light in the middle of downtown traffic.

NO STRIKE DATE

In reply to one question, he said the union negotiators have not set any date for a strike.

"But on the other hand," he added, "we do not visualize any prolonged negotiations."

He was asked about a published report quoting Malenkov as telling the disputants to take a so-called "cooling off period" of 60 days.

Anything of that nature, he said, would be a matter for the unions' general negotiating committee, the main body of which now is standing by at Montreal for word from the small group here.

Mr. St. Laurent, meeting with union leaders, was expected to accept to make clear to them that the government plans to call Parliament to deal with any against a strike before it happens.

Parties of the railways and their unions, summoned to the capital Wednesday, were due to begin negotiations with them to get back into negotiation and reach a settlement before Parliament meets.

Vietminh Colonel Assassinated, Purge Rumored

PARIS (Reuters) — Vietminh Col. Mual Trai, Communist commander of the Western sector of the Salgon-Cholom region, has been assassinated, Agency France —Press reported from Saigon today.

The agency also reported that Do Dinh Dao, a leader of a pro-Chinese Nationalist party, had been found dead from poisoning at a house on Southern Viet Nam.

The agency said some Viet Namese circles linked the two deaths with rumors of a purge among the Vietminh in Southern Viet Nam.

Groom Throws Pot of Mustard At Wife's Mother

CALAIS, France (Reuters) — Jean Jacques Dubois will be have his marriage annulled here Wednesday after he had broken a pot of mustard over his mother-in-law's head during the wedding dinner and had been thrown out by the bride.

Chaput told how he and his bride had hardly sat down Tuesday when they began their first quarrel — he liked his mustard hot, she liked it weak.

His mother-in-law did not like mustard at all and slapped him, he said. He replied by throwing the mustard pot at her. Then the two women turned on him.

"Until then the entertainments at the behest of the government."

The prime minister, informants said, would not propose either terms of settlement or a time limit for the reaching of an agreement.

SEEKS NEW APPROACH

But observers expected Mr. St. Laurent would make it clear that the government—as of now, at least—does not intend to allow a strike to start as it did in 1950 when Parliament was called in to halt a nine-day tieup.

After a short meeting dealing with the strike issue, the prime minister and Gregg gave it over to the cabinet attitude when he spoke, in a statement, of parliamentary intervention in connection with "avoiding"—rather than ending—a strike.

He already has stated that Parliament might be summoned — as it was summoned in 1950 at what stage of proceedings—and today he was expected to spell out the meaning fully for the rail and union chiefs.

Fabian of Yard Will Operate in Ont. As Private Citizen in McDowell Case

TORONTO (CP)—Fabian of the Yard, Britain's most famous detective, will not operate in Ontario as a private detective.

Police Chief Inspector W. J. Franks explained that Scotland Yard's Robert Fabian will operate as a private citizen.

"He will get the co-operation we would give anyone else with similar experience," said the chief inspector.

To grant a private licence to Fabian, who is retired from Scotland Yard, would be to open the door for others who fancied themselves criminologists, police said. Fabian will have no authority as a police officer to take anyone into custody for questioning, they added.

Fabian will interview the McDowell family today but police who investigated the suspected kidnapping of the 4-year-old boy have said they do not anticipate he will find any new clues.

Jimmy Wilson, the 10-year-old construction rigger who was a witness to the boy's alleged kidnapped from his car, doesn't think he can help Fabian further.

Eight months ago he told his story to police and submitted to a lie-detector test in Buffalo, N.Y., which satisfied police he was telling the truth.

"I have recounted the story to at least 20 investigators," he said today. "I can't see anything to what I have already said."

Unemployment Rises Slightly

With the brightest employment picture of the year reached in late July, the number of unemployed in the Belleville area has increased fractionally during the past two weeks, it was stated today by officials at the local employment service office.

This week 541 persons in the area served by the district office were drawing benefits, this figure being up about 30 from the low point reached two weeks ago. This year's unemployed figure is almost double that of a comparative date last year. The figures locally compare well, the national average, it was stated.

No large construction projects are underway in this area this year. Construction of the proposed new hospital wing when it commences is expected to relieve the picture somewhat. The new high school on College street is rapidly drawing toward completion, while construction of the new Sir Winston Churchill School on MacDonald Ave. is well underway.

Canadian Admiral Unveils New TV Sets at Dealer Meeting Here

With television rapidly getting into stride as an entertainment medium in Canada, TV manufacturers this year expect to increase sales by at least 150,000 sets.

This forecast was made today by Ed Whittaker, vice-president of Canadian Admiral Corporation Limited, which yesterday unveiled in Canada and in Belleville its new 1955 TV and radio models to Canadian dealers.

Mr. Whittaker said last year the nation bought 365,000 sets. Sales for the first six months of this year were 45 per cent higher than the same period in 1953. This year he said it is expected that between 500,000 and 550,000 sets will be sold.

South Bros. local TV dealers combined with Canadian Admiral to stage the premiere exhibition of the new models, and play host to scores of TV and radio dealers. The two-day display, which ends today, of the shape of screens to come, was held in the lounge of the Queen's Hotel. Next week these models will be on public display on the South Bros. stand at the Belleville Fair.

This year Canadian Admiral production is cut to three models of basic models from 16 to 10. There are four table models, four consoles and two upright combination models.

Mr. Whittaker said that prices have been reduced, and that a number of new improvements have been introduced into the sets. These include an aluminized picture tube, coated with microscopic aluminum, behind the inner face for a brighter picture, and an anti-glare optic filter screen.

A feature of the display is a larger 21-inch tube with a picture area of 270 square inches compared with the average 252 inches on previous models. The neck of the tube has been reduced to 28 inches, resulting in a less bulky cabinet.

The models also have been designed for better reproduction in fringe areas.

Maritime Band To Give Concert At Playground

Band music lovers of the city will be given a treat tonight at the East Hill Playgrounds, when the 16th. H.A.A. Regiment band of Sydney, N.S., under the direction of Capt. S. Denley and through the courtesy of Major D. C. Hartigan, will play a varied concert from 7.30 p.m. till nine. The concert will be followed by the usual mid-week movies.

The movie show is generally given on the West Hill playgrounds on Thursday nights but due to the band concert on the East Hill, the Recreation Commission has changed the venue for the one night. The band is being brought to the city by the Commission with no expenses involved in the hope that a large number will turn out to hear this well known Maritimers band. The band has been in Picton for some time with the Regiment, which is taking training at the Artillery School and were able to make the stopover on their trek homeward.

On Wednesday evening the square dance course was continued at Prince Edward school, with Bill Workman, Recreational Director of Trenton, in charge and over 60 were in attendance. More intricate patterns were attempted by the group and the enjoyable evening was the result. The Commission hoped that as many as possible will take in these courses so that when square dancing is instituted in the fall, a large number may be able to enjoy this form of recreation.

On Friday afternoon and evening the Commission will sponsor an Arts and Crafts exhibition at the "Y" with Mr. and Mrs. Schneider of the Don Valley Arts school in charge. The first response has been very gratifying and the committee was surprised at the number of exhibits offered for viewing. His Worship, Mayor John Both, will open the exhibit at two o'clock.

Labor Leader Charges Menzies Made a 'Deal'

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Dr. Herbert Evatt, leader of Australian Labor opposition, tonight accused Prime Minister Robert Menzies of having made a "deal" with Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet embassy official, for political gain.

He charged the government gave Petrov 5,000 Australian pounds (about $11,200) for certain documents to influence the Australian people improperly at elections earlier this year.

He contrasted this "sinister fact" with the charges Menzies had painted of a man seeking freedom in a democratic state when announced he would ask Petrov had sought and been granted political asylum.

Speaking in a House of Representatives debate on a government bill designed to strengthen the powers of the royal commission investigating Australian espionage laid bare by Petrov, Evatt charged the commission with "smearing the good reputations of some people connected with the case."

Palace, Barracks Collapse in Flood 700 Persons Die

KALIMPONG, India (Reuters) —Almost 200 persons were buried when the palace of the Maharaja Lama in the Tibetan town of Shigatse collapsed two days ago after being undermined by floods, according to reports reaching here today.

More than 500 Chinese Communist troops were also buried when a barracks collapsed, the reports said.

The death toll is expected to be heavy.

The reports said the whole of Shigatse is under water. Chinese authorities have ordered troops into the town to help with rescue work and a flood relief committee has been formed in Kalimpong.

Three hundred persons were reported drowned last month at Gyangtse, 100 miles south of the Namchung river in Tibet.

The swollen river was then said to have burst its banks and submerged the entire town of 25,000 people.

'Terrible' Touhy Back in Prison

CHICAGO (AP) — After two days of freedom, Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, was back in jail today and faced the possibility of spending the rest of his life in prison.

The 56-year-old prohibition era gangster's brief period of liberty, after more than 20 years in prison, was ended Wednesday on order of the United States Court of Appeals. The court ruled that Touhy must be held in prison pending a hearing of the state's appeal of his release.

Touhy was freed on $10,000 bond Monday when federal judge John P. Barnes ruled the Capone era gang leader's 99-year sentence of 1934 for the kidnapping of John Jake the Barber Factor was procured on perjured testimony.

Blue Cross Plan Users Increased

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Association today announced both membership in the Blue Cross plan and the percentage of those who received hospital care under it increased during the first six months of this year.

During the period, 67,000 new participants were enrolled in the plan, the association said. At the same time there was more than one per cent increase in the number of hospitalized members. More than $2,000,000 was given out in benefits.

Association director D. W. Ogilvie said the month of March, when 31,000 Blue Cross members were hospitalized, was numerically the heaviest ever experienced.

He said the increase in persons entering hospital was in part a result of a growing use of hospital facilities for specialized treatment and of the expanding availability of hospital beds.

Patrolman Dies

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP)—Richard Pelkey, 31, one of three patrolmen wounded by a gun wielding burglar hunted by police, died today.

Pelkey was shot in the chest last Thursday as the unidentified desperado battled his way out of a summer home where the patrolmen had discovered him.

Pelkey died in hospital as 150 police and volunteers continued their search for the fugitive.

NOT MUCH THUNDER

The Arctic area of Canada has fewer thunderstorms than any other part of the country.

Mystery Pilot Pulls off Stunt To Win Girl

LONDON (AP) — The mystery pilot who zoomed between the towers of London's famed Tower bridge and swooped beneath London bridge was identified today as 25-year-old Gene Thompson of Lubock, Tex.

The Daily Express said Thompson pulled off the feat to win a hometown girl, Helen Brown, as his bride.

The couple were members of a party of Texas Tech students who have been touring Europe. They sailed with the group for home Wednesday night from Southampton.

The Express said Thompson left a "confession" of his feat with a friend, who gave the story to the paper after Thompson was safely out of the reach of British authorities.

The Express said the pilot's friend reported Miss Brown had agreed to marry Thompson if he brought the stunt off. When she found out he had done it, the Express reported, all she said was "Gee!"

Acadian French Begin Special Year Of Thanksgiving

GRAND PRE, N. S. (CP)—On Aug. 15, feast day of L'Assomption, the Acadian of Nova Scotia begin special year of thanksgiving for the prosperity they have found since their forefathers were transported from these shores 200 years ago.

Masses will be celebrated Sunday to mark the beginning of observances which will conclude a year from now with festive gatherings here and in Moncton, N. B., Memramcook and Port Royal, N. S.

PEACEFUL FARMERS

The Acadians were peaceful but stubborn farmers who worked the Annapolis valley and built dikes to salvage meadowland from the high tides of the Bay of Fundy. Their refusal to pledge allegiance to the newly-victorious British in 1755 brought action from Governor Lawrence.

On his orders, British colonial troops from New England moved the Acadians from their homes and placed them aboard transports for the French colony of Louisiana.

Some never returned, but stayed to become known as Cajuns. Some strayed to Quebec and some settled with other French families around Moncton, where they still speak one of the purest French accents in North America.

RALLY ON COAST

But most settled at Clare, a district between Yarmouth and Digby, called the French Shore of Nova Scotia.

A mass of remembrance will be said Sunday in one of the great stone churches they built at St. Bernard in the heart of Clare.

Turks Receiving Canadian Jets Can't Fly Them

ANKARA, Turkey. (CP) — Sqdn. Ldr. Jerry Dickinson, of Ottawa, a supply officer in the R.C.A.F. for 19 years, finds that here, he has to answer questions about how to fly a plane.

He is the R.C.A.F.'s liaison officer in Turkey, now taking delivery of 82 Canadair-built Sabre jet fighters and 277 spare engines under the mutual aid program of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Turkish Air Force has never had such a fast plane and its pilots have all sorts of questions for Dickinson, who is not a pilot, on the performance of Sabres.

R.C.A.F. pilots started ferrying the Sabres from England last month. As soon as Turkish pilots are trained, they will carry on the ferrying job as the fighters are overhauled at a British aircrft firm.

NEW AIRCRAFT

The British Comet III with four jet engines can seat 76 passengers for journeys up to 2,600 miles.

Accident Injures Three Children

HAMILTON (CP)—A baby carriage occupied by two children and pushed by an older child was crushed against a cement hydro pole Wednesday by an automobile which had just collided with another car. All three children were injured.

Lillian Campbell, 10, who was pushing the carriage, suffered a broken leg and was admitted to hospital. Her sisters, Donna Marie, 3, and Joan, 2, were treated for minor injuries and sent home.

NO TOLL ROADS COMING

Increasingly heavy highway traffic, travelling at higher and higher speeds, requires the construction of more and more costly roads to accommodate it. Inevitably the method of financing such highways is called into question and the suggestion for toll roads is broached.

In the United States toll roads have proven themselves to be valuable self-liquidating investments. The Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpikes and the soon-to-be-completed New York Thruway, possibly the finest highways in North America, are all toll roads. Cost of the nearly 500-mile-long New York Thruway is $1,600,000 a mile.

Ontario is currently experiencing a hardening of its traffic arteries that has led to the construction of four-lane roads principally north and east of Toronto. Final plans call for a four-lane strip from Montreal to Windsor. Tax revenues are financing its construction with gasoline taxes being the major source of income. It is argued that this tax, which is paid by all motorists in the province, is in itself a toll and that a direct per mile levy for the use of such roads would be double payment for a privilege already dear.

The Ontario Department of Highways has always shied from toll roads. In fact the department in the provision of free ferry services in certain parts of the province, has assumed a financial burden that is more of a convenience for residents than the provision of a necessary service.

An example of such convenience is the Glenora-Adolphustown ferry. Prince Edward County is not an island and is not dependent on ferry service for contact with the mainland. There are land bridges at Belleville and Trenton. The ferry at Glenora can only be described as a convenience to residents in the eastern part of the county wishing to get to the mainland for trips in an easterly direction. The ferry saves residents wishing to go from Picton to Toronto a drive via Belleville. It provides tourists with easy access to the county. It also completes a scenic drive along the high shore of the Picton reach.

If the ferry were a private enterprise and ferrying charges set so that its operators could realize a profit, residents of Prince Edward would likely find it more economical to drive to the mainland via Trenton or Belleville or else curtail some of their pleasure driving.

As long as the Department of Highways sees fit to continue operating ferries that can more properly be described as a convenience than a necessity, it is unlikely that the day is near when it will feel obliged to institute tolls on necessary highways.

"A BIGGER AND BETTER FAIR

The Belleville Fair opens next Monday and runs through Thursday.

According to all advance information the Fair this year promises to be the biggest and best ever. This is the sort of pronouncement that one usually expects about fairs, but this time fair officials have the figures to prove it.

Already there have been more entries in the cattle and horse barns than in any previous year with several long-time exhibitors still to register. New exhibitors in these classes have registered from different parts of the province for the first time. Grain and field crop exhibits in many classes are up 50 per cent over former years. One of the largest midways ever erected in Belleville will be present. New asphalt strips from the grandstand to the exhibition buildings will prove mud and dust-free walkway for visitors on the first time. The new brick and concrete grandstand will provide accommodation to showgoers of a calibre that the old wooden grandstand could never hope to provide.

Everything points to an outstanding fair this year. All that is needed now is the co-operation of the weatherman.

MOMENTOUS DECISION

In voting unanimously to have Baltimore public schools "conform to a non-segregated basis" by next September, the School Board has taken the sensible course of saying, in effect, that there is nothing to be gained by putting off a move made inevitable by the Supreme Court's non-segregation ruling.

The local decision is both historic and momentous. The long-range effect on community relations in this, the largest city below the Mason-Dixon line, is obvious. But is a change toward which Baltimore has been moving for some time, and there is no reason why, with a due exercise of responsibility and calm rationality, the city cannot set an example that will help dissolve the fears and tension that have appeared in some Southern quarters since the Supreme Court's ruling. BUILDERS AND OWNERS

At first the land must be surveyed,
And shortly, after this is done,
With plans an architect has made
The work of building is begun.
In time, from timbers, stone is grown,
The rafters of the dwelling rise
While they who are the house to own,
Stand looking on with shining
eyes.

The floors will next be truly laid,
The walls and ceilings
plastered be,
And when departs each craft and trade
The masters by a house will see.
At last the movers will appear
With rugs and tables, beds and chairs,
That done, the owners, many a year,
Will proudly boast the home is theirs.

Houses are planned and built by men,
Who make such work their chief concern.
What joys or griefs will happen
when
They leave they seldom try to learn.

But though the walls and roof
stout,
The owners will have much to bear.
Nothing will keep the heartaches out
That all who call it home must share.

AUGUST 12, 1934.

Eggs are selling at 20 cents to 22 cents per dozen and butter is selling at 21 cents per pound.

From our file copy at this time—Sixty years ago: 1874: "Complaints are made, and not without cause, by the residents of West Belleville, that the manner in which the coal oil street lamps in that section of the city are attended to. At the hour of nine o'clock last night, of the five lamps on Dundas Street, two on Benjamin Street, and one on Lewis Street, not one was lighted. Something should be done about this."

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Pye and Mr. and Mrs. George Bell of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith.

The Rev. H. C. Harrison, Mrs. Harrison and son of Mount Vernon, Ohio, are the guests of Mrs. Stone, Dundas Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Rutter of Hoosgow, Texas, are visiting relatives here.

Miss Dorothy Morrison and Miss Lois Morrison, Olive Street, are spending a vacation at Oak Lake.

50 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 12, 1904.

The many friends of our fellow citizen, Mr. Donald MacLean, Alexander Street, will be pleased to learn that he had a pleasant voyage across the ocean and is now for the digital of London enroute to his native hills on Scotland. He writes that he had a very pleasant interview and heard Chamberlain, Bannerman and Balfour speak.

Wood With a Light Touch

(American Forests Magazine)

The sheriff pushes his way into the Last Chance saloon and walks over to a mean looking varmint standing at the bar.

"Seems to me I told you cattle rustlers to stay out of town," says the law, mean-like.

Reaching behind him, the varmint grants hold of a good sized table which he lifts through the air and shatters into a dozen pieces on the sheriff's head.

Unfazed, our hero reaches for a native lounging chair which he reduces to kindling on the varmint's head. Soon the air is filled with flying furniture, and when the fight reaches the balcony, the balustrade is also reduced to splinters. Later, the sheriff's girl, locked in the burning ranch house, is rescued only after two posses have been splintered by the sheriff's brawny shoulder. . .

Not to be rude about it the actors in westerns and other adventure films would have to have very tough sand indeed to withstand these little antics, but for the fact that the breakaway furniture and props that are were built in the studio carpenter shop — out of balsa wood. This is the soft, featherlight, satin white wood that Balsa Island, off the coast of Balsa weighs half as much as cork, and has greater structural strength.

While balsa (Ochroma lagopus) is found in the rain forests of South American countries, most of that exported comes from Ecuador, where it grows in the wild in particular commercial basis. Sometimes called the "corkwood tree", balsa can be cut selectively from the same area, year after year. It grows from seed to a tree in just six months, and in 10 years it is about 70 feet tall and 15 inches in diameter.

To make it easier to drag through the jungle muck, each log is stripped at the end. When it is green, balsa is quite heavy, weighing about 30 pounds to the cubic foot (as opposed to about 6 to 10 pounds when dry), so it is not that it takes two oxen to pull it to a road where it is loaded on a truck to be taken to a river.

At the river the raftsmen tie a number of logs together in a raft so as to make a raft about 17 feet square. On the rafts the men build thatch lean-tos and move in their wives, children, dogs, and chickens. It is not for the sights of London enroute to his native hills on Scotland. He writes that he had a very pleasant interview and heard Chamberlain, Bannerman and Balfour speak.

Mayor W. W. Chown, Mrs. Chown and son, Harold, are spending a vacation at the 1000 Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ashley have returned to their home in Toronto, Ohio, after visiting relatives here.

Messrs. Charles Wilkinson and C. C. Stewart rescued two young men who upset from a canoe in the bay yesterday; they were clinging to the sides of the canoe and both of them was well exhausted.

The band concert at the park last evening attracted the largest crowd so far this season. The music was excellent and was much enjoyed.

water in the river, the trip takes from two to six weeks. After selling their products and living on their logs in at a sawmill, the raftsmen build a flat-bottomed log back up river in one of the little launches that run regularly, stopping at every farm. During the trip home, they sit on the roof of the cabin and shoot guns.

During their stay in the river, the logs have picked up additional weight, and are now about 40 pounds to the cubic foot.

As the saw cuts up a balsa log, water spouts out as though it were a sponge—but after being carefully kiln dried, the weight of wood is down from 6 to 10 pounds a cubic foot.

Some have compared balsa to a collection of bubbles — which, even after they are filled with air instead of water, give it a surprising structural strength as well as buoyancy.

Balsa was unknown to the United States as a commercial wood until after World War I, although it was used during the war to support floating mines.

For a long time the only commercial use for balsa was for floats and life preservers, but about 1916 when our supply of cork was cut off because of U-boats, balsa started arriving in the United States and giving people a big surprise. Cork, which had been established, as it began to be used for many kinds of things.

The model plane industry — a booming business with over a million balsa models 75 per cent of all this wood is whittled, sanded, polished and "flown" by the United air force's latest models.

In World War II balsa was in terrific demand and had a high priority and, due to the United States' shortage of rubber, imports reached an all-time high of 36 million board feet. Thousands of balsa floats were used, and nearly every ship crossing the Atlantic contained several enormous life rafts made of balsa, which insulated survivors from cold, and gun bullets have no effect on balsa which depends for its buoyancy on millions of tiny cells filled with air.

Balsa is now found insulation against hot, cold, vibration and electricity, and is used as a packing material for air shipments, hat blocks, insulation in refrigerator cars, refrigerators and trucks, it is also used for bulletin boards, toys, advertising displays, acid-resisting, and sound proofing, etc. And, as we were saying, it saves a lot of sorrow. Not long ago one Hollywood Jerry Lewis was a 200-pound man, but each time the door and surrounding 2 by 4's were of balsa.

Aged Grow In Grace

(Christian Science Monitor)

A group of experts from many nations is meeting exchanging in London the results of studies on problems of old age in human beings. They confirm the common observation that age is inevitable, or perhaps even principally, the effect of the passing of a certain number of years.

They found that elderly people often were unwilling to change, perhaps more efficiently, than younger persons. They found the old to be generally more conservative and philosophical than the young.

Such findings lead toward several conclusions. One is that so far as possible age should be treated as individual rather than as arbitrary basis in matters of employment. Another is that by considerateness and unedrstanding families can add much not only to comfort but to usefulness. And, finally, that the person himself can contribute to grow rather than "run down" by utterly endeavoring to contribute to the best in his surroundings and by reflecting qualities of character that are ageless.

Lure For Sneezers

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Farmers and summer resort operators in Sullivan County, New York, have wisely mobilized forces in an extensive anti-ragweed education program, by chemical spraying, in the Catskill mountain region. Results of course will be the purpose of attracting vacationing hayfever sufferers to the area.

We can imagine nothing more effective, as a lure to the hayfever victim, than the elimination of hayfever producing weeds, in a vacation area. Relief would be even more important to these victims than the culture of food accommodation to the resorts, or even the quality of fishing available. Here's a real smart idea for other resort areas plagued with aggravating pollens.

Prejudice Faster

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

Prejudice is a great time saver. It enables a man to form opinions without going to the trouble of learning the facts.

No Borders In the Sky

(Hamilton Spectator)

Next month the United States Air Force will stage a series of mentered air defences — aircraft, guns and the new guided missiles — under a single Continental Air Defence Command, and there is talk that eventually the command will be made truly "continental", a joint American-Canadian undertaking over the northland ofOntario are standing guard as much over Pittsburgh and Detroit as over Hamilton's; the Starfires of the USAF riding the night skies of New York State are watching over our roofs as much as over Rochester's. The air defence of this continent, from the Arctic Ocean to the Rio Grande, is single and total or it is no defence at all.

We will not belittle ourselves if Canadian flights squadrons serve under American command, any more than their USAF counterparts will be diminished if, by a periodical rotation, they come under the direction of an RCAF officer. They are two services with a single job to perform, the integrity of the broad sky that sweeps, without differentiation, over our two countries.

Unsolved Murders

(Owen Sound Sun Times)

Report from Niagara Falls that "several" persons have recently been questioned in connection with the murder of an elderly woman in that area eight years ago shows that the law does not give up easily. Should the murder be solved, and the guilty party or parties brought to justice, it will not be the first time that murder has been punished long after it has been committed. The memory and the files of the police are long. The guilty person, perhaps lulled into a feeling of false security, or, perhaps, guilt has been heavy on his or her mind, makes a slip and the puzzle of years back clicks into place.

There have been a number of unsolved deaths in recent years. And policemen do not like unsolved crimes.

Light Reading Preferred

(New York Herald-Tribune)

Department of Higher Criticism, or Walter Yust, the Encyclopedia Britannica's editor in chief, addressing the annual library symposium at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio: "Most of my reading today is done in bed. I prefer a lightweight book, because if I do go to sleep and the lightweight book falls on my chest it doesn't wake me up."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ISLANDS

Islands have always created a romantic flavor in my mind. Robert Louis Stevenson lived upon one for years, and scores of writers have written about islands, and secretly yearned to own one for themselves. Willa Cather wrote a beautiful story about an island. I have encountered many articles across an interesting article about islands, stating that one may buy hundreds of them for sale, from a few hundred dollars to many thousands. I have even seen one when I saw an advertisement for an island off the coast of New England, but I didn't have the money.

From early youth I dreamed of the day when I might own a small island. That dream came true some several years ago, and each summer I have been spending two delightful weeks there, boating, and having fun with my boats. Islands cost more than money represents — them to be comfortable. They cost in hard work, and continual attention. They have to be planted, husbanded, have constant repair, and often you have to act as your own gardener, carpenter and electrician, among other tasks. But it's worth it in the end.

You get quiet on a small island. There is no traffic except that of the birds in the small animals and as what I have—a group of greedy gulls—who have learned the delicious scent of pines and their healthgiving aroma. There are varieties of birds that are rare on the mainland, and the nest-building structure of my island at least gives evidence of its inward integrity.

It's fun to go for your mail in the morning in your boat, and to bring friends to your island when they knock at your door, by way of the telephone. Then you take your boat and cross to the mainland, and bring them to the island, always praying that your motor will work all right for the round-trip! Yes, the little island is worth all it costs in money, tired business men say.

A reader thinks I am mistaken in the theory that the skin could absorb liquids or particles of solids.

Now, well a minute, I have no such theory. I daresay no one has proved scientifically that the unbroken skin absorbs anything. Many old timers imagined the skin absorbs the oil or that chemical, medicine or poison, and from what purports to be current medical literature I gather that some self-styled investigators still think so).

The reader mentions a few examples. Old time hatters, he says, were reputed to absorb mercury through the skin, affecting the nervous system and producing the condition known as "mad as a hatter."

(Reputed, eh! Don't be facetious).

Sailors adrift without fresh water, the reader continues, are supposed to have absorbed water by immersing themselves in the sea.

Soldiers in former days, says the collector of legends, would place a cut of tobacco in the armpit when they went on sentry duty. Absorption of nicotine through the skin soon produced illness that resulted in the desired trip to the hospital.

Arsene Gaultier with his famous dog-and-pony act which will be seen at Belleville Fair next week.

Trainer of Noted Dog Act at Fair Says Secret Is Endless Patience

Would you like to get on a stage in public and attempt to make four frisky ponies and a group of mischievous fox terriers go through their paces. Probably you would rather not.

The ability to impose his will upon such an unruly group as that is what makes Arsene Gaultier an artist. You'll get a better idea of the whole thing when you witness presentation of Gaultier's Steeplechase in front of the grandstand at the Belleville Fair beginning next Monday.

"Ponies on the average take about six months to train," Gaultier says; "while dogs will learn their paces in about half that time. There really is no secret to animal training. It's simply a matter of endless hours of practice, endless patience, a natural fondness for animals and a sympathetic understanding of their ways."

"Of course there are some ways of making things easier," Gaultier admits. "For instance, there's the number in which one dog is supposed to be shot. While he is lying on the stage his canine wife rushes over and kisses him. All this is necessary there is to rub a little fat on the 'dead' dog's ear before the act. All dogs have a natural taste for fat so you can always depend upon the 'wife' in the piece to lick the fat off the other dog's ear, giving the illusion of a kiss.

"For training purposes we prefer mongrel dogs to pure breds. In intelligence they all run about the same. Really it's a matter of hard cash. It's always a gamble whether or not a new dog will learn to do tricks. With pedigreed dogs going from $75 upward, we just can't afford that kind of gambling. Take that backward flip, now, that Peter does at the end of the act. Only about one dog in 20 will ever get to the point where he will do that one without a word of command. You see, I couldn't afford to play 20-to-one shots on pedigreed dogs at $75 a throw."

Arsene Gaultier was born into a famous family of French circus riders. He was born in Marseille, France, and as a youth toured all the countries of Europe with the family riding act. His father, beside being a rider, was also something of a trainer of domestic animals and it was from Pere Gaultier that young Arsene learned much about animal training. In recent years he has become a citizen of the United States and when not touring makes his home in Fairwood, New Jersey.

His appearance at the Belleville Fair has been arranged through George A. Hamid & Son of New York City.

Officer, Airman Win Gold Medals At Rifle Shoot

By CECIL SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—An army officer and an airman from Camp Borden, Ont., Wednesday captured the gold medals in one of the top matches of the week-long annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot.

Capt. Don C. Lawford won the gold medal in the Queen's match, awarded to the army or RCMP marksman carding the highest score in the match, and Flt.-Sgt. J. V. Martin received the other gold medal awarded for the first time for the highest RCAF marksman.

Capt. H. N. Cooper, 28-year-old adjutant of the British rifle team, carded a 179 of a possible 200 to place first in the match but because he is not eligible for the Queen's award he was presented with the Gen. Sir Arthur Currie Trophy which is fired concurrently with the Queen's.

The Queen's medals are only open to serving members of the Canadian Army, RCAF and RCMP.

CANADIAN SCORES

Capt. Lawford, 28-year-old member of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division Signal Regiment and a native of Regina, scored a 198—10 behind Capt. Cooper—and Flt.-Sgt. Martin carded a 183.

Fired in four stages and one of the most colorful of the six-day shoot on the ranges near Ottawa, the match consists of 40 rounds and is deliberate shooting from 600 yards, firing with movement from 600 to 11 yards, rapid firing from 300 yards and snapshooting from 300 yards.

Two tie shoots will be decided today. In addition the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match from 200, 500 and 600 yards, the Canada match from 200, 500 and 600 yards, Provincial match from 600 yards, the Michael Faraday from 300 and 500 yards, the Otter from 200, 500 yards, and the Coates- from 500 and 600 yards will be fired.

The top 150 in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match will advance into the final stage of the match to be fired Saturday.

Committee Not Yet Decided On Community Centre Site

TRENTON (Special) — A meeting of the committee formulating plans for the projected Trenton community centre was held Tuesday night. Most of the discussion was confined to proposals for the site of the centre but the committee decided to hold the subject in abeyance until their next meeting, scheduled for next Monday night.

Don Senik, secretary, said papers were signed for incorporation of a board of directors for the project.

In its fourth meeting since its formation last June the committee also: (1) Heard a resume on refrigeration for the centre by a representative of the John Inglis Company of Toronto, but reached no decision; (2) opened a bank account; (3) decided to approach various local service clubs for pledges towards the project; (4) formulated a set of by-laws for the centre, and; (5) took stock of blue prints for the project, submitted for approval by the Toronto firm of T. A. Wilson.

The blueprints allow for a building of 140 x 140 feet with a regulation-size ice surface of 180 x 80 feet. Seating capacity would be 2,300, with a total capacity for 3,000 persons.

MRS. FISHER WINNER

POLICE COURT NEWS

Donald Normile, Belleville, was fined $50, or an alternative one month's imprisonment, in magistrate's court Tuesday, for violation of the Liquor Act. Police said it was Normile's second offence against the Liquor Act.

A fine of $16 also was levied by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, on Gordon Charles Le Bourdais, for a breach of the fish and game laws.

Evidence submitted by conservation officer Fred McDonald of Point Anne, showed Le Bue had in his possession some undersized bass and pickerel, while fishing off No. 3 dam on the Trent River, recently.

Magistrate Wills also imposed fines in 33 cases of speeding brought before the court.

Wannamaker, R.R. 1, Frankford, on Saturday, August 7, at 2.30 p.m.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Melrose Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday last at the home of Mrs. Harry Davis in the absence of Mrs. George Morgan, the president. Mrs. Russell MacFarlane took charge of the meeting and conducted the worship service, the theme being "My Brother's Keeper."

Mrs. Roy Badgley presided at the piano for the singing of the hymns. Mrs. Harry Davis read the Scripture lesson.

A short business period was conducted, Mrs. (Capt.) McLaren resigned as leader of the Mission Band, but will endeavor to secure a leader with Miss Beatrice MacFarlane as assistant leader.

Collection amounted to $4.35.

Mrs. E. M. Badgely, secretary of Christian Stewardship, gave a reading "Gratitude Complex."

Mrs. John Milligan, group leader, took charge of the following program on Temperance: Mrs. Charles MacFarlane gave a reading, "Christian Stand". Mrs. Henry Van Dyke Mrs. Roy Badgely gave some facts and figures on the liquor problem.

For every dollar Canada is spending on operating all its educational institutions she is spending $2.25 on beer, and for every dollar spent on teachers' salaries she is spending $3.10 on beer, wine and spirits.

EVILS OF ALCOHOL

Mrs. E. N. Badgely quoted many truths on the evils of alcohol.

Miss Beatrice MacFarlane gave a reading "An Enemy Hath Done This" and Mrs. Mary McArem gave a reading, "This Calls for Reflection." Each story exemplified the example that should be set for young people.

Mrs. Grant McArem gave a reading, "Bring Alcoholism Out Into the Light of Day". "Treat alcoholism as a disease, same as we do cancer and tuberculosis. Alcoholism is our greatest single health problem that is not receiving active consideration. Prevention and treatment are the two edges of the same sword. As citizens, in our civic activities, we must awaken the community to the both edges of the weapon with which we fight for a happy and a healthy world."

Mrs. Milligan gave a paper "Our Moral Responsibility." "Let us remember that evil exists only as the church allows it. In vain we try to run away from the fact that the whole problem is at bottom a moral problem. Our whole concern, our sense of responsibility, our method of action springs from our conception of the true value of human personality, the nature of man, his worth as a child of God and his chief end, which is to know God, let us say with Paul 'if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no more meat while the world standeth.'"

Mrs. Charles MacFarlane conducted a short discussion period on the temperance problem, the value of pledge signing—example counts.

Mrs. MacFarlane gave a gracious welcome to Mrs. Charles MacFarlane, of Toronto, and thanked Mrs. Davis for her kind hospitality. Mrs. Davis served refreshments and a social time was spent.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. M. Badgely.

Eggplant And Broccoli

With so many good vegetables from which to choose, it is too bad to keep serving the same ones over and over again. Of course, everyone has favourite vegetables, but you miss out on very good eating if you never try some of the lesser known ones. Eggplant is a good example, its sleek, purplish-black, rather stately appearance attracts you immediately, but your admiration may be followed by bewilderment about how to cook it. All too few take the time to find out, and eggplants are often tops as a vegetable counter.

The name tells you nothing, for in size, color, and taste eggplant is quite unlike an egg. History records one attempt to change the name. That was in the seventeenth century when British traders brought eggplants to London markets from West Africa under the name "Guinea Squash". However, that could not have been very popular because it continued to be known as the eggplant. The eggplant is a native of India and Africa, Chinese and Arabs grew them centuries ago to use as a beautiful dish of food. It may well be that the early eggplants were smaller and more like eggs, but in our case it would seem that the name is here to stay.

Eggplants, as we in Canada know them, are oval to round in shape, about the size of a muskmelon with a purplish to black skin color. It is interesting to note that they do occur in other countries in many sizes and shapes. Some may be rather like an over-sized banana while others are more like a huge tomato. The color can vary too—some are white and others are green. But certainly we are making a big mistake not to become acquainted with the "Glamour Girl" of the vegetable patch, for once you do get to know and like the eggplant you are sure to serve it often.

COOKING THE EGGPLANT

If you have hesitated up to now to cook eggplant then you will be glad to hear that the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, say that it is very easy to do. Before cooking it, of course you have to buy it and the home economists have some very good advice on the point. They say to choose an eggplant that is firm, glossy and free from blemishes. As for cooking—frying is perhaps the fastest method and the one that is used most often. First peel the eggplant and cut it into half-inch slices, then dip the slices in egg and crumbs and brown them in a small amount of fat until they are tender and golden brown. This takes about 8 minutes. Fried eggplant is delicious served with tomato sauce. Baked, the eggplant is good too, especially if you sprinkle it lightly grated cheese on it just before it is finished cooking. Since eggplant has such a distinctive flavor it combines well with other vegetables in a casserole. So, it can be used either as a vegetable at dinner or as a lunch or supper dish.

An idea for a luncheon dish is to cut the eggplant in half lengthwise, scoop out part of the centre, cut into cubes and use as part of the filling. Then fill the eggplant with a tasty stuffing of either creamed meat or vegetables. Bake it in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes or until tender. And here is the home economists' recipe for "Quickie" Eggplant Casserole.

"QUICKIE" EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

1 medium eggplant
3 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 10 ounce can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup grated medium Cheddar cheese
2 tomatoes, sliced
1/3 cup buttered crumbs

Cut eggplant into one-inch slices, pare and cut into cubes. Sauté eggplant in fat for 5 minutes and place in a greased casserole. Add onion to soup, heat and pour over the eggplant. Sprinkle with grated cheese, arrange tomato slices on cheese and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate over, 350 degrees F., 45 minutes or until eggplant are browned. Makes six servings.

BROCCOLI

Broccoli is a vegetable that is not served nearly as often as it should be. Although it has been known and used in Europe for centuries it was little known in Canada until the 1930s. Its very attractive green color and different flavor make it a favorite vegetable for special meals, but it is so easy to cook and so much more in line being grown in Canada that it should be served regularly. Home economists say to choose broccoli that is fresh and clean looking. It should have tightly closed green flower buds in compact clusters or heads and there should be no yellow color in the buds. Here are the home economists' directions for cooking broccoli.

DIRECTIONS FOR COOKING BROCCOLI

1. Cut off woody part of stalks and remove coarse leaves.
2. Cut large stalks lengthwise into suitable serving portions. Wash thoroughly, and tie loosely into bundles.
3. Place bundles upright in about 1 inch of boiling water in a deep saucepan or top of double boiler. Add salted; should come not more than half way up to base of flowerets.
4. Sprinkle with salt, allowing ½ teaspoon per pound of prepared broccoli.
5. Cover and cook until stalks are just tender allowing 8 to 12 minutes for young, early broccoli, 10 to 15 minutes for late broccoli.

When buying broccoli, allow about 1½ pounds for four servings.

A drawn butter sauce or a cheese sauce is very good with broccoli and a few chopped nuts add a pleasant crispness.

12th Birthday Marked By Weiner Roast, Gifts

Last evening 16 young people assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roper, Carrying Place, in honor of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Roper, who was celebrating her 12th birthday.

The first portion of the evening was spent around the camp fire on the spacious lawn when wieners, toasted marshmallows and fresh buttered popcorn were enjoyed, ending with a sing-song of favorite songs; while the latter portion was given over to games of various kinds, climaxed with generous servings of delicious birthday cake, soft drinks and tea.

Miss Elizabeth was the happy recipient of lovely gifts for which she most graciously expressed her thanks.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T LOOK FOR LOYALTY FROM THE DISLOYAL

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 30, I have been married four years, and have two wonderful children. My husband was 33 when we married, and I thought I loved him, but recently I discovered I was in love with a married man with three children. He is 30 years old.

He and I have been planning to get divorced and then marry each other, but my husband and his wife know nothing about this yet.

My question is, do you think we will be happy and can trust each other? — U.R.F.

Dear U.R.F.:

A fine, understanding worker you are, aren't you? Though a wife and mother, you've been secretly associating with another woman's husband, and now, for the sake of you to make plans for divorcing your unsuspecting — and no doubt trusting — mates, with the idea of exploding the whole thing suddenly in their faces when you are ready. Any people with no more sense of duty in marriage than you two have can hardly expect either to be happy or to trust each other if you did marry, and you would both deserve exactly what you would probably get.

Does that answer your question?

RIGID PARENTS WON'T PERMIT HER TO HAVE BOY FRIENDS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost a year now, I have liked a boy from a neighboring town but, because my parents know that some of the boys who live there are the rough type, they won't even meet him. He came to my house a couple of times, and they made me tell him to stop coming.

Besides this, they tell me I'm too young to associate with boys, although I am 15 years old. They won't let me write to a boy or get any telephone calls from boys. Just recently, a good friend left for the army and he asked me to write to him, but my parents won't let me.

I have tried to reason with them, but they won't listen. They're so strict that I almost hate them. I hope you can help me.—C.C.

Dear C.C.:

I can frankly understand that it would be pretty hard for a girl to feel loyal and appreciate toward parents who are so rigid and unyielding in regard to her normal desire for boy friends. Fifteen is plenty old enough for dates and proper friendships with boys, and you should be having them.

Do you think it would be possible for you to confide in the mother of some girl friend whom you admire and feel would understand? Some person of this sort, with a daughter of her own, might be willing to take an interest in your problem and, by taking the trouble to make friends with your parents, gradually become friendly enough with them so that they would listen to anything she might have to say about the social life of young people. Perhaps she wouldn't even have to bring the matter up specifically, but let them see, by the way she treated her own daughter, that she felt it natural for girls and boys to have good times together.

The point is that I don't believe it will get anywhere by trying to "reason" with your parents. What you say about their attitude makes me feel they would not be willing to take anything you say very seriously, and might even resent it so that things would get worse between you instead of better. But what you think about this idea I have suggested, and at all times try to be thoughtful and considerate and helpful in your family so that your parents may come to realize that you're grown up.

Let me know if you think of any older person to whom you might talk, and tell me a little more about your family life. If I had more information, I might be able to give you some further and more helpful suggestions.

TROUBLE AFOOT? WEAR CORRECTLY FITTED SHOES

It is a strange thing, beyond understanding. A woman will spend time and money on her complexion and hair and never regret the expense. She will hair starve herself in order to maintain a svelte shape. But if her bother be shoes, she will accept her misery with resignation and never bother to seek the professional attention that would afford relief. Her gait is often stumbling and hobbling through life.

Let her pause and consider those marvelous mechanisms that propel her for hours on end. Her feet are shock-absorbing, bridgelike structures that support the body in the vertical position that is peculiar to humans, since animals travel on all four. The stresses on the bones and ligaments are terrific, and that is not too strong a term!

When we are standing, half the weight of the body goes down each heel and falls squarely on the talus, a wedge-shaped bone at the ankle. This bone transmits half the weight to the heel; the other half is distributed along five slender bones called metatarsals that look like fingers down the fore part of the foot. And it may interest you to know that when we are extremely high heels almost your entire weight may fall upon one single bone.

We know that high heels are dressy, that they have been worn for years and that women will probably go on wearing them. But let them give their feet release from strain by wearing heels of moderate height every other day, saving the spikes for formal dress.

When selecting shoes, have your feet measured. They may not be the same size, one may be larger than the other and the larger one decides the size of the shoe. Don't turn a deaf ear to what the salesman has to offer in the way of suggestions.

Remember your feet should be a thing of beauty. In the summer season, after traveling over hot pavements, feet should be massaged with a soothing cream. But most of all, they need the kind of shoes that provide comfort.

DON'T "EXPLAIN" NON-ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE FOR TOASTS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My husband and I are teetotalers. Although we try not to talk about our point of view, we don't serve alcoholic beverages. Our friends understand this, accept it. But now my husband's niece, who is also his godchild has just announced her engagement, and he and I would like to give a dinner party to celebrate the engagement. We certainly don't want to sidestep the toasts that are taken for granted at such an occasion. But some of the friends of the couple we won't know very well. What should we do—explain our point of view, or ask that there be no toasts proposed to the couple?

B.T.

Don't do either. Simply be completely natural. . .remember that there are a great many people these days who take this point of view in stride, just as it should be. Don't "explain" and please, dear, don't dramatize it. . .don't "explain" anything. Just serve a delicious but not toasts be proposed. Do 3 things: (1) serve a colorful, sparkling non-alcoholic beverage, grape juice perhaps combined with a sparkling water, or ginger, or an interesting combination of fruit juices; (2) carry this drink very, very gaily and (3) serve it in wine glasses, perhaps champagne glasses. To give it a festive air.

INVITATIONS TO TEA FOR HER SON'S FIANCEE

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I am a widow, my only son has recently become engaged to a lovely girl who lives in a nearby suburb, and I would like to give a simple tea-party in my home to have our relatives and friends (both family friends and my son's friends) meet her. What sort of invitations would be appropriate for this? — Reader

I suggest you write cordial little notes of invitation (on the inside pages of your Informals, of your note-paper or semi-note paper) to relatives and intimate friends.

Dear Grace:

Please make us all happy by coming to a little party I'm giving for Peter's fiancee, Anne Lee, on Sunday afternoon, September 12th, four to seven o'clock. She's a dear, "our" Anne, and Peter and want you and to know each other. Affectionately.

To friends not-so-close and to your son's friends you might write your invitations on your visiting-cards or on the inside pages of your Informals or on good-size plain white cards. At the top write: "To meet Miss Anne Lee" and below write:

A Feast of Fried Chicken

By Mary Moore

The happiness or companions or surroundings or hunger of an occasion often influence your appetite so much that any food you eat tastes delicious.

The summer of the year, we were married we drove to Missouri where we were going to go to school in the fall. Our friends were young students too and because we were living in a very small city we had to make our own fun.

One of the couples was a newly married dentist and his wife Margie. She had a flock of chickens. If suddenly we decided we'd go swimming Margie was called on to provide a couple of her pets for fried chicken for the occasion.

Decades later I remember Margie's fried chicken eaten beside the "tank pond" in our wet bathing suits, as being the best I ever tasted. This is how she did it.

MARGIE'S FRIED CHICKEN

(She had to catch, kill, defeather, dress and cut up her birds.) You merely ask the butcher for fryers, you prefer.

For every 2 lbs. cut up chicken allow 1-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon paprika, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Put this in a paper bag and shake about 2 or 3 pieces of washed and dried chicken in this flour mixture to dredge it. If you have time this should dry for about 1-2 hour. In a large frying pan put oil or shortening or butter or margarine to 1-3-inch depth. (A good combination is 1-2 butter and 1-2 best quality lard.) Heat this until a drop of water in it sizzles. Brown the drumsticks and thighs first lightly in this sizzling fat, then add the breasts and wings, and finally the less meaty back pieces. They should be golden brown on all sides. Add 2 tablespoons boiling water sparingly for it will spatter. Reduce heat and cover and cook until thigh and leg pieces are fork tender—about 20 to 40 minutes—time depends on age and size of chicken. Uncover during last five minutes. Chicken should be turned once or twice during this cooking period. Liver may be floured and fried during last 6 or 7 minutes in same pan. Giblets and heart would have to be precooked, then floured and fried along with other pieces.

If you want fried chicken but do not want to pay prices for fryers, buy boiling chickens, and make

BATTERED CHICKEN

Simmer a prepared boiling fowl until tender. Remove from broth and chill both broth and chicken. One-half hour before serving time dip the pieces of cold chicken in this batter: With rotary or electric beater beat three egg whites until stiff. Without washing the beater beat three egg yolks with 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1-4 cup undiluted evaporated milk. Fold the beaten whites in carefully. Dip the chicken pieces in this batter. Have hot in large frying pan 1 cup lard or other shortening and 2 tablespoons butter. Brown the chicken pieces on all sides in the hot fat for about 5 or 7 minutes. Keep finished pieces hot while you do the remainder. This is delicious served with cream gravy: measure 2 cups of cold broth. To it add 1-4 cup cream and heat. Stir together 3 1-2 tablespoons each flour and cold water to a smooth paste. Stir into the heated broth and cream mixture. Season with salt and black pepper and, if desired, paprika. This is lovely garnished with rings of green pepper.

Army Names Seventy Officers To Serve on Indo-China Board

OTTAWA (CP)—The Army Wednesday named 70 officers, including two brigadiers, to serve on the Indo-China truce commissions.

With the six officers already appointed from the Canadian brigade in Korea, the number of Canadian personnel required for the three commissions is at the half-way mark.

HAVING TROUBLE

At the same time, the external affairs department said names of top civilian delegates on the commissions will not be made known until the end of the week.

Both the external affairs department and the army have been having difficulty rounding up qualified personnel for armistice supervisory work in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the three associated states of Indo-China.

The two brigadiers are Brig. W. J. Megill, 47, commander of the British Columbia area, and Brig. T. E. Snow, 49, commander of the New Brunswick area.

Nickel Powder Now Produced Commercially

NEW YORK (CP)—Pure nickel powder and its by product, ammonium sulphate, are now being produced commercially through a new chemical process developed in the Ottawa plant of Sherritt Gordon Mines Limited, it was announced today.

Elton L. Brown, president and managing director of the firm, said in a message to stockholders that the plant which embodies the new process is expected to reach rated capacity sometime in the fall.

"The startup of the plant followed the pattern established in our Ottawa pilot plant," Brown said. "No troubles were encountered with the process . . . the nickel metal produced has been right up to specification since the start of production July 22."

Brown added that the Sherritt Gordon mine at Lynn lake, Man., is producing nickel concentrate at a rate "considerably in excess of our estimates."

The huge refinery, first of its kind in the world, was designed and constructed by Canmical Construction (Inter-American) Limited of Toronto. The process was developed and is controlled jointly by Sherritt Gordon and Chemical Construction Corporation, a unit of American Cyaninid Company.

ST. LAURENT

Meanwhile, an authoritative interpretation of his brief statement to reporters was that it meant, if no agreement is reached, a strike averting session of Parliament before any actual strike.

However, an informant emphasized that this government view could be changed in the light of developments.

WILL LOOK FIRST

Mr. St. Laurent, asked about future moves if today's action fails to bring a settlement, would say only:

"We have given thought to further steps, but we are not jumping at anything yet."

Mr. St. Laurent and Labor Minister Gregg were to meet this morning and afternoon in two and perhaps three conferences with the railways and the unions representing 145,000 employees, chiefs of the latter group newly reinforced in their contract demands by a membership vote authorizing them to stage a strike that could tie up more than 90 per cent of rail transport.

The strike-empowering vote was announced Wednesday at Montreal by Frank H. Hall, head of the 14 unions' strike negotiating committee. He leads the committee in today's conferences with the ministry. The union chiefs were empowered to call a strike if negotiations are not successful.

CONTRACT HAS EXPIRED

The negotiations started late last year for contracts to replace a series that expired last Dec. 1. The unions—representing workers who do not actually run — want fringe benefits such as better deals on paid holidays, sick leave and vacations. Commercial telegraphers also are affected.

The companies have said they cannot afford to pay, contending the demands would cost around $60,000,000 a year.

Companies involved include the nationally-owned CNR, and Donald Gordon, chairman and president, was to be on hand. For the CPR, it was expected to be N. R. Crump, system vice-president.

The other two companies are the smaller Ontario Northland, owned by the Ontario government, and the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, but it was not known if they would have representatives here.

TWEED—Among the numerous muskies which have been taken from Stoco Lake recently was the 22 pounder landed by Tony De Santis.

De Santis who lives in St. Catharines, hooked the big fellow early Friday evening while casting with a large jitterbug.

Reports from successful fishermen seem to prove the jitterbug is the most popular bait for catching these big fish.

BUILD BIG SEWAGE PLANT

Strike at Atomic Installations In U.S. Expected

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Production workers at one of the two big atomic installations in the United States will strike today for higher wages. Negotiations at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., plant are believed near the breaking point.

The 930 CIO workers at the Paducah Ky., atom-bomb factory voted Tuesday to wait no longer for a "substantial and justified" raise in pay.

Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Co. operates both the Paducah and Oak Ridge plants.

WILL STOP

In Washington, President Eisenhower said today he will use every legal means at his command to prevent atomic strikes.

The president told a press conference this is one field in which the government cannot tolerate a cessation of work.

He did not discuss specifically whether he will seek a no-strike injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act.

He could do this without delay as a fact finding board has laid the legal ground work by making a report as a result of a previous labor dispute.

Such a board-report is a required preliminary to injunction action under the Taft-Hartley law.

Flat Tire Brings About Arrest of Suspect

TORONTO (CP)—A tire on a get-away car went flat at the wrong time and police recovered close to $24,000 in stolen rubber goods piled in the auto.

Raymond Mitchinson, 19, is charged with stealing $23,000 in rubber goods from a suburban factory and an estimated $845 load from downtown parked cars. He appears in court today.

Police saw a car stalled with a flat near the rubber factory building. When its owner returned they attempted to question him and he fled. They found an enormous load of rubber in the car and arrested Mitchinson after tracing ownership of the car.

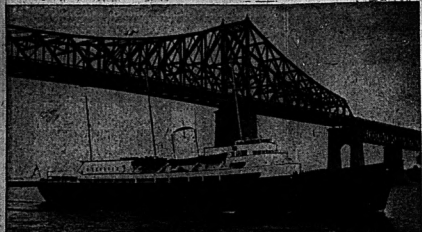
ROYAL YACHT ARRIVES



The royal yacht Britannia, which will take the Duke of Edinburgh back to Britain at the end of his Canadian tour, sails under the Jacques Cartier bridge on a courtesy visit to Montreal. The sleek, $6,000,000 craft will pick up the Duke at Goose Bay, Labrador, on August 17. (CP Photo).

House Members At Fort William On Northern Tour

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Twenty-three members of the Ontario legislature, headed by Lands Minister Mapledoram and Mines Minister Kelly, arrived here Wednesday to spend two days at the Lakehead as part of their three-week northwestern Ontario tour.

All the visiting legislators—many of whom are making their first visit to the district—were impressed with their two-day train and bus tour of Lake Superior's north shore.

The party left Terrace Bay Tuesday and were the guests at Long Lac Pulp and Paper Co., Ltd., officials at breakfast and a tour of the model company town. They stopped briefly at Schreiber where they were greeted by reeve Fred Kelly and the members of his council.

NOON STOP

A noon stop was made at Rossport for a "fish fry" dinner of Lake Superior trout.

At Nipigon they were met by Reeve George O'Neill and municipal officials before proceeding to Red Rock.

At the St. Lawrence Corporation mill town they toured the Kraft newspaper mill and witnessed the manufacture of the first newsprint being turned out by the plant. A new paper machine has been put into operation a couple of days earlier, following a $30,000,000 expansion program which has been under way the past couple of years.

Workers Accept Board Terms To End Strike

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The 45-day-old strike at Kelvinator of Canada Limited ended Wednesday night when union members voted by a two-thirds majority to accept terms worked out Monday at a conciliation meeting in Toronto between company and union representatives.

The contract agreed between United Automobile, Workers of America (CIO-CCL) and the company will last 20 months, but has a clause allowing the union to reopen wage negotiations at the end of 12.

The union called the strike of 453 production workers June 28 when the company proposed it sign a five-year contract. The union wanted a one-year term.

CONTRACT PROVISIONS

The contract approved Wednesday night contains all the provisions proposed in Monday's conciliation board's majority report with the exception of a vacation clause which will be the same as originally proposed by the company before Monday's meeting.

Under the agreement production workers will get a three-cent hourly increase when they return to work and will remain on an incentive-pay basis. Non-production workers will remain on their existing wage scales, with a quality for a 17-per-cent bonus.

Non-production employees hired after the signing of the contract will come under a new wage structure, starting at $1.50 an hour and rising to a maximum $2.05.

The company also agreed not to exercise any discriminatory measures against any employee as a result of the strike. Dismissal notices, served against a number of strike leaders, now have been withdrawn.

BOTISH FRANK

SANDWICH, England (CP)—Explaining the presence of a hammered-sickle flag on the St. Feldy's church flagpole, E. F. Oakes, headmaster of Sir Roger Manwood School, said it was an end-of-term joke by a boy who is a trusted blue Tory.

Radar-Equipped Towers Placed 100 Miles in Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air force Wednesday revealed more details of a weird-looking row of towers that will stand in the ocean off the Atlantic coast to give last-minute warning of the approach of bombers by air or surface craft.

The radar - equipped towers, which resemble off-shore oil drilling rigs in the Gulf of Mexico, will be located in moderately shallow water about 100 miles off the coast. It is reported they will range from Norfolk, Va., to Newfoundland.

The tall sentinel posts, operating in a manner of electronic devices, will become part of the system of ground and air units and radar chains allocated to the new continental air defence command.

Now that bombers can fly about 10 miles a minute, warning stations 100 miles off shore would allow probably no more than 20 minutes' warning to a coastal city marked for atomic or hydrogen bomb attack. It might be as little as 10 minutes if the bombers flew low enough to get under the effective reach of radar. Much earlier warning already has been planned from cruising picket surface and air craft far out and over the Atlantic.

The purpose of the towers will be to detect raiders that get through the more distant screen of radar warning craft.

The air force said each tower will cost more than $1,000,000 for basic construction alone. Elaborate and highly sensitive electronic devices will cost more.

The North Atlantic Treaty was signed by 12 countries at Washington April 4, 1949.

Many Students Decide to Return For Another Term

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of Ontario students who planned to leave high school this year to start work will return to classes this fall to get a higher standing for better jobs, a National Employment Service report shows.

The report said hundreds of students have decided to return to school for their junior or senior matriculation because employers are demanding higher standards and because summer jobs are scarce for students this year.

Employers' demands for higher academic standards in junior job applicants were especially evident in Windsor, London and Hamilton.

Summer jobs such as fruit-picking and harvesting, which usually go to high school and university students, this year went to the adult unemployed in regional districts, the report said.

MANY UNEMPLOYED

There were 93,253 persons unemployed in Ontario during June—97 per cent more than at the same time last year.

The report said that unlike the case in former years, the need for agricultural helpers was not critical and that most local employment offices recruited workers from surrounding areas.

"This is especially true in the Niagara district where the early fruit has been picked very generally by residents of Hamilton and St. Catharines," the report said.

Vacancies in Welland's canning industries were filled by local unemployed women, as were those in Hamilton.

Orillia officials said local workers were hired by district tourist camps and resorts. Reports from Sturgeon Falls were similar.

Taking Water for Irrigation Said Drying Up Streams

KITCHENER (CP)—Robert Haworth of Brantford said Wednesday that some Ontario streams are drying up because farmers are taking the water to irrigate their crops.

Some southwestern Ontario tobacco growers have been setting up their own irrigation systems by building dams across small streams, diverting the water into ponds, and pumping it onto their fields.

Mr. Haworth, discussing the development at a meeting of the Grand valley conservation authority's education and publicity board here, said:

"Those irrigation systems cost about $20,000. There is no doubt that some of the tobacco men would have had a crop failure in this dry season if they hadn't used them. But they are taking so much water from some streams that the streams are drying up."

NO POWER TO ACT

He said Whiteman's creek near Brantford and Big creek near Tillsonburg "have almost been pumped dry."

Members of the authority said their organization has no power to act on the problem.

Oliver J. Wright, Conestogo representative, said he thinks only the Supreme Court of Canada could straighten out the legal angles.

With an irrigation system, the water is not returned directly to the creeks and sometimes does not get back at all. On a hot day, an estimated 25 per cent of the water evaporates and the tobacco plants on sandy soil quickly soak up the rest.

Increasing Scope of Govt. Activity Destroys 'Individual' in Society

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—The editor of Punch says the present age is one in which the individual is losing ground as the scope of government activities grows.

Malcolm Muggeridge, who took over the editorship of the British humorous weekly 18 months ago, has tried to revive some of its trenchant wit at the expense of public figures.

He said in an address Wednesday night at the 23rd Couchiching conference that in Britain state control of radio, of some industries, and, to some extent, of the press, is developing to the point where it "cannot but result in the diminution and final obliteration of the individual as we know him today."

He said the doctrine of the divine right of kings was mild compared with the doctrine of the divine right of the state, as practised now in some countries.

BORN AT GALILEE

"The liberties which we prize were not born in Westminster nor at Philadelphia," he said. "They were born on the shores of Galilee. Our civilization was born with the Christian religion and will end with it. Neither H-bombs nor Health Insurance laws will suffice to shore it up."

Delegates also heard a Johns Hopkins Hospital professor assert that loss of respect is driving elderly people into hospitals.

Prof. Paul Lemkau of Baltimore said the independence which these elderly persons instilled in their children has cut them off from family contact at an age when they are in need of it.

In many other countries the family, even in old age, remained head of the home and a respected individual.

Research has shown that elderly persons living in company of any kind tend to retain their sense of responsibility and therefore their mental health, Dr. Lemkau said.

Oliver Charges Govt. Is Drunk With Power

ATHENS, Ont. (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal Opposition leader, charged at a Liberal meeting Wednesday night the present administration is "drunk with power."

He said the government is so convinced of its own virtues that it subscribes to the doctrine that "might is right and the people's interests are secondary."

The statement was included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Oliver struck out at the government for "gross mismanagement of provincial affairs," charging they stood idly by while the public treasury was being "looted of millions of dollars."

Speaking at this small community 25 miles northwest of Brockville, the Opposition leader told his audience Ontario voters would have the opportunity to censure the government for their actions in by-elections on Sept. 16.

CAN "STRIKE A BLOW"

"Ontario can strike a blow for the return of government to the people and register a protest against the dictatorial actions of a government whose paramount concern is to see that the political ends of the Tory party are served rather than the people's interests and welfare," he said.

Referring to a suggested split in Liberal ranks Mr. Oliver declared it had no basis in fact and that his party was "made out of whole cloth."

"There have been and will be differences of opinion as to methods and strategy but so far as the ultimate goal is concerned there is only one road to follow and it is well defined."

He said the duty of the Liberal party is clear—to carry the attack to the enemy in the knowledge that victory will bring greater happiness to the people.

Boy Kept Alive For Six Days On Berries, Water

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty blueberries a day and water kept 15-year-old John Banks alive during six days of wandering over barren Flaherty island in Hudson Bay, he said Wednesday night.

Rabbs, the son of Toronto mining executive Douglas Banks, was flown home here after being found, unhurt but hungry Tuesday night on the sub-Arctic island.

He said in an interview his ordeal started at midnight, Aug. 5 when he lost his way at the isolated mining camp of Rocher mining corporation, of which his father is president. Clad in ordinary trousers with a flannel shirt and heavy rain coat, he wandered around for the next six days until found by an Eskimo search party 25 miles from the base camp.

Three RCAF aircraft, a private plane, 20 Eskimos and 16 whites hunted for him during the week. Wednesday an RCAF Canso flew him to Kapuskasing and on to Toronto.

Proprietor's Son Shot Through Leg By Hold-Up Man

TORONTO (CP)—Douglas Johnson, son of the proprietor of Johnson's Jewellers on downtown Yonge street, was shot through the leg Wednesday by a gunman in an abortive holdup attempt.

The gunman fired a second shot at proprietor W. J. Johnson when he reached for a weapon. The gunman then fled empty-handed into the street.

The robbery was chased through the downtown area by Kirk Johnson, elder brother of the victim, but escaped.

The injured Johnson was taken to hospital. His condition is reported good.

Housing Project To Be Built In Regent Park

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial-federal government housing partnership has approved construction of Regent Park South, a housing project which is part of the city's plan to wipe out blighted areas in central Toronto.

Cost is estimated at $14,000,000. The development is designed for low-income families. Its plans call for construction of 20 apartment buildings.

City council will be asked to approve the plan next month.

SLAVES FREED

President Abraham Lincoln of the United States proclaimed the freedom of slaves Jan. 1, 1863.

Newspaper Man Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Owen Ernest McGillicuddy, 66, Toronto newspaper man who spent many years on the staff of the Globe and Mail, died Wednesday night.

For some years he was on the editorial staff of the Toronto Star and later served as police reporter and as city editor of the old Mail and Empire.

He wrote "The Making of a Premier, Life of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, CMG," published in 1922, as well as "The Life of Marshal and Other Poems" published in 1916.

Born in Goderich, he was educated in Goderich and Ottawa. He had lived here since 1926.

U.N. Turns Over Part of N. Korea To RoK Command

SEOUL (AP)—The United Nations command announced today it is ready to turn over to the Republic of Korea administrative control of some 2,300 square miles of territory north of Parallel 38.

Gen. John E. Hull, UN commander, announced the decision which gives the RoK government control of central and eastern Korea below the demilitarized zone.

About 130,000 persons live in the area affected.

The area was under control of the Russians and subsequently the North Korean Communists from 1945 when the Korean peninsula was divided until 1950 when war broke out.

Died by Suicide

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A coroner's jury, inquiring into the death of Archie Cutcut whose body was found Aug. 3, Wednesday night found he died a suicide.

Cutcut disappeared June 27 while serving as a crown witness against two men accused of assault and robbery. The case against the two men was dismissed Aug. 6.

Dr. E. Burger of St. Thomas told the jury there were no indications of death other than by asphyxiation due to a rope found around the neck of the body.

FIGHT ARMY WORMS

PICTON (CP)—Canning crop growers met Wednesday in emergency session to discuss ways of fighting off an army of cutworms that has attacked Prince Edward county's grain, corn and garden crops.

Nfld. Grand Jury Returns True Bill On Fraud Charge

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A Newfoundland Supreme Court grand jury Tuesday returned a true bill against Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis. He was ordered to stand trial Sept. 21 on fraud charges totalling $470,000.

The 47-year-old Latvian - born economist pleaded not guilty to a charge that named only the Newfoundland government as a plaintiff. Until the moment he appeared before the grand jury, Valdmanis was accused of swindling two German machine companies of the $470,000 while serving as chief of the province's post-Confederation economic development.

However, an attorney-general's department officer said the phrasing used Tuesday was "just a technicality" although it is the charge under which Valdmanis will be prosecuted.

Mr. Justice H. A. Winters set this trial date for the fall term of the Supreme Court. Valdmanis was returned to a Newfoundland penitentiary cell.

Details Sketchy On How Boat Exploded, Burned

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. (CP)—The story of how a 35-foot fishing boat, loaded with 28 men, exploded and burned at remote McGregor bay Monday morning was revealed here today in sketchy detail as it was learned that one of the men aboard the boat, Bob Wilson, 28, of Manitowaning is confined to hospital here with burns to the face and hands. Two others were treated for burns but released.

According to information available, the 35-foot clipper was owned by Willard Witty, of Gore Bay, and was being used as a work boat by a crew of men employed by the Ontario hydro-electric power commission. They are working on line extensions in the McGregor bay area.

The men had just arrived by truck from Whitefish Falls and had climbed aboard the boat to be transported to the job. The boat had been at the dock over the week-end and apparently the motor cover was not lifted before an attempt was made to start the motor.

It is reported that another boat, also being used by the hydro crew, and owned by Grant Rogers, of Little Current, was docked beside the clipper. It is said to have carried dynamite for the line project blasting. Two drums of gasoline on the dock burned while two others were rolled away. Two hydro transformers were destroyed.

Mundt Predicts Report on 20th On Sen. McCarthy

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Karl Mundt (Rep.-S.D.) predicted today a report by Aug. 30 on the McCarthy-army row, stirred up anew Wednesday by an army statement voicing disbelief in a portion of the sworn testimony by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.).

The army said it does not believe that any army officer gave McCarthy excerpts from a secret FBI report on suspected Communists in the army, as the senator testified during the 36-day hearings.

McCarthy commented that he had no intention of getting into a new debate on the issue.

The prepared statement released at the Pentagon Wednesday was in reply to reporters' questions about an army investigation of McCarthy's sworn testimony that a young army intelligence officer gave him a 25-page document McCarthy offered in evidence. Members of the investigating sub - committee refused to read it.

NO SUCH LETTER—FBI

The document purported to be a letter written by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover to Maj. Gen. Alexander Bolling in 1953. Hoover sent word to the sub-committee that it quoted accurately from a 15-page report the FBI sent to the army but he said it was not a copy of any letter he had written.

McCarthy had refused to name the officer he said gave him the document in "disgust" at superior officers' failure to heed its warnings.

Army Secretary Stevens, returning to Washington Wednesday night from a month's vacation, said he was sure a thorough investigation had been made.

Stevens said also he does not plan to resign or accept a new position as ambassador to Portugal, as had been rumored. He and McCarthy were the big - name antagonists in the stormy McCarthy-army hearings.

Mundt declined to speculate on what the report or reporters will say about the bitter charges and counter-charges.

Deer hoofs are sharp and when aimed in a specific direction, anyone is wearing the better part of valor in retreat. Winnipeg policeman was attempting to corral the deer which had wandered inside the city limits. Police persistence finally won, however, and the deer is now in the city zoo. Studebaker Workers to Vote On Whether to Cut Wages

By RELMAN MORIN

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Thousands of Studebaker automotive employees prepared to vote today on the issue of immense potential importance to all of American industry—whether to accept a cut in pay so that the company can cut its costs.

They have been summoned to meeting at a high school football field in South Bend.

Studebaker officials have told the local union of the CIO United Auto Workers that the wage adjustments are necessary for competitive reasons.

Union officers, who worked out the proposals in lengthy negotiations with the company, have urged the membership to accept.

The cuts amount to an average 14 per cent of the payroll. A union official estimated that the reductions would range from a minimum of $12 to a maximum of $20 per week for the workers.

CLAIM THEY PAY MOST

The company contends it is paying an average hourly wage of $2.29, compared with $2.03 by its principal competitors. Studebaker reported a net loss of nearly $9,000,000 for the first six months of this year.

Top executives last April accepted salary reductions ranging from 20 to 30 per cent on all salaries above $25,000.

Nearly 5,000 members of the union a week ago rejected the proposed agreement. Union officials said the vote was "very close," but said, however, that the attendance at the original meeting represented less than half the union's present total membership of 10,500.

Two days later, the company gave notice that it would end its present contract with the union in 60 days.

SECOND MEETING CALLED

Louis J. Horvath, president of the local, announced Wednesday a second meeting would be held to reconsider the proposal. He said the executive board had received a number of petitions asking to reconsider.

He estimated that nearly 8,000 members of the union would attend today's meeting.

The company says lower hourly rates will not mean a reduction in monthly take-home pay. They say more steady work will result.

The Studebaker plant is idle now for the 11th week since the beginning of the year. Some weeks it operated only four days.

Manitoba Day Observed At Marian Congress

CAP DE LA MADELEINE, Que. (CP)—A pontifical high mass celebrated in the Byzantine rite of the Roman Catholic Church today marks celebration of Manitoba day at the Marian Congress.

Manitoba is the eighth province to celebrate a special day at the congress at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Cape.

The last day of the congress, Sunday, is set aside for Canada.

At one minute past midnight today a priest accompanied by altar boys started to say the first low mass of the day. Other priests are following him in a steady stream of masses that will go on uninterrupted until Sunday, the Feast of the Assumption.

This little shrine town of 20,000, just across the St. Maurice river from Trois-Rivieres, Que., is bursting at the seams with pilgrims. Throughout the day they flock to the services in the sanctuary or the gaiter in little groups to say the rosary.

Nearly 1,000,000 persons are expected to attend the congress. Among them will be a group of Montrealers who set out afoot last night to trek the 83 miles to the shrine.

Throughout the congress pilgrims have jammed the weather-beaten grey stone church built in 1714 to say the rosary, their arms outstretched in the form of a cross. Others visit the open-air stations of the cross, picturing Christ's last few hours on earth.

Sunday, in closing devotions the Papal legate, Valerio Cardinal Valeri, will place a crown of gold studded with 565 precious stones on the brow of the statue of Our Lady of the Cape.

Prime Minister St. Laurent will be represented by Postmaster-General Alcide Cote. Premier Duplessis of Quebec will also attend.

ONTARIO SAILOR DROWNS

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack MacDonald, a 20-year-old seaman from Hollyrood, Ont., was drowned Wednesday night at a nearby Coleau landing, provincial police reported.

War Office Experts Busy Drafting New Look For Members of British Forces

LONDON (CP)—It appears that any future war will find the British army up in the air.

War office experts, faced with the certainty that atomic weapons will shape tomorrow's major struggles, are busy drafting a new look for Her Majesty's forces. And the chances are that from now on the foot-slogging infantry man will be as familiar with clouds and air pockets as he is with mud and foxholes.

The main problem for the military pundits is how to get large formations of men to a potential trouble spot in the shortest possible time.

FAST DISPERSION

Or as Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial General Staff, explained at a press conference:

"We need to be able to disperse and concentrate without confusion at top speed."

In addition, the traditional long lines of land- or water-locked supply vehicles provide prime atomic targets.

The answer lies in aircraft. For now that means high-speed air transports; for the future helicopters.

The helicopter has already earned military approval over the battlefields of Korea and Indo-China. But so far, its practical scope is limited to reconnaissance, rescue and submarine detection work.

Although the British services have ordered more than 200 helicopters, half will be used for communications and rescue work and the rest for anti-submarine duties.

It is reported that the army owns only three light helicopters. So, for the present, the burden of transport duty must fall on fixed-wing aircraft.

Air troop transport is expected to develop along two main lines:

1. An extremely fast "cannon-ball" service which will move large numbers of urgently needed troops or equipment.

2. A fleet of lower, heavy-duty planes to maintain a constant stream of supplies and men.

SHORT DISTANCE

Most likely choice for the first service is the Vickers 1,000, a large, swept-wing aircraft powered by four turbojet engines. Capable of near-supersonic speeds, the Vickers 1,000 is expected to accommodate more than 150 fully-equipped troops. It is designed to operate on long trans - oceanic and is known to have an unusually low fuel consumption.

Ideal candidate for the second service is the Blackburn Beverley, a high - winged, four-engined transport plane. This plane can carry 10 tons or 78 passengers in the main freight compartment and 49 more men in the long tail boom.

One of the Beverley's most important features is its 10-wheel landing gear designed to allow the aircraft to operate on any reasonably smooth ground surface. It also is the first British aircraft designed for the dropping of heavy army equipment by parachute.

DRUNK ON BIKE

PLAISTOW, N.Y. (AP)—Police arrested Edward Williams, 36, Tuesday on a charge of drunken driving—on a bicycle. He was sentenced to 15 days in jail.

ROBERT FABIAN

The Toronto Telegram says Robert Fabian, former chief of Scotland Yard's murder squad and one of the world's most famous detectives, has accepted its invitation to solve the mysterious eight-month-old disappearance of Toronto stenographer Marion McDowell. Fabian, it is reported, has left London for Canada to investigate the case of the girl who vanished Dec. 6. (CP Photo).

Duckling Farmer Promotes Husky As Pet in Britain

AYOT ST. LAWRENCE, Eng. (CP) — Peter Miller, a duckling farmer, is promoting the husky as a pet in Britain.

Miller, a 32-year-old ex-pilot who trained in Canada, "just can't resist them," he said. "They're so playful—a sort of silly dog really. They leap all over you, but they're wonderful with children."

Miller and his wife fell for huskies when they watched the gambolling pack at a zoo near their 12-acre farm. So they added five of the sled dogs, obtained from Greenland and Iceland, to the 20,000 ducklings they raise annually near Shaw's Corner, where George Bernard Shaw spent his last years.

WHALE MEAT

Miller feeds them on whale meat when the supply is available and his sons Michael and Paul, spend a lot of time with the friendly, frisky canines in their enclosure. He sold seven puppies in July.

"Trouble is I really haven't time to expand this idea as much as I'd like," he said. "I'm trying to find somebody to exhibit dogs for me—it's the only way to get the breed firmly established in this country."

The Kennel Club, Britain's authority on dog breeds and pedigrees, lists 40 huskies on its records, but says there are others around.

Their only bad habit, said Miller, is digging. He was told they might burrow as deep as "nine or 19 feet in soft ground, but they haven't done that here, thank goodness."

PRIVATE HOMES

Miller, a fast air arm pilot during the Second World War, has pleasant memories of Kingston, Ont., where he trained in 1940. Later, he plied between Britain and Canada on convoy duty.

"I can say with all sincerity that I have more pleasant memories of Canada than any other country in the world," said Miller, recollecting the hospitality enjoyed in private homes in Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal.

Two Michigan Doctors Drown, Boat Hits Buoy

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Two Michigan doctors were drowned near here Wednesday night after a cabin cruiser in which they were returning from a wedding anniversary dinner rammed a race marker buoy and started to take water.

Dead are Dr. Harris Lilliga, 44, of Boyne City, and Dr. Donald Beaver, 39, of Detroit. They treated hundreds of vacationers and troopers at the Burns Clinic at Petoskey, Mich.

The dinner had been given for Dr. Beaver and his wife before they returned to Detroit after completing their summer vacation.

The doctors' wives and two other persons on the cruiser were rescued.

Dr. Beaver was reported to have suffered a heart attack after the boat struck the buoy. He was revived by friends but later stood up in the craft and fell overboard. Dr. Lilliga was drowned while trying to swim to shore for help.

West German Nerves Shaken By Labor Unrest; Crippling Strike at Hamburg Ended

FRANKFURT (Reuters) — A divided labor scene—with sharp, bitter clashes between police and strikers at Amberg and a settlement of the crippling public utilities strike at Hamburg—dawned in West Germany today.

The Hamburg walkout by 14,000 public utility workers had paralyzed all bus, street-car and elevated train services, and severely reduced gas and water supplies.

The eight-day-old strike ended today when the union and municipality accepted an arbitration settlement providing a 1.5-cent hourly wage boost for regular workers. The strikers had asked 2½ cents.

Fighting began at Amberg, near Nuremberg, when strikers at the Siemens-Schuckert works dragged workers who refused to report to from their bicycles and motor-cycles, and pummeled them.

About 60 policemen, joined by non-strikers, were opposed by more than 1,000 strikers.

Police units also went out at Nurnberg to protect non-strikers on their way to work. There were boos by the strikers, but no violence was reported.

Despite renewed violence, there were some streaks of light on the clouded West German labor scene.

Strikers in one south German industrial centre were all going back to work today, a compromise pay raise averted an agricultural strike in the north, and the eight-day-old utilities strike in Hamburg ended.

The metal workers' union, to which—most of the men on strike belong, announced that it considered a compromise pay proposal by Bavarian Labor Minister Richard Oechsle a possible basis for new negotiations.

The employers' reply is expected today. The offer is for an extra eight pfennings (about two cents) an hour for timeworkers, and seven per cent for salaried men. The union wanted 12 pfennings and 12 per cent.

Metal workers at Schweinfurt, Bavaria, where West Germany's ball-bearing industry is concentrated, today accepted a temporary pay increase of about two cents an hour and four to six per cent, pending an agreement for all Bavaria.

Nearly 100,000 forestry and agricultural workers in Schleswig Holstein, who had threatened to strike in support of their demand for a 10-pfenning (about 2½ cents) an hour raise agreed "for the sake of industrial peace" to accept a compromise increase of four to five pfennings.

Scholarships Given Youths In Festival

STRATFORD (CP)—Two youthful members of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival company Wednesday night received drama scholarships each worth $1,500.

James Mason, star of this year's festival, presented the 1954 Dr. Tyrone Guthrie awards to William Hutt of Toronto and Bruce Swerdfager of Ottawa.

Guthrie, director of this year's production of "Measure for Measure", and chairman of the awards committee, said the awards marked the huge contribution that Dr. Guthrie had given the festival and the exciting and provocative moments in the theatre at Stratford.

"It is to be hoped that this festival will eventually become entirely Canadian and awards such as these are made with that object in mind," he said. "We must offer the Canadian audiences more theatre to make a Canadian theatre possible and that is why the awards have been given to Mr. Hutt to study direction and to Mr. Swerdfager to study acting."

No Horn Blowing In Istanbul Says Mayor

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. F. R. Gokay is a Turkish psychiatrist who is also mayor of Istanbul and believes in putting his professional knowledge to practical use.

He forbade the blowing of auto horns in his city of 1,200,000 people.

The order, put into effect three months ago, helped a lot, Dr. Gokay told reporters on a visit here. It reduced the number of traffic accidents by one-third. In addition, the streets would be more dangerous and thus look more quiet.

And it banished some of the noise and tension of civilization which contributed to mental ailments.

Dr. Gokay is staying at the Turkish embassy for a few days before attending the World Congress on Mental Health which opens in Toronto Saturday.

CAUSEWAY NEARS CAPE BRETON

This aerial view of the $22,000,000 Canso causeway shows the causeway inching its way closer to the Cape Breton island end of Canso straits. Drive to Clean Up Russian Morals Takes New Tack

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — The big Soviet press campaign to clean up Russia's morals has taken a new tack. Cut out the cussing, the men are told.

Komsomol Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist Youth League, is spearheading the effort to shush profane and vulgar language.

A drive against drunkenness and hooliganism already has been going on several months and has had good results, newspapers claim.

Now Komsomol Pravda has cast a disapproving glance toward the Urals industrial centre of Sverdlovsk. The paper spread over two columns a letter from a Sverdlovsk citizen complaining of vulgarities heard about town.

"Clean these evil words out of our rich, expressive language," the paper admonished.

NEW GIRL FLED

The letter writer had this to report about some workers in a new plant:

"One recently began to speak to a new girl worker and she took the language he used was so bad the girl fled.

"There is also even a Komsomol member who continually uses vulgar and abusive language, in serious as well as jesting conversation.

"He is still another worker, in city 17, who feels he shows he's grown up when he uses evil language . . ."

Ark Royal Likely to Be Last Of Great Flat-Tops in Navy

By TREVOR BLORE

LONDON (Reuters) — The last word in large aircraft carriers, the new Ark Royal, now undergoing trials on the Firth of Clyde before joining the home fleet, is likely to be the last of the great flat-tops of the Royal Navy.

For British naval architects now are working on ships of the next age of the hydrogen bomb.

The general line of thought is suggested by the anti-submarine frigate Rocket, one of the first ships completely designed and built by a destroyer hull to meet the atomic menace.

The frigate is specially streamlined to withstand blast, and provides protection against both blast and radiation for almost every member of the ship's company at action stations. She has a decked-in armored bridge, which might be better described as a "control turret," with a special periscope giving the commanding officer a wide view as he manoeuvres his ship from a protected position.

These are major points which naval architects and scientists must consider in these days of the strategic atomic weapon.

The Ark Royal, a 40,000-ton carrier, has a flight deck with an area of more than two acres. The deck is armored, but it is a prime target. The "island" structure on the starboard flight deck, housing the radar and plotting rooms without which the great ship would be blind in battle, is as large as a modern frigate and shares vulnerability with the flight deck.

This towering island surmounted by the flight deck presents a super-target in wind and weather which makes her scarcely quick and handy to manoeuvre when under attack in adverse weather. At best of times, a ship nearly 804 feet long over all, with a beam of more than 112 feet, is not the easiest craft in the world to handle.

These might be regarded as major debits in the atomic age. On the other side of the ledger are developments, including some gathered from the lessons learned from her sister ship, the Eagle, which now has been in commission for nearly four years.

And it is in the highly secret field of electronic equipment that the Ark Royal is the most modern fighting unit afloat. Ever since the Eagle was commissioned in 1951, the scientists have been improving the complex equipment which constitutes the eyes and ears of a modern warship, and which enables her aircraft to take off and operate her aircraft for either attack or defence.

SITTING BULL

This is an old photo of Sitting Bull who led the massacre against General Custer's cavalry at the Battle of the Little Big Horn in Montana in 1876. A few months later he moved with his Sioux tribe northward into what now is southern Alberta and Saskatchewan to seek refuge from the outraged United States army. He spent only six years in Canada before he was discouraged by Supt. James Morrow Walsh of the Northwest Mounted Police and turned southward and surrendered to U.S. authorities. Supt. Walsh stood his ground with Sitting Bull and his calm, cool courage won the admiration of the old chief. (CP Photo).

The games were played on Monday evenings with various groups in West Hastings. Rawdon won over North Trenton, Alkens and King St. United; they lost the games with Centenary and Scott's and this eliminates Rawdon from the final games. Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding the real estate news in the paper, and he said to me, It seems they're thinking of improving the nayborhood by bilding a row of shops on the vacant lot.

Well, it surely would be an improvement, getting rid of that dusty eyesore of a lot, ma said. Aw heck, how would that improve it? G roosalem, that vacant lot is just where us fellows have our baseball practice and our football practice and all kinds of things. Good nite, that would be a heck of an improvement, I said.

And today I told Puds Simkins about it and we walked around to the empty lot to see if anything was happening. Which it was, being 2 men looking through measuring machines and stretching strings to mark the places, and Puds said, I'm going to ask them.

Which he did, saing to one of them, Is it true they're taking away this empty lot to bild stores on it?

I couldn't say, you'll find the owners rite over there, the man said.

Meening a fat man and a thin man standing talking and we went over to them and asked them if it was true, and the thin man said, Yep, that's the general idea.

Well you'll be sorry, Puds said. This lot has nothing but stones under it. When you start to dig you'll think you hit a mountain, he said, and I said, And not only that, this is the widdlest place in the world. The breezes would blow through the shops and give all the customers colds so they would never come back, I said.

Say, Al, this sounds serious, the fat man said to the thin man, and the thin man said, Yeah, Sid we better think this over.

Which I hope they do.

Queen Criticzed

EDINBURGH (AP) — The Free Church of Scotland criticized the Queen today for making a donation toward rebuilding the Southwark Roman Catholic Cathedral.

The resolution termed the occurrence "without precedent in this realm since the Reformation."

OIL BOOM IN NORMANDY, FRANCE

The dream of "black gold" in their backyards was realized a few days ago by some 192 residents of the tiny village of Hannaches in Normandy, about fifty miles from Paris, France. Thirty-three years ago the dream was born when engineers "suspected" the presence of petroleum in the land around Hannaches. Nothing came of the probings, however, and subsequent search was also to no avail. The dream had just about faded when the recent find was made. The first day's haul amounted to some 150 barrels, about 6,500 gallons. Here is a big derrick and crew which have revived the dormant dreams of the Hannaches villagers. (Central Press Canadian).
